1. At any time after an action is commenced the judge may, with the consent of the parties, as well in cases within the ordinary jurisdiction of the court as in cases of agreement under section sixty-four of the Act, make an order for a reference, under the provisions of section one hundred and four of the Act; and all the provisions in the last-mentioned section contained as to references shall apply to a reference proceeding under such an order: Provided that the same fees shall be paid as would have been payable on entering judgment under a default summons, but where any reference is ordered to the registrar or any other officer of the court the same hearing fee shall be paid as if the action had been tried. Arbitration. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 64, 104. Forms 134, 134A.

The Act to amend the law of evidence (14 & 15 Vict. c. 99) provides, by sect. 16, that "every court, judge, justice, officer, commissioner, arbitrator or other person, now or hereafter having by law or by consent of parties authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, is hereby empowered to administer an oath to all such witnesses as are legally called before them respectively." See Oaths Acts, 1888, 1889, and 1909 in Part V., post p. 2152.

O. XX. r. 1. Notes.

Entry of Award.]—The award of the arbitrator or umpire is entered as the judgment in the action, and is as binding as if given by the judge; but, at the first court held after the expiration of one week after the entry of the award, the judge may set it aside, or, with the consent of both parties, may revoke the reference or order another (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 104).

The High Court had, before the Act of 1888, no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal from the refusal of a judge to set aside an award (Mayer v. Farmer, (1878) 3 Ex. D. 235; 47 L. J. Ex. 760).

The application to refer before the trial cannot be made ex parte, as the consent of both parties is required. It may be made on notice (Order XII. r. 11) or by notice for directions (Order XV. rr. 1, 4).

Before the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 25, it was held that a defendant, by consenting to a reference, did not waive his right to obtain a prohibition, if the court had no jurisdiction over the cause (Knowles v. Holden, (1855) 24 L. J. Ex. 223; 101 R. R. 909). It is conceived, however, that the defendant would now be held to have waived his right to a prohibition. The order of reference is proof in other proceedings of an agreement to refer (Roper v. Levy, (1851) 7 Ex. 55; 21 L. J. Ex. 28). The death of either party before award would revoke the authority of the arbitrator (Cooper v. Johnson, (1819) 2 B. & A. 394; 20 R. R. 483).

Where parties who have a dispute agree to abide by the decision of the judge, but do not follow the practice required to give him jurisdiction, his position becomes that of an arbitrator, and no appeal lies from his decision (Pearce v. Winkworth, (1873) 28 L. T. 710). Where, during the hearing of an action of trespass, the parties agreed to withdraw a juror and abide by the decision of the judge, and before his decision the defendant withdrew his consent, the court held that the power of the judge as arbitrator was gone, but that the cause remained, and so ordered the judge to rehear it (Norburn v. Hilliam, (1869) L. R. 5 C. P. 129; 39 L. J. C. P. 183).

Staying Proceedings.]—It has not yet been definitely decided how far the provisions of the Judicature Acts justify a stay of proceedings before judgment. A county court judge was held justified in refusing to try, and in staying proceedings, until the plaintiff had paid the costs of a previous High Court action decided in favour of the defendant, which involved substantially the same questions as the county court action (R. v. Bayley, (1881) 8 Q. B. D. 411; 51 L. J. Q. B. 244); and there are strong grounds for believing that a judge may stay proceedings in his own court in any case in which, if the action were in the High Court, an order to stay might be made (see King v. Hawkesworth, (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 371; 48 L. J. Q. B. 484; Poyser v. Minors (C. A.), (1881) 7 Q. B. D. 329; 50 L. J. Q. B. 555).

Under sect. 4 of the Arbitration Act, 1889 (which reproduces sect. 11 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854), a county court judge has power to stay proceedings where the action has been commenced notwithstanding the existence of a submission to arbitration by the parties; this seems to follow from the definition of "court" in that Act when read in conjunction with sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, and has been decided to be the law (Morriston Tinplate Co. v. Brooker, (1908) 1 K. B. 403; 77 L. J. K. B. 197). But it is very doubtful whether the registrar of a county court, as such, has jurisdiction to make the order; and the safest course would appear to be to make the application to the judge, except in cases where the registrar is also a district registrar of the High Court.

Counsel.]—Counsel's fee on a reference cannot be allowed, except by order of the judge (see Item 92).

ORDER XXI.

ASSESSORS.

Registrar at request of judge to

1. The registrar of each court shall, from time to time, at the request of the judge submit to him the names of as many persons as the judge may direct, whom, having regard to the nature of the ordinary business of the court, and to their fitness from ability and reputation, the registrar believes to be qualified to act as assessors under section one hundred and three of the Act; and the judge shall from the names so submitted frame a list of persons to act as assessors for each court of which he is judge.

frame list of assessors for approval. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 103.

2. The registrar shall apply to such persons as the judge may approve to know if they are willing to act as assessors and to attend any court which they may be summoned to attend a reasonable time beforehand.

Consent of assessors to act.

3. When the judge has completed the list of assessors for any court the registrar shall cause a printed list of their names in alphabetical order to be hung up in the court and office.

List of assessors. Form 135.

4. Every assessor named in the printed list shall continue to be an assessor until a new list of assessors has been framed and approved as aforesaid, or until he gives to the registrar notice in writing that he is unwilling to act as an assessor from and after a day to be named in such notice.

Duration of power of assessors.

5. Upon the receipt of notice of resignation from an assessor the registrar shall remove the name of such assessor from the list.

Assessor resigning to be removed from list.

6. Every assessor shall receive for each day's attendance one guinea or two guineas, according as the subject matter of the action does or does not exceed twenty pounds in value, together with such sum, if any, for his expenses as the judge may order.

Remuneration of assessors.

7. A party who desires assessors to be summoned to assist the judge shall six clear days at least before the return-day file an application therefor according to the form in the Appendix, giving the names of the assessors he wishes to be summoned, and if he has obtained the consent of the other party to the assessors named he shall file such consent with his application.

Application for assessors to act with judge. Form 136.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction, "twelve clear days" is substituted for "six clear days" (Order XXIIA. r. 19).

8. Upon receipt of an application for assessors the registrar shall forward a copy of the same to the judge, who, if he thinks fit, shall return the same with his approval, and thereupon the registrar shall forthwith summon the assessors named. If the judge does not think fit that assessors shall be summoned, notice thereof shall be given by the registrar to all parties, according to the form in the Appendix.

Assessors to be summoned if judge approves. Form 137. Form 141.

9. Where the party applying does not file with his application the consent of the other party to the appointment of the assessors proposed by him, the registrar shall, after obtaining the consent of the judge to the appointment of assessors as prescribed in the last preceding rule, forthwith cause to be served on the other party notice of the application according to the form in the Appendix; and the party so served shall, as soon as may be after receipt of the notice, inform the registrar in writing whether or not he accepts the appointment of the assessors proposed in such notice, or any of them, and shall give the names of such assessors as he is willing should be summoned.

Proceedings where party served with notice does not accept proposed appointment.

10. Where the party served with the notice mentioned in the last preceding rule does not accept the proposed appointment, he shall forthwith after receipt of such notice inform the registrar in writing of his non-acceptance and of the reasons thereof, and the registrar shall thereupon fix a time and place for hearing such objection and selecting the assessors to be summoned. Such objection may be heard either on the return-day of the summons, or before the judge acting under the powers conferred on him by section nine of the Act, or, if the judge so directs, before the registrar. Notice of the time and place at which the objection will be heard shall be given to all parties interested. On the hearing such order shall be made as the judge or registrar shall think just, and any costs occasioned by the objection or consequent thereon may be ordered to be paid by the party objecting.

Form 140.

Summoning of assessors.

When assessors are appointed they shall be summoned by the registrar.

See 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 103.

Where assessors or any of them fail to attend.

11. If at the time and place appointed for the trial any of the assessors summoned do not attend, the judge may either proceed to try the action, with the assistance of such of the assessors, if any, as do attend, or, if none attend, without assistance, or he may adjourn the trial.

Payment on application for assessors by party.

12. Every person applying for assessors shall at the time of applying pay to the registrar the sum of two guineas if the amount of the subject matter of the action does not exceed twenty pounds, and four guineas if it does exceed that amount; and such payments shall be considered as costs in the action, unless otherwise ordered by the judge.

Assessors' fees on adjournment.

13. Where an action is adjourned, the plaintiff shall pay the assessors' fees for the day of adjournment forthwith after the order of adjournment is made by the court.

ORDER XXII.

TRIAL.

Rule 1.

Notice of demand for jury.

Forms 142, 143, 144.

Deposit.

1. Notice of demand for a jury shall be given in writing to the registrar, according to the form in the Appendix, ten clear days at least before the return day, and the registrar shall forthwith give notice thereof to the other party, according to the form in the Appendix; and the summonses to the intended jurors shall be delivered to the bailiff forthwith, and shall be served six clear days at least before the return day. The deposit to be paid on a demand for a jury shall be eight shillings.

As to actions under Employers' Liability Act, 1880, see Order XLIV. r. 4.

Adjournment in order to try by jury.

2. Where a summons has not been served, or notice of trial has not been given, in time to enable a party served with such summons, or to whom such notice has been given, who desires a jury to be summoned, to give notice of demand for a jury in due time, the court may, on the application of such party, adjourn the trial in order that due notice for a jury may be given. And in any other case in which notice of demand for a jury has not been given in due time, or where no notice of demand has been given, but at the trial all parties desire to try by a jury, and no jury is then in court, the judge may, on such terms as he may think fit, adjourn the trial in order that notice for a jury may be given.

If an adjournment is granted for other reasons, a party who has not given due notice for a jury cannot give notice for a jury on the adjourned hearing (Fletcher v. Baker, (1873) L. R. 9 Q. B. 370; 43 L. J. Q. B. 112; R. v. Leeds C. C., (1885) 16 Q. B. D. 691; 55 L. J. Q. B. 365).

Actions and matters which may be tried by jury.

3. Interpleader matters and actions of replevin or ejectment or for the recovery of possession, or to enforce any right relating to land, or for the recovery of any damages in respect of any such right, may, at the instance of either party, be tried by a jury; and by order of the judge any other action or matter or any question of fact arising therein, which but for this rule could not be so tried, may be tried by a jury.

As to what is a right relating to land, see Rex v. Surrey County Court Judge, (1910) 2 K. B. 410; 79 L. J. K. B. 802.

Number of jurymen to be summoned.

4. The number of jurymen summoned to attend at a court for the trial of actions shall be sixteen, unless the judge otherwise orders.

Notice to jurors where action settled,

5.—(1) Where a jury has been summoned, but before the return day the action or matter is settled or withdrawn, it shall be the duty of the party at whose instance the jury was summoned to inform the registrar of the fact; and the registrar shall thereupon return the deposit, and shall, unless the attendance of the persons summoned as jurors is required in any other action or matter, forthwith send notice by post to such persons that their attendance will not be required according to the form in the Appendix; and where in like case the action or matter is adjourned before the return day, the registrar shall forthwith send notice by post to the persons summoned as jurors of the adjournment, and of the day on which their attendance will be required, according to the form in the Appendix.

O. XXII. r. 5. withdrawn, or adjourned before return day.

Forms 144A, 144B.

Notice of settlement or withdrawal of non-jury action.

(2) Where an action or matter in which a jury has not been summoned is settled or withdrawn before the return day, it shall be the duty of the parties to inform the registrar of the fact.

Costs of notice.

(3) Where notice is given under this rule three clear days before the return day, and costs in the action or matter are taxed under any column of the higher scale, item 97 in the scale may be allowed for such notice.

Notice to jurors where jury impanelled and action adjourned, or action adjourned on return day before jury impanelled.

5A.—(1) Where on the trial of an action or matter a jury has been impanelled, and the hearing is adjourned, the registrar shall, unless the adjournment is to the next day, or to the next day but one, forthwith give or send by post to the jurors impanelled notice of the adjournment, and of the day on which their further attendance will be required, according to the form in the Appendix.

(2) Where a jury has been summoned, but the action or matter is adjourned on the return day before a jury has been impanelled, the registrar shall, unless the judge orders the persons summoned as jurors to be discharged, and a fresh jury to be summoned, forthwith give or send by post to the persons summoned as jurors notice of the adjournment, and of the day on which their attendance will be required, according to the form in the Appendix.

Where plaintiff does not appear.

6. If when an action is called on for trial the plaintiff does not appear, and the defendant appears, and does not admit the plaintiff's claim, the court may, in its discretion, award costs to the defendant in the same manner, and to the same amount, as to counsel, solicitor, witnesses, and other matters, as if the action had been tried, but no hearing fee shall be charged.

The costs may be recovered by the ordinary means for recovering any sum ordered to be paid by the court.

If the defendant appears and admits the claim, and pays the court fees payable in the first instance by the plaintiff, the judge may give judgment for the plaintiff (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 88, 89, 186; Order LV.). These provisions apply to actions by and against executors and administrators (Order XXX. r. 2). If the plaintiff does not appear, and the cause is struck out, and the judge refuses to restore it, the case is at an end, and the court above cannot interfere (Jennings v. London Omnibus Co. (2), (1874) 30 L. T. 640; 22 W. R. 757). O. XXII. r. 6. Notes.

If the defendant has given notice of a counterclaim, he may prove it and get judgment; but the judgment may be set aside on terms pursuant to 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 91 (Order XXII. r. 8).

Where a case was adjourned for the attendance of a witness, and after the adjournment the defendant appeared but the plaintiff did not, and the judge directed judgment to be entered for the defendant, it was held that the judge had no jurisdiction to hear the case in the absence of the plaintiff, and that he should have ordered the case to be struck out (Jordan v. Jones, (1884) 44 J. P. 800).

7. Where a default summons has been issued and notice of defence has been given, and neither the plaintiff nor the defendant appears when the action is called on, the action shall be struck out; and where notice of defence has been given, and the defendant appears and the plaintiff does not appear, the action shall be struck out, and costs may be ordered against the plaintiff as in the last preceding rule mentioned; and where the plaintiff appears and the defendant does not appear, judgment may be entered for the plaintiff without further proof, the amount to be payable by instalments or otherwise as the court may think fit. Where neither party or one party only appears on default summons.

It appears from the judgments of the Court of Appeal in Hooper v. Hill, (1894) 1 Q. B. 659; 63 L. J. Q. B. 598, that these actions are subject to the provisions of sect. 90 of the Act of 1888, and that in default of appearance by the defendant, the judge alone has power under this rule to enter judgment without further proof, if notice of defence has been given. Where the registrar deals with the case, it appears that proof ought to be given in accordance with sect. 90 (see, however, the definition of "court" in sect. 186 of the Act of 1888, and in Order LV.).

Where both parties appear, the action will be tried, and personal service need not be proved (Davis v. Pearce, (1870) L. R. 5 C. P. 435).

8. If when an action is called on for trial the plaintiff does not appear, and the defendant has given notice of a counter-claim, he may prove such counter-claim so far as the burden of proof lies upon him, and have judgment accordingly: Provided that any judgment obtained under this rule may be set aside upon the application of the plaintiff in like manner as a judgment obtained under section ninety-one of the Act. Judgment on counter-claim where plaintiff does not appear. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 91.

9. Where any action or matter has been struck out under section eighty-eight or section ninety of the Act or under rule 7 of this Order, the court may order such action or matter to be restored to the list for hearing on the same day or any subsequent day, and may set aside any order awarding costs to the opposite party which may have been made under section eighty-nine of the Act or Rule 6 or Rule 7 of this Order, upon such terms as to payment of costs of the day, adjournment of the hearing, notice to the opposite party, and otherwise, as may be just. Restoring case struck out for non-appearance of plaintiff. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 88—90.

O. XXII. r. 10.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 88, 93.

10. If after the judge has directed a nonsuit under section eighty-eight or section ninety-three of the Act, or after an action has been struck out, a subsequent action is brought for the same or substantially the same cause of action before payment of the costs (if any) allowed on such nonsuit or striking out, the judge may, if he thinks fit, order a stay of such subsequent action until such costs have been paid.

Action pending in another court for same cause.

11. Where at the trial it appears that an action for the same cause at the suit of the same plaintiff is pending in any other court of record, the court shall order the trial to stand adjourned to a certain day, and unless before such day the action in such other court has been discontinued, the action shall be struck out.

Disallowance of vexatious questions in cross-examination.

12. The judge may in all cases disallow any question put in cross-examination of any party or other witness which may appear to him to be vexatious, and not relevant to any matter proper to be inquired into in the action or matter. (R. S. C., Order XXXVI. r. 38.)

General jurisdiction of judge on trial of action.

13. At the trial the judge may try the whole matter of the action and give judgment thereon, or grant any relief, redress, or remedy, or may make any order or give any direction which he may consider necessary to enable final judgment to be given upon a day to which the trial may be adjourned, and may also make such order as to costs as he may think fit.

This rule is especially applicable to cases in which accounts are ordered to be taken or inquiries made.

Decision of questions at issue without general order for execution of trusts or administration.

14. It shall not be obligatory on the judge in any action for the execution of any trust, or for the administration of the estate of any deceased person, to pronounce or make a judgment or order for the general execution of the trust or administration of the estate, if the questions between the parties can be properly determined without such judgment or order, but the judge may make such order as may be necessary for determining such questions without pronouncing or making such general judgment or order. (R. S. C., Order LV. r. 10.)

See Jones v. Blake (C. A.), (1885) 29 Ch. D. 913; 54 L. J. Ch. 880, as to the proper order to be made in, and use of, administration actions.

This and the next rule give the judge a discretion in all cases to make or refuse a general order for administration (Pearson v. Pearson, (1883) 56 L. T. 445).

Orders which may be made on applications for administration or execution of trusts,

15. Upon an application for administration or execution of trusts by a creditor or beneficiary under a will, intestacy, or deed of trust, where no accounts or insufficient accounts have been rendered, the judge may, in addition to the powers already existing :—

(a) Order that the application shall stand over for a certain time, and that the executors, administrators, or trustees in the meantime shall render to the applicant a proper statement of their accounts, with an intimation that if this is not done they may be made to pay the costs of the proceedings : O. XXII. r. 15. where no accounts or insufficient accounts have been rendered.

(b) When necessary, to prevent proceedings by other creditors, or by persons beneficially interested, make the usual judgment or order for administration, with a proviso that no proceedings are to be taken under such judgment or order without leave of the judge in person. (R. S. C., Order LV. r. 10A.)

16. In any action or matter in which an injunction has been or might have been claimed, the plaintiff may, before or after judgment, apply for an injunction to restrain the defendant or respondent from the repetition or continuance of the wrongful act or breach of contract complained of, or from the commission of any wrongful act or breach of contract of a like kind relating to the same property or right, or arising out of the same contract ; and the judge may, in addition to giving judgment for such damages and costs as the plaintiff may be entitled to, grant the injunction, either upon or without terms, as may be just. Injunction, application for.

An application under this rule may be made—

(a) before the trial or hearing, in which case it shall be made in accordance with Order XII. Rule 6 :

(b) at or immediately after the trial or hearing, in which case the order, if any, shall be included in the judgment : or

(c) subsequently to judgment, in which case it shall be made in accordance with Order XII. Rule 11, on notice supported by affidavit.

Injunctions.]—The provisions of sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66), enable county court judges in all causes of action within their jurisdiction to grant injunctions in as full and complete a manner as if they were judges of the High Court (Martin v. Bannister (C. A.), (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 491 ; 48 L. J. Q. B. 676). They had, prior to the Judicature Acts, power, when a decree for administration had been made in a county court, to restrain proceedings in any court to recover a debt provable under the decree (this power they had under 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 1, which was not re-enacted). This power was held to be taken away even prior to the late Act (Cobbold v. Pryke, (1879) 4 Ex. D. 315 ; 49 L. J. Ex. 8), and it is believed they have no power in any case to restrain an action pending in another court (see In re Alison's Trusts (C. A.), (1878) 8 Ch. D. 1 ; 47 L. J. Ch. 755).

The cases in which injunctions will usually be necessary are expressed in a rule which in substance provides that the judge may in any action or matter in which an injunction has been, or might have been claimed, grant an injunction, either before or at the trial, against the repetition or continuance of a wrongful act or breach of contract, or the commission of any injury or breach of contract of a like kind, relating to the same property or right, or arising out of the same contract. And that the injunction may be granted in addition to damages (Order XXII. r. 16). An application under this rule may be made, (a) before the trial or hearing, in which case it must be made in accordance with Order XII. r. 6; (b) at or immediately after the trial or hearing, in which case the order (if any) will be included in the judgment; or (c) subsequently to judgment, when it will be made in accordance with Order XII. r. 11, on notice supported by affidavit (Order XXII. r. 16).

An injunction is a remedy and not a cause of action; and the opinion has been generally entertained that a county court could not grant an injunction if that were the only remedy claimed. In Martin v. Bannister (C. A.), (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 491; 48 L. J. Q. B. 676, the plaintiff claimed damages for a nuisance and an injunction. The jurisdiction to try the action for damages was derived from the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 58, as a "personal action," and the judge having thus acquired seisin of it, had, by sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, all the powers of a judge of the High Court in regard to it. The judges in the Court of Appeal mentioned, but expressly declined to decide, the question, whether when no damage had been suffered, a plaint would lie to restrain a mere threatened injury, e.g., a threatened nuisance, a threatened distress for rent (see Shaw v. Jerscy (C. A.), (1879) 4 C. P. D. 359), a threatened infringement of a patent (see Frearson v. Loe, (1878) 9 Ch. D. 48). These are à fortiori cases, as there could be no claim for damages on which to found the jurisdiction. But it has recently been held that the county court has jurisdiction where an injunction only is claimed, if a claim for damages (supposing it to have been made) must necessarily have been within the jurisdiction in point of amount (Stiles v. Ecclestone, (1903) 1 K. B. 544; 72 L. J. K. B. 256). This was, however, a case in which a claim for a penalty of 40*l.* recoverable as liquidated damages might have been made, had the plaintiff desired to make it.

An injunction may be granted to restrain breaches of contract which are in restraint of trade, made between partners, or masters and servants or others, if the restraint is reasonable in respect of time and distance, and reasonably required for the protection of the interests of the complaining party. The whole of such a contract must be regarded, and a mere verbal evasion of its spirit will not be permitted (Hadsley v. Dayer-Smith, (1914) A. C. 979; 83 L. J. Ch. 770. As to onus of proof, see Goldsoll v. Goldman, (1915) 1 Ch. 292; 84 L. J. Ch. 228; see also generally Nordenfelt v. Maxim-Nordenfelt Gun Co., (1894) A. C. 535; Mason v. Provident Clothing and Supply Co., (1913) A. C. 724; 82 L. J. K. B. 1153; Herbert Morris, Ltd. v. Saxelby, (1915) 84 L. J. Ch. 149; (1916) 85 L. J. Ch. 210; Konski v. Peet, (1915) 1 Ch. 530; 84 L. J. Ch. 515).

It appears that the power to grant the same remedies as judges of the High Court must enable county court judges to grant mandatory, perpetual, or interlocutory injunctions, according as the relief sought could be aided by such injunctions if the action were in the High Court (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 25 (8)). Obedience to the injunction may be enforced by attachment (Martin v. Bannister (C. A.), (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 491).

The remedy by injunction having hitherto been sparingly used in county courts, it may be useful to describe here the nature of the remedy and the extent of the power to grant it.

"A writ of injunction may be described as a judicial process whereby a party was required to do a particular thing, or to refrain from doing a particular thing, according to the exigency of the writ. The process, however, was rather preventive than restorative, though it was by no means confined to the former object. When commanding an act to be done, it issued after decree, and was in the nature of an execution to enforce the same. Under the present procedure no writ of injunction is to issue."

Perpetual and Interlocutory Injunctions.]—"Injunctions are either interlocutory or perpetual. Interlocutory injunctions are such as are to continue until the hearing of the cause upon the merits, or generally until further order. Perpetual injunctions are such as form part of the decree made at the hearing upon the merits, whereby the defendant is perpetually inhibited from the assertion of a right, or perpetually restrained from the commission of an act which would be contrary to equity and good conscience. The perpetual injunction is in effect a decree, and concludes a right. The interlocutory injunction is merely provisional in its nature, and does not conclude a right. The effect and object of the interlocutory injunction is merely to preserve the property in dispute in statu quo until the hearing or further order. . . . A man who comes to the court for an interlocutory injunction is not required to make out a case which will entitle him at all events to relief at the hearing. It is enough if he can show that he has a fair question to raise as to the existence of the right which he alleges, and can satisfy the court that the property should be preserved in its present actual condition, until such question can be disposed of" (see Kerr on Injunctions, pp. 9, 10 (3rd edit.)).

Mandatory Injunctions.]—"Though a court of equity had (i.e., before the Judicature Acts) no jurisdiction to compel the performance of a positive act tending to alter the existing state of things, such as the removal of a work already executed, it could, by framing the order in an indirect form, compel a defendant to restore things to their former condition, and to effectuate the same results as would be obtained by ordering a positive act to be done. The order when framed in such a form is called a mandatory injunction" (Kerr on Injunctions, p. 48). It seems to have been thought formerly that the jurisdiction to grant mandatory injunctions must be exercised with more than ordinary judicial caution. "To that proposition I can by no means assent. Every injunction requires to be granted with care and caution, and I do not know what is meant by extraordinary caution. Every judge ought to exercise care, and it is not more needed in one case than in another" (per Jessel, M. R., Smith v. Smith, (1875) L. R. 20 Eq. 500, 504). A mandatory injunction appears to be, in fact, a mandamus under another name. For instances where mandatory injunctions were granted, see Smith v. Smith, supra, and Krehl v. Burrell (M. R.), (1879) 7 Ch. D. 551; 47 L. J. Ch. 353; 11 Ch. D. 146; 48 L. J. Ch. 252; see also Smith v. Day (C. A.), (1880) 13 Ch. D. 651).

The courts can grant damages in place of injunction when it appears right to do so. This power was first given by Lord Cairns' Act (21 & 22 Vict. c. 27), now repealed, but as an injunction is always a matter of judicial discretion the power still exists. For a case where damages were held to be an inappropriate remedy, see Wood v. Conway Corporation, (1914) 2 Ch. 47; 83 L. J. Ch. 498.

When Injunction may be granted.]—The courts are not, since the Judicature Acts, confined to giving such relief by injunction as could formerly have been obtained in equity. Their power was enlarged by the provisions of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, which enacted that "in all cases of breach of contract or other injury, where the party injured is entitled to maintain, and has brought an action, he may claim an injunction against the repetition or continuance of the breach of contract or injury, or the committal of any breach of contract or injury of a like kind, arising out of the same contract or relating to the same property or right" (17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, s. 79). "In my opinion," says Jessel, M. R. (Beddow v. Beddow, (1878) 9 Ch. D. 89, 93; 47 L. J. Ch. 588; and see per Lord Blackburn in Doherty v. Allman, (1878) 3 App. Cas. 709, 728; Nor. Lon. Rail. Co. v. G. N. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 30; 52 L. J. Q. B. 380), "having regard to these two Acts of Parliament" (i.e., the Judicature Act, 1873, and the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854), "I have unlimited power to grant an injunction in any case where it would be right or just to do so; and what is right or just must be decided, not by the caprice of the judge, but according to sufficient legal reasons or on settled legal principles."

Appeal.]—Where an injunction has been granted or claimed an appeal lies without leave even though the damages claimed do not exceed 20*l.* (Brune v. James, (1898) 1 Q. B. 417; 67 L. J. Q. B. 283).

O. XXII. r. 17.

Inspection of property by judge or jury. Costs of inspection.

17. The judge may, in his discretion, inspect, or order the jury to inspect, any property or thing concerning which any question may arise in any action or matter. The expenses of any inspection under this rule shall be paid in the first instance by the party on whose application such inspection is made or ordered, or if inspection is made or ordered without such application, by the plaintiff; but the court shall have power to direct by whom such expenses shall be ultimately borne.

Absent parties may be added on hearing.

18. Where at the trial it appears to the judge that there are claims, estates, titles, or rights, or any equitable duties or liabilities, which cannot be disposed of by reason of all the proper parties not being before the court, the judge may order such parties as may be necessary to be made plaintiffs or defendants, upon such terms as to adjournment, notices, and costs as he may think fit. Where a defendant is added, the provisions of Order XIV. Rule 11, shall apply.

The provisions of Order XIV. r. 11, referred to are those for service upon the defendant of the order, copy summons, and notice of day of hearing.

Counter-claim where action stayed, discontinued, or dismissed.

19. If in any case in which the defendant sets up a counter-claim the action of the plaintiff is stayed, discontinued, or dismissed, the counter-claim may nevertheless be proceeded with.

See McGowan v. Middleton (C. A.), (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 464; 52 L. J. Q. B. 355.

Counter or other claim may be ordered to be tried by an independent action.

20. In any case of counter-claim or otherwise, or where any incidental claim arises at the trial, if the judge thinks that such claim can be better disposed of by an independent action, he may order such claim to be excluded, whether any application for that purpose be made or not.

When a person brought in does not appear at the trial.

21. If a person not originally a party to the action who has been served with a notice of counter-claim does not appear at the trial, the judge may proceed with the trial notwithstanding, and give such judgment or make such order as may be just against the person so served and not appearing, or may adjourn the trial and give such directions and make such order as to costs as he may think fit.

If the plaintiff does not appear at the trial, the defendant may prove and get judgment on his counterclaim (Order XXII. r. 8).

Judgment may be given for balance found due to defendant.

Form 152.

22. Where in any action a set-off or counter-claim is established as a defence against the plaintiff's claim, the court may, if the balance is in favour of the defendant, give judgment for the defendant for such balance, or may otherwise adjudge to the defendant such relief as he may be entitled to upon the merits of the case.

In the absence of such judgment, judgment ought to be entered for the plaintiff in the action and for the defendant on the counter-claim (Shrapnel v. Laing (C. A.), (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 334, 338; 57 L. J. Q. B. 195, per Lord Esher, M.R.). O. XXII. r. 22. Note.

23. Where any of the parties to an action are officers of the court, the judge, if he thinks fit, may, and where an action is brought by an officer of the court, except as official receiver, he shall, at the request of the defendant, direct the trial to take place at some convenient court of which he is not the judge; and where any such direction is given the provisions of section forty-two of the Act shall apply. Transfer of action by or against officer of court. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 42.

Where an action is brought by an officer of a county court in the court of which he is an officer, except as official receiver, the judge, at the request of the defendant, must order that the action be sent for trial to the court of some convenient district of which he is not the judge (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 42; Form 120).

24. Where by the Act the leave of the judge is required for the exercise of any powers or jurisdiction by the registrar, such leave may be either general or special. Leave to registrar to exercise jurisdiction.

25. Where a registrar is authorised by the judge to hear and determine disputed claims when the sum claimed or amount involved does not exceed two pounds, he shall, when any such case is called on before him, ask the parties whether they desire to have the case heard by him or by the judge. Where registrar authorised to hear disputed claims.

Any mere matter of account may be referred by the judge to the registrar for inquiry and report (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 92).

ORDER XXIII.

Judgments and Orders.

Entries to be made in minute book.

1. The registrar shall enter in the minute book a minute of all ordinary judgments and orders for the payment of any debt or damages or costs (a). Where the party against whom an order is made is a married woman, a note thereof shall be made.

Note.—(a) A county court judge cannot on certain findings deliver an oral judgment and afterwards give a different judgment on the same facts (Higginson v. Blackwell Colliery Co., (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 1189).

Form of ordinary judgment. Form 151.

Judgment against married woman, etc., in respect of contract, etc., before or during coverture.

Forms 151, 151A.

2. An ordinary judgment for debt or damages shall be according to the form in the Appendix.

Where judgment is given against a married woman, or against a widow or a divorced woman, in respect of a contract or tort before or during coverture, such judgment shall be according to the form 151 in the Appendix, with the addition of such one of the paragraphs in Form 151A of the Appendix as shall be applicable to the circumstances of the case.

A contract by a married woman under sect. 1 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1893, can be enforced only against such of her separate property as neither at the time of making the contract, nor at any subsequent date, has been subject to restraint against anticipation (Wood v. Lewis, (1914) 3 K. B. 73; 83 L. J. K. B. 1046). As to costs, see infra.

Where the form of judgment against a married woman does not follow the forms provided it cannot be corrected as being an accidental slip or omission (Oxley and Others v. Link, (1914) 2 K. B. 734; 83 L. J. K. B. 602).

Judgment for costs against married woman who is plaintiff.

56 & 57 Vict. c. 63, s. 2.

3. Where in any action or proceeding by a married woman judgment is given or an order made for payment by such married woman of any costs of the opposite party, the judgment or order shall be according to the form applicable in the circumstances of the case to a judgment against a married woman who is a defendant; and, unless the judge otherwise orders, there shall be added to the judgment or order words reserving liberty to the opposite party to apply under section 2 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1893, for payment of such costs out of any property of the married woman which is subject to a restraint on anticipation.

Section 2 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1893, gives the Court this power.

A counterclaim is a "proceeding" within sect. 2 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1893 (Hood-Barrs v. Cathcart, (1895) 1 Q. B. 873; 64 L. J. Q. B. 520); and so is an intervention in a probate action (Crickitt v. Crickitt, (1902) P. 177; 71 L. J. P. 65); but an appeal from a judgment is not (Hood-Barrs v. Heriot, (1897) A. C. 177; 66 L. J. Q. B. 356). O. XXIII. r. 3. Notes.

Judgment for delivery of goods.

3A. A judgment for the delivery of goods shall be according to the form in the Appendix.

Form 292.

Preparation of special judgment.

4. Every special judgment or order in the nature of a decree shall be prepared by the registrar, and the draft thereof shall be delivered by him to the successful party, together with an appointment to settle the same. The successful party shall submit the draft to his opponent for approval, and give notice of the appointment to settle. In case of disapproval by either party the registrar shall finally settle the draft in the presence of such of the parties as attend. Either party dissatisfied with the judgment or order as so settled may apply to the judge on not less than four days' notice to vary and finally settle the same, but, except by leave of the court, such notice shall not operate as a stay of proceedings. The judge on the hearing of such application may refuse to make any order if the application has not been made at the next sitting of the court available after the judgment or order has been settled by the registrar. The judgment or order when finally settled shall be sealed with the seal of the court, and filed of record, and a minute of such filing, with the date thereof, shall be entered in the minute book.

Such special judgments or orders as in this rule mentioned shall not be subject to the provisions of Rule 11 of this Order; and any money payable in respect of costs or otherwise under any such special judgment or order shall, unless otherwise ordered, be payable forthwith.

The judgment or order clearly requires to be served (see Order XXIII. r. 7).

Certain orders need not be drawn up or served.

5. Except where otherwise provided by statute or by these rules, no order giving leave to take any proceeding and no interlocutory order need be drawn up or served unless the court otherwise orders.

Service by or on solicitor.

6. When a party acts by a solicitor, service of any judgment or order in the nature of a decree, and of any interlocutory order, or any notice relating to any such order, when directed to be served, may be made by or upon such solicitor, as the case may be.

See Order LIV. rr. 3, 4.

Mode of service of judgments and orders.

7. Any judgment or order for the payment of money or costs or both, or any other order, shall, subject to any special order by the court, and subject to the provisions of these rules, be prepared by the registrar and delivered to the bailiff, who shall, within twenty-four hours, send the same, by post or otherwise, to the

O. XXIII. r. 7.

Where a solicitor undertakes service, he must make the necessary copies and get them sealed by the registrar (Order LIV. r. 5).

When order on default summons need not be served.

8. Where judgment is entered up against a party served with a default summons no order need be drawn up or served unless the judgment is for payment by instalments, or unless the plaintiff has abandoned part of his claim under Order XIV. Rule 13.

Time to be stated for doing any act ordered to be done.

9. Execution on judgment against a firm.

11. Where a judgment or order is against a firm, execution may issue in manner following :

(a) Against any property of the partnership :

(b) Against any person who has admitted before the court in the proceedings in which the judgment or order was obtained that he was a partner at the time of the accruing of the cause of action, or who has been adjudged to be liable as a partner :

(c) Against any person who was individually served with the summons as a partner or a person sought to be made liable, and who failed to appear at the trial.

If the party who has obtained the judgment or order claims to be entitled to issue execution against any other person as a member of the firm, he may, after giving to such person two clear days' notice of his intention, apply to the court for leave so to do ; and the court may give such leave if the liability is not disputed, or, if such liability is disputed, may order that the liability of such person be tried and determined in an action to be commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way. If leave to enter a plaint under this rule is required under section seventy-four of the Act, the court may grant such leave without requiring an affidavit under Order V. Rule 13 ; and in that case the order shall state that leave is so granted, and a copy of the order shall be annexed to the summons and served therewith.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 74.

Except as against any property of the partnership, a judgment against a firm shall not render liable, release, or otherwise affect any member thereof who was out of England and Wales when the summons was issued, unless he has been made a party to the action under Order VII. Rule 41, or has been served within England or Wales after the summons in the action was issued. ... ... O. XXV. r. 11.

As to judgment summons on judgment against a firm, see Order XXV. r. 27, and as to charging orders on partnership property for the separate debt of a partner, see Order XXV. rr. 12, 13.

It seems that, instead of applying for leave, the creditor might bring an action on the judgment (Clark v. Cullen, (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 355).

12. An application by a separate judgment creditor of a partner for an order charging his interest in the partnership property and profits under section twenty-three of the Partnership Act, 1890, and for such other orders as are thereby authorised to be made, shall be made to the court on notice. Such notice shall be served in the case of a partnership other than a cost book company on the judgment debtor and on his partners, or such of them as are in England or Wales, or in the case of a cost book company on the judgment debtor and the purser of the company; and such service shall be good service on all the partners or on the cost book company, as the case may be, and all orders made on such application shall be similarly served. Redemption of Charge.]—The other partners will be at liberty at any time to redeem the interest charged, or in case of a sale being directed, to purchase it (53 & 54 Vict. c. 39, s. 23).

The application by a partner should be made to the court on notice. The notice must be served on the judgment creditor and on the judgment debtor, and on such of the partners as do not concur in the application and are in England or Wales. If the partnership is a cost-book company the notice must be served on the judgment creditor and judgment debtor and on the purser of the company. All orders made on the application must be similarly served (Order XXV. r. 13).

13. An application by a partner of the judgment debtor under section twenty-three of the Partnership Act, 1890, shall be made to the court on notice. Such notice shall be served in the case of a partnership other than a cost book company on the judgment creditor and on the judgment debtor, and on such of the other partners as do not concur in the application and are in England or Wales, or in the case of a cost book company on the judgment creditor and on the judgment debtor, and on the purser of the company; and such service shall be good service on all the partners or on the cost book company, as the case may be, and all orders made on such application shall be similarly served. Applications by partners under 53 & 54 Vict. c. 39 s. 23.

14. In the following cases, viz.: ... ... Application for leave to issue process on changes of parties after judgment, etc.

(1) Where any change has taken place after judgment by death, assignment or otherwise in the parties entitled to take proceedings to enforce a judgment or order, or in the parties liable to such proceedings;

O. XXV. r. 14.

Forms 158, 160.

(2) Where a husband is entitled or liable to proceedings upon a judgment or order for or against a wife;

(3) Where a party is entitled to execution against any of the shareholders of a joint stock company upon a judgment recorded against such company, or against a public officer or other person representing such company;

the party alleging himself to be entitled to enforce the judgment or order may apply on affidavit to the court for leave to issue the necessary process accordingly. And the court may, if satisfied that the party so applying is entitled to issue such process, make an order to that effect, or may order that any issue or question necessary to determine the rights of the parties be tried and determined in an action to be commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way. And in either case the court may impose such terms as to costs or otherwise as may be just.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 74.

If leave to enter a plaint under this rule is required under section seventy-four of the Act, the court may grant such leave without requiring an affidavit under Order V. Rule 13; and in that case the order shall state that leave is so granted, and a copy of the order shall be annexed to the summons and served therewith.

If a defendant becomes bankrupt, and the trustee continues the defence and fails, he may be ordered to pay costs personally, even if he has not been added as defendant (London School Board v. Wall (C. A.), (1891) 7 T. L. R. 566).

Service of order.

15. Any order made under the last preceding rule ex parte shall be drawn up and served by post or otherwise on the persons to be affected thereby, and proceedings thereon shall not issue until six clear days at least after the service of the order.

Forms 159, 161.

16. Where, in any case mentioned in the two last preceding rules, a party alleges himself to be entitled by reason of one and the same change or other cause to enforce the judgments or orders in more actions or matters than one, or to enforce a judgment or order against more persons than one, he may make one application only for leave to issue the necessary process in all or any of such actions or matters, or against all or any of such persons, specifying in a schedule to such application all the actions or matters in respect of which such application is made, or all the persons in respect of whom such application is made; and one order only may be made on such application in respect of all or any of such actions or matters, or all or any of such persons; and in serving notice of any such order on any person affected thereby, it shall be sufficient to set forth such part only of such order as affects such person, without setting forth the rest of such order.

17. The registrar shall, on issuing a warrant of execution against the goods, insert in or indorse on such warrant the amount to be levied, and the fees for the execution of the warrant, distinguishing the amount adjudged to be paid, and remaining due, and the amount of the fee for issuing the warrant, and the fees for the execution thereof, and shall prepare and deliver to the bailiff with the warrant a notice according to the form in the Appendix; and the bailiff, upon levying, shall deliver such notice to the party against whom the execution has issued, or leave the same at the place where the execution is levied.

In the event of the high bailiff being himself the judgment debtor, the warrant may be issued to a bailiff specially appointed to execute it (Bellamy v. Hoyle, (1874) L. R. 10 Ex. 220; 44 L. J. Ex. 169).

18. Warrants of execution against goods may be issued concurrently into one or more districts, provided that the costs of more than one warrant shall not be allowed against the execution debtor unless by order of the court.

Concurrent warrants.

18A. Where an execution creditor requests the high bailiff to withdraw from possession, then, unless such withdrawal is requested in pursuance of an arrangement made between the execution creditor and the execution debtor, and communicated to the high bailiff, that the high bailiff shall be at liberty to re-enter, the execution creditor shall be deemed to have abandoned the execution, and the high bailiff shall return the warrant as withdrawn by order of the execution creditor, and the execution creditor shall not be entitled to require the same to be re-issued; but nothing in this rule shall prejudice any right of the execution creditor to apply for a fresh warrant to be issued.

Withdrawal of execution by execution creditor.

19. Except as otherwise provided by these rules, the costs of warrants, whether executed or unexecuted or unproductive, shall be allowed against the execution debtor, unless the judge otherwise directs.

Costs of warrants.

But costs of an abortive execution are not to be included for the purposes of a judgment summons or of an application for a fresh order for payment under Order XXIII. r. 14. Nor is money paid into court otherwise than under execution to be attributed to payment of such costs (see Order XXV. r. 56).

20. No possession fee shall be payable where an execution is paid out at the time of the levy; but if the bailiff necessarily remains in possession for more than half an hour, and the execution is paid out on the day of levy, the possession fee for that day shall be charged.

Possession fees.

Where execution is levied under several warrants, and the same goods are seized to satisfy all the warrants, only one possession fee can be charged; but if different goods are seized and appropriated to each warrant, a possession fee is chargeable under each warrant, although possession is held simultaneously under all the warrants by one person only (In re Morgan, Ex parte Board of Trade, (1904) 1 K. B. 68; 72 L. J. K. B. 948; see Glasbrook v. David, (1905) 1 K. B. 615; 74 L. J. K. B. 492, as to sheriff's right to possession money in High Court).

O. XXV. r. 20. Notes.

Appraisement.

21. No appraisement shall be made until the fifth day of the bailiff's holding possession of the goods under an execution, unless the goods are of a perishable nature, or are sold at the request of the party before the expiration of four days, or are removed.

Inventory and notice of sale of goods removed under execution.

22. Where goods taken in execution are removed, the high bailiff shall give to the execution debtor a sufficient inventory of the goods so removed, and shall also give to the execution debtor notice in writing, signed by the high bailiff, of the time when and place where such goods will be sold. Such inventory and notice shall be given to the execution debtor personally, or sent to him by post to his place of residence, if known, or if such residence is not known, they shall be left at or sent by post addressed to the execution debtor at the place from which the goods are removed. The inventory shall be given or sent at the time of or immediately after the removal of the goods; and the notice shall be given or sent at least twenty-four hours before the time fixed for the sale.

Account of sale under execution.

23. Where goods are sold in execution the high bailiff shall, on the request of the execution debtor, furnish him with a detailed account in writing of the sale, and of the application of the proceeds thereof.

See In re Miller, (1913) 3 K. B. 1; 81 L. J. K. B. 1180.

(a) if he is high bailiff as well as registrar, notify the fact and amount of such payment to the bailiff holding the warrant; or

(b) if he is not high bailiff, notify the fact and amount of such payment to the high bailiff, who shall as soon as may be after receiving such notification notify the same to the bailiff holding the warrant.

(3) Where payment is made into the court out of which the warrant issued (in this rule referred to as "the home court") after the warrant has been sent for re-issue to any foreign court, the registrar of the home court shall receive the amount so paid, and shall as soon as may be after such receipt notify the fact and amount of such payment by post to the high bailiff of the foreign court, who shall as soon as may be after receiving such notification notify the same to the bailiff holding the warrant.

(4) The bailiff holding the warrant, on receiving any payment or notice of any payment, shall forthwith enter in ink on the face of the warrant, at the foot or in the margin thereof the amount of such payment, and shall sign the entry; and if the amount paid is not sufficient to satisfy the amount to be levied and the costs of execution incurred before payment or notice of payment is received, the execution, unless withdrawn by the plaintiff, shall proceed only for the balance of the original amount to be levied and the costs of execution calculated on that amount, less the amount so paid.

4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 41.

23B. Where under a warrant of execution money is paid in part satisfaction of the execution, or in order to avoid sale, but is paid into court instead of to the high bailiff of the court in the district of which the warrant is to be executed, it shall be deemed to have been received by the high bailiff, and the following provisions shall apply :—

(a) Where, if the money had been received by the high bailiff, it would be his duty to pay over the same to the registrar of the court of which he is high bailiff, the money paid into court shall be dealt with as if it had been so received and paid over, and the provisions of Order II. Rule 34A, paragraphs (ii.), (iii.), and (iv.) shall apply :

(b) Where, if the money had been received by the high bailiff, it would be his duty, under subsection two of section forty-one of the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, to retain the same, the money paid into court shall be retained in court :

(c) Where the execution creditor becomes entitled to receive the amount so retained, the money paid into court shall be dealt with as if it had been received by the high bailiff and paid over by him to the registrar of the court of which he is high bailiff :

Upon the judgment creditor lodging with the registrar a request in writing, according to the form in the Appendix, that the judgment debtor, if in prison, may be discharged from custody, the registrar shall issue a certificate according to the form in the Appendix, and transmit the same by post to the gaoler in whose custody the judgment debtor is; and the gaoler shall upon receipt of such certificate forthwith discharge the prisoner. O. XXV. r. 50.

In order to obtain a judgment debtor's discharge by payment, the above mode of proceeding must be strictly followed; for where a judgment debtor paid the debt and costs to the execution creditor, but no application was made to the court, and he was subsequently arrested by the bailiff of the court under the warrant of commitment, it was held that the arrest was legal (Davies v. Fletcher, (1853) 2 E. & B. 271; 22 L. J. Q. B. 429; 95 R. R. 538).

51. A certificate of payment by a prisoner shall be according to the form in the Appendix. Certificate of payment. Form 195.

52. If a judgment debtor appears on the return day, but the judgment creditor fails to appear, the judge may award costs to the judgment debtor. Costs on default of appearance of judgment creditor.

53. No costs shall be allowed to a solicitor for attending at the hearing of a judgment summons, unless the party for whom he appears resides out of the district of the court at which the summons is heard, or unless such summons is on a judgment or order of a court other than a county court, in either of which cases the judge may, if he thinks fit, allow the costs specified in the scale for attending in court to make or oppose an interlocutory application, or, where the amount for which the judgment summons is issued does not exceed ten pounds, a fee not exceeding five shillings. What costs allowable to solicitor on judgment summons.

54. Where on the hearing of a judgment summons on a judgment or order of a county court the judge, in lieu of making an order of commitment, makes a fresh order for payment of the amount remaining due and unpaid under the judgment or order, no costs for fees or witnesses shall be allowed to the judgment creditor, unless the judge is satisfied that the debtor has had since the date of the original judgment or order the means to pay the sum in payment of which he has made default, and a minute to that effect is entered in Book H. Where no costs are to be allowed on judgment summons.

55. Where on the hearing of a judgment summons the judge, in lieu of making an order of commitment, makes a fresh order for payment of the amount remaining due and unpaid under the judgment or order, or where an order for payment by instalments is made under Order XXIII. Rule 14, there shall be included in the amount payable under such order, for the purpose of any proceedings under such order otherwise than by way of judgment summons, the amount (if any) in respect of which an order of commitment has been made, and in respect of which the debtor Provisions as to amount for which debtor has been imprisoned, where fresh order made on judgment summons or under Order XXIII. r. 14,

O. XXV. r. 55. has been imprisoned, but so that the debtor shall not be liable to be imprisoned a second time for non-payment of such last-mentioned amount. On any subsequent judgment summons on default in payment of any instalments payable under such order, the amount (if any) in respect of which the debtor has been imprisoned before the date of the order shall be deducted on the face of the summons from the amount payable under the order; but in calculating for the purposes of any such subsequent summons the amount in payment of which the debtor has made default, the instalments payable under the order shall be considered as attributable in the first instance to the discharge of the amount payable under the order other than the amount in respect of which the debtor has been so imprisoned, and the summons may be issued for the full amount of the instalments in arrear, if such amount does not exceed the balance which remains payable under the order after deducting the amount in respect of which the debtor has been so imprisoned, or if the instalments in arrear exceed such balance, then for the amount of such balance.

Form 178.

Where the judgment or order is for the payment of a sum not exceeding 20*l.*, exclusive of costs, by instalments or otherwise, and the judge is satisfied that the person liable is unable to pay at the time or by the instalments ordered, he may, upon the application of the person liable, made upon notice to the person entitled to enforce the judgment or order two days at least before the hearing, order the amount due and unpaid to be paid by instalments, or, if already payable by instalments, by the like or smaller instalments; the order may be varied from time to time. The judge may also, on the application of the person entitled to enforce the judgment or order made on the like notice to the person liable, order the amount to be paid in one sum or by larger instalments than those previously ordered, and may vary his order. An order made under this rule is entered in the minute book and prepared and served in accordance with Order XXIII. r. 7, and has the same effect as a fresh order for payment made on the hearing of a judgment summons (see Order XXIII. r. 15).

If the order or judgment be for payment by instalments, a power of committal arises on default of payment for each instalment (Evans v. Wills, (1876) 1 C. P. D. 229; 45 L. J. C. P. 420; and Horsnail v. Bruce, (1873) L. R. 8 C. P. 378; 42 L. J. C. P. 140).

If the creditor waits, however, until after the date for payment of all the instalments, the debtor can then doubtless be committed for one term only. If the order of commitment has never been executed, and by reason of lapse of time the order is inoperative, it seems that a fresh commitment may be made (R. v. Stonor (1), (1888) 57 L. J. Q. B. 510).

Costs of abortive execution not to be included in judgment summons or fresh order under Order XXIII. r. 14.

56. Costs incurred in endeavouring to enforce a judgment or order by way of execution against the goods, and not recovered under such execution, shall not be included in the amount due under such judgment or order for the purposes of a judgment summons, or of an application for a fresh order for payment under Order XXIII. Rule 14, nor shall money paid into court otherwise than under execution against the goods be attributed to payment of such costs.

Orders enforceable by attachment. 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 89. Form 349.

57. Orders in the nature of an injunction, and all orders, interlocutory or otherwise, within the competence of the court, which, if the same were made in an action or matter pending in the High Court, could in such court be enforced by attachment of the person or committal, may be enforced by order of the judge by warrant of attachment, which shall be according to the form in the Appendix.

Indorsement and service of order. Form 346.

58. Before any application is made for the issue of a warrant of attachment, a sealed copy of the order sought to be so enforced, indorsed with a notice in the form in the Appendix, shall be served upon the person to be bound thereby. The copy so indorsed shall be issued by the registrar for service, on the application of the party entitled to the benefit of the order. By leave of the registrar it may be issued to the applicant or his solicitor, and served by any person by whom a default summons may be served under Order VII. Rule 33, but in default of such leave it shall be issued to and served by a bailiff. Service shall in all cases be personal, unless the judge for good cause makes an order for substituted service pursuant to Order VII. Rule 40.

Even after such service, the attachment can be obtained by express order of the court only (Abud v. Riches (M.R.), (1870) 2 Ch. D. 528; 45 L. J. Ch. 649).

Issue and service of notice of attachment on failure to obey order after service of copy thereof. Form 347.

59. If the person bound by the order fails to obey it, the registrar, on the application of the party entitled to the benefit of the order, shall, not less than three days after service of the copy indorsed as provided by the preceding rule, issue for service a notice under the seal of the court requiring the person who has failed to obey the order to attend the court on a day and at an hour to be named in such notice, to show cause why he should not be committed for his contempt in neglecting to obey such order. The notice shall be issued for service and served in the same manner and under the same conditions as the indorsed copy mentioned in the last preceding rule. By leave of the judge the notice may be issued and served at an earlier period than as above prescribed.

Order of judge for attachment. Forms 348, 349.

60. On the day named in the notice mentioned in the last preceding rule, the judge, on proof of service of the copy order duly indorsed as provided by Rule 58, and of the above notice as provided by the last preceding rule of this Order, and of the disobedience of the person in default, may order a warrant of attachment to issue, either unconditionally or on such terms as may be just, and may make such order as to costs as he may

O.XXV.r.60. think fit. Provided that if the party in default appears proof of service of the copy order and notice shall not be necessary, unless the judge otherwise orders.

The order must set out the particular ground of committal, in order that the person committed may know exactly what he ought to do to purge his contempt (R. v. Lambeth C. C. (2), (1887) 36 W. R. 475).

The warrant authorises the high bailiff to take the body of the person in default, and all constables and peace officers in their jurisdiction must aid in its execution, and the governor of the prison must receive and keep such prisoner until duly discharged (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 161).

Order to be drawn up and copy served.

61. The order of the judge authorising the issue of the warrant shall be drawn up and a sealed copy thereof shall be served on the person in default either before or at the time of the execution of the warrant, unless the judge otherwise orders.

Discharge of person in custody by judge.

Form 350.

62. Any person in custody under any order (other than an order under the Debtors Act, 1869), in which it is directed that the application for his discharge shall be made to the judge, may make such application at the court, or by leave of the judge at any place which he may appoint, on filing an affidavit showing that he has cleared or is desirous of clearing his contempt, and giving to the party at whose instance he was committed notice in writing of his intention so to apply, with a copy of such affidavit, two clear days at least before making the application, and such discharge, if granted, shall be given according to the form in the Appendix.

Form 351.

On the return, the judge or registrar, as the case may be, can now, by virtue of the 41 & 42 Vict. c. 54, s. 1, in case of failure to purge the contempt by paying money, inquire into the case, and exercise a judicial discretion in deciding whether or not the prisoner should be kept in custody. This was not the case before the Act just cited (Ransom v. Boyd, (1877) W. N. 236).

In other cases of contempt not purged, the discharge cannot generally be granted. An appeal would possibly lie from the registrar to the judge where the order directs that the application for discharge be made to the registrar, which it is thought should only be done where the judge cannot hear the application himself. If the judge declined to hear the application, an order in the nature of a mandamus would lie; but if the case were decided on the merits and the discharge refused, there would appear to be no remedy except perhaps by habeas corpus from the High Court.

Discharge of person in custody by registrar.

Form 351.

63. Any person in custody under any order (other than an order under the Debtors Act, 1869), in which it is not directed that the application for his discharge shall be made to the judge, may apply to the registrar to be discharged, on filing an affidavit showing that he has cleared or is desirous of clearing his contempt, and giving to the party at whose instance he was committed notice in writing of his intention so to apply, with a copy of such affidavit, two clear days at least before making the application; and such discharge, if granted, shall be given according to the form in the Appendix.

If application to the judge was directed, it must be made accordingly, the same practice being followed. The judge may hear the application at any place which he may appoint (Order XXV. r. 62). O. XXV. r. 63. Notes.

Warrant of Possession.

64. A judgment or order for the recovery or for the delivery of the possession of land, or for the recovery of possession of a tenement, whether made in an action of ejectment or in any other action or matter, may be enforced by warrant of possession, which shall be according to such of the forms in the Appendix as shall be applicable to the case. Recovery of land or possession to be enforced by warrant of possession. Forms 251, 263, 264, 265.

65. Where in an action of ejectment judgment is given for the plaintiff, execution may issue upon the day named in the judgment; and if no day is named, then it may issue after the expiration of fourteen clear days from the day on which judgment is given. Execution on judgment in action of ejectment.

66. Where in an action of ejectment judgment is given for the recovery of possession and costs, there may be either one warrant or separate warrants of execution for the recovery of possession and for the costs, at the election of the plaintiff. Separate warrants for possession and costs on judgment in ejectment.

67. Where in an action of ejectment judgment is given for the defendants or any of them with costs, execution may issue for the costs on the day named in the judgment; and if no day is named, then at the expiration of fourteen clear days from the day on which judgment is given. Execution for costs against plaintiff in action of ejectment.

68. When an order is made for the recovery or for the delivery of the possession of land to any person (other than an order in an action for the recovery of possession of a tenement under section one hundred and thirty-eight or section one hundred and thirty-nine of the Act), the warrant of possession shall not be issued by the registrar without evidence by affidavit of service of the order and disobedience thereto. Warrant for recovery of land not to issue till service of and disobedience to order proved.

Warrant of Delivery.

69. Where a judgment or order is for the recovery of any property other than land or money, the court may, upon the application of the plaintiff, order in default of delivery that a warrant shall issue for the delivery of the property, without giving the defendant the option of retaining the same upon payment of the value assessed, if any, and that if the property cannot be found, and unless the court otherwise orders, the bailiff shall distrain the defendant by all his lands and chattels within the district of the court of which he is bailiff, till the Execution for delivery of property other than land or money.

O. XXV. r. 69. defendant delivers the property; or, at the option of the plaintiff, that the bailiff shall cause to be made of the defendant's goods the assessed value, if any, of the property.

See Bryant v. Herbert, (1877) 3 C. P. D. 189; 47 L. J. C. P. 354; (C. A.), 389; 47 L. J. C. P. 760; Corbett v. Lewin, (1884) W. N. 62.

An attachment may be granted where the defendant wilfully refuses to comply with the judgment, and this, notwithstanding that the bailiff, on failing to find the chattel, has abstained from distraining under the warrant; the value of the chattel need not be assessed as a condition precedent to the making by the county court judge of the order for delivery (Hymas v. Ogden (C. A.), (1905) 1 K. B. 246; 74 L. J. K. B. 101).

Forms 293, 294, 295, 297.

70. Warrants of delivery shall be according to the forms in the Appendix; and when a warrant of delivery is issued, the plaintiff shall, either by the same or a separate warrant of execution, be entitled to have made of the defendant's goods the damages and costs awarded.

Miscellaneous Provisions.

Examination of debtor when judgment, etc., for recovery of money.

71.—(1) Where a judgment or order is for the recovery or payment of money, the party entitled to enforce it may apply to the court on notice in accordance with the rules as to interlocutory applications for an order that the debtor liable under such judgment or order, or in the case of a corporation that any officer thereof, be orally examined as to whether any and what debts are owing to the debtor, and whether the debtor has any and what other property or means of satisfying the judgment or order, before the court, as the court shall appoint; and the court may make an order for the attendance and the examination of such debtor, or of any other person, and for the production of any books or documents.

By the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 125), s. 60, power was conferred on the superior courts to order the examination of a judgment debtor as to debts owing to him for the purpose of attachment of such debts to answer the judgment, and the Common Law Procedure Act, 1860 (23 & 24 Vict. c. 126) amplifies this power. This procedure was extended to county courts by orders in council. The same procedure is now expressly provided by the rule supra.

The order may be made for the examination of a married woman as to her separate estate (Aylesford v. G. W. Rail. Co., (1892) 2 Q. B. 626). See sub-s. 4.

Form 346.

(2) Where an order is made under this rule a sealed copy of the order, indorsed with a notice in the form in the Appendix, shall be served upon the person to be bound thereby. The copy so indorsed shall be issued by the registrar for service, on the application of the party entitled to the benefit of the order. By leave of the registrar it may be issued to the applicant or his solicitor, and served by any person by whom a default summons may be served under Order VII. Rule 33, but in default of such leave it shall be issued to and served by a bailiff. Service shall in all cases be personal, unless the judge for good cause makes an order for substituted service pursuant to Order VII. Rule 40. O. XXV. r. 71.

(3) Any person wilfully disobeying an order for attendance and examination or the production of any books or documents under this rule, to whom payment or a tender of payment shall have been made of a sum reasonably sufficient to cover travelling expenses, not exceeding the scale of allowances for the travelling expenses of witnesses prescribed by these rules, shall be deemed guilty of contempt of court, and may be dealt with accordingly.

Following Rendell v. Grundy, (1895) 1 Q. B. 16 ; 64 L. J. Q. B. 135.

(4) In this rule the expression " debtor liable under such judgment or order " includes a married woman against whom judgment has been obtained in respect of her separate estate.

(5) Where the debtor or other person for whose attendance and examination an order is made does not reside or carry on business within the district of the court, the court may make an order for the attendance and examination of such debtor or other person before the registrar of any court within the district of which such debtor or other person resides or carries on business, at such time and place as such last-mentioned registrar shall appoint. Examination before registrar of court in district in which debtor resides.

(6) In any such case the sealed copy of the order for attendance and examination to be served upon the person to be bound thereby shall be sent by the registrar of the court in which the order is made to the registrar before whom the examination is to take place, and such last-mentioned registrar shall insert therein a notice of the time and place appointed for the examination, and shall issue the copy for service in accordance with paragraph 2 of this rule.

(7) Rules 25 to 30 of Order XVIII. shall, with the necessary modifications, apply to examinations under this rule; and in the application of those rules to cases in which the examination is to be held before the registrar of another court the word "examiner" shall mean the registrar of that court, and the word "registrar" shall mean the registrar of the court in which the order for examination is made. Application of Order XVIII., Rules 25 to 30.

72. The costs of any application under Rules 5 and 71 of this Order, or either of them, and of any proceedings arising from or incidental thereto, shall be in the discretion of the court, and paragraphs 4 to 6 of Order XII. Rule 11, shall apply to such costs. (R. S. C., Order XLII. r. 34.) Costs of applications under Rules 5 and 71.

O. XXV. r. 73. Impounded documents.

Application to judge to suspend judgment, etc. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 153.

74.—(1) An application to the judge to suspend or stay any judgment, order, or execution, or to order the discharge of any debtor confined in prison by order of a court, under section one hundred and fifty-three of the Act, shall be made in accordance with the rules as to interlocutory applications.

See Order XII., r. 11.

Application to registrar pending application to judge.

(2) When any person desires to apply to the judge under the said section to suspend or stay any judgment, order, or execution, he may in the absence of the judge apply to the registrar, who may in his discretion, and on such terms as he shall think fit, suspend or stay such judgment, order, or execution until application can be made to the judge.

ORDER XXVI.

Rule 1. Proceedings against garnishee. Form 198. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 74. Form 199.

1.—(1) Any person who has obtained a judgment or order for the recovery or payment of money may, either before or after any oral examination of the debtor liable under such judgment or order, upon lodging with the registrar of the court in which the judgment or order was given or made an affidavit by himself or his solicitor stating that judgment has been recovered or an order made, and that it is still unsatisfied, and to what amount, and that any other person (hereinafter called the garnishee) is indebted to such debtor, and is in respect of such debt within the jurisdiction of the court, and could be or has been sued therein with or without leave under section seventy-four of the Act (a), enter a plaint to obtain payment to him of the amount of the debt due to the said debtor from the garnishee, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the said judgment or order, together with the costs of the garnishee proceedings ; and thereupon a summons in the form in the Appendix, calling upon the garnishee to show cause why he should not pay to the person who has obtained such judgment or order (hereinafter called the judgment creditor) the debt due from him to such debtor, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the judgment or order, together with the costs aforesaid, shall be issued by the registrar; and the name and address of the person entering the plaint, or of his solicitor, shall be entered on the summons. In this rule the expression "debtor" includes a married woman against whom judgment has been obtained in respect of her separate estate. O. XXVI. r. 1.

NOTE.—(a) See sub-sect. (2) of this rule.

(2) For the purposes of this rule the garnishee shall be deemed to be within the jurisdiction of the court in respect of the debt due from him to the debtor, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the judgment or order, together with the costs of the garnishee proceedings, notwithstanding the fact that the debt due from him to the debtor, or the amount thereof required to satisfy the judgment or order and the costs of the proceedings, exceeds the amount for which an action can be brought in the county court, in any case in which he could be sued in the court with or without leave under section seventy-four of the Act in respect of such debt, or so much thereof as aforesaid, if it did not exceed that amount. Where debt sought to be attached exceeds the amount for which an action could be brought.

NOTE.—This sub-section is new. Rules of 1917. It makes debts attachable irrespective of the amount being within the jurisdiction of the county court, if, assuming the debt had been a sum within the jurisdiction of the court, the garnishee could have been sued for it, with or without leave under sect. 74 of the Act, supra.

A debt is not "unsatisfied" within the meaning of the rules until the time has elapsed within which it ought to be paid; therefore where judgment was recovered on September 20th, but the judgment debtor had until October 13th to pay the amount into court, it was held that a garnishee summons issued on September 29th was wrongly issued (White, Son and Pill v. Stennings (C. A.), (1911) 2 K. B. 418; 80 L. J. K. B. 499).

The affidavit will be sufficient if it states on information and belief that the garnishee is indebted (Vinall v. De Pass, (1892) A. C. 90; 61 L. J. Q. B. 507).

2. Where the garnishee is not in respect of such debt within the jurisdiction of the court in which the judgment or order was obtained, the judgment creditor, upon lodging with the registrar of the court in the district of which the garnishee resides or carries on business a certificate of the judgment or order, and also an affidavit similar to that prescribed by the last preceding rule, may enter a plaint against the garnishee in such last-mentioned court; and thereupon a summons shall be issued and all proceedings shall be had and taken thereon as if the judgment or order had been obtained in that court. When garnishee not within jurisdiction. Form 155. Form 198. Form 199.

Service and effect of garnishee summons.

3. The summons shall be personally served on the garnishee, by any person by whom a default summons may be served under Order VII. Rule 33, or on the solicitor of the garnishee in accordance with Order VII. Rule 12; and when so served it shall bind in the hands of the garnishee all debts due, owing, or accruing from him to the debtor liable under the judgment or order.

Examination of Debtor.]—A creditor who has obtained a judgment or order for payment of money, may apply to the court for an order that the judgment debtor, or in case of a corporation, any officer thereof, be orally examined before the court as to any and what debts are owing to the debtor, and the court may make an order for the attendance and examination of the judgment debtor, or of any other person, and for the production of any books or documents (Order XXV. r. 71 (1)). The assignee of a judgment debt may obtain an attachment (Goodman v. Robinson, (1887) 18 Q. B. D. 332; 56 L. J. Q. B. 392).

A sealed copy of the order for attendance and examination, indorsed with a notice (Form 346) must be served upon the person to be bound by it, the copy so indorsed being issued by the registrar for service on the application of the party entitled to the benefit of the order. By leave of the registrar it may be issued to the applicant or his solicitor, and served by any person by whom a default summons may be served under Order VII. r. 33, but in default of leave, it must be issued to and served by a bailiff. The service must in all cases be personal, unless the judge for good cause makes an order for substituted service pursuant to Order VII. r. 40 (Order XXV. r. 71 (2)). A person wilfully disobeying such an order, to whom payment or tender of payment has been made of a sum reasonably sufficient to cover travelling expenses (not exceeding the scale of allowances for travelling expenses of witnesses under the rules) will be deemed guilty of contempt of court, and may be dealt with accordingly (Order XXV. r. 71 (3)). This rule applies to a married woman against whom judgment has been obtained in respect of her separate estate (Order XXV. r. 71 (4)).

Costs of any such application are in the discretion of the court, and the provisions of Order XII. r. 11 (4), (6), apply to them (Order XXV. r. 72).

Garnishee Proceedings.]—The jurisdiction of the county court in proceedings for attachment of debts is derived from the Common Law Procedure Acts, 1854 and 1860. By sect. 105 of the Act of 1854 it is provided that an Order in Council may direct that all or any part of the Act shall apply to any court or courts of record in England and Wales, and by an Order in Council of November 18th, 1867, the powers given by sects. 60—67 of that Act were made exerciseable by judges of county courts. Under a like provision in the Act of 1860, an Order in Council of May 18th, 1870, extended the provisions of sects. 28—31 of that Act to those courts. The respective sections of the Acts of 1854 and 1860 have not been repealed so far as regards their application to county courts, but are preserved by sect. 7 of the Statute Law Revision Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 49).

Plaint.]—Any person who has obtained a judgment or order for the recovery or payment of money may either before or after any such oral examination as above mentioned, upon lodging with the registrar of the court in which the judgment or order was given or made an affidavit by himself or his solicitor, stating that the judgment or order has been obtained and is unsatisfied and to what amount, and that another person (called the garnishee) is indebted to the debtor (which expression includes a married woman against whom judgment has been obtained in respect of her separate estate), and is in respect of such debt within the jurisdiction of the court, and could be or has been sued therein, either with or without leave of the court (a) (Form 198), enter a plaint for the amount of the debt due to the debtor from the garnishee, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the judgment or order together with the costs of the garnishee proceedings (Order XXVI. r. 1). But a debt is not "unsatisfied" within the meaning of the rules until the time has elapsed within which it ought to be paid; therefore where judgment was recovered on September 20th, but the judgment debtor had until October 13th to pay the amount into court, it was held that a garnishee summons issued on September 29th was wrongly issued (White, Son & Pill v. Stennings (C. A.), (1911) 2 K. B. 418; 80 L. J. K. B. 499). The affidavit will be sufficient if it states on information and belief that the garnishee is indebted (Vinall v. De Pass, (1892) A. C. 90; 61 L. J. Q. B. 507). O. XXVI. r. 3. Notes.

Where the garnishee is not in respect of such debt within the jurisdiction of the court, the person who has obtained such judgment or order, upon lodging a certificate (Form 155) of the judgment or order and an affidavit similar to that above mentioned with the registrar of the court in the district of which the garnishee resides or carries on business, may enter a plaint there (Order XXVI. r. 2).

NOTE.—(a) "Within the jurisdiction of the court, and could be . . . sued therein." It is not now necessary that the debt should be for a sum within the county court jurisdiction if the garnishee himself is within the jurisdiction of the court. See Order XXVI. r. 1 (2), new rule of 1917.

Summons and Service.]—A summons then issues, calling upon the garnishee to show cause why he should not pay to such person the debt due to the debtor, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the judgment or order, together with the costs of the garnishee proceedings; the name and address of the person entering the plaint, or of his solicitor, must be entered on the summons (Order XXVI. rr. 1, 2; Form 199).

The summons must be personally served on the garnishee by any person by whom a default summons may be served (Order VII. r. 33), or on the garnishee's solicitor (Order VII. r. 12), and when so served it will bind in his hands all debts due, owing, or accruing from him to the debtor liable under the judgment or order (Order XXVI. r. 3). Notice must be given to the judgment debtor (post, r. 41B; Form 199A). Where the garnishee summons has been served otherwise than by a bailiff, an affidavit of service must be made and sent to the registrar of the court out of which the summons issues (post, r. 4A; Form 37).

Where the garnishee is a firm or corporation, the summons need not be served personally, but in the same way as an ordinary summons (Order XXVI. r. 4).

Payment into Court by Garnishee.]—The garnishee may at any time before the return-day pay into court the amount admitted by him to be due, less the costs (if actually incurred) allowed by the scales; if the amount, after deduction of costs, is more than sufficient to satisfy the amount in respect of which the judgment or order is unsatisfied together with the fees and solicitor's costs indorsed on the garnishee summons, he need only pay into court a sum sufficient to satisfy such amount, fees, and costs (Order XXVI. r. 5 (1)). The registrar will send notice of the payment into court to the person who obtained the order, and if the latter elects to accept the money in satisfaction of his claim against the garnishee, he must send notice of acceptance to the registrar and the garnishee, whereupon all further proceedings against the garnishee will abate, except as provided by Order XXVI., and the person who obtained the judgment or order will not be liable to the garnishee for any costs incurred after the receipt of the notice (Order XXVI. r. 5 (2), (3), (4); Forms 73, 74, 76).

If the garnishee pays into court five clear days before the return-day, he is not liable for any further costs incurred by the person who obtained the judgment or order; but if he does so less than five clear days before the return-day, the court has a discretion to order him to pay such fees and costs, beyond those paid into court by him, as the person who obtained the judgment or order has properly incurred for work done before receipt of the notice of payment into court and in attending the court to obtain the order, but no hearing fee will be charged. Notice of intention to apply for such costs must be given in the notice of acceptance; but where the time of payment into court does not permit of notice of acceptance being given, costs may be applied for without giving such notice (Order XXVI. r. 5 (5); Forms 76, 77). If notice of acceptance is not given, the money may still be accepted at any time before the case is called on and opened, subject to payment of costs reasonably incurred by the garnishee since the payment into court and allowed by the court (Order XXVI. r. 5 (6)). In default of acceptance, the proceedings against the garnishee may proceed (Order XXVI. r. 5 (7)).

Payment out of Court.]—Money paid into court, and accepted by the person who obtained the judgment or order, may be paid out to him under the following conditions (Order XXVI. r. 6 (1)): The court must first be satisfied that the person who obtained the judgment or order has not already been paid from any other source, and has not obtained an order for payment under any other garnishee proceedings; if he has received payment or obtained an order for payment of any part, only so much will be paid out as will make up the full amount payable under the judgment or order and any fees or costs allowed, the balance being dealt with under the direction of the court (Order XXVI. r. 6 (2) (a)). Before payment out, the court may send to the debtor notice of the issue of the garnishee summons (together with a copy of the summons) and of the payment into court, together with a notice informing him that the money will be paid out unless he appears and shows cause to the contrary (Order XXVI. r. 6 (2) (b); Form 200). The notice may be delivered or sent by post to the debtor's usual residence or place of business; the debtor may appear and show cause, and the court may thereupon make such order as to the money paid into court and as to costs as may be just (Order XXVI. r. 6 (2) (c)). If it appears, upon the suggestion of the debtor or otherwise, that the money paid into court belongs to, or is claimed by, a third person, or that any third person has, or claims to have, a lien or charge on it, the court may determine the question under Order XXVI. r. 10 (Order XXVI. r. 6 (2) (d)). No hearing fee is payable on an application for payment out, unless notice is directed to be given under Rule 6, and the debtor to whom it is given appears and shows cause, or unless it appears to the court that the money belongs to, or is claimed by, a third person, or that a lien or charge is claimed upon it, and the court proceeds in accordance with Order XXVI. r. 10; in those cases a hearing fee is payable on the amount paid into court (Order XXVI. r. 6 (2) (e)).

Return Day.]—Upon the return-day, if no amount is paid into court, or if the amount paid into court is not accepted, and the garnishee appears and disputes his liability, the judge will determine as to the liability of the garnishee to pay any sum or further sum on account of the debt claimed and as to the party by whom the costs of the garnishee proceedings must be paid, and make order accordingly (Order XXVI. r. 8; Form 201), or he may, instead of giving judgment, order that any issue or question necessary for determining his liability to pay any sum or further sum be tried or determined in any manner in which any issue or question in an action may be tried or determined. The garnishee must, besides showing that he disputes the particular debt alleged, show that he owes no debt whatever to the judgment debtor (Vinall v. De Pass, (1892) A. C. 90; 61 L. J. Q. B. 507).

If the garnishee does not pay into court the money admitted by him to be due, or so much as is sufficient to satisfy the amount due in respect of the judgment or order, with fees and solicitor's costs, and does not dispute the debt, or if he does not appear on the return-day, the judge may give judgment for the person who obtained the judgment or order, and order execution to issue (Order XXVI. r. 7; Form 201).

Costs.]—The costs of any application for attachment of debts and of any proceedings arising from or incidental thereto, are in the discretion of the court. Costs allowed to the judgment creditor, and not ordered to be paid by the garnishee personally, are (unless otherwise directed) to be taxed by the registrar and retained by the judgment creditor out of the money recovered by him on the garnishee proceedings, in priority to the amount due under the judgment or order obtained by him against the debtor (Order XXVI. r. 12). O. XXVI. r. 3. Notes.

Entries by Registrar.]—The registrar is to make a memorandum in the books of the amounts paid or ordered to be paid by the garnishee (exclusive of costs ordered to be paid by him personally), and of the costs allowed to the judgment creditor and allowed to be retained by him out of the money required (Order XXVI. r. 13).

Foreign Court.]—Where the court in which the garnishee is sued is not the court in which the judgment or order upon which he is garnished was given, the registrar of such court must forthwith send a certificate (Form 155) of the order of his court to the court in which such judgment was given, and must also from time to time send notice of any payment made on, before, or after the return-day (Order XXVI. r. 9).

Enforcing Order.]—The order for payment may be enforced in the same manner as a judgment for debt or damages (Order XXV. r. 1).

Payment.]—Payment made by, or execution (Form 202) levied upon the garnishee will be a valid discharge to him as against the debtor, liable under a judgment or order, to the amount paid or levied (inclusive of any amount allowed to the garnishee for costs, and which he is by the rules or by order of the court allowed to deduct from the amount due from him to the debtor, but exclusive of the amount paid or levied in respect of any costs ordered to be paid by the garnishee personally), although such proceeding may be set aside, or the judgment or order reversed (Order XXVI. r. 11; Randall v. Lithgow, (1884) 12 Q. B. D. 525; 53 L. J. Q. B. 518).

It seems that the garnishee is not protected if he pays the debt to the judgment creditor before an order upon him has been obtained (Turner v. Jones, (1857) 1 H. & N. 878; 26 L. J. Q. B. 262; 108 R. R. 872). A judgment debtor, who had been served with a garnishee summons, paid, before the return-day, the amount of the judgment debt sought to be attached to the sheriff, under an execution levied on his goods in respect of such debt; it was held that he was justified in so doing (Turnbull v. Robertson, (1878) 47 L. J. C. P. 294).

The judge may, in proceedings under the above-mentioned provisions, refuse to interfere where, from the smallness of the amount to be recovered, or of the debt sought to be attached, or otherwise, the remedy sought would be worthless or vexatious (Order XXVI. r. 14).

Whenever it is suggested by the garnishee or by the debtor liable under the judgment or order, or is otherwise made to appear to the judge, that the debt sought to be attached belongs to, or is claimed by, some third person, or that any third person has, or claims to have, a lien or charge upon it, the judge may order such third person to appear and state the nature and particulars of his claim upon such debt, and after hearing the allegations of such third person and of any other person whom by the same or any subsequent order the judge may order to appear, or in case of such person not appearing, the judge may decide in favour of the person who obtained the judgment or order, or may order any issue or question to be tried or determined between the third person and the person who obtained the judgment or order, and may bar the claim of such third person or make such other order as the judge shall think fit, upon such terms, in all cases, with respect to the lien or charge (if any) of such third person, and to costs, as the judge shall think just and reasonable (Order XXVI. r. 10).

O. XXVI. r. 4.

Service on firm or company.

4. Where the garnishee is a firm or a person carrying on business in a name or style other than his own, or a company or other corporation, the summons may be served as provided by Order VII. with respect to the service of an ordinary summons.

Where service effected otherwise than by bailiff.

Form 37.

4A. Where a garnishee summons has been served otherwise than by a bailiff, a copy of the summons, with the date and place of service indorsed thereon, and an affidavit of service according to the form in the Appendix, shall within three clear days after the day of service, or such further time as may be allowed by the registrar of the court issuing the summons, be delivered or transmitted to such registrar by the judgment creditor; and the costs of such affidavit may be included in the costs entered on the summons.

Notice to judgment debtor.

Form 199A.

4B.—(1) On the return of the copy of the garnishee summons, if served by a bailiff, or the filing of an affidavit of service of the garnishee summons, if served otherwise than by a bailiff, the registrar shall issue a copy of the summons for service on the debtor liable under the judgment or order (hereinafter called the judgment debtor) with a notice according to the form in the Appendix, that if he has any cause to show why the court should not order the garnishee to pay to the judgment creditor the debt alleged to be due from the garnishee to the judgment debtor, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the sum due from the judgment debtor to the judgment creditor, with the costs of the garnishee proceedings, he must appear at the court on the return day of the summons and show such cause accordingly.

Service of notice.

(2) The copy and notice mentioned in the preceding paragraph shall be delivered for service to a bailiff of the court, or where service of the garnishee summons is to be effected by the judgment creditor or his solicitor, to the judgment creditor or his solicitor, and shall be served on the judgment debtor five clear days at least before the return day of the summons. Service may be effected in accordance with Order LIV., Rules 2 and 3; and where service is effected otherwise than by a bailiff an affidavit of service must be lodged with the registrar on or before the return day; and the costs of service and proof of service shall be deemed to be costs in the garnishee proceedings, and may be included in the costs entered on the summons.

Adjournment where notice to judgment debtor cannot be served in due time.

(3) Where the copy of a garnishee summons served by a bailiff is not returned, or the affidavit of service of a garnishee summons served otherwise than by a bailiff is not filed, in sufficient time to allow the copy and notice mentioned in paragraph 1 of this rule to be served on the judgment debtor five clear days before the return day in accordance with paragraph 2 of this rule, the registrar shall adjourn the hearing of the garnishee summons to enable such service to be effected, and shall enter in the notice to be served on the judgment debtor the day of the adjourned hearing as the day on which he must appear, and shall give notice of such adjournment to the judgment creditor and to the garnishee. O. XXVI. r. 4B.

5.—(1) The garnishee may at any time before the return-day of the summons pay into court the amount admitted by him to be due from him to the debtor liable under the judgment or order, less the costs allowed by the scales in Part IV. of the Appendix in respect of such payment, if such costs are actually incurred; or if the amount so admitted, after deduction of such costs, is more than sufficient to satisfy the amount in respect of which the judgment or order is unsatisfied, and the fees and solicitor's costs (if any) indorsed on the garnishee summons, the garnishee may pay into court a sum sufficient to satisfy such amount, fees, and costs. Payment into court by garnishee.

(2) The registrar shall send notice of any payment into court to the judgment creditor, according to the form in the Appendix. Form 199B.

(3) The registrar shall also send notice of such payment to the judgment debtor, according to the form in the Appendix, warning him that the money paid into court will be ordered to be paid out to the judgment creditor unless the judgment debtor appears on the return day of the summons and shews cause to the contrary. Form 200.

(4) If the judgment creditor elects to accept the money paid into court in satisfaction of his claim against the garnishee, he shall send notice of such acceptance to the registrar and the garnishee, as in the case of payment into court in an action. Form 76.

(5) Thereupon all further proceedings against the garnishee shall abate, except as herein provided, and the judgment creditor shall not be liable to any costs incurred by the garnishee after receiving such notice.

(6) If payment into court is made by the garnishee five clear days before the return-day, he shall not be liable for any further costs incurred by the judgment creditor; but if it is made less than five clear days before the return-day, the court may, in its discretion, order the garnishee to pay such fees and costs, beyond the fees and costs (if any) paid into court by the garnishee, as the judgment creditor may have properly incurred for work done before receipt of the notice of payment into court, and in attending the court to obtain the order for the same: and if the judgment creditor intends to apply for such Form 77. Form 76.

O. XXVI. r.5. costs, he shall give notice of his intention in his notice of acceptance of the sum paid in; or where the time of payment into court by the garnishee does not permit of notice of acceptance being given, he may apply for such costs without giving such notice.

(7) Where the judgment creditor has not given notice of acceptance in accordance with paragraph 4 of this rule, he may nevertheless accept the money paid into court at any time before the case is called on and opened, subject to the payment of any costs which may have been reasonably incurred by the garnishee since the date of payment into court, and which may be allowed by the court.

(8) In default of acceptance by the judgment creditor, the proceedings against the garnishee may proceed.

Payment out of court of money paid in by garnishee.

Form 202.

6.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this rule, money paid into court by the garnishee, and accepted by the judgment creditor shall, on application made by the judgment creditor on the return day of the summons be ordered to be paid out to him.

(2) Provided as follows:—

(a) Before such money is paid out the court shall be satisfied by evidence on oath or affidavit, or otherwise, that the judgment creditor has not received payment of the amount payable under the judgment or order from any other source, and has not obtained an order for payment of such amount under any other garnishee proceedings: And if it appears that he has received payment or obtained an order for payment of any part of such amount, so much only of the money paid into court shall be paid out to him as will, with the amount so received or for payment whereof an order has been obtained, make up the full amount payable under the judgment or order, and any fees or costs allowed to the judgment creditor in the garnishee proceedings; and the balance of the money paid into court shall be dealt with as the court shall direct;

(b) If the judgment debtor appears and shews cause, according to the notice sent to him, why the money should not be paid out to the judgment creditor, the court may thereupon make such order as to the money paid into court, and as to costs, as may be just;

(c) If the judgment debtor suggests, or it is otherwise made to appear to the court, that the money paid into court belongs to or is claimed by some third person, or that any third person has or claims to have a lien or charge on it, the court may proceed in accordance with Rule 10 of this Order.

(d) If the judgment creditor does not intend to apply for an order against the garnishee for payment of any further costs, and obtains the consent in writing of the judgment debtor to the payment out of the money paid into court, he may apply for an order for payment out on any day earlier than the return day, and on the production of such consent to the registrar the money shall, subject to the last preceding paragraph and to Rule 10 of this Order, be ordered to be paid out accordingly.

(e) The costs of any application for payment out under this rule, including the costs of any affidavit required under paragraph (a), or of obtaining any consent under paragraph (d), may be allowed as costs in the garnishee proceedings, and may be retained by the judgment creditor out of the money recovered by him in accordance with Rule 12 of this Order.

(f) No hearing fee shall be payable on an application for payment out of money paid into court by a garnishee, unless the judgment debtor appears and shows cause, in which case a hearing fee shall be payable by him on the amount paid into court, or unless the judgment debtor suggests, or it is otherwise made to appear to the court, that the money paid into court belongs to or is claimed by a third person, or that any third person has or claims to have a lien or charge on it, and the court thereupon proceeds in accordance with Rule 10 of this Order, in which case, if the third person appears, a hearing fee shall be payable by him on so much of the amount so paid into court as is claimed by him.

Order on return-day if garnishee does not appear or dispute liability.

7. If the garnishee does not before the return-day of the summons pay into court the amount admitted by him to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy the amount in respect of which the judgment or order is unsatisfied, and the fees and solicitor's costs (if any) indorsed on the garnishee summons, and does not on the return-day dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he does not appear on the return-day, the judge may, if the judgment debtor does not appear and shew cause to the contrary, give judgment for the judgment creditor against the garnishee for the amount due from him to the judgment debtor, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy the judgment or order, and any costs allowed, and in default of payment execution may issue to levy such amount; or if the judgment debtor appears and shews cause, the judge may make such order in the garnishee proceedings, and as to the party by whom the costs of the proceedings shall be paid, as may be just.

Proceedings on return-day, if garnishee disputes liability. Form 201.

8. If no amount is paid into court, or the amount (if any) paid into court under Rule 5 of this Order is not accepted, and the garnishee appears on the return-day and disputes his liability, the judge may, after hearing the judgment creditor and the garnishee, and the judgment debtor if he appears, determine as to the liability of the garnishee to pay any sum or further sum on account of the debt claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, and as to the party by whom the costs of the garnishee proceedings shall be paid, and make such order as may be in accordance with such determination; or he may, instead of giving judgment, order that any issue or question necessary for determining the liability of the garnishee to pay any sum or further sum be tried or determined in any manner in which any issue or question in an action may be tried or determined.

The garnishee must, besides showing that he disputes the particular debt alleged, show that he owes no debt whatever to the judgment debtor (Vinall v. De Pass, (1892) A. C. 90; 61 L. J. Q. B. 507).

Certificate where garnishee sued in court other than that in which judgment obtained.

9. Where the court in which the garnishee is sued is not the court in which the judgment or order upon which he is garnished was given or made, the registrar of such first-mentioned court shall send forthwith a certificate of the order of his court to the court in which such judgment or order was given or made, and shall also send notice from time to time of any payment made on, before, or after the return-day.

Where debt is stated to belong to a third person, or there is a lien thereon.

10. Whenever in proceedings to obtain an attachment of debts it is suggested by the garnishee or the debtor liable under the judgment or order, or is otherwise made to appear to the judge, that the debt sought to be attached belongs to or is claimed by some third person, or that any third person has or claims to have a lien or charge upon it, the judge may order such third person to appear, and state the nature and particulars of his claim upon such debt. After hearing the allegations of such third person, and of any other person whom the judge by the same or any subsequent order may order to appear, or in case of such person not appearing when ordered, the judge may decide in favour of the person who obtained the judgment or order, or may order any issue or question to be tried or determined between such third person and the person who obtained the judgment or order, and may bar the claim of such third person or make such other order as he may think fit, upon such terms, in all cases, with respect to the lien or charge (if any) of such third person, and to costs, as the judge may think just and reasonable.

Debts Attachable.]—These provisions only apply to debts, and they must be due and payable, so that an action could be maintained for them, or they must be existing debts which will become payable at some future time (Tapp v. Jones, (1875) L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; 44 L. J. Q. B. 127; Webb v. Stenton (C. A.), (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 518; 52 L. J. Q. B. 584). Thus rent due from a tenant and payable constitutes an existing debt (Mitchell v. Lee, (1867) L. R. 2 Q. B. 259); but rent accruing and not yet payable does not constitute either a debt due or accruing (Jones v. Thompson, (1858) E. B. & E. 63; 27 L. J. Q. B. 234; 113 R. R. 545, per Crompton, J.); nor does salary accruing but not fully earned (Hall v. Pritchett, (1877) 3 Q. B. D. 215; 47 L. J. Q. B. 15); nor does income accruing from a trust fund, but the time for payment of which has not arrived (Webb v. Stenton, supra); nor does an instalment of an annuity not due (Jones v. Thompson, supra); nor fees due by a solicitor to counsel, for they are not debts (Wells v. Wells, (1914) P. 157; 83 L. J. P. 81); but a debt due from an insurance committee to a panel doctor under the National Insurance Act, 1911, is attachable (O'Driscoll and Another v. Sweeny (Manchester Insurance Committee), (1915) 1 K. B. 811; 84 L. J. K. B. 734; on appeal (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 83). A mere claim for unliquidated damages secured by a bond does not constitute a debt (Johnson v. Diamond, (1855) 11 Ex. 73; 24 L. J. Ex. 217); and even when ascertained by verdict, in the High Court, if anything is required to be done to perfect the judgment there is no debt until that is done (Jones v. Thompson, supra).

Attachment of Judgment Debts.]—Where the debt sought to be attached is a judgment debt in the county court, the procedure to be adopted depends upon whether the debt has or has not been paid into court. If it has not been paid into court, the case comes within the very words of Order XXVI. r. 1, which gives a judgment creditor power to take garnishee proceedings where the garnishee "could be or has been sued" in the court. But when once the judgment debt has been paid into court (and all payments under a judgment are required by sect. 105 of the County Courts Act, 1888, to be made into court) garnishee proceedings in the strict sense of the term cannot be taken, for moneys when in court are not attachable in the hands of the registrar (Dolphin v. Layton, (1879) 4 C. P. D. 130; 48 L. J. C. P. 426). In such case the judgment creditor's remedy is to apply to the judge under Order XXVI. r. 16, to order the money to be paid out to him by the registrar. The procedure under that rule is as follows:—

Nothing in Order XXVI. is to be taken to authorise a person who has obtained a judgment or order (which by a recent order (Order XXVI. r. 16, para. 2, passed to meet the decision in Llewellyn v. Rowland, (1907) 97 L. T. 433) means not only a judgment or order in a county court, or inferior court, but also includes a judgment or order in the High Court) to take proceedings to obtain an attachment of any sum which is due to the debtor from any other person under a judgment or order obtained by the debtor, and which has been paid into court under such last-mentioned judgment or order for the use of the debtor; but in any such case the person who has obtained the judgment or order against the debtor may, on giving two days' notice in writing to the debtor and to the registrar, apply to the judge to order the sum to be paid to him. On receipt of the notice the registrar will retain the money in court until the hearing, and the judge may on the hearing make such order as to the money in court and as to costs as he may think just; a memorandum is to be made in the books relating to the judgment or order obtained by the debtor and the judgment or order obtained against him of the manner in which the money is ordered to be applied (Order XXVI. r. 16).

O. XXVI. r. 10.

The following provisions apply to cases where the amount due from the garnishee to the debtor is due under a judgment or order obtained by the debtor. The garnishee is not to be liable to pay the amount due from him to the debtor to the person who obtained the judgment or order against the debtor by larger instalments than those by which he is liable to pay the debtor, unless the judge for good cause otherwise orders (Order XXVI. r. 15 (a)). The registrar is to enter in the books a memorandum of the amounts paid or ordered to be paid by the garnishee in the garnishee proceedings (inclusive of any amount allowed to him for costs, and which he is by the rules or by order of the court allowed to deduct from the amount due from him to the debtor, but exclusive of the amount of any costs ordered to be paid by the garnishee personally), and the judgment or order will be deemed to be satisfied to the amount paid by or levied by execution on the garnishee in the garnishee proceedings (inclusive of the amount of costs allowed to be deducted as aforesaid, but exclusive of the amount paid or levied in respect of any costs ordered to be paid by the garnishee personally), although such proceedings may be subsequently set aside, or the judgment or order obtained against the debtor may be subsequently reversed, and shall be deemed to be satisfied to the amount (exclusive as aforesaid) ordered to be paid in the garnishee proceedings, unless such proceedings are subsequently set aside, or the judgment or order obtained against the debtor is subsequently reversed, in which latter case the liability of the garnishee to the debtor under the judgment or order obtained by the debtor against him will be revived to the amount (exclusive as aforesaid) ordered to be paid in the garnishee proceedings which remains unpaid at the time of such setting aside or reversal, and a memorandum to that effect is to be made in the books relating to such judgment or order (Order XXVI. r. 15 (b)).

Money paid into court in an administration action by the executors of a person indebted to the judgment debtor is not attachable (Stevens v. Phelips, (1875) L. R. 10 Ch. 417; 44 L. J. Ch. 689); nor is a dividend in a bankruptcy in the hands of an official receiver (Prout v. Gregory, (1889) 24 Q. B. D. 281; 59 L. J. Q. B. 118).

Where judgment is recovered against several defendants, a debt due to one of them may be attached (Miller v. Mynn, (1859) 1 E. & E. 1075; 28 L. J. Q. B. 324; 117 R. R. 582). But a debt due to a judgment debtor and another, not a party to the action, cannot be attached (Macdonald v. Tacquah Co., (1884) 13 Q. B. D. 535; 53 L. J. Q. B. 376). Where the judgment is against an executor, a debt due to the testator's estate may be attached (Burton v. Roberts, (1861) 6 H. & N. 93; 29 L. J. Ex. 484; 123 R. R. 403).

The wages of servants, labourers or workmen cannot be attached (Wages Attachment Abolition Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 30), s. 1, ante, p. 235; see Jones v. Thompson, (1858) 27 L. J. Q. B. 234; Dresser v. Jones, (1859) 28 L. J. C. P. 281). This will not prevent the attachment of the quarterly salary of a secretary to a company (Gordon v. Jennings, (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 45; 51 L. J. Q. B. 417), nor of a superannuation allowance (Booth v. Trail, (1880) 12 Q. B. D. 8; 53 L. J. Q. B. 24), nor of a pension (Willcock v. Terrell (C. A.), (1878) 3 Ex. D. 323). By the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, seamen's wages, whether due or accruing, cannot be attached (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 163).

Debts owing from a Firm.]—Debts owing from a firm carrying on business in England or Wales may be attached, although one or more of the members of the firm is resident abroad, provided that any person having the control or management of the partnership business, or any member of the firm within England or Wales, is served with the garnishee summons (Order XXVI. r. 17).

Effect of Order.]—A prior equitable assignment of a debt will have priority over an order of attachment (Ex parte Whitehouse, (1886) 32 Ch. D. 512; 55 L. J. Ch. 608; 54 L. T. 898; Badeley v. Cons. Bank (C. A.), (1888) 38 Ch. D. 238; 57 L. J. Ch. 468). An order attaches the whole of the moneys in the hands of the garnishee, but once the order is satisfied an assignment by the judgment debtor of the balance over and above the amount of the judgment debt is valid, and must be satisfied before an order of attachment obtained subsequent to the assignment (Yates v. Terry (C. A.), (1902) 1 K. B. 527; 71 L. J. K. B. 282, reversing (1901) 1 K. B. 102; 70 L. J. K. B. 24; see as to garnishee order nisi in High Court, Rogers v. Whiteley, (1892) A. C. 118; 61 L. J. Q. B. 512; as to garnishee order absolute, see Geisse v. Taylor, (1905) 2 K. B. 658; 74 L. J. K. B. 912).

An order of attachment creates no debt as between garnishor and garnishee (Re Combined Weighing Co. (C. A.), (1889) 43 Ch. D. 99; 59 L. J. Ch. 26); but gives garnishor a cause of action for the amount attached (Pritchett v. English & Colonial Syndicate, (1899) 2 Q. B. 428; 68 L. J. Q. B. 801) (these two decisions are difficult to reconcile, they are both in the Court of Appeal); the action is not to be resorted to if the amount can be recovered by execution.

After an order of attachment, the garnishee has no right to set-off a debt from the judgment debtor accruing after the attachment, although it seems he would have a right to set-off a cross-debt due at the date of the order (Tapp v. Jones, (1875) L. R. 10 Q. B. 591, 593; 44 L. J. Q. B. 127, per Blackburn, J.).

Bankruptcy Act, 1914.]—Under the Bankruptcy Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59), s. 40, a creditor who has attached a debt due to the debtor cannot retain it against the trustee unless the attachment has been completed by receipt of the debt before the date of the receiving order and before notice of the presentation of any bankruptcy petition by or against the debtor, or of the commission of any available act of bankruptcy by the debtor.

An attachment of a debt is completed by receipt of the debt (ib., sect. 40 (2)).

The actual receipt of the debt is essential, the undertaking of the garnishee to pay will not suffice (In re Trehearne (C. A.), (1890) 60 L. J. Q. B. 50).

Deposit in Post Office Savings Bank.]—Where a judgment creditor seeks to obtain payment to himself of a sum of money deposited by the judgment debtor in the post office savings bank, he must obtain the award of the registrar of friendly societies, whose jurisdiction to decide a dispute "between the Postmaster-General and any depositor or other person claiming from or under a depositor" arises under 39 & 40 Vict. c. 52 (The Savings Bank (Barrister) Act, 1876). In applying to the registrar for an award, the judgment creditor should give the reference number to the account, and must claim to be entitled to the money by virtue of the judgment recovered by him; at the same time he should give notice to the comptroller of the post office savings bank to prevent the money being dealt with. The registrar will give an appointment to the claimant and the depositor, and will, if satisfied as to the claim, make his award declaring that the judgment creditor is entitled to the money. This procedure is, of course, not strictly attachment.

Appeal.]—It was held (Mason v. Wirral Highway Board, (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 459; 48 L. J. Q. B. 679) under 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 14, that a garnishee had no right of appeal against a garnishee order, on the ground that he was not an original party to the action within the ruling of the court in Beswick v. Boffey, (1854) 9 Ex. 315; 23 L. J. Ex. 89. The County Courts Act, 1888, gives an appeal to any party in any action or matter (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120); and the interpretation of party (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 186), so clearly includes a garnishee that these cases are no longer binding.

Payment by or execution levied on garnishee a discharge against debtor.

11. Payment made by or execution levied upon the garnishee under any such proceedings as aforesaid shall be a valid discharge to him as against the debtor liable under the judgment or order, to the amount paid or levied (inclusive of any amount allowed to the garnishee for costs, and which he is by these rules or by order of the court allowed to deduct from the amount due from him to the debtor, but exclusive of the amount paid or levied in respect of any costs ordered to be paid by the garnishee personally), although such proceedings may be set aside, or the judgment or order reversed.

See Randall v. Lithgow, (1884) 12 Q. B. D. 525; 53 L. J. Q. B. 518. It seems that the garnishee is not protected if he pays the debt to the judgment creditor before an order upon him has been obtained (Turner v. Jones, (1857) 1 H. & N. 878; 26 L. J. Ex. 262; 108 R. R. 872). A judgment debtor, who had been served with a garnishee summons, paid, before the return day, the amount of the judgment debt sought to be attached to the sheriff, under an execution levied on his goods in respect of such debt; it was held, that he was justified in so doing (Turnbull v. Robertson, (1878) 47 L. J. C. P. 294).

Costs.

12. The costs of any application for an attachment of debts, and of any proceedings arising from or incidental to such application, shall be in the discretion of the court. Any costs allowed to the judgment creditor, which are not ordered to be paid by the garnishee personally, shall, unless otherwise directed, be taxed by the registrar, and retained by the judgment creditor out of the money recovered by him in the garnishee proceedings, in priority to the amount due under the judgment or order obtained by him against the debtor. (See R. S. C., Order XLV. r. 9A, July, 1901.)

Entry of amount recovered from garnishee in books relating to judgment against debtor.

13. The registrar shall enter in the books relating to the judgment or order obtained against the debtor a memorandum of the amounts paid or ordered to be paid by the garnishee (exclusive of the amount of any costs ordered to be paid by the garnishee personally) and of the costs allowed to the judgment creditor and allowed to be retained by him out of the money recovered by him in the garnishee proceedings. (Conf. R. S. C., Order XLV. r. 8.)

Judge may refuse to interfere.

14. In proceedings to obtain an attachment of debts, the judge may, in his discretion, refuse to interfere, where from the smallness of the amount to be recovered, or of the debt sought to be attached, or otherwise, the remedy sought would be worthless or vexatious.

Provisions as to money due from

15. Where the amount due from the garnishee to the debtor liable under the judgment or order is due under a judgment or order obtained by the debtor against the garnishee, the following provisions shall apply :— O. XXVI. r. 15.

(a) The garnishee shall not be liable to pay the amount due from him to the debtor to the person who obtained the judgment or order against the debtor by any larger instalments than those by which he is liable to pay such amount under the judgment or order obtained by the debtor against him, unless the judge for good cause otherwise orders. Garnishee under judgment or order obtained by debtor against him.

(b) The registrar shall enter in the books relating to the judgment or order obtained by the debtor against the garnishee a memorandum of the amounts paid or ordered to be paid by the garnishee in the garnishee proceedings (inclusive of any amount allowed to the garnishee for costs, and which he is by these rules or by order of the court allowed to deduct from the amount due from him to the debtor, but exclusive of the amount of any costs ordered to be paid by the garnishee personally), and such judgment or order shall be deemed to be satisfied to the amount paid by or levied by execution upon the garnishee in the garnishee proceedings (inclusive of the amount of costs allowed to be deducted as aforesaid, but exclusive of the amount paid or levied in respect of any costs ordered to be paid by the garnishee personally), although such proceedings may be subsequently set aside, or the judgment or order obtained against the debtor may be subsequently reversed, and shall be deemed to be satisfied to the amount (exclusive as aforesaid) ordered to be paid in the garnishee proceedings, unless such proceedings are subsequently set aside, or the judgment or order obtained against the debtor is subsequently reversed, in which latter case the liability of the garnishee to the debtor under the judgment or order obtained by the debtor against him shall be revived to the amount (exclusive as aforesaid) ordered to be paid in the garnishee proceedings which remains unpaid at the time of such setting aside or reversal, and a memorandum to that effect shall be made in the books relating to such judgment or order.

See ante, p. 580.

16. Nothing in this order shall be taken to authorise a person who has obtained a judgment or order to take proceedings to obtain an attachment of any sum which is due to the debtor liable under such judgment or order from any other person under a judgment or order obtained by the debtor against such other Application by judgment creditor as to money paid into court under judgment or order obtained by debtor against third person.

person, and which has been paid into court under such last-mentioned judgment or order for the use of the debtor; but in any such case the person who has obtained such judgment or order against the debtor may, on giving two days' notice in writing to the debtor and to the registrar to whom such sum has been paid, apply to the judge to order such sum to be paid to him. On the receipt of any such notice the registrar shall retain the money in court until after the application has been heard, and the judge on the hearing of the application, may make such order as to the money so paid into court, and as to costs, as he may think just; and a memorandum shall be made in the books relating to the judgment or order obtained by the debtor and the judgment or order obtained against him of the manner in which such money is ordered to be applied.

This rule shall, with the necessary modifications, apply to any case in which a person has obtained a judgment or order against the debtor either in the High Court or in the county court into which money has been paid under a judgment or order obtained by the debtor, or in any other county court or inferior court.

Last paragraph passed in order to meet the decision in Llewellyn v. Rowland, (1907) 97 L. T. 433. See ante, p. 579.

Attachment of debts owing from a firm.

17. Debts owing from a firm carrying on business within England and Wales may be attached under this order, although one or more members of such firm may be resident abroad; provided that any person having the control or management of the partnership business or any member of the firm within England or Wales is served with the garnishee summons. (R. S. C., Order XLVIIIA. r. 9.)

ORDER XXVII.

Interpleader.

Notice of claim to execution creditor. Form 203.

1.—(1) Where a claim is made to or in respect of any goods or chattels taken in execution under the process of a court it shall be in writing; and thereupon the high bailiff shall forthwith send notice to the execution creditor, according to the form in the Appendix.

Notice by execution creditor of admission of claim or to withdraw from possession. Form 204.

(2) If within four days after receiving the notice mentioned in paragraph (1) of this rule the execution creditor gives notice to the high bailiff that he admits the title of the claimant to the goods or chattels, or requests the high bailiff to withdraw from possession, according to the form in the Appendix, or to the like effect, he shall only be liable to the high bailiff for any possession fees or expenses incurred by the high bailiff prior to the receipt of such notice; and the judge may, if he thinks fit, on application by the high bailiff, make an order for payment of any such fees or expenses by the execution creditor to the high bailiff. Any such application shall be made in writing, and intituled in the matter of the execution, and three clear days' notice in writing thereof shall be given by the high bailiff to the execution creditor.

Order for possession fees.

This rule enables the judge to order payment of the fees and expenses which Thomas v. Peek, (1888) 20 Q. B. D. 727; 57 L. J. Q. B. 497, decided he had power to award.

(3) The high bailiff shall also forthwith send notice to the claimant, according to the form in the Appendix, requiring him to make deposit or give security in accordance with section one hundred and fifty-six of the Act.

Notice to claimant to make deposit or give security.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 156.

2. Where the execution creditor gives notice in due time to the high bailiff, as directed by Rule 1 of this Order, that he admits the title of the claimant to the goods or chattels or requests the high bailiff to withdraw from possession, the high bailiff may thereupon withdraw from possession, and may apply for an order protecting him from any action in respect of the seizure and possession of the said goods and chattels, and the judge may make any such order as may be just and reasonable in respect of the same. Any such application shall be made in writing, and intituled in the matter of the execution, and three clear days' notice in writing thereof shall be given by the high bailiff to the claimant, who may, if he desires it, attend the hearing of the application; and if he attends, the judge may, in and for the purposes of such application, make all such orders as to costs as may be just and reasonable.

Power to make order protecting high bailiff from action by claimant, where execution creditor admits claim or requests bailiff to withdraw before interpleader summons issued.

3. Where the execution creditor does not in due time, as directed by Rule 1 of this Order, admit the title of the claimant to the goods or chattels, or request the high bailiff to withdraw from possession, and the claimant persists in his claim, the high bailiff shall apply for an interpleader summons to be issued; and if before the return day of such summons the claimant files notice that he withdraws his claim, and at the same time gives notice of such withdrawal to the execution creditor, or the execution creditor files an admission of the title of the claimant, and at the same time gives notice of such admission to the claimant, the goods and chattels taken in execution or the proceeds of sale thereof, or the money paid into court (as the case may be), shall be dealt with and disposed of as if such claim had not been made, or as if the execution had been withdrawn (as the case may be), and the judge may, in and for the purposes of the interpleader proceedings, make all such orders as to costs, fees, charges, and expenses as may be just and reasonable.

Issue of summons where execution creditor does not admit claim or requests bailiff to withdraw.

Forms 209—210.

O. XXVII. r. 3A.

Security or undertaking for costs where claimant not resident in England or Wales.

3A. Where it appears that the claimant does not reside in England or Wales, the execution creditor or the high bailiff may apply to the court on notice in writing in accordance with Order XII. Rule 11, for an order directing the claimant to give security for costs, and the court may make an order accordingly: and if such order is made, and security is not given within the time limited by the order, the claimant shall be debarred from appearing to support his claim, unless the judge otherwise orders. Where an order is made, an undertaking by the claimant's solicitor to be responsible for the costs shall be sufficient, and Order V. Rule 10, shall apply.

NOTE.—New rule added by Rules of 1917, dated February 19th, 1917.

Proceedings generally.

4. Where any claim is made to or in respect of any goods or chattels taken in execution, or in respect of the proceeds or value thereof, and summonses have been issued on the application of the high bailiff, such summonses shall be served in such time and mode as by these rules directed for the service of an ordinary summons to appear to a plaint, and the case shall proceed as if the claimant were the plaintiff, and the execution creditor the defendant: Provided that where the claimant has not made deposit or given security in accordance with section one hundred and fifty-six of the Act, the time of service may, if the high bailiff so desires, by leave of the court, be such as will obtain a speedy decision on the claim.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 156.

Claimant to lodge particulars and grounds of claim.

Forms 211, 212.

5. The claimant shall, five clear days at least before the return day, or, if the time for service of the summons has been abridged under the last preceding rule, then within such reasonable time before the return day as the time of service of the summons permits, deliver to the high bailiff, or leave at the office of the registrar, two copies of the particulars of any goods or chattels alleged to be the property of the claimant, and of the grounds of his claim, or in case of a claim for rent of the amount thereof, and for what period and in respect of what premises the same is claimed to be due; and the name, address, and description of the claimant shall be fully set forth in such particulars, and the high bailiff shall forthwith send by post to the execution creditor one of the copies of such particulars. Any money paid into court under the execution shall be retained by the registrar until the claim has been adjudicated upon: Provided that by consent of all parties, or without such consent if the judge so directs, an interpleader claim may be tried, although this rule has not been complied with.

The particulars ought to state how, and by what right, the claimant asserts his title; and where a notice stated only that the goods were the property of the claimant, but omitted to state any grounds of claim, it was held insufficient (R. v. Chilton, (1850) 15 Q. B. 220; S. C., Ex parte Tanner, 19 L. J. Q. B. 318; 81 R. R. 564). Where, however, the particulars stated that the goods were assigned to the claimant by an indenture (giving the date and the parties), but without specifying them in a schedule, it was held sufficient (R. v. Richards, (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 263; 20 L. J. Q. B. 351; 86 R. R. 898). It is not necessary that the claim should specify the goods or set them forth in the schedule if they are identified (Heslop v. McGeorge, (1851) 18 L. T. (O. S.) 109). The court was equally divided as to whether particulars describing the goods, etc., seized, as "the goods and money seized by virtue of the warrant," were sufficient or not (Richardson v. Wright, (1875) L. R. 10 Ex. 367; 44 L. J. Ex. 230). Where the address of the claimant was stated as "Elizabeth Street," instead of "Terrace," "Islington," it was held that, not being calculated to mislead, it was sufficient (Ex parte McFee, (1854) 9 Ex. 261; 23 L. J. Ex. 57; 96 R. R. 700).

In all cases the judge is bound to adjudicate at some time upon a claim, although the particulars delivered by the claimant are insufficient, or have not been delivered in time. In such a case the judge should amend the particulars, or, if the particulars have not been delivered in time, order a new summons to issue, so that he may decide the case on the merits (Beswick v. Boffey, (1855) 9 Ex. 315; 23 L. J. Ex. 89; R. v. Stapylton (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 603; 21 L. J. Q. B. 8; Fraser v. Fothergill, (1854) 14 C. B. 298; 23 L. J. C. P. 53). Still, the insufficiency justifies the judge in refusing to hear it in its then form (R. v. Chilton, supra).

Where a judge of a county court, upon an interpleader summons, erroneously decides against a claimant, on the ground that the notice of claim is insufficient, the High Court may direct him to hear and adjudicate upon the claim (Churchward v. Coleman, (1866) L. R. 2 Q. B. 18; 36 L. J. Q. B. 57).

So the High Court may in such a case by writ of prohibition, prohibit him from proceeding on the original plaint until the interpleader has been determined (Ex parte McFee, (1854) 9 Ex. 261; 23 L. J. Ex. 57; 96 R. R. 700).

6. The judge upon the hearing shall adjudicate upon any claim of the high bailiff for fees, and may, if he thinks fit, order the same, or such part thereof as he may think just, to be paid by the claimant or by the execution creditor. High bailiff's fees.

See Goodman v. Blake, (1887) 19 Q. B. D. 77; 56 L. J. Q. B. 441.

It was formerly held that if the bailiff neglected to retain his costs, he could not, after paying over the proceeds, recover them from the execution creditor (Bloor v. Huston, (1854) 15 C. B. 266; 24 L. J. C. P. 26).

7. In the event of the claimant of any goods taken in execution not making, in accordance with the provisions of section one hundred and fifty-six of the Act, a deposit with the bailiff either of the amount of the value of the goods claimed, or of the sum which the bailiff is allowed to charge as costs for keeping possession of such goods until a decision can be obtained, and not giving security for such value, the bailiff may, in his discretion, delay selling such goods until the judge has adjudicated on the claim; and for the keeping of such continued possession he shall be allowed such costs out of pocket only as the judge may order. Power to delay sale where claimant fails to comply with provisions of 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 156.

Where the bailiff pays into court the sum of money deposited with him by the claimant, he must be deemed to have taken it on the assumption that it represented the value of the goods, and he has therefore no right to remain in possession, or to possession fees, after the date of the deposit (Newsum, Sons & Co. v. James, (1909) 2 K. B. 384; 78 L. J. K. B. 761). Where a creditor, who has assigned a debt together with all securities for the same, subsequently recovers judgment against his debtor in the county court, and the goods of the judgment debtor are taken in execution, the assignee of the debt cannot claim the proceeds of sale under sects. 156 and 157 of the Act (Plant v. Collins, (1912) 2 K. B. 459; 81 L. J. K. B. 868; (C. A.) (1913) 1 K. B. 242; 82 L. J. K. B. 467).

Claim of damages by claimant. Form 211.

8.—(1) Where the claimant to goods taken in execution claims damages from the execution creditor or from the high bailiff for or in respect of the seizure of the goods, he shall in the particulars of his claim to the goods state the amount he claims for damages, and the grounds upon which he claims damages.

It is probably necessary that where damages are claimed from the execution creditor or high bailiff that the claim should be made in the interpleader proceedings, and not by independent action; but if a claim for damages is made against a stranger to the proceedings, e.g., the solicitor of the execution creditor who has given express instructions for the seizure of the goods, this, as it is not contemplated by the rule, may probably be enforced by an independent action. See opinion of Lush, J. in Salbstein v. M. Isaacs & Sons, Ltd. and Another, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 112.

Where damages not claimed until filing of particulars.

(2) Where the claimant has not claimed damages before the issue of the interpleader summons, but claims such damages in his particulars of claim, he may be ordered to pay the costs of any adjournment which may be necessary to enable the execution creditor or the high bailiff to prepare his defence to the claim so made.

NOTE.—Formerly no claim for damages could be made in the trial of an interpleader issue remitted for trial by the High Court, but Order XXXIII. r. 11, is now superseded by the Rules of 1917 (Order XXXIII. r. 11), which, where there are no directions to the contrary in the Order transferring the proceedings to the county court, allows such a claim to be made against the execution creditor, as in ordinary interpleader proceedings. See Salbstein v. M. Isaacs & Sons, Ltd., and Another, supra.

Claim of damages by execution creditor against high bailiff. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 157. Form 222.

9. Where under section one hundred and fifty-seven of the Act an execution creditor claims damages against a high bailiff arising out of the execution of any process, he shall five clear days at least before the return-day of the interpleader summons give notice in writing of such claim to the registrar and to the high bailiff, stating the grounds and amount of such claim, according to the form in the Appendix; and he may thereupon apply to the judge at the hearing of the interpleader summons to adjudicate upon such claim. For the purposes of fees and costs such claim shall be deemed to be a claim in an interpleader.

For forms of orders, see Forms 223—225; and warrant of execution, Form 221.

Though the seizure was made in good faith, and there was no misconduct, the high bailiff may be liable in damages (London, Chatham & Dover Rail. Co. v. Cable, (1899) 80 L. T. 119).

O. XXVII. r. 10.

Payment into court where damages claimed under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 157.

10. Where a claim for damages under section one hundred and fifty-seven of the Act is made against any high bailiff and execution creditor, or either of them, they or either of them may pay into court money in satisfaction of such claim for damages; and such payment into court shall be made in the same manner and have the same effect, and the parties respectively shall have the same rights and remedies, as they would respectively have if the proceeding were an action in which the claimant was plaintiff, and the high bailiff and execution creditor were defendants. A high bailiff may in like manner pay money into court in satisfaction of a claim for damages made against him by an execution creditor.

Interpleader summons.

11. Interpleader summonses shall be issued by the registrar, on the application of the high bailiff, without leave of the judge, and shall be served on the solicitor of any party who acts by a solicitor.

From what court issued.

12. Interpleader summonses shall be issued from the court of the district in which the levy was made, and the execution creditor and claimant shall be summoned to such court.

Judge may direct sale of goods claimed under bill of sale, etc.

13.—(1) When goods or chattels have been seized in execution under process of the court, and any claimant alleges that he is entitled under a bill of sale or otherwise to such goods or chattels by way of security for a debt, the judge may order a sale of the whole or part thereof, and may direct the application of the proceeds of such sale in such manner and upon such terms as may be just. A duplicate of such order shall be delivered by the registrar to the high bailiff, who shall thereupon forthwith sell the goods or chattels pursuant to the order, and after deducting the expenses of the sale and the taxes and rent, if any, directed by the order to be paid, shall pay the balance of the proceeds into court, and such balance shall thereupon be applied by the registrar in accordance with the directions contained in the order of the court.

Form of order.

(2) An order for sale under this rule shall be according to the form in the Appendix, with such modifications as may be necessary and as the judge shall direct. Form 212A.

Costs of application.

(3) The costs of an application for sale under this rule shall be borne as between the parties to the application as the judge shall direct.

The order may be made, although the execution creditor cannot contest the title of the bill of sale holder (Miller & Co. v. Solomon, (1906) 2 K. B. 91; 75 L. J. K. B. 671).

This provision is intended to prevent an execution from being defeated by a claimant under a bill of sale by way of security for a sum less than the value of the goods. It appears that there is no obligation on the bailiff to apply for an order for sale under these provisions. He may withdraw, if satisfied that the bill of sale or security is valid, and return nulla bona without exposing himself to an action. If he interpleads, it appears that the order for the sale may be made on the hearing of the interpleader summons (Scarlett v. Hanson (C. A.), (1884) 12 Q. B. D. 213; 53 L. J. Q. B. 62).

A secured claimant is not entitled to receive out of the balance any sum not included in his particulars or mentioned in the order (Hockey v. Evans (C. A.), (1887) 18 Q. B. D. 390; 56 L. J. Q. B. 253).

Order on interpleader. Forms 213—220, 223—225.

14. The order made upon the hearing of an interpleader summons shall contain directions as to how any money paid into court in the proceeding is to be disposed of. A minute of every such order shall be entered in the minute book, but no order need be drawn up or served unless any of the parties shall require it, or the court otherwise orders. The order, if drawn up, shall be according to such one of the forms in the Appendix as shall be applicable to the case.

As between the execution creditor, the claimant, and the high bailiff, the order will not only dispose of claims actually brought forward, but will also bar claims which might have been brought forward and adjudicated upon (Death v. Harrison, (1871) L. R. 6 Ex. 15; 40 L. J. Ex. 26; Hills v. Renny, (1880) 5 Ex. D. 313; 49 L. J. Ex. 710), whether they exceed 50*l.* or not, the judge's jurisdiction as to them being unlimited (Smith v. Benskin, (1893) 94 L. T. (Journal) 285).

Where the execution creditor is successful, he will be entitled to the whole sum deposited by the claimant with the bailiff and paid into court by the latter, although some of the goods seized may admittedly be the property of another and subsequent claimant (Wells v. Hughes, (1907) 2 K. B. 845; 76 L. J. K. B. 1125).

The claimant must succeed by the strength of his own title to the goods, not by showing that he has some interest in the goods, or that they belong to some one else than the judgment debtor. Where a claimant only satisfied the jury that goods which he claimed as his absolute property belonged to a partnership of which he was a member, it was held by the Court of Appeal (reversing the decision of the Divisional Court) that the execution creditors were entitled to judgment (Flude, Ltd. v. Goldberg (Isaacs claimant), (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 219—In Divisional Court, (1915) 2 K. B. 157; 84 L. J. K. B. 511). But see now Peake v. Carter, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 761, where Flude, Ltd. v. Goldberg is explained and distinguished.

Goods were seized under an execution, and claimed by a third person; the value being assessed at 25*l.*; the claimant paid the money into court to avoid a forced sale, and the bailiff withdrew. On an interpleader, the judge found for the execution creditor, and the 25*l.* was paid to him. His debt being still unsatisfied, he levied the same goods again which remained on the same premises, and the claimant again claimed and paid 25*l.* The judge again found for the execution creditor, and ordered the 25*l.* to be paid to him; but the High Court held that the execution creditor was debarred from denying as against the claimant that the goods were his, and he could not therefore take them in execution a second time (Haddow v. Morton (C. A.), (1894) 1 Q. B. 565; 63 L. J. Q. B. 431).

But by payment into court a claimant acquires no property in the goods, and if they are again seized by a different creditor, must again pay the full value into court on the condition of an interpleader issue (Kotchie v. Golden Sovereigns, Ltd., (1898) 2 Q. B. 164; 67 L. J. Q. B. 722).

O. XXVII. r. 15.

15.—(1) Where the defendant in an action brought by the assignee of a debt or chose in action has had notice that the assignment is disputed, as to the whole or any part of such debt or chose in action, by the assignor or anyone claiming under him, or where the defendant in any such action, or in any other action for any debt, chose in action, money, goods, or chattels, has had notice of any other opposing or conflicting claims to the whole or any part of such debt, chose in action, money, goods, or chattels, the defendant may, within five days of the service of the summons, apply to the registrar for a summons against the assignor or the person making such opposing or conflicting claim, hereinafter called the claimant.

Interpleader in action by assignee, where assignor disputes assignment or in action for debt, chose in action, or chattel, where defendant has notice of conflicting claims.

There must be inconsistent claims, and they must arise with respect to a debt, money, goods or chattels before interpleader proceedings can be taken (Sun Insurance Office v. Galinsky and Others, (1914) 2 K. B. 545; 83 L. J. K. B. 633).

Costs recovered in a judgment and taxed may be legally assigned though not entered upon the record (Hambleton v. Brown, (1917) 2 K. B. 93).

(2) The defendant must satisfy the registrar, by affidavit according to the form in the Appendix, that he claims no interest in the subject matter in dispute other than for charges or costs, and does not collude with either the plaintiff or the claimant, and is willing to pay or transfer the subject matter into court, or dispose of it as the court may direct. On filing such affidavit the defendant shall lodge with the registrar copies thereof for the plaintiff and the claimant.

Form 226.

(3) The defendant shall not be disentitled to relief by reason only that the titles of the plaintiff and the claimant have not a common origin, but are adverse to and independent of each other.

(4) The registrar shall, on being satisfied as aforesaid, issue for service on the claimant an interpleader summons according to the form in the Appendix, returnable as soon as conveniently may be, and shall annex thereto a copy of the original summons and of the defendant's affidavit, and shall adjourn the trial of the action to the day on which the interpleader summons is made returnable, and shall give notice to the plaintiff and defendant of the issue of the interpleader summons and of the adjournment of the trial of the action, according to the forms in the Appendix.

Forms 228 229.

The interpleader summons shall be served in such time and mode as by these rules directed for the service of an ordinary summons to appear to a plaint.

(5) The claimant shall, five clear days at least before the return-day of the interpleader summons, leave at the office of the registrar either three copies of a notice that he relinquishes his claim, or three copies of particulars stating the grounds on which he disputes the assignment or founds his claim to the subject matter in the action; and the registrar shall forthwith send by post one of such copies to the plaintiff, and one other of such copies to the defendant. Provided that by consent of all parties, or without such consent if the judge so directs, the interpleader may be tried although this rule has not been complied with.

Payment into court by defendant.

(6) On filing his affidavit, or at any time after the issue of the interpleader summons, the defendant may pay the debt or money or bring the chose in action, goods, or chattels into court, to abide its decision.

Interpleader, how disposed of.

(7) Upon the return day of the interpleader summons—

Where plaintiff does not appear.

(a) If the plaintiff does not appear, the action and interpleader summons shall be struck out, and the judge may make such order as to costs as may be just.

Where claimant does not appear.

(b) If the claimant does not appear, the judge shall hear and determine the action as between the plaintiff and the defendant, and may make an order declaring the claimant and all persons claiming under him for ever barred against the defendant and all persons claiming under him, and may make such order as to costs against the claimant as may be just, but the order shall not affect the rights of the plaintiff and the claimant between themselves; or if the claimant has filed notice that he relinquishes his claim, the judge may make an order declaring him and all persons claiming under him for ever barred against both the plaintiff and the defendant and all persons claiming under them, and may make such order against the claimant as to costs incurred by the other parties before the receipt of notice of relinquishment as may be just.

Where both appear. Forms 231—233.

(c) If both the plaintiff and the claimant appear, the judge shall, whether the defendant does or does not appear, hear the cases of the plaintiff and the claimant (and the case of the defendant if he appears), and shall give such judgment thereon as shall finally determine the rights and claims of all parties; but the judge shall not make any order in favour of the claimant against the defendant unless the claimant requests him so to do.

Discovery, trial, costs and incidental matters in interpleader proceedings.

16.—Orders XVI. and XXII. shall, with the necessary modifications, apply to interpleader proceedings; and the judge may in and for the purposes of any such proceedings make all such orders as to costs and all other matters (including, in the case of proceedings under the last preceding rule, the repayment to the defendant of any costs paid by him into court, and the disposal of any money, chose in action, goods or chattels paid or brought by the defendant into court) as may be just and reasonable. O. XXVII. r. 16.

ORDER XXVIII.

Transmission of Proceeds of Warrants from Foreign Districts.

1. In all cases of warrants against the goods or orders of commitment to be executed in a foreign district, the high bailiff of the court from which the warrant or order issued shall send the same with a warrant according to the form in the Appendix, under the hand of the high bailiff and the seal of the court, to the registrar of the foreign court, as required by section one hundred and fifty-eight of the Act; and the registrar of the foreign court shall immediately on the receipt of the warrant or order make an entry of the receipt thereof in the "Foreign Executions Re-issued Book." Transmission and entry of warrants, etc., to be executed in a foreign district. Form 173. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 158.

(2) In the case of a warrant against goods, the high bailiff of the court from which the warrant issued shall also annex to the notice to be left with the debtor pursuant to Order XXV. Rule 17, a notice according to the form in the Appendix, under the hand of the high bailiff and the seal of the court, that all payments under the warrant should be made and all notices or claims in respect of the execution or the goods taken in execution should be given or sent to the high bailiff of the court of the district in which the levy is made, and not to the high bailiff of the court out of which the warrant originally issued. Notice to be annexed to warrant that payment should be made or notices or claims given or sent to high bailiff of foreign court. Form 173A.

NOTE.—Order XXVIII. Rule 1 (2), added by Rules of 1917, dated February 19th, 1917.

2.—(1) Subject to the provisions of Order II. Rules 34A, 35, and 36, where by virtue of any warrant against the goods sent to a foreign district any money has been received by the bailiff of the foreign court, such bailiff shall, within twenty-four hours from the receiving of such money, pay over the same to the registrar of the foreign court, and shall, unless an interpleader summons as to such money is pending, make a return in writing of the amount received according to the form in the Appendix; and in the case of a levy having been made, the bailiff shall state in the return the gross amount produced by such levy, the particulars of the appraiser's and broker's charges, and the fees allowed for keeping possession, and he shall pay over to the registrar of the foreign court the amount levied, less such charges and fees; and the registrar of the foreign court shall certify in the said return the amount paid into court, and the correctness of Accounting for and transmission of money received under execution sent to foreign district. Form 175.

O. XXVIII. r. 2

the said charges, and shall account for and pay over such amount to the treasurer of his court at such time as the treasurer shall require; and the high bailiff shall thereupon transmit such return to the high bailiff of the home court, as directed by section one hundred and fifty-eight of the Act, and such latter bailiff shall, within twenty-four hours from the receipt of such return, deliver the same to the registrar of his court, who shall file such return and shall (subject to Order II. Rule 34A) pay out of any money in his hands to the execution creditor the amount certified in such return to have been received by the registrar of the foreign court as the proceeds of the execution, and shall enter in a book the amount so certified, according to the form in the Appendix; and the registrar shall be allowed by the treasurer of his court, at his audit, the amount so paid.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 158.

Appendix, Part II., Form M.

Where proceeds of execution are to be held for 14 days.

(2) Provided that where the bailiff is by subsection two of section forty-one of the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, required to hold the proceeds of sale under an execution, or the money paid in order to avoid sale, for fourteen days, he shall proceed in accordance with Order II. Rule 35, and shall not proceed under paragraph one of this rule until such period of fourteen days has expired.

4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 41 (2).

Where interpleader pending.

(3) And where an interpleader is pending as to the amount received, the high bailiff shall postpone the making of a return under paragraph one of this rule until the interpleader is disposed of, and shall when it is disposed of make a return showing how the money received is to be disposed of, and the amount (if any) payable to the execution creditor: and such return shall be certified and the amount payable to the execution creditor shall be dealt with in accordance with the said paragraph.

NOTE.—Rule amended by Rules of 1917, dated February 19th, 1917.

Form 175.

3. Where by virtue of any order of commitment to be executed in a foreign district any money has been paid into the court of such district, the registrar shall transmit a certificate, according to the form in the Appendix, to the registrar of the home court of the amount so paid in, and shall account for and pay over the amount to the treasurer of his court at such time as the treasurer shall require; and the registrar of the home court shall upon the receipt of the certificate file the same and pay out of any money in his hands to the judgment creditor the amount so certified to have been received by the registrar of the foreign court, and shall enter the same in the book mentioned in the last preceding rule, and he shall be allowed by the treasurer of his court, at his audit, the amount so paid.

ORDER XXIX.

O. XXIX. r. 1.

Security.

1. Where a party proposes to give a bond by way of security, he shall serve, by post or otherwise, on the opposite party and upon the registrar, at his office, notice of the proposed sureties, according to the form in the Appendix, and the registrar shall forthwith give notice to both parties of the day and hour on which he proposes that the bond shall be executed, and shall state in the notice to the obligee that any valid objection which he may have to make to the sureties or either of them must be made on such day. Security by bond. Form 235. Form 237.

2. The sureties shall make an affidavit of their sufficiency according to the form in the Appendix, unless the opposite party dispenses with such affidavit. Affidavit of sufficiency Form 236.

3. The bond shall be executed in the presence of the judge or registrar or of a commissioner to administer oaths, or of a clerk to the registrar nominated to take affidavits. Execution of bond.

4. Where a party makes a deposit of money in lieu of giving a bond, he shall forthwith give notice to the opposite party, by post or otherwise, of such deposit having been made. Deposit in lieu of bond.

5. In all cases where the security is by bond, the bond shall be given to the party or persons requiring the security, and shall be deposited with the registrar until the action is finally disposed of. Bond to be deposited.

The registrar has only to see that the bond is duly executed, and that the sureties are sufficient; he cannot decline to approve of the bond upon the ground that the defendant is by law incompetent to execute it (Young v. Brompton Waterworks Co., (1862) 1 B. & S. 675; 31 L. J. Q. B. 14; 124 R. R. 709), in which case it was held that an incorporated joint-stock company, limited, could properly execute such a bond.

In cases of objection to trial in the county court under sect. 62, the bond must be in a sum not exceeding 150*l.*, and the security must be approved by the registrar (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 62).

In cases of replevin, the bond must be in a sum sufficient to cover the alleged rent or damage, and the probable costs of the action in the High or county court, according to the court in which the replevisor elects to sue (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 135, 136).

Where the high bailiff is ordered to take possession of goods until security is given for their safe keeping or payment of their value in default, but the amount of security is not specified, an inventory and appraisement must be made; upon receiving as a deposit the amount of the appraisement, or sufficient security to be approved by the registrar, for their safe custody and for their delivery up on request, the high bailiff will relinquish possession on condition that they shall be re-delivered to him on request or held to abide the order of the court. Where the warrant specifies the amount of security, no less deposit or security will be sufficient (Order II. r. 40).

O. XXIX. r. 5. Notes.

In cases other than those which have been above mentioned, where the Act or rule does not specify the sum for which security must be given, the amount must be fixed by the judge or registrar.

If any action be brought on the bond, the court in which the action is brought may, by order, give such relief to the obligors as may be just, and such order will have the effect of a defeasance of the bond (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 108).

See, as to bond by defendant objecting to jurisdiction, Form 82. As to bond by defendant in an action under the Bills of Exchange Act, Form 42; in replevin, Forms 287 and 288; by receiver, Form 303; for security for costs by plaintiff out of England, Form 16.

If Security by Deposit.]—Where a party is required to give security, he may, in lieu of giving a bond, deposit with the registrar a sum equal in amount to the sum for which he would otherwise give security, together with a memorandum, to be approved of by the registrar, and to be signed by the party, his solicitor or agent, setting forth the conditions on which the money is deposited, and the registrar must give a written acknowledgment of the deposit (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 109; Form 234). The party, upon making the deposit, must give notice to the opposite party, by post or otherwise, of the deposit having been made (Order XXIX. r. 4).

Any objection to receive the money without the memorandum named in the statute should be made before the acknowledgment is given by the registrar, as the want of the memorandum cannot afterwards be relied on as vitiating the deposit if the other requisite forms have been complied with (Griffin v. Coleman, (1859) 4 H. & N. 265; 28 L. J. Ex. 134; 118 R. R. 426; Walters v. Coghlan, (1872) L. R. 8 Q. B. 61; 42 L. J. Q. B. 20).

Payment out of Court of Deposit.]—The judge of the court in which the money has been deposited, may, on the same evidence as would be required to enforce or avoid a bond, given by way of security, order the sum deposited to be paid out to such party or parties as he shall think just (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 109).

In High Court.]—Where security is required to be given in the High Court, it may be by bond or deposit, as if it were required to be given in a county court; and if an action be brought on the bond, the High Court or a judge has the same powers, as to giving relief to the obligors, and to the disposal of the money deposited, as are above stated to be possessed by the county court (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 108, 109).

Officer of court not to be surety.

6. No registrar, deputy registrar, registrar's clerk, high bailiff, bailiff, broker, or other officer of the court, shall become surety in any case where, by the practice of the court, security is required.

ORDER XXX.

Proceedings by and against Executors and Administrators.

Costs where plaintiff fails.

1. In actions by executors or administrators, if the plaintiff fails, the costs shall, unless the court otherwise orders, be awarded in favour of the defendant, and shall be levied de bonis propriis.

Costs on non-appearance.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 88, 89, 91.

2. Where an executor or administrator, plaintiff or defendant, does not appear on the day of hearing, the provisions of sections eighty-eight, eighty-nine, and ninety-one of the Act shall apply respectively, subject to the rules applicable to executors or administrators suing or sued. O. XXX. r. 2.

3. A party suing an executor or administrator may charge in the summons that the defendant has had assets and has wasted them, and he shall state in his particulars the amount of assets alleged to have been left by the deceased, and the manner in which the said assets have been wasted. Waste of assets.

See Winch v. Winch, (1853) 13 C. B. 128; 22 L. J. C. P. 104; 93 R. R. 469.

4. Where a defendant is charged with waste in the summons, if the judge is of opinion that the defendant has wasted the assets the judgment shall be that the debt or damages and costs shall be levied de bonis testatoris, si, &c. et si non, de bonis propriis; and the non-payment of the amount of the demand immediately on the judge finding such demand to be correct, and that the defendant is chargeable in respect of assets, shall be conclusive evidence of wasting to the amount with which he is so chargeable. Judgment where waste charged. Form 238.

See form of warrant, Form 245; see also Winch v. Winch, (1853) 13 C. B. 128; 22 L. J. C. P. 104, where it was held that the county court has jurisdiction to try a devastavit.

4A. Where a defendant sued as an executor or administrator does not appear at the trial, or admits his representative character and the plaintiff's demand, and does not deny assets, the judgment shall be that the demand and costs shall be levied de bonis testatoris, si, &c., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis. Judgment on default of appearance, or where representation and demand admitted, and assets not denied. Form 238A.

5. Where a defendant, sued as an executor or administrator admits his representative character, and only denies the demand, if the plaintiff proves the demand the judgment shall be that the demand and costs shall be levied de bonis testatoris, si, &c., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis. Judgment where representation admitted, but demand denied. Form 239.

6. Where such defendant admits his representative character, but denies the demand, and alleges a total or partial administration of assets, and the plaintiff proves his demand, and the defendant proves the administration alleged, the judgment shall be to levy the costs of proving the demand de bonis testatoris, si, &c., et si non, de bonis propriis; and as to the demand, judgment of assets, quando acciderint; and the plaintiff shall pay the defendant's costs of proving the administration of assets, unless the court otherwise orders. Judgment where representation admitted and demand denied but proved, and administration alleged and proved. Form 240.

7. Where such defendant admits his representative character, but denies the demand, and alleges a total or partial administration of assets, and the plaintiff proves his demand, but the Judgment in like case where administration not proved. Form 241.

defendant does not prove the administration alleged, the judgment shall be to levy the amount of the demand, if such amount of assets is shown to have come to the hands of the defendant, or such amount as is shown to have come to them, and costs, de bonis testatoris, si, &c., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis, and as to the residue of the demand, if any, judgment of assets, quando acciderint.

Judgment where representation and demand admitted, and administration alleged and proved. Form 242.

8. Where such defendant admits his representative character and the plaintiff's demand, but alleges a total or partial administration of assets, and proves the administration alleged, the judgment shall be of assets, quando acciderint, and the plaintiff shall pay the defendant's costs of proving the administration of assets, unless the court otherwise orders.

Procedure after Judgment of Quando, etc.]—It was formerly held that, if, after a plea of plene administravit and judgment of assets quando acciderint, the defendant received assets, the plaintiff must proceed by summons stating the judgment quando, and suggesting assets, and that a suggestion of a devastavit would be wrong (Ellis v. Watt, (1851) 8 C. B. 614; 19 L. J. C. P. 113). This was provided for by a rule of practice (Order XXX. r. 10, infra), which directs that, where judgment has been given against an executor or administrator that the amount be levied upon assets of the deceased quando acciderint, the plaintiff may issue a summons in the prescribed form (Form 244); and, if it appears that assets have come to the hands of the executor or administrator since the judgment, the judge may order that the debt, damages and costs be levied de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis. The party applying may also charge in the summons that the executor or administrator has wasted the assets of the testator or intestate, in the same manner as in an original summons, and the provisions of Rule 4 apply to such inquiry. The judge may, if it appears that the party charged has wasted the assets, direct a levy to be made as to the debt and costs, de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, de bonis propriis (see form of judgment, Form 246; of warrant, Form 245).

Judgment in like case where administration not proved and no other defence established. Form 243.

9. Where such defendant admits his representative character and the plaintiff's demand, but alleges a total or partial administration of assets, but does not prove the administration alleged, and has not established any other ground of defence, the judgment shall be to levy the amount of the demand, if such amount of assets is shown to have to come to the hands of the defendant, or such amount as is shown to have come to them, and costs, de bonis testatoris, si, &c., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis, and as to the residue of the demand, if any, judgment of assets, quando acciderint.

Proceedings after judgment on assets quando acciderint. Form 244.

10. Where judgment has been given against an executor or administrator that the amount be levied upon assets of the deceased, quando acciderint, the plaintiff may issue a summons according to the form in the Appendix; and if it appears that assets have come to the hands of the executor or administrator since the judgment, the judge may order that the debt, damages, and costs be levied de bonis testatoris, si, &c., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis : Provided that it shall be competent for the party applying to charge in the summons that the executor or administrator has wasted the assets of the testator or intestate, in the same manner as in Rule 3 of this Order, and the provisions of Rule 4 shall apply to such inquiry ; and the judge may, if it appears that the party charged has wasted the assets, direct a levy to be made as to the debt and costs, de bonis testatoris, si, &c., et si non, de bonis propriis. O. XXX. r. 10. Form 246.

11. Where a defendant admits his representative character and the plaintiff's demand, and that he is chargeable with any sum in respect of assets, he shall pay such sum into court, subject to the rules relating to payment into court in other cases. Payment into court on defendant's admission of demand and of assets.

12. In actions against executors or administrators for which provision is not hereinbefore specially made, if the defendant fails as to any of his defences, the judgment shall, unless the court otherwise orders, be for the plaintiff as to his costs of disproving such defence, and such costs shall be levied de bonis testatoris, si, &c., et si non, de bonis propriis. Judgment in other cases.

ORDER XXXI.

New Trial.

1. An application for a new trial, or to set aside proceedings, may be made and determined on the day of trial, if both parties are present, or such application may be made at the first court held next after the expiration of twelve clear days from such day of trial : Provided that the intended applicant shall, seven clear days at least before the holding of such court, deliver to the registrar at his office, and also give to the opposite party by serving the same personally on such party, or by leaving the same at his residence or place of business, or, where the opposite party acts by a solicitor, by service upon such solicitor in accordance with Order LIV. Rule 3, a notice in writing stating that such an application is intended to be made at such court, and setting forth shortly the grounds of the intended application ; but the notice shall not operate as a stay of proceedings unless the judge otherwise orders ; and if any money paid into court under any execution or order in the action has not been paid out at the time when such notice in writing is given to the registrar, the registrar shall retain the same to abide the event of the application, or until the judge shall otherwise order ; and if Application for new trial.

O. XXXI. r. 1.

no application is made, the money shall, if required, be paid over to the party in whose favour the order was made, unless the judge otherwise orders; and if notice is not given in manner aforesaid, or application is not made at the court mentioned in the notice, no application for a new trial or to set aside proceedings shall be subsequently made, unless by leave of the judge, and on such terms as he may think fit: Provided that this rule shall not apply to cases falling within the provisions of section ninety-one of the Act.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 91.

Power of Court to Grant.]—We have seen that where judgment is given in the defendant's absence, the judge may grant a new trial on such terms as he thinks fit (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 91). The practice here under consideration does not apply to such cases.

Compromise by Jury.]—If the smallness of the damages shows that the jury must have made a compromise, and instead of deciding the real question upon which the right to any damages depends, must have agreed to find a verdict for nominal damages (Falvey v. Stanford, (1874) L. R. 10 Q. B. 54; 44 L. J. (N. S.) Q. B. 7), or to split the difference (Hall v. Poyser, (1845) 13 M. & W. 600; 14 L. J. Ex. 98), a new trial may be granted.

Misconduct of Jury.]—Misconduct of the jury and undue influence upon them, when they give rise to a suspicion of bias or unfairness, may also be grounds (Morris v. Vivian, (1842) 10 M. & W. 137; 11 L. J. Ex. 367; 62 R. R. 550; Hughes v. Budd, (1840) 8 Dowl. 315; 159 R. R. 835). The presence of a stranger for an appreciable time in the room with the jury is of itself sufficient to invalidate the verdict, and entitle the losing party to a new trial (Goby v. Wetherill, (1915) 2 K. B. 674).

Where one of the jury was a member of the borough council which was the defendant it was held the verdict could not stand (Atkins v. Fulham Borough Council (1915), 31 T. L. R. 564).

Separation of Jury.]—See ante, p. 107.

Perjury of Witnesses.]—The fact that witnesses on whose testimony a verdict has been obtained, have since been convicted of perjury committed in the cause, is a ground for a new trial (Benfield v. Petrie, (1781) 3 Doug. 24); but a mere prosecution without conviction, even if a bill has been found, is no ground (Thurtell v. Beaumont, (1823) 1 Bing. 339; 2 L. J. C. P. 4; 25 R. R. 644; Seeley v. Mayhew, (1828) 4 Bing. 561).

Mistake of Witness.]—The fact that a material witness, presumably for the successful party, after the trial admits, on affidavit, that he made a serious mistake in giving his evidence, is a ground (Richardson v. Fisher, (1823) 1 Bing. 145; 24 R. R. 690).

Parties unprepared, Witness absent.]—Generally the fact that a party was unprepared with his evidence (Cooke v. Berry, (1745) 1 Wils. 98; Turquand v. Dawson, (1835) 1 C. M. & R. 709; 40 R. R. 690), that a material witness was absent (Edwards v. Dignam, (1834) 2 Dowl. 642), that evidence was not given which might have been given (Spong v. Hog, (1772) 2 W. Bl. 802), are not grounds for a new trial.

Discovery of New Evidence.]—But the unexpected discovery after the trial of new evidence has sometimes been allowed to be a ground for a new trial (Thurtell v. Beaumont, (1823) 1 Bing. 339; 2 L. J. C. P. 4; 25 R. R. 644; Broadhead v. Marshall, (1774) 2 W. Bl. 955; Robinson v. Smith, (1915) 1 K. B. 711; 84 L. J. K. B. 783); but not where such evidence might have been obtained at the trial by reasonable diligence, or when there is serious delay in bringing the discovery of such new evidence to the notice of the court (Nash v. Rochford Rural Council, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 370).

Misdirection, Improper Reception of Evidence, etc.]—Misdirection and improper reception or rejection of evidence are also good grounds for the grant of a new trial, if substantial wrong or miscarriage of justice has been occasioned thereby (R. S. C., Order XXXIX. r. 6; Order LIX. r. 7; these are also grounds of appeal, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120). The onus of showing that misdirection did not cause a miscarriage of justice lies on the party resisting the application for a new trial (Anthony v. Halstead, (1877) 37 L. T. 433).

Right to begin.]—If a mistake be made in deciding the right to begin, it is a ground for a new trial, if a manifest wrong has been occasioned by it (Ashby v. Bates, (1846) 15 M. & W. 589; see note to Booth v. Millns, (1849) 15 M. & W. 671).

Application for.]—The application for a new trial ("trial," in the rules, means the hearing of any action or matter in court (Order LV.)), or to set aside proceedings, may be made and determined on the day of trial, if both parties be present, or it may be made at the first court held next after the expiration of twelve clear days from such day. If made after the day of trial, the party intending to apply must, seven clear days at least before the holding of the court, deliver to the registrar at his office, and also give to the opposite party notice, personally, or to his solicitor, or by leaving it at his residence or place of business, in accordance with Order LIV. r. 3, a notice in writing of his intention, stating shortly the grounds of the application. These provisions are only directory; therefore, although a party has omitted to give notice in time, the judge may in his discretion entertain an application for a new trial (Carter v. Smith, (1856) 4 E. & B. 696; 24 L. J. Q. B. 141; 99 R. R. 699). So, it is believed, the right to receive notice may be waived by the opposite party (Park Gate Co. v. Coates, (1870) L. R. 5 C. P. 634; 39 L. J. C. P. 317).

The notice does not operate as a stay of proceedings unless the judge otherwise orders; but money paid into court which has not been paid out must be retained to abide the event of the application, or until the judge otherwise orders. If no application be made, the money, if required, must be paid to the party in whose favour the order was made, unless the judge otherwise orders. If the notice be not duly given, or the application be not made at the court mentioned in the notice, no application for a new trial, or to set aside proceedings, may be subsequently made, unless by leave of the judge on such terms as he thinks fit. This does not apply to applications for a new trial under sect. 91 of the Act, i.e., where defendant has not appeared at the original hearing (rule 1, supra).

Extended Jurisdiction.]—In the case of an action sent for trial to a foreign court, the application for a new trial must be made to the foreign court, and the new trial, if granted, takes place there (Order XXIIA. r. 26 (1)). Notice of the application does not operate as a stay, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order XXIIA. r. 26 (2)). If notice of the application is given before the registrar has transmitted the documents in the action to the registrar of the home court under Order XXIIA. r. 26, the notice and the documents will, if proceedings are not stayed, be transmitted to the registrar of the home court; but if there is a stay, the registrar of the foreign court will retain the documents until the application is disposed of (Order XXIIA. r. 26 (3)). If the notice is given after transmission of the documents in the action to the home court, the registrar of the foreign court will transmit it to the registrar of the home court, and must also give notice to the latter of a stay of proceedings, if any is ordered (Order XXIIA. r. 26 (4)). If the documents in the action have been already transmitted to the registrar of the home court, he will re-transmit them to the registrar of the foreign court for use on the application for a new trial (Order XXIIA. r. 26 (5)). If the application is refused or abandoned, the registrar of the foreign court will proceed as directed by Order XXIIA. r. 26 (Order XXIIA. r. 26 (6)(a)); if it is granted, he will retain the documents in the action until the case has been re-tried or otherwise disposed of, when the procedure of Rule 26 will be followed (Order XXIIA. r. 26 (6) (b)). Money paid into the foreign court and certified to the registrar of the home court, or money paid into the home court under an execution or order in the action, which has not been paid out by the registrar of the home court when he receives notice of application for a new trial, will be retained by him to abide the result of the application, or until the judge otherwise orders; if the application for a new trial is not made, the money will, unless the judge otherwise orders, be paid by the registrar of the home court to the parties entitled, and the provisions of Order XXIIA. r. 26, as to money paid into the foreign court will apply (Order XXIIA. r. 26 (7)).

Finality of Decision.]—An order made on an application for a new trial is final; the judge is then functus officio, and cannot entertain a second application (G. N. Rail. Co. v. Mossop, (1856) 17 C. B. 130; 25 L. J. C. P. 22; 104 R. R. 626)

Where the plaintiff applied for a new trial immediately after verdict the judge refused it, but after the next case had been called on he said he would grant it. No entry of the refusal had been made on the minutes. The defendant's solicitor was present both when the application was made and when the judge made the order. The court on these facts held that the judge had not definitely refused to grant a new trial, and that his order was good. They further held that the presence of the defendant himself was unnecessary (Barton v. Titchmarsh (C. A.), (1880) 49 L. J. Ex. 573; see also Moxon v. London Tram. Co., (1889) 57 L. J. Q. B. 446; S. C., R. v. Greenwich C. C. (C. A.), 37 W. R. 132; 60 L. T. 248).

Jury.]—In granting a new trial, the judge may make it a condition that it shall take place before a jury, although the former trial did not (Order XXXI. r. 2). On a new trial either party may demand a jury, although there was no jury on the first (R. v. Harwood, (1853) 1 B. C. C. 144; 22 L. J. Q. B. 127; 94 R. R. 860; Ford v. Taylor, (1878) 3 C. P. D. 21; 47 L. J. C. P. 116).

Costs.]—If a new trial is granted on payment of costs, which are afterwards paid, the party accepting them is precluded from objecting to the order (Sparrow v. Reed, (1848) 5 D. & L. 633; 17 L. J. Q. B. 183). The judge has the same power over the costs of the new trial as over the first. Should he require a bond to be given by either party, the expense of it must be borne by the party giving it (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 108).

Appeal.]—Under the Act of 1888, an appeal lies against the order of the judge granting (Murtagh v. Barry, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 632; 59 L. J. Q. B. 388; Bryant v. North Met. Tram. Co., (1890) 6 T. L. R. 396; How v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1892) 1 Q. B. 391; 61 L. J. Q. B. 368) or refusing (Dingor v. Mathews, (1889) 65 L. T. 748, n.; Pole v. Bright, (1892) 1 Q. B. 603; 61 L. J. Q. B. 139) a new trial. The ground of appeal applicable appears to be "the determination or direction of the judge in point of law or equity." It would appear therefore that to give rise to an appeal, the judge in granting or refusing a new trial must have misapplied either law or equity.

If the judge grants (How v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1892) 1 Q. B. 391; and see Smith v. Baker (H. L.), (1891) A. C. 325; 60 L. J. Q. B. 683) or refuses (Wilton v. Leeds Co., (1882) 32 W. R. 461) a new trial applied for merely on the ground that the verdict is against the weight of evidence no appeal will lie unless the judge misapplies the law in determining the question before him.

If the judge grants a new trial on the ground that the damages given by the jury are excessive, this cannot be questioned on appeal, unless as above some wrong principle of law is involved in his decision (Cole v. De Trafford, (1917) 1 K. B. 911; 33 T. L. R. 249).

Order.]—The court may, on an appeal by a plaintiff against an order for a new trial, order judgment to be entered for the defendant (Bryant v. North Met. Tram. Co., (1890) 6 T. L. R. 396); but a county court judge has no such power (Robinson v. Fawcett, (1901) 2 K. B. 325; 70 L. J. K. B. 639).

Time for Appeal.]—The time for giving notice of appeal is within twenty-one days from the order granting or refusing a new trial. In Dingor v. Mathews, (1889) 65 L. T. 748, n., the trial was on July 15th; motion for a new trial was made in the county court, and refused, on August 1st; notice of motion by way of appeal was given on August 20th, and it was held to be duly given.

General Power of Judge to Order New Trial.]—The judge may also "in every case whatever" (sect. 91), whether tried by himself or by jury, order a new trial on such terms as he thinks fit, and may in the meantime stay proceedings (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 93; see form of order for new trial, Form 154. No fee is chargeable for the application). The power given under sect. 91 is very wide, and the words "in every case whatever" mean that his judicial discretion is unfettered, though he must act on well-ascertained legal principles. He has no power on an application for a new trial to enter judgment for the applicant (Robinson v. Fawcett, (1901) 2 K. B. 325; 70 L. J. K. B. 639).

The power extends to cases where on the evidence the judge has decided that he has no jurisdiction, and has ordered the cause to be struck out (Lister v. Wood (C. A.), (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 229); also, where, on application, he is satisfied that he misdirected himself on a question of fact (Sanatorium, Ltd. v. Marshall, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 941).

It has been held, contrary to the opinion which formerly obtained, but in accordance with the principle of the cases which established that the power to nonsuit was no greater than at common law, that the power of the judge to grant a new trial is the same as that of the High Court itself in actions in the High Court, and subject to the same limitations (Murtagh v. Barry, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 632; 59 L. J. Q. B. 388). This view has recently received the sanction of the House of Lords (Brown v. Dean (H. L.), (1910) A. C. 373; 79 L. J. K. B. 690; affirming (C. A.), (1909) 2 K. B. 573; 78 L. J. K. B. 840), and it is now settled law that the discretion of the judge to grant a new trial "if he shall think just" is a judicial discretion, which must be exercised on certain well-ascertained principles. It is proposed, therefore, shortly to consider the principal grounds on which new trials are granted in the High Court.

Verdict against Evidence.]—A new trial may be granted on the ground that the verdict of a jury is against the weight of the evidence, or that the damages are excessive or insufficient. The rule is the same even if the parties have agreed to accept the verdict of the majority (Groom v. Shuker, (1894) 69 L. T. 293). In the Supreme Court, where the damages given by a jury are excessive and unreasonable, the court has no jurisdiction, without the defendant's consent, to order that there shall be a new trial unless the plaintiff consents to a reduction of the damages (Watt v. Watt, (1905) A. C. 115; 74 L. J. K. B. 438); and the same rule would apply in the county court.

Improper Damages.]—In many cases, such as actions for non-delivery of goods for which there is a market, the quantum of damages is ascertainable with precision according to well-known rules; but in cases of injury to the person, character, or reputation, the damages are generally at large, and the principal difficulty in controlling verdicts so far as they relate to damages is generally in such actions. The rule in regard to them appears to be much the same as that which applies to the grant of a new trial on the ground that the verdict is against evidence (Praed v. Graham (C. A.), (1889) 24 Q. B. D. 53; 59 L. J. Q. B. 230, per Lord Esher, M.R.), and the rule has of late years been frequently stated to be that the verdict ought not to be disturbed, even though the judge would himself have given a different one, unless the court thinks that, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, no sensible men could reasonably have given it (Phillips v. Martin, (1890) 15 App. Cas. 193; Metropolitan Rail. Co. v. Wright, (1885) 11 App. Cas. 152; 55 L. J. Q. B. 401; Praed v. Graham (C. A.), (1889) 24 Q. B. D. 53).

The expression of the rule in the older cases as to damages seems to be that the verdict ought not to be disturbed unless the damages awarded are so far in excess or below what seems reasonable to the court as to satisfy it that the jury must have been actuated by improper motive or have proceeded upon a wrong principle (Creed v. Fisher, (1854) 9 Ex. 472; 23 L. J. Ex. 143; 96 R. R. 801; Kelly v. Sherlock, (1866) L. R. 1 Q. B. 686; 35 L. J. Q. B. 209; Phillips v. L. & S. W. Rail. Co., (1879) 5 Q. B. D. 78). Thus in an action for breach of promise of marriage, in which heavier damages were given than any member of the court approved, a new trial was refused, as no error or misconduct could be suggested (Berry v. Da Costa, (1866) L. R. 1 C. P. 331; 35 L. J. C. P. 191). Where, however, the damages in an action for personal injury were, though substantial, unreasonably small under the circumstances, the court inferred from it that the jury must have omitted to consider some of the elements of damage and granted a new trial (Phillips v. L. & S. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1879) 5 Q. B. D. 78).

Where an action was tried by jury and the judge gave judgment, but reserved leave to move, and a motion for a new trial was afterwards made and refused, it was held that final judgment for the purpose of appeal was not given until the refusal of the motion, and that the time for appeal ran from the day of refusal (Foster v. Green, (1861) 6 H. & N. 793; 30 L. J. Ex. 263).

Even if the judge reserves leave to move, the dissatisfied party may at once appeal to the High Court, and need not move in the county court (Outhwaite v. Hudson, (1851) 7 Ex. 380; 21 L. J. Ex. 151).

Staying Execution.] —If the judge at any time is satisfied that a defendant in any action is unable from sickness or other sufficient cause, which mere inability to pay owing to want of means is not (Attenborough v. Henschel, (1895) 1 Q. B. 833; 64 L. J. Q. B. 255), to pay and discharge the debt or damages recovered against him, or any instalment thereof, he may, in his discretion, suspend or stay any judgment, order, or execution for such time, and on such terms, as he thinks fit, and so from time to time until it shall appear that such temporary cause of disability has ceased; or he may order the discharge of any debtor, who on account of sickness, insanity, or other sufficient cause ought, in the opinion of the judge, to be discharged (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 153; Form 153).

Except as above, the County Courts Act contains no express power to stay proceedings.

Staying Proceedings.] —It remains to be seen how far the provisions of the Judicature Acts may justify a stay of proceedings before or after judgment. A county court judge was held to be justified in refusing to try, and in staying proceedings, until the plaintiff had paid the costs of an action brought previously in the High Court, and decided in favour of the defendant, and involving substantially the same questions as the case in the county court (R. v. Bayley, (1881) 8 Q. B. D. 411; 51 L. J. Q. B. 244; see, where stay ordered in High Court for non-payment of costs by married woman, In re Payne, (1883) 23 Ch. D. 288; 52 L. J. Ch. 544); and there are strong grounds for believing that a judge might stay proceedings in his own court in any case in which, if the action were in the High Court, an order to stay might be made (see King v. Hawkesworth, (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 371; 48 L. J. Q. B. 484; Poyser v. Minors (C. A.), (1881) 7 Q. B. D. 329; 50 L. J. Q. B. 555).

O. XXXI. r. 1. Notes.

Under sect. 4 of the Arbitration Act, 1889 (which reproduces sect. 11 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854), a county court judge has power to stay proceedings where an action has been commenced notwithstanding the existence of a submission to arbitration of the parties. This seems to follow from the definition of "Court" in that Act when read in conjunction with sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, and has recently been decided to be the law (Morriston Tinplate Co. v. Brooker, (1908) 1 K. B. 403; 77 L. J. K. B. 197). But it is a matter of considerable doubt whether the registrar of a county court, as such, has jurisdiction to make the order, and the safest course would appear to be to make the application to the judge, except in cases where the registrar is also a district registrar of the High Court. Where fraud is alleged the proceedings are not usually stayed, though an arbitration clause exists (Jureidini v. National British and Irish Millers' Insurance Co., (1915) A. C. 499; 84 L. J. K. B. 640; Monro v. Bognor Urban Council, (1915) 3 K. B. 167; 84 L. J. K. B. 1091), nor is the discretion of the county court judge, if exercised judicially, interfered with (Clough v. County Live Stock Insurance Co., Ltd., (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1185).

Judge may direct new trial to be had with jury.

2. The judge may, in his discretion, make it a condition of granting a new trial that it shall take place with a jury, although the former trial did not take place with a jury.

On a new trial, either party may demand a jury, although there was no jury on the first (R. v. Harwood, (1853) 1 B. C. C. 144; 22 L. J. Q. B. 127; Ford v. Taylor, (1878) 3 C. P. D. 21; 47 L. J. C. P. 116).

Application for new trial where there are two or more judges.

3. Where there are two or more judges of any court, an application for a new trial or to set aside proceedings in an action or matter tried or determined before one of such judges shall, wherever practicable, be made to that judge; and for that purpose an application of which notice has been given for a day on which that judge is not sitting may be adjourned to a day on which that judge will sit, if such adjournment will not involve unreasonable delay.

ORDER XXXII.

Appeals.

Appeals. 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, ss. 23, 24.

1. Appeals shall be brought in accordance with the provisions of the Rules of the Supreme Court, made under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1884.

The Rules of the Supreme Court referred to are Order LVIII. r. 20, and Order LIX. rr. 4—18. They will be found at pp. 230—232.

Judgment of Court of Appeal to be deposited.

2. When the Court of Appeal has pronounced judgment, either party may deposit the same, or an office copy thereof, with the registrar of the county court, and upon being so deposited such judgment shall be filed and may be enforced as if it had been given by the county court.

New trial.

3. A new trial in pursuance of an order of the Court of Appeal shall be entered for trial at the first county court which shall be held next after twelve clear days from the time when such order or office copy thereof has been deposited as aforesaid, unless the parties agree that it shall take place sooner, or the judge otherwise orders; and it shall be conducted in the same manner as any new trial granted by the county court itself.

Proceedings on judgment of Court of Appeal.

4. If the order of the Court of Appeal be that judgment shall be entered for either party, then such judgment shall be entered accordingly, and the successful party shall be at liberty to proceed on such judgment as on a judgment of the county court.

Costs.]—Although the court refuses to hear an appeal on the ground that the appeal will not lie, it frequently does entertain it so far as to dismiss it with costs (Carr v. Stringer, (1858) E. B. & E. 123; 113 R. R. 570), but as its power depends on jurisdiction, it is difficult to see how it can do so (Lawford v. Partridge, (1857) 1 H. & N. 621; 26 L. J. Ex. 147; 108 R. R. 749; Brown v. Shaw, (1876) 1 Ex. D. 425; Clarke v. Roche (2), (1877) 36 L. T. 78; see, however, Ex parte Pringle (C. A.), (1889) 60 L. T. 796). It seems that the court cannot make a conditional order that the costs of the appeal shall abide the event of the new trial (Gibbon v. Gibbon, (1853) 13 C. B. 205; 22 L. J. C. P. 131. 135, in notis). The costs of appeal, as a general rule, follow the event; and unless there are special circumstances to take a case out of the rule, the appellant, if successful, is now allowed his costs of appeal (Mountnoy v. Collier, (1852) 1 E. & B. 630; 93 R. R. 317; Schroeder v. Ward, (1863) 13 C. B. N. S. 410; 32 L. J. C. P. 150; Richardson v. N. E. Rail. Co., (1872) L. R. 7 C. P. 75, 83; 41 L. J. C. P. 60).

Where the judge of a county court ruled a point of law against a plaintiff, with leave to move to set aside the verdict, and the plaintiff, instead of so moving, appealed to a superior court, which decided the point in his favour, it was held that he ought to have his costs of appeal, since he was not bound to try the experiment of going a second time before the same judge, who had once expressed an opinion against him (Outhwaite v. Hudson, (1851) 7 Ex. 380; 21 L. J. Ex. 151).

Costs of appeal will not be allowed unless the application for them is made at the time the case is disposed of (Taylor v. G. N. Rail. Co., (1866) L. R. 1 C. P. 430; 35 L. J. C. P. 210).

The order of the court in favour of the appellant will, it is conceived, discharge his sureties, if any, providing that he has not been ordered to pay the costs of the appeal, a very improbable contingency. If money has been paid into court as security for the costs of the appeal, the court, in granting costs to the appellant, will order the money paid into court to be paid out to him (Kelly v. Webster, (1852) 16 Jur. 838).

The costs of the proceedings in the court below must be dealt with as accessory to the judgment; therefore the reversal of the judgment below, and order for a new trial, reverses an order for costs in the court below (Gage v. Collins, (1867) L. R. 2 C. P. 381; 36 L. J. C. P. 144; Ashby v. Sedgwick, (1873) L. R. 15 Eq. 245; 42 L. J. Ch. 355).

lodge with the registrar the order, or a duplicate thereof, and the writ, together with the pleadings, affidavits, and other documents filed in the High Court, or copies thereof, and also a statement of the names and addresses of the several parties to the action or matter, and their solicitors, if any, and (if no statement of claim has been delivered in the High Court) a concise statement of the particulars of claim, such as would be required upon entering a plaint; and the registrar shall thereupon enter the action or matter for trial, and give notice to the parties of the day appointed for such trial, by post or otherwise, ten clear days at least before such day, and shall annex to the notice to the defendant a copy of the particulars.

matter remitted from High Court.

Proceedings in County Court.]—After the transfer, the action must proceed in the county court as if it had been originally commenced there, and no order, except on appeal, can be made in it by the High Court (Harris v. Judge (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 565; 61 L. J. Q. B. 577; Duke v. Davis (C. A.), (1893) 2 Q. B. 260; 62 L. J. Q. B. 549). Until the writ and order are lodged with the registrar the action remains in the High Court, and there is no transfer (D'Errico v. Samuel (C. A.), (1896) 1 Q. B. 163; 65 L. J. Q. B. 197). Unless defence has already been delivered, the defendant must, if he relies on any of the special defences of which notice is required, give notice in the ordinary way; see Order XXXIII. r. 3. The judge at the trial may amend or add parties (R. v. Clerkenwell C. C., (1890) 7 T. L. R. 40). In an action for demurrage at a specified rate he may even amend the particulars by substituting a claim for unliquidated damages (Spencer, Whatley & Co. v. Foster & Co., (1905) 1 K. B. 434; 74 L. J. K. B. 288). In a proper case he may refuse to try and stay proceedings (R. v. Bayley, (1881) 8 Q. B. D. 411; 51 L. J. Q. B. 244. See R. v. Mellor, ante, p. 45).

High Court Costs.]—The right to the costs incurred in the High Court, of and prior to the order of transfer, is governed by the express words of sect. 65, controlled, as mentioned below, by sect. 116, as extended by sect. 3 of the Act of 1903. A judge of the High Court, after the trial, has no power to make any order as to them (Harris v. Judge (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 565; 61 L. J. Q. B. 577); nor can the county court judge, or the master, by any order, prevent the application of the rules contained in sect. 116 (White v. Cohen (C. A.), (1893) 1 Q. B. 580; 62 L. J. Q. B. 274; Dun v. Appleton, (1898) 1 Q. B. 564; 67 L. J. Q. B. 428; overruling Armitage v. Fison, (1890) 67 L. T. 415). The effect of those rules is as follows: If, before the order to remit, the plaintiff recovers judgment under Order XIV. for 20*l.* or more, his costs of and prior to the order must be taxed on the High Court scale, if he recovers anything at all in the county court. If he recovers no judgment at all under Order XIV., or one for less than 20*l.*, but recovers in all as much as 20*l.*, but less than 100*l.*, his costs will be taxed on the county court scale. If he recovers in all less than 20*l.*, he will be entitled to no costs whatever of or prior to the order.

Recovery, meaning of.]—Plaintiff claimed 104*l.*, the defendant under an order paid 90*l.*, and by an order the action was remitted to and lodged in the county court; before the return day the defendant paid into court the balance of the claim; the plaintiff was held to have "recovered" 104*l.* and to be entitled to High Court costs prior to, and of, the order to remit, and costs in the county court on C scale. Where an action was brought for 27*l.* and the defendant paid 8*l.* without any order, the action was subsequently remitted to the county court and particulars claiming 19*l.* delivered, and the plaintiff obtained judgment for 19*l.* Held that plaintiff had in substance "recovered" a sum not less than 20*l.*

Costs of Successful Defendant.]—The right to costs of a defendant who is successful in the county court depends upon the same principle. In an action for 71*l.*, 23*l.* was paid into court under an order under Order XIV., and the action sent to the county court as to the residue of 48*l.*; the defendant consented to judgment for the 23*l.*; in the county court there was judgment for the defendant in respect of the residue; the defendant was held entitled to costs on C scale from the date of his consent to judgment for the 23*l.*, the subject-matter exceeding 50*l.*

County Court Costs in Remitted Actions.]—In remitted actions, costs generally follow the event, and the rules as to scale apply (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 65, 113); in such an action, which could have been commenced in the county court, if the plaintiff in all recovers in contract less than 20*l.*, he gets no costs (White v. Cohen (C. A.), (1893) 1 Q. B. 580; 62 L. J. Q. B. 274, overruling Armitage v. Fison, (1890) 67 L. T. 415); but if he recovers anything, either in the High Court by means of Order XIV., or in the county court by verdict, failing an order as to costs by the county court judge, the defendant gets no costs (Wright v. Bull, (1900) 2 Q. B. 124; 69 L. J. Q. B. 529). The provision in sect. 65 that the costs of proceedings, subsequent to the order of remittal, are to be allowed according to the scale in use in the county court, does not take away the general discretionary power of the judge over costs under sect. 113 (Everall v. Brown, (1905) 2 K. B. 196; 74 L. J. K. B. 708; (C. A.), (1906) 2 K. B. 884; 75 L. J. K. B. 960; and see M'Eachen v. Sallyco Mineral Water Co., (1903) 19 T. L. R. 206).

Special Costs.]—An action in the High Court to recover 46*l.* was remitted, the defendant paid 16*l.* into court without a denial of liability, which the plaintiff refused to accept; the judge found that 16*l.* only was due, and gave judgment for the defendant with costs; held, that the defendant was entitled to the costs of the High Court proceedings, which, having been incurred prior to the payment into court, were not governed by sect. 107, but were under sect. 116 in the judge's discretion (Bennett v. Drake, (1907) 97 L. T. 132). And where 3*l.* was recovered by the plaintiffs in proceedings under Order XIV. and the action was remitted to the county court, where judgment was entered for the defendant with costs on the higher scale, it was held that the county court judge had a discretion under sect. 113 to order the plaintiffs to pay the costs of the proceedings under Order XIV., notwithstanding that the plaintiffs had by those proceedings succeeded in obtaining satisfaction for a portion of their claim (Mentors, Ltd. v. Evans, (1912) 1 K. B. 254; (C. A.), (1912) 3 K. B. 174; 81 L. J. K. B. 1111).

Where two defendants are represented by the same solicitor, and judgment with costs is given for one and against the other, the successful defendant is entitled to recover from the plaintiff half the costs of the defence (Beaumont v. Senior, (1903) 1 K. B. 282; 72 L. J. K. B. 141).

Although the county court judge cannot interfere with the operation of sect. 116 upon the costs, he is probably able, as the action is to be treated as if commenced in his court, by an order refusing costs generally, to deprive a successful party of costs to which he would otherwise be entitled.

The judge may in these actions, by special order, where a solicitor appears without counsel, allow the special items of costs mentioned in the scales, viz., items 31 and 70; and may where the court-town (if more than twenty-five miles from Charing Cross) has no local bar within twenty miles of it, and counsel is instructed, allow the additional fee to counsel mentioned in item 86. Under item 93, the judge may also allow a fee to counsel for settling particulars, interrogatories, etc. (Order LIII. rr. 7, 8; and see Scales).

After the transfer, the action becomes a county court action for all purposes, and is subject to the same provisions as to new trial and appeal as other actions (see Moody v. Steward, (1870) L. R. 6 Ex. 35; 40 L. J. Ex. 25; Bowles v. Drake (C. A.), (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 325, 327; 51 L. J. Q. B. 66, per Brett, L.J.). O. XXXIII. r. 1. Notes.

Order to be filed.

2. The registrar shall forthwith indorse on the order or duplicate thereof the date on which the same was lodged, and file the same, and the action or matter shall proceed in all things as if it were an ordinary action in the court. Transmission to county court of money paid into High Court.

3A. Where any money has been paid into the High Court in an action or matter which is remitted or transferred to a county court, the registrar of the county court shall, on the request of any party to the action or matter, apply to the Paymaster-General, or, where money has been paid into a district registry, to the district registrar, to transmit such money to the registrar; and such money, when transmitted in accordance with the application, shall be subject to the order of the county court in like manner as if it had been paid into the county court in the action or matter. An application to the Paymaster-General or district registrar under this rule shall be in accordance with the form in the Appendix.

3B. Where the amount claimed on the writ exceeds fifty pounds, or where damages are claimed but the amount of the claim is not specified, the notice of trial required by Rule 1 of this Order shall be given twenty clear days at least before the day appointed for the trial, and the provisions of Order XXIIA. Rules 6 to 11, 13, 14, and 16 to 19, as to the times within which proceedings are to be taken, shall apply; and in the application of those rules the day appointed for the trial shall be deemed to be the return-day.

the day upon which he is to attend at the court, shall be served on the added or substituted defendant according to the rules applicable to the service of default summonses, and the proceedings as against such party shall be deemed to have begun only on the service of such notice.

Special notice in action for libel or slander.

Forms 86, 87.

4. Where in any action for libel or slander remitted under section sixty-six of the Act, to be tried in a county court, the defendant intends to avail himself of the provisions of sections one and two of the Libel Act, 1843, he shall give notice in writing of such intention to the registrar five clear days at least before the day appointed for the trial of the action.

Where a common law action of negligence is remitted, the plaintiff may add in the county court an alternative claim under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880 (Wood v. Weber, (1908) 99 L. T. 195).

Transfer of equitable action or matter to Chancery Division under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 67, 68, 70.

Form 331.

5. If during the progress of any action or matter under section sixty-seven or section seventy of the Act, or of any other action or matter commenced under the equitable jurisdiction of the court, it is made to appear that the subject-matter of the action or matter exceeds the limit in point of amount to which the jurisdiction of the court is limited, the judge if requested may forthwith make an order for the transfer of the action or matter to the Chancery Division of the High Court, but if not so requested the order shall not be made before fifteen days at least; and the registrar shall make and file a copy of such order, and shall transmit the order, by post or otherwise, to the proper officer of the Chancery Division of the High Court, and shall also send notice, by post or otherwise, of the fact to all parties and persons entitled to be served with a copy of the order.

See Prangnell v. Prangnell, (1893) 62 L. J. Q. B. 346.

When the excess of jurisdiction appears from the evidence at the trial, the judge ought not to strike out the action or matter; but he ought to do so if the want of jurisdiction appears on the plaint or petition itself (Birks v. Silverwood, (1871) L. R. 14 Eq. 101; 41 L. J. Ch. 638; Thomson v. Flinn, (1881) L. R. 17 Eq. 415; 43 L. J. Ch. 256; but see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 114).

Report by registrar, and proceedings where limit of jurisdiction in equitable action or matter found to be exceeded.

6. If during the progress of taking any accounts or making any inquiries in any action or matter under section sixty-seven or section seventy of the Act, or of any other action or matter commenced under the equitable jurisdiction of the court, it appears to the registrar that the subject-matter of the action or matter exceeds the limit in point of amount to which the jurisdiction of the court is limited, he may if he thinks fit proceed with and complete the particular account or inquiry, but he shall at the next sitting of the court present a certificate of the state of the proceedings in the action or matter, and if the judge is of opinion that such excess exists, he shall make an order of transfer as under the last preceding rule.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 67, 68, 70.

Transmission of documents, etc., to High Court by registrar, after order of transfer.

36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 90; and 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 68, 126.

7. Where any order is made by the High Court of Justice or any division or judge thereof for the transfer of any action or matter from a county court to the High Court under section ninety of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, or under section one hundred and twenty-six of the Act, or where an order is made by the judge under section sixty-eight of the Act, and Rules 5 and 6 of this Order, then, subject to such order, the record in such proceeding shall be transmitted by the registrar in the following manner. The registrar shall make and certify under his hand office copies of all entries of record in the books of the court, and shall forthwith transmit by post or otherwise to the proper officer of the High Court such copies, together with all documents filed in the action or matter, and also, where the proceedings have been transferred from a county court, the order of such court. Such copies and the cost of transmission shall be paid for in the first instance by the party on whose application the transfer has been made, unless the transfer has been made by the judge under Rule 5 or Rule 6 of this Order without any application to transfer being made to him, in which case such copies and the costs of transmission shall be paid for in the first instance by the plaintiff in the action or matter; and the registrar may require deposit of the cost of making such copies and transmission before making or transmitting the same; but such payment shall be without prejudice to any question as to the party by whom such costs are ultimately to be borne.

Registrar to apply to judge for directions after transfer from High Court under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 69.

8. Where any action or matter is transferred, under section sixty-nine of the Act, to a county court, the registrar shall forthwith apply to the judge for directions as to the further steps in the action or matter; and thereupon the judge may give such directions for carrying on the action or matter as he may think fit, or he may appoint a time to hear and determine any matters in such action or matter, and direct the registrar to summon all parties to appear on the day so appointed. And the judge may also, if he thinks fit, order the registrar to give notice to the parties to the action or matter, or any of them, that the order of transfer has been made.

Claimant to lodge order of High Court transferring

9. Where a proceeding by way of interpleader has been transferred to a county court under the powers given by section seventeen of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1884, the claimant shall within the time (if any) limited by the order interpleader proceeding under 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 17.

O. XXXIII. r. 9.

Form 284.

transferring the proceeding, or if no time is so limited, then within seven days from the date of such order, lodge with the registrar the order transferring the proceeding, or a duplicate or copy thereof, under the seal of the High Court, together with office copies of all affidavits filed on the application to the High Court, and a copy of the issue, if any, directed to be delivered between the parties by any order of the High Court, and also a statement in writing setting forth the names and addresses of the several parties to such proceeding, and their solicitors, if any, and stating concisely the nature of the proceeding transferred, together with a request to enter the same for hearing. If the claimant fails to lodge such documents and request within the time limited as aforesaid, any other party to the proceeding, or the sheriff, may lodge the same. The registrar shall thereupon enter the proceeding for hearing, and shall give notice of the day, time, and place for the hearing of the proceeding to the parties, and where the order is made on an interpleader summons issued at the instance of the sheriff, to the London agent of the under-sheriff, by post or otherwise, ten clear days at least before such day, unless any shorter notice is directed in the order transferring the proceeding, or by the judge or registrar as hereinafter provided.

Entry for hearing.

Claimant to lodge two copies of particulars and grounds of claim.

Form 211.

10. Where the order is made on an interpleader summons issued at the instance of the sheriff, the claimant shall five clear days at least before the day fixed for the hearing of the proceeding (unless such time is reduced as hereinafter provided) lodge with the registrar two copies of the particulars of any goods or chattels alleged to be the property of the claimant, and of the grounds of his claim; and the registrar shall forthwith send by post to the execution creditor one of the copies of such particulars: Provided that by consent of all parties, or without such consent if the judge so directs, the interpleader claim may be tried, although this rule has not been complied with.

Claims to damages.

11. Subject to any directions to the contrary which may be contained in the order transferring the proceeding, damages may be claimed against the execution creditor in a proceeding by way of interpleader transferred from the High Court to a county court in the same manner as in an interpleader proceeding commenced in a county court.

NOTE.—New rule of 1917, dated February 19th, 1917, and reversing the previous rule.

In Salbstein v. M. Isaacs & Sons and Another, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 109, it was argued that the county courts rule committee exceeded their powers in making the rule that "no claim for damages shall be allowed in an interpleader issue remitted from the High Court," but the Divisional Court decided that this rule was not ultra vires. Now, if not contrary to the terms of the order transferring the proceedings to the county court, damages may be claimed from the execution creditor in the same way as in ordinary interpleader proceedings (supra). Apparently there is no power to claim damages from the sheriff in the county court in such a case.

O. XXXIII. r. 11. Notes.

12. Any proceeding by way of interpleader transferred from the High Court to a county court shall be tried in such manner and under such conditions as may be prescribed by the order directing such transfer. In the event of no directions as to the manner and conditions of trial being given in such order, any of the parties to the proceeding (or the sheriff, where the order is made on an interpleader summons issued at his instance), may apply to the court to which the proceeding is transferred for directions as to the mode of trial, or as to any proceeding with reference to the property seized; and subject to any such directions the proceeding shall be tried by the judge without a jury, and the ordinary procedure on the trial of an action shall apply.

Mode of trial of interpleader transferred from High Court. 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 17.

13.—(1) In particular, where the order directing such transfer directs the sheriff to withdraw from possession on payment of any sum by the claimant, and in default of such payment to sell the goods seized, but provides that such directions for sale shall be subject to any order which may before the goods are sold be made by the county court, directing the sheriff to remain in possession of the goods or to hand over possession thereof to the high bailiff of the county court, any party to the proceeding, or the sheriff may, on notice to the other parties to the proceeding, and (where notice is given by one of the parties) to the London agent of the under-sheriff, apply to the court under Rule 11 of Order XII. to postpone the sale, and to expedite the hearing of the proceeding; and the court may thereupon order the sheriff to remain in possession of the goods until the hearing, or to hand over possession thereof to the high bailiff of the court, instead of proceeding to a sale, upon such terms as to possession money or other charges as may be prescribed by the order directing the transfer, or, if no such terms are prescribed, upon such terms as may be just and reasonable; and the court may also expedite the hearing.

Provisions for interim custody of goods, and for expediting hearing.

(2) For the purpose of expediting the hearing of any such proceeding as aforesaid, the following provisions shall have effect:

O. XXXIII. r. 13.

(a) The court may fix an early day for the hearing, and may for that purpose reduce the length of notice of hearing required by Rule 9 of this Order, and the time before the hearing fixed by Rule 10 for the filing of particulars ;

(b) The judge may also order the hearing to take place at any convenient court of which he is the judge ;

(c) On the day, time, and place for the hearing being fixed, the registrar of the court in which the proceeding is pending shall forthwith give notice thereof to the parties in accordance with Rule 9, together with notice of the time within which particulars are to be filed ;

(d) Where the hearing is to take place at another court, the registrar of the court in which the proceeding is pending shall forthwith send notice to the registrar of such other court that the judge has ordered the hearing to take place there ; and he shall in sufficient time before the hearing transmit the papers to the registrar of the court at which the hearing is to take place, who shall act at the hearing for such first-mentioned registrar, and shall after the hearing return the papers to him, with a minute of the order made ; and such order shall be settled, sealed, filed, entered, and proceeded on in the court in which the proceeding is pending, in like manner as if the hearing had taken place there.

Sheriff's charges.

14. No order made by the court in any proceeding by way of interpleader transferred from the High Court shall prejudice or affect the rights of the sheriff to any proper charges ; and the judge shall make such orders as may be just with respect to any such charges ; but such charges shall be ultimately borne, as between the parties to the proceeding, in such manner as the judge shall direct.

High bailiff's charges.

15. Where any goods are handed over to the high bailiff in pursuance of any such order as aforesaid, he shall hold or dispose of the same in accordance with the directions contained in such order, or in any subsequent order made in the proceeding ; and he shall be allowed for keeping possession of such goods such reasonable charges, not exceeding those which might be made by the sheriff, as the judge may order, and for a sale of such goods, if he is directed to sell the same, the same charges as are allowed on a sale under an execution issued by the county court ; and such charges shall be ultimately borne, as between the parties to the proceeding in such manner as the judge shall direct. O. XXXIII. r. 15.

16. Where any proceeding by way of interpleader, or any action or matter pending in the Chancery Division, is ordered to be transferred from the High Court to a county court, and no order to the contrary has been made in the High Court, the costs of the order and of the proceedings prior thereto shall be in the discretion of the judge of the county court, and shall be taxed in the county court upon such scale, whether of the High Court or the county court, as the judge may think just. The costs in the county court shall be in the discretion of the judge, and shall be taxed on such county court scale as he may think just. Costs of interpleader and Chancery proceedings transferred from High Court. 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 17. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 69.

17. Where any proceeding by way of interpleader is transferred from the High Court to a county court, the judge may order that the sheriff shall have his costs of the interpleader proceeding in the High Court, and may direct by which party the said costs shall be paid. Sheriff's costs.

Where the claimant succeeds and is awarded costs, he is entitled to be allowed, as against the execution creditor, the sheriff's charges subsequent to the issue (Goodman v. Blake, (1887) 19 Q. B. D. 77).

18. The order made upon a proceeding by way of interpleader transferred from the High Court to a county court shall contain directions as to how any money paid into court or in the hands of the sheriff is to be disposed of, and an order on the sheriff to deal with any money in his hands accordingly. A minute of every such order shall be entered in the minute book, but no order need be drawn up or served unless any of the parties require it, or the court otherwise orders. The order, if drawn up, shall be according to such one of the forms provided for orders on the hearing of interpleader proceedings commenced in the county court as shall be applicable to the case, with such variations as the case may require. Order on remitted interpleader. Forms 213, 214.

19. Where the registrar of the court to which any action, matter, or proceeding is transferred from the High Court, or a partner or clerk of such registrar, has acted as solicitor for any party to such action, matter or proceeding in the High Court, the judge may order such action, matter, or proceeding to be transferred to some other court under section eighty-five of the Act; and the provisions of Order VIII. Rule 9, shall apply to any application for such transfer. Transfer of action, etc., remitted from High Court to another court, where registrar has acted for any party in High Court. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 58.

ORDER XXXIV.

REPLEVIN.

Rule 1.

No other cause of action to be joined.

1. In actions of replevin no other cause of action shall be joined in the summons.

Particulars. Mode of trial. Forms 151, 290, 291.

2. On entering a plaint in replevin, the plaintiff shall specify and describe in a statement of particulars, the cattle, or the several goods and chattels taken, and the distress or other taking of which he complains.

3. An action of replevin shall be tried in the same way as other actions, and the judgment therein, in ordinary cases, whether for plaintiff or defendant, shall be, unless otherwise ordered, according to the forms in the Appendix.

Where defendant succeeds in action where distress is for rent, etc. Form 290.

4. Where the distress is for rent, or for any other sum of money for which a distress may be lawfully taken, and the defendant succeeds in the action, if the defendant so requires, the judge shall, if the action is tried without a jury, and the jury shall, if the action is tried with a jury, find the value of the goods distrained, and if the value is less than the amount of rent or other sum of money in arrear, judgment shall be given for the amount of such value, but if the amount of the rent or such other sum of money in arrear be less than the value so found, judgment shall be given for the amount of such rent or other sum of money, and such judgment may be enforced in the same manner as any other judgment of the court.

Where defendant entitled to a return in damage feasant.

5. Where the distress is for damage feasant, and the defendant is entitled to judgment for a return, if the plaintiff so requires, the judge shall, if the action is tried without a jury, and the jury shall, if the action is tried with a jury, find the amount of the damage sustained by the defendant, and judgment shall then be given in favour of the defendant, in the alternative, for a return, or for the amount of the damage so found.

See Bacon's Abridg., "Replevin."

Where defendant succeeds in other cases.

6. In all cases of replevin, other than those arising out of a seizure by way of distress, where the defendant justifies the taking and proves his case, the judgment for the defendant shall be for a return of the goods, with or without costs.

One who has replevied goods distrained, and obtained judgment in an action of replevin, cannot maintain an action for damages in respect of the taking of the goods (Gibbs v. Cruikshank, (1873) L. R. 8 C. P. 454; 42 L. J. C. P. 273).

Costs.]—The judge may, by special order, order costs to be taxed under columns A, B, or C of the scales; if he makes no special order they will be taxed under column B (Order LIII. rr. 10, 11).

Where a certificate of judgment is granted by a registrar he shall make on the minute of the judgment a memorandum of having granted such certificate, and thenceforth no further proceeding shall be taken or had upon such judgment in the same court, until the judge, or registrar, upon being satisfied that the execution issued in the court in which the certificate was registered was unproductive, shall order that the judgment may be acted on as if such certificate had not been granted. Cost of registration.

10. There shall be allowed to a solicitor for the cost of registering a certificate the sum of five shillings, which, with the fee for registration and the costs, if any, allowed for granting the certificate as shown by the indorsement thereon, shall be added to the amount to be recovered. Provided that, in the event of such copy being lost or destroyed, another copy may be sealed and given to the proper person, upon proof by affidavit or otherwise to the satisfaction of the registrar that the person applying is the proper person, and that he is entitled to the moneys recovered on the judgment, and upon payment of the fee of one shilling.

It has been held in the High Court that where a certificate of a decreet of the Court of Session has been registered in the High Court under the Judgments Extension Act, 1888, that court has the same jurisdiction to appoint a receiver as if the judgment had been originally obtained there (Thompson v. Gill (C. A.), (1903) 88 L. T. 714).

(b) if the person on whom the fine has been imposed shews cause why it should not be enforced, either pussuant to notice given under the last preceding paragraph, or without such notice having been given, the judge, after considering the cause shewn, may make such order, either directing the fine to be enforced wholly or in part, or directing that it shall not be enforced, as he shall think just in the circumstances of the case

Repayment of fine with consent of Treasury.

12. If in any case after a fine has been paid the person on whom it was imposed shews cause which satisfies the judge that if such cause had been shewn at an earlier date he would not have imposed a fine or would have imposed a smaller fine, or would not have ordered payment or full payment to be enforced, the judge may, if he thinks fit, direct the registrar to report the matter to the Treasury: and he may, with the consent of the Treasury, order the fine or any part thereof to be repaid.

ORDER LIII.

Costs and Allowances to Witnesses.

Taxation.

Rule 1.

Taxation of costs. Scales of costs. Appendix, Part IV.

1. In every action or matter in any court all costs shall be taxed by the registrar of such court according to the scales of costs in Part IV. of the Appendix, subject to the review of such taxation by the judge.

Costs, when to be taxed. Delivery of bill.

2. Where practicable the costs of an action or matter shall be taxed on the day on which the action or matter is tried or heard; and where the costs have not been so taxed, one day's notice of taxing, together with a copy of the bill of costs if the registrar so directs, shall be given by the solicitor of the party whose costs are to be taxed to the other party or his solicitor.

Notice of taxation.

3. Notice of taxation may be sent by post prepaid, provided that it is posted in time to reach the party to whom it is addressed in due course of post before noon of the day preceding the day fixed for taxation.

Forms of bills of costs.

4. In every bill of costs to be taxed under column B or C the professional charges shall be entered in a separate column from the disbursements, and every column shall be cast before the bill is left for taxation. (R. S. C., Order LXV. r. 19H.)

Party dissatisfied to make objections in writing.

5. Any party who may be dissatisfied with the allowance or disallowance by the registrar on taxation in any bill of costs taxed by him of the whole or any part of any items, may, at any time before the certificate or allocatur is signed, deliver to the other party interested therein, and carry in before the registrar on taxation, an objection in writing to such allowance or disallowance, specifying therein by a list, in a short and concise form, the items, or parts thereof, objected to, and the grounds and reasons for such objection, and may thereupon apply to the registrar to review the taxation in respect of the same.

Review of taxation upon objections.

6. Upon such application the registrar shall reconsider and review his taxation upon such objection, and he may, if he thinks fit, receive further evidence in respect thereof, and, if so required by either party, he shall state either in his certificate of taxation or allocatur, or by reference to such objection, the grounds and reasons of his decision thereon, and any special facts or circumstances relating thereto.

Allowance of Costs by Judge.

O. LIII. r. 7.

How order for particular costs to be made and obtained.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 119.

7. The order of the judge required for the allowance of any of the following items in the scales, viz., items 3, 31, 70, 86, 91, 92, 93, 94, and 95, or for the allowance of any particular costs under any of the County Court Rules, shall be a special order made upon consideration of the facts of the particular case, and not a general order; and the application for such allowance shall be made at or immediately after the trial or hearing; and if not so made shall not afterwards be entertained, unless the judge for good cause otherwise orders, or unless the judge is satisfied that the omission to make the application in due time was due to mistake or inadvertence, in which case he may, on such terms as he may think fit, entertain an application at a later date.

Morley v. Bevington, (1905) 93 L. T. 768, is no longer law since the addition of the last paragraph of this rule.

Allowance of special items in certain cases.

8.—(1) The judge may, in his discretion, in any action or matter, order that any of the following items mentioned in the scale of costs shall be allowed to the party in whose favour the order is made, in addition to or in substitution for, as the case may be, the costs to which he would otherwise be entitled, viz., items 31, 70, 86, and 93.

Allowance of additional costs in certain cases.

(2) Where costs are taxed under column C., the fees allowable under items 28 and 70 to 73 may, in cases in which there is a real contest, or the judge certifies under section one hundred and nineteen of the Act, be increased, at the discretion of the registrar, subject to review by the judge, or by special order of the judge, to any sums not exceeding the following, that is to say:

Items 28 and 70 may be increased to 5*l.* 5*s.*;
Items 71 to 73 may be increased to 3*l.* 3*s.*

(3) Where costs are taxed under column C., the following further allowances may be made in cases in which there is a real contest, or the judge certifies under section one hundred and nineteen of the Act, viz.:—

(a) reasonable fees may be allowed to counsel in excess of those mentioned in items 85 to 94 in respect of the matters referred to in such items;

(b) where more counsel than one are retained, and the judge, on consideration of the facts of the case, certifies for the allowance of fees to more counsel than one, reasonable fees may be allowed to such additional counsel, and for consultations, and to solicitors for additional briefs and attendances on counsel with the same, and for appointing and attending consultations;

O. LIII. r. 8.

(c) reasonable fees may also be allowed for plans, charts, or models in excess of those mentioned in item 95; and also reasonable additional allowances to expert and scientific witnesses for qualifying to give evidence and attending the court on the trial;

at the discretion, in each case mentioned in this paragraph, of the registrar, subject to review by the judge, or by special order of the judge.

Costs of proceedings not allowed for in scales.

(4) Where proceedings are taken for which no provision is made by the rules or scales of costs, and costs are taxed under column B. or column C., reasonable costs may be allowed in respect of such proceedings by the registrar, subject to review by the judge, or by special order of the judge, not exceeding those which may under the scales or these rules be allowed in respect of proceedings of a like nature.

Special Orders as to Costs.]—The judge's general order for costs although enough to entitle a party to the allowance by the registrar of most of the items in the scales applicable to the particular case is insufficient for all. There are many items in the scales, as well as allowances governed by rules, which cannot be allowed or given by the registrar without the special order of the judge; and in order to obtain the same, the party interested must make his application at or immediately after the trial or hearing; if not so made, it cannot afterwards be entertained, unless the judge for good cause orders otherwise, or unless he is satisfied that the omission to apply in due time was due to mistake or inadvertence, in which case he may entertain on terms an application at a later date. These cases are as follows:—Item 3. The allowance for drawing a petition is not to exceed a certain sum without a special order. Items 91, 92, and 94, for fees to counsel, cannot be allowed without a special order. Item 95, for preparation of plans, etc., cannot be allowed without a special order.

Special Order for Extra Costs.]—Provision is also made in the rules and scales for the allowance of extra costs in certain cases by order of the judge. In cases in which the amount recovered exceeds 2*l*., but does not exceed 10*l*., the judge may, by special order, increase the ordinary allowance to a solicitor for preparing and for attending the trial to 1*l*. (Regulation 7).

In actions under sect. 64 of the Act (where jurisdiction is conferred by agreement), under the Employers' Liability Act, the Rivers Pollution Prevention Acts, 1876 and 1893, actions or matters remitted from the High Court, or commenced in the county court under the admiralty or equity jurisdiction, actions of ejectment, or in which title to land or incorporeal hereditaments comes in question, the judge may, by special order, order that any of the following items of costs shall be allowed in addition to, or in substitution for, those to which the party would be otherwise entitled, viz.: Item 31, being an additional allowance for preparation of minutes of fact or argument when a solicitor conducts a cause without counsel. Item 70, a special allowance for the conduct of a cause without counsel instead of the ordinary allowance. Item 86, a special additional allowance for counsel's fees where there is no local bar in or within twenty miles of the court town; but not applicable to any court within a radius of twenty-five miles from Charing Cross. Item 93, a fee to counsel for settling petition, particulars, statement of defence, interrogatories or other matters required in the course of the action or matter.

The items mentioned in the last paragraph, viz. items 31, 70, 86, and 93, may also be allowed in actions brought under the extended jurisdiction conferred by the Act of 1903. See Order XXIIa. r. 28.

The power of the judge to allow special items of costs under Order LIII. rr. 7, 8, extends to arbitration proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, it being provided by Rule 61 (1) of the Workmen's Compensation Rules, 1907, that "proceedings in an arbitration shall be within" those rules, and that the word "judge" is to include a committee and an arbitrator. And the special items provided for by Order LIII. r. 8 (1), i.e., items 31, 70, 86, and 93, may be allowed in actions under sect. 23 of the Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878, as amended by sect. 12 of the Locomotives Act, 1898, and in proceedings under the Money-lenders Act, 1900 (Order LIII. r. 8 (2)).

More than one Counsel.]—Where costs are taxed under column C. and there is a real contest, or the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act, the judge may certify for the allowance of fees to more counsel than one. In such cases reasonable fees may be allowed to such additional counsel, and for consultations, and to solicitors for additional briefs, and attendances on counsel with the same, and for appointing and attending consultations (Order LIII. r. 8, (3), (b), altering the decision in Bates v. Gordon Hotels, Ltd., (1913) 1 K. B. 631; 82 L. J. K. B. 441).

Special Order as to Particular Scale.]—As will be seen hereafter, under Rules 11 and 17 of Order LIII., the judge has power to determine, by special order, the scale upon which costs shall in certain cases be taxed. He has also power by Rules 38, 42, and 43 of Order LIII. to make special orders as to allowances to witnesses.

Apart from the rules, the judge has, in all cases whatsoever, power to award costs to the plaintiff on any higher scale than would otherwise apply, on any amount recovered, however small, or to a defendant who successfully defends an action brought for any amount, however small, provided the judge certify in writing that the action involved some novel or difficult point of law, or that the question litigated was of importance to some class or body of persons or of general or public interest (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 119). The application must be made at or immediately after the trial, unless otherwise ordered by the judge for good cause or because he is satisfied that the omission to apply was due to mistake or inadvertence. Where the plaintiff accepts money paid into court in satisfaction of his claim, or gives notice of discontinuance, or the action is struck out for default of appearance by the plaintiff, or the defendant admits the claim or consents to judgment, an application for a certificate under sect. 119 may be made on notice in writing in accordance with the rules as to interlocutory applications; the notice must state the grounds of the application. Where a judge so certifies, the certificate must be entered at the end of the minutes of the court of the day on which it is given and must be signed by the judge; but the entry and signature may be made on a day subsequent to that on which the order for costs is made (Badcock v. Hunt, (1889) 38 W. R. 255).

The order for costs on a higher scale will be inoperative unless the judge certifies in the mode above specified. Mere entry of the order on the minutes will not suffice (Howard v. Graves, (1885) 52 L. T. 858). It is an insufficient ground for the grant of a certificate that one of the parties has committed perjury in the cause, or been accused of so doing (R. v. City of Lon. Ct. (2), (1886) 18 Q. B. D. 105; 56 L. J. Q. B. 79).

When the demand is unliquidated and the plaintiff recovers less than the amount claimed, the judge may order that the costs shall be taxed on the scale applicable to the amount claimed, or on any intermediate scale (Order LIII. r. 17).

In actions where a perpetual injunction is claimed, whether granted or not, actions of ejectment, actions in which title to land, etc., comes in question, actions in which title incidentally comes in question and the parties consent to the decision of the claim by the judge, and actions of replevin, the judge may order the costs to be taxed under columns A, B, or C, and if he make no order, they must be taxed under column B (Order LIII. r. 11). But where an injunction was claimed and the plaintiff had an alternative but inconsistent claim, and succeeded on the latter to the extent of four guineas damages but failed as to the injunction, it was held that the judge could not order the costs to be taxed on scale B, but that they must be taxed on the lower scale (Clinton v. Bennett, (1908) 1 K. B. 109; 77 L. J. K. B. 52). See however Dixon v. Brown, ante, p. 126.

In the above cases and in all cases where the allowance of costs, or of particular items of costs, is left in the discretion of the judge, each case should receive particular consideration (Order LIII. r. 7). No general rule laid down by the judge is of any validity, and merely to act in obedience to such a rule is not an exercise of discretion (R. v. Marylebone C. C., (1890) 34 S. J. 459; The Cashmere, (1890) 15 P. D. 121; 59 L. J., P. 57).

Scale of Costs applicable.]—In the absence of a special order by the judge, when the costs of a plaintiff are being taxed, the scale to be allowed depends on the amount recovered by him; and the costs of a defendant upon the amount claimed by the plaintiff (Order LIII. r. 18). It will be seen from the scales, that they are divided into lower and higher scales, and that the higher scale is subdivided in columns A, B, and C. The lower scale applies in the manner therein mentioned to cases where the amount recovered exceeds 2*l.*, but does not exceed 10*l.* The higher scale applies when the subject-matter or the sum recovered exceeds 10*l.*: column A when it does not exceed 20*l.*; column B where it exceeds 20*l.* but does not exceed 50*l.*; column C where it exceeds 50*l.*

Jurisdiction by Consent.]—Where the parties give jurisdiction under sect. 64 of the County Courts Act, 1888, the costs must be taxed under column C, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order LIII. r. 14).

Counter-claims.]—The scales applicable when counter-claims are raised will be found in Order LIII. r. 16.

Recovery of Possession.]—The scales applicable to actions for recovery of possession under sects. 138 and 139 of the County Courts Act, 1888, will be found in Order LIII. r. 13.

Interpleader.]—The scales applicable in interpleader proceedings will be found in Order LIII. r. 15.

Interlocutory Orders.]—The scales applicable to orders for costs on interlocutory applications will be found in Order XII. r. 11.

Extended Jurisdiction.]—In actions under the extended jurisdiction conferred on the courts by the County Courts Act, 1903 (3 Edw. VII., c. 42), there were formerly special provisions as to costs contained in Order XXIIA. r. 27.

This special rule was repealed by the Rules of 1914, and in its place Order XXIIA. r. 28, provides generally that "the costs of actions brought under the extended jurisdiction conferred by the County Courts Act, 1903, shall be allowed and taxed according to the rules and scales of costs for the time being in force in the county courts, and applicable to the subject-matter of such actions." They are thus governed generally by Order LIII. For special allowances see Part II., "Costs."

General Principles.]—The registrar, in making allowances which are discretionary, must exercise care and act in accordance with the directions in the scales and rules. He must take into consideration other fees and allowances to solicitors and counsel, if any, in respect of the work to which an allowance applies, the nature and importance of the action or matter, the amount involved, the interest of the parties, the fund or persons to bear the cost, the general conduct and costs of the proceedings, and all other circumstances (Order LIII. rr. 21, 23).

Thus the insolvency of an estate is one of "the other circumstances" which the registrar upon the taxation of an administrator's bill in an administration action is entitled to take into consideration (Pain v. Bowden, (1896) 2 Q. B. 301; 65 L. J. Q. B. 530).

No costs will be allowed as between party and party which do not appear to have been necessary or proper for the attainment of justice, or defending the rights of the party, or which appear to have been incurred through over caution, negligence, or mistake, or merely at the desire of the party (Order LIII. r. 22). In particular, where a solicitor is employed who does not reside or carry on business in or near the district of the court, no costs for his locomotion or maintenance will be allowed unless the court is satisfied that there was reasonable cause for employing him (Order LIII. r. 22).

Where there is no trial, costs of discovery or of interrogatories will be allowed only if the registrar thinks that they were reasonably asked for (Order XVI. r. 22). If, in any case whatsoever, in his opinion interrogatories were exhibited unreasonably, vexatiously, or at improper length, the costs of them and the answers must be paid by the party in fault (Order XVI. r. 4).

Joint Defendants.]—Where there is more than one defendant, and judgment is given against each separately, with costs, the costs must be divided in proportion to the amount of each judgment, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order LIII. r. 24).

Trustees, etc.]—If a party suing or sued in a fiduciary or representative character incurs costs not allowed under any scale, the registrar must apply to the judge, who may allow a sum out of any funds in court applicable for the purpose (Order LIII. r. 29).

Costs out of Estate.]—Costs occasioned by an unsuccessful claim or unsuccessful resistance to a claim to any property are not to be paid out of the estate, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order LIII. r. 30).

Particular Shares.]—Costs of inquiries to ascertain the persons entitled to any legacy, money, or share, or otherwise incurred in relation thereto, are to be paid out of the legacy, money, or share, unless otherwise directed by the judge (Order LIII. r. 31). Distribution may be made to those persons whose title has been ascertained without reserving any part of their shares to answer the subsequent costs of ascertaining the persons entitled to the other shares (Order LIII. r. 32).

Unnecessary Matter.]—Costs of improper, vexatious, or unnecessary matter in any affidavit, evidence, notice or other proceeding, may be disallowed by the judge at the hearing or upon any application or proceeding, or the judge may refer the matter to the registrar with a direction to disallow such costs; and the party whose costs are so disallowed must pay the costs occasioned thereby to the other parties. If the question has not been raised before and dealt with by the judge, it is the registrar's duty to look into it and to make the disallowance without any special direction (Order LIII. r. 33).

Set-off of Costs.]—Whenever a party entitled to receive costs is liable to pay costs to any other party, the registrar upon taxation of the latter costs may adjust them by way of deduction or set-off, or he may delay the allowance of such costs until the party has paid or tendered the costs he is liable to pay, or he may allow or certify the costs to be paid and direct payment thereof, and they may then be recovered in the same manner as costs ordered to be paid may be recovered (Order LIII. r. 34). It has been held in the High Court that the provisions of R. S. C., Order LXV. r. 27, sub-r. 21, which is identical in its terms with Order LIII. r. 34, of the County Court Rules, are confined to cases in which the judgments for costs sought to be set off against each other are in the same action or proceeding, and do not extend to cases in which the judgments for costs are in distinct and independent litigations (David v. Rees, (1904) 2 K. B. 435; 73 L. J. K. B. 729; but see now Reid v. Cupper, (1915) 2 K. B. 147; 84 L. J. K. B. 573), and Puddephatt v. Leith, (1916) 2 Ch. 168; 85 L. J. Ch. 543, which cases establish that the court has discretion to set-off costs between the same parties though arising in different actions, and that if such a set-off between the parties is otherwise fair and equitable it should not be refused owing to the existence of a solicitor's lien for costs.

Where a bill of costs is payable out of a fund or estate (real or personal), or out of the assets of a company in liquidation and on taxation the amount of professional charges and disbursements is reduced by a sixth, no costs of drawing or copying it, nor of attending the taxation will be allowed to the solicitor leaving it for taxation (Order LIII. r. 35).

Costs out of Fund.]—Where a bill of costs is ordered to be taxed for the purpose of being paid or raised out of a fund or property, the court may require the solicitor to deliver free of charge to all or any of his clients a copy of the bill or any part of it previously to completion of the taxation, and the taxation may be suspended for a reasonable time (Order LIII. r. 36).

Court Fees.]—The costs which a successful plaintiff incurs necessarily include court fees, which are always in the first instance payable by the party on whose behalf any proceeding is taken, except in interpleaders, or where fees are payable in respect of keeping possession, appraising, or selling goods seized (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 166). In all cases in which costs abide the event (i.e., in default of an order by the judge), or where the judge makes an order for costs generally, a successful plaintiff will be entitled to recover from the defendant, as part of his costs, the court fees which he has paid, subject, however, to this proviso, that if the plaintiff or defendant recovers less than the amount of his claim or counterclaim, so as to reduce the amount of court fees recoverable by him, he will have to pay the difference himself (Order LIII. r. 19).

Allowance to Witnesses.]—When costs are awarded, in the absence of express order by the judge, they include the costs of witnesses. And in the absence of such order, the registrar, on taxation, may, in his discretion, allow the costs of witnesses who have not been summoned, or who have been summoned but not examined. The allowance for attendance must not exceed the highest rate of the allowances mentioned in the scales (Order LIII. rr. 37, 41).

Travelling Expenses.]—There may be also allowed to all witnesses, including plaintiffs and defendants, if personally attending the court, for travelling expenses, the sum actually and reasonably paid by them (Order LIII. r. 39).

Plaintiffs.]—A plaintiff is not entitled, as a rule, to an allowance, except for travelling expenses under the above rule, unless he is a domestic or menial servant, a servant in husbandry, a journeyman, an artificer, a handicraftsman, a miner, or any person engaged in manual labour; but the judge may otherwise order in any case (Order LIII. r. 36).

Attendance in several Causes.]—If witnesses attend in more than one action or matter their allowances must not exceed one allowance, and it must be apportioned between the actions or matters (Order LIII. r. 40).

Seamen.]—Seamen necessarily detained on shore for the purpose of an action or matter will be allowed such remuneration as the judge may order, or in the absence of an order, as the registrar may think reasonable compensation for their loss of time (Order LIII. r. 42).

Scientific Witnesses.]—The judge may, in any action or matter in which a party is entitled, as of right, or by order of the judge, to tax his costs under columns B or C, order that any expert or scientific witness may be allowed for qualifying and for their attendance at the trial, sums (in addition to travelling expenses to attend the trial) as the registrar on taxation may think fit, not exceeding the maximum allowances mentioned in the scale of allowances to "expert and scientific witnesses." He may in the same case also order the allowance of the costs of preparing and proving plans, drawings and models, etc. (Order LIII. rr. 7, 43).

Where the judge makes the orders mentioned in the last paragraph, the registrar may allow such sums as he may think reasonable for qualification and attendance (in addition to travelling expenses), so long as the same do not exceed the maximum allowances in the scale (Order LIII. r. 43). He may also allow for preparation of plans, etc., and tracings and copies, the sum reasonably paid, but not exceeding the sums mentioned in item 95 of the scale of costs. He may also allow for the attendance of persons who have prepared the plans, etc., and who are called merely to prove them, an allowance on the scale applicable to ordinary witnesses (Order LIII. r. 44).

Counsel's Fees.]—The fees which may be allowed will be ascertained on reference to the scales, items 85 to 94. The special certificate or order of the judge is required for the allowance to counsel of a fee which may not exceed 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* in actions or matters in which the amount recovered exceeds 2*l.*, but does not exceed 10*l.* (Regulation 8). So certificates are required for the allowance under item 91 of the higher scale for brief on interlocutory motions or applications; under item 92 for brief on reference, or on an inquiry before the registrar; under item 94 for advising on evidence.

In actions under sect. 64 of the Act (jurisdiction conferred by agreement), the Employers' Liability Act, actions or matters remitted from the High Court, proceedings commenced under the admiralty or equity jurisdiction of the court, actions of ejectment or in which title to land comes in question, the judge may by special order allow, but once only in the same case (Atkinson v. Mayor of Carlisle, (1896) 1 Q. B. 393; 65 L. J. Q. B. 331; and see now item 86), under item 86 a special additional fee to counsel if there is no local bar in the court town or within twenty miles, if the judge thinks that the ordinary fee under item 85 is insufficient. This item is, however, inapplicable to any court within a radius of twenty-five miles from Charing Cross. In the actions or matters above mentioned, under item 93, the judge may by special order allow a fee to counsel for settling petition, particulars, statement of defence, interrogatories or other matters required in the course of any action or matter (Order LIII. rr. 7, 8).

Special allowances to counsel may also be made in proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906 (W. C. Rule 61), under sect. 23 of the Highways and Locomotives Act, 1878, as amended by sect. 12 of the Locomotives Act, 1898 (Order LIII. r. 8 (2)), the Money-lenders Act, 1900 (Order LIII. r. 8 (2)), under the extended jurisdiction conferred by the County Courts Act, 1903 (Order XXIIA. r. 27), and the Rivers Pollution Prevention Acts, 1876 and 1893 (Order LIII. r. 45).

Conference.]—A fee for conference is allowable in the registrar's discretion, but only if it was marked on the brief when delivered (see item 87).

Signature of Counsel.]—No fees will be allowed on taxation unless the payment be vouched by the signature of counsel (see direction in Scales).

Taxation of Costs.]—All costs and charges between party and party must be taxed by the registrar of the court in which they were incurred, but his taxation may be reviewed by the judge on the application of either party; and no costs or charges may be allowed on taxation which are not sanctioned by the scales (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 118; Order LIII. rr. 1, 20); though the solicitor may sue for his bill of costs after twelve months if no taxation has been applied for (Cubison v. Mayo, (1896) 1 Q. B. 246; 65 L. J. Q. B. 267), and apparently before the expiration of twelve months (Bell v. Girdlestone, (1913) 82 L. J. K. B. 696). Where the registrar is a successful defendant in an action in his own court, he must of necessity tax his own costs (Tolputt & Co. v. Mole (C. A.), (1911) 1 K. B. 836; 80 L. J. K. B. 686). Taxation of costs under this section (sect. 118) is a condition precedent to their apportionment between the parties by the judge under sect. 113; the judge cannot therefore award a lump sum for costs before taxation (Golding v. Smith, (1910) 1 K. B. 462; 79 L. J. K. B. 375). No costs can be allowed for searches for payments into court, nor for proceedings to enforce payment under a judgment or order by way of execution against goods, or by commitment under the Debtors Act, except as provided by Order XXV. rr. 53, 54 (Order LIII. r. 20).

Where practicable, costs must be taxed on the day on which the action or matter is tried or heard. Otherwise the party should deliver his bill to the registrar and apply for an appointment to tax. He must then give one day's notice of taxation to the opposite party or his solicitor: and if the registrar so directs, must serve a copy of his bill also (Order LIII. r. 2). The notice may be sent by post, if posted in time to be delivered in due course before noon of the day preceding that fixed for taxation (Order LIII. r. 3). In bills of costs to be taxed under column B or C, the professional charges must be entered in a separate column from the disbursements, and every column must be cast before the bill is left for taxation (Order LIII. r. 4).

A solicitor appearing in person as plaintiff or defendant is entitled on taxation to the same costs as if he had employed a solicitor, except in respect of items which the fact of his acting directly renders unnecessary (Order LIII. r. 25).

Where counsel is employed, but the costs of employing him are not allowed, the solicitor's costs may be allowed on the scale applicable to a solicitor appearing for his client without counsel (Order LIII. r. 26).

Taxation between Solicitor and Client.]—Costs between solicitor and client may also in the same cases, on the application either of the solicitor or client, but not otherwise (Cubison v. Mayo (C. A.), (1896) 1 Q. B. 246; 65 L. J. Q. B. 267), be taxed by the registrar of the court in which they were incurred, but his taxation may be reviewed by the judge on the application of either party. They are to be taxed on the scale then in force in the county courts, in accordance with sect. 118 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (Tory v. Dorchester Corporation, (1907) 1 K. B. 393; 76 L. J. K. B. 273). Costs may not be allowed which are not sanctioned by the scale, unless the registrar is satisfied that the client has agreed in writing to pay them; and no solicitor can recover from his client any such costs unless they have been allowed on taxation (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 118. The last words of 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 35, are not re-enacted, and it would seem that In re Worth, (1881) 18 Ch. D. 521; 50 L. J. Ch. 262, in which it was held that there was a right to tax in the High Court, is no longer law); but this provision does not apply where no taxation has been asked for and the time for taxation has expired. The application is made in writing to the registrar, and must state on whose behalf it is made; the registrar sends to the parties by post three clear days' notice at least of the day fixed for the taxation (Order LIII. r. 46 (1)(2)). Rules 5 and 6 of Order LIII. as to objections to, and review of, taxation apply. The costs of the taxation are dealt with by the registrar in accordance with the Solicitors Act, 1843, and are added to or deducted from the amount certified to be due (Order LIII. r. 46 (4)).

If an action is commenced in the High Court, and is afterwards by order sent to the county court under sect. 65 of the County Courts Act, 1888, and if after the order, the plaintiff changes his solicitor before he has acted in the county court, the solicitor may sue for his costs without first obtaining a taxation pursuant to this section (Boydell v. Millar, (1891) 60 L. J. Q. B. 251; approved C. A. in Cubison v. Mayo, supra).

A solicitor retained to bring or defend an action cannot recover any costs incurred after retainer which are not allowed by the scales (Ex parte Lamond, (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 242; 57 L. J. Q. B. 503); but this is not the case if the client is plaintiff, and he represents to the solicitor that a debt of a certain amount is due to him and a less sum is recovered. The registrar may then, in his discretion, tax on the scale applicable to the claim (Re Langlois (C. A.), (1891) 1 Q. B. 349; 60 L. J. Q. B. 123).

The provisions above referred to have no application to actions in the High Court (Re Copp (C. A.), (1881) 6 Q. B. D. 607; 50 L. J. Q. B. 233).

O. LIII. r. 8. Notes.

Reviewing the Taxation.]—The taxation may be reviewed by the judge on the application of either party (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 118). Where the judge makes a mistake of law in reviewing or refusing to review a taxation of costs, there is now a right of appeal from the judge to the High Court in those actions or matters in which for error of law there is a right of appeal (Carr v. Stringer, (1858) E. B. & E. 123; 113 R. R. 570, is overruled by the Act of 1888). But there is no appeal if the matter complained of is the wrongful exercise of his discretion, nor can the High Court, by order in the nature of a mandamus, compel the judge to review, if he hears the application and refuses to review (Clifton v. Furley, (1861) 7 H. & N. 783; 31 L. J. Ex. 170; 126 R. R. 703).

Procedure before Registrar.]—Any party dissatisfied with the allowance or disallowance by the registrar on taxation, in any bill of costs taxed by him, of the whole or any part of any items, may, at any time before the certificate or allocatur is signed, deliver to the other party interested therein, and carry in before the registrar on taxation, an objection in writing to such allowance or disallowance, specifying therein by a list, in a short and concise form, the items, or parts thereof objected to, and the grounds and reasons for such objection, and may thereupon apply to the registrar to review the taxation in respect of the same (Order LIII. r. 5).

In practice the registrar signs the bill of costs after taxation, and it then serves as a certificate or allocatur. If no objection were taken before signature, the right to review would thus apparently be lost. A party dissatisfied should, therefore, at once indicate the items, and request the registrar not to sign the bill of costs until he has had time to consider the propriety of the allowances or disallowances; and it is believed that the registrar could not by refusing prevent the party from exercising his right to review.

After delivering objections the applicant will be entitled to an appointment to review. The registrar will then reconsider and review his taxation upon such objections, and he may, if he think fit, receive further evidence in respect thereof, and, if so required by either party, he must state either in his certificate of taxation or allocatur, or by reference to such objections, the grounds and reasons of his decision thereon, and any special facts or circumstances relating thereto (Order LIII. r. 6).

On Appeal to Judge.]—The application to the judge to review a taxation is made on notice in writing in accordance with the rules for the time being in force as to interlocutory applications, as to which see Order XII. r. 11; it will be heard and determined upon the evidence before the registrar, and no further evidence can be received, unless the judge otherwise directs (Order LIII. r. 47). The application should be prompt.

The right of appeal to the judge is expressly conferred by statute (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 118), and so long as the dissatisfied party uses due diligence, and does not neglect the prescribed regulations, it is submitted that the registrar cannot lawfully prevent his prosecuting his appeal by issuing a warrant of execution to the high bailiff. In places where the court sits only one day in a month, this might involve a stay of execution for several days. Still, the objecting party would be entitled to it, though it is not improbable that the registrar would be held to have jurisdiction to order the amount to be paid into court to abide the event of the appeal. If he made no such order as this, but persisted in disregarding the objections to his taxation and issued his warrant of execution, a prohibition would, if applied for immediately, probably lie to him, the high bailiff, and the person on whose behalf execution was to be levied, but the court would hardly grant it, if satisfied that the taxation was just.

Judge's certificate for costs. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 119.

9.—(1) An application for a certificate under section one hundred and nineteen of the Act shall be made at or immediately

O. LIII. r. 9. after the trial or hearing; and Rule 7 of this Order shall apply to any such application.

(2) Where the plaintiff accepts money paid into court in satisfaction of his claim, or where the plaintiff gives notice of discontinuance, or an action is struck out on default of appearance by the plaintiff, or the defendant admits the claim or consents to judgment, an application for a certificate under section one hundred and nineteen of the Act may be made on notice in writing in accordance with the rules as to interlocutory applications, and shall state the grounds on which the application is made.

(3) Where the judge certifies under the said section and this rule the certificate shall be entered at the end of the minutes of the court of the day on which it is given, and shall be signed by the judge.

The entry and signature may be made on a day subsequent to that on which the order for costs is made (Badcock v. Hunt, (1889) 38 W. R. 255).

The order for costs on a higher scale will be inoperative unless the judge certifies in the mode above specified. Mere entry of the order on the minutes will not suffice (Howard v. Graves, (1885) 52 L. T. 858).

It is an insufficient ground for the grant of a certificate that one of the parties has committed perjury in the cause, or been accused of so doing (R. v. City of London Court (2), (1886) 18 Q. B. D. 105; 56 L. J. Q. B. 79).

Solicitor's costs where counsel allowed before arbitrator, etc., item 92.

10. Where the judge certifies for counsel under item 92, there may be allowed to the solicitor instructing such counsel, in addition to items 80 and 81, such items as may be allowed where the judge certifies for counsel on any interlocutory motion or application.

As to Scale.

In special actions.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 59—61, 133.

11. In actions in which a perpetual injunction is claimed, whether the same is granted or not, and in actions under sections fifty-nine, sixty, sixty-one, and one hundred and thirty-three of the Act, the judge may order the costs to be taxed under column A, B, or C, and in default of any such order they shall be taxed under column B.

By claiming an injunction the plaintiff will risk having to pay, if defeated, costs on the highest scale. In any event, in the absence of special directions, on scale B.

Costs in equitable proceedings where subject-matter does not exceed 20*l.*

12. In proceedings under sections sixty-seven and seventy of the Act, or under the Settled Land Acts, 1882 to 1890, or in any other proceedings under the equitable jurisdiction of the court, where the subject-matter does not exceed 20*l.*, the judge may order the costs to be taxed under column B.

Actions for recovery of possession.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 138, 139.

13. The costs in actions under sections one hundred and thirty-eight and one hundred and thirty-nine of the Act shall be taxed, in the case of a plaintiff, on the scale applicable to the rent or value of the premises upon which the court fees are assessed, plus the amount of any rent and mesne profits recovered; and in the case of a defendant on that applicable to the said rent or value, plus the amount of the rent and mesne profits claimed. O. LIII. r. 13.

14. Costs in actions under section sixty-four of the Act shall be taxed under column C, unless the judge otherwise orders. Jurisdiction by consent. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 64.

15. The "subject matter" in an interpleader proceeding shall mean (1) in the case of a claimant the amount of the value of the goods his claim to which is allowed (a), plus the amount of the damage (if any) adjudged, (2) in the case of an execution creditor the amount of the value of the goods seized, plus the amount of the damages (if any) claimed, and (3) in the case of a high bailiff the amount of the damages claimed. Interpleader proceedings.

NOTE.—(a) Not necessarily the sum of money which may have been ordered to be paid into Court as representing the goods (Tarry v. Witt (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 950).

The value of the goods is the value as found by the judge, not the amount of deposit made to avoid a sale (Studham v. Stanbridge, (1895) 1 Q. B. 870; 64 L. J. Q. B. 473).

16. Where a counter-claim is raised and tried, the scale upon which the costs of the parties are to be taxed shall, unless the judge otherwise orders, be determined as follows:— Costs where counter-claim raised and tried.

(1) If the plaintiff is successful on both claim and counter-claim, by the amount which he recovers on his claim, unless the amount of the defendant's claim is the larger, in which case the costs incurred subsequently to the delivery of the counter-claim shall be determined by the amount of such counter-claim.

(2) If the defendant is successful on both claim and counter-claim, by the amount which he recovers on his counter-claim, or the amount of the plaintiff's claim, whichever may be the larger.

(3) If both parties are successful, by the amounts which they recover on their respective claims; and if both claims fail, by the amount claimed by the opposite party.

(4) Provided, that in cases falling within paragraph (1) or paragraph (2) of this rule, if the subject-matter of the counter-claim is entirely unconnected with that of the claim, items of costs, fees to counsel, and allowances to witnesses reasonably incurred or paid in respect of the counter-claim or claim (as the case may be) in addition to those incurred or paid in respect of the claim or counter-claim, may be allowed by the judge, or where no special directions as to costs are given by the judge, at the discretion of the registrar, subject to review by the judge. Where subject-matter of counter-claim is distinct from that of claim.

O. LIII. r. 17.

Where plaintiff recovers less than claim.

17. Where the demand is unliquidated, and the plaintiff recovers less than the amount claimed, the judge may, if he thinks fit, order that his costs be taxed on the scale applicable to the amount claimed, or any intermediate scale, and that the court fees recoverable by the plaintiff shall be calculated on the amount claimed or on any smaller amount.

Defendant's costs.

18. Where the costs of a defendant are being taxed, the word "recovered," wherever it occurs in the scale, shall be deemed to be "claimed."

Taxation of costs ordered to be paid by or to third party.

18A. Where an order is made for payment of costs by or to a third party, any costs, fees to counsel and allowances to witnesses reasonably incurred or paid in addition to the costs of the original action by reason of such third party having been brought in, in respect of the trial of the question of the liability of the third party, or in preparing for such trial, may be allowed, and such costs shall be taxed as if the third party were a defendant, and the party to or by whom such costs are ordered to be paid were a plaintiff, and as if the notice to the third party were a summons with particulars annexed.

Fees where party recovers less than he claims.

19. Subject to the provisions of Rule 17 of this Order, where the plaintiff or defendant recovers less than the amount of his claim or counter-claim, so as to reduce the amount of court fees recoverable by him, he shall pay the difference.

General Directions.

No costs allowed if not sanctioned by scales.

20. Costs not sanctioned by the scale are not to be allowed, except in cases expressly provided for by these rules, and costs are not to be allowed as between the parties to an action in respect of searching for payments into court nor in respect of any proceedings to enforce payment of a judgment or order by way of execution against the goods or commitment under the Debtors Act, 1869, save as provided in Order XXV. Rules 53 and 54.

Discretion of registrars.

21. When under the scales or rules a discretion as to the allowances to be made is vested in registrars, they are required to exercise such discretion with care and discrimination, and strictly in accordance with the particular directions set forth in the scales and rules.

When costs unnecessarily incurred.

22. No costs which are to be paid or borne by another party shall be allowed which do not appear to the registrar on taxation to have been necessary or proper for the attainment of justice or for defending the rights of the party incurring the same, or which appear to such registrar to have been incurred through over-caution, negligence, or mistake, or merely at the desire of such party. O. LIII. r. 22.

In particular, where a party employs a solicitor who does not reside or carry on business in or near the district of the court, no costs for locomotion or maintenance of such solicitor shall be allowed unless the court is satisfied that there was reasonable cause for employing such solicitor. Where solicitor from a distance employed.

23. All fees or allowances which are discretionary shall, unless otherwise provided, be allowed at the discretion of the registrar on taxation, who, in the exercise of such discretion, shall take into consideration the other fees and allowances to the solicitor and counsel, if any, in respect of the work to which any such allowance applies, the nature and importance of the action or matter, the amount involved, the interest of the parties, the fund or persons to bear the costs, the general conduct and costs of the proceedings, and all other circumstances. Discretionary fees and allowances.

The insolvency of an estate is one of the "other circumstances" which the registrar, upon the taxation of an administrator's bill in an administration action, is entitled to take into consideration (Pain v. Bowden, (1896) 2 Q. B. 301; 65 L. J. Q. B. 530).

24. Where two or more defendants are joined and judgment is given separately against each with costs, the costs shall, unless the judge otherwise orders, be apportioned according to the respective amounts of each judgment. Where separate judgments against defendants.

25. Where a solicitor who is a plaintiff or defendant appears in person and is allowed costs he shall be entitled on taxation to the same costs as if he had employed a solicitor, except in respect of items which the fact of his acting directly renders unnecessary. Costs of solicitor appearing in person as plaintiff or defendant.

(See London Scottish Benefit Society v. Chorley (1884), 12 Q. B. D. 452; 53 L. J. Q. B. 272; 13 Q. B. D. 872; 53 L. J. Q. B. 551.)

26. Where a party appearing by counsel is allowed costs, but the costs of employing counsel are not allowed, the costs of the solicitor instructing counsel may be allowed on the scale which would have been applicable if the solicitor had appeared for his client without counsel. Costs of solicitor where counsel employed but not allowed.

27. A folio shall comprise seventy-two words, every figure comprised in a column or authorised to be used counting as one word. Folio.

28. When any real property is directed to be sold, the ordinary conveyancing charges shall be allowed. Sale of real property.

29. Where in the course of an action or matter a party suing or sued in a fiduciary or representative character necessarily incurs costs not allowable upon taxation under any scale, the registrar shall apply to the judge, who may, by an order to be filed with Costs of person in fiduciary, etc., position.

O. LIII. r. 29. the proceedings, allow such a sum as he may think fit for such costs to be paid out of any funds in court applicable to the purpose.

Costs out of estate.

30. The costs occasioned by any unsuccessful claim or unsuccessful resistance to any claim to any property shall not be paid out of the estate unless the judge otherwise directs. (R. S. C., Order LXV. r. 14A.)

Costs as regards particular shares.

31. The costs of inquiries to ascertain the persons entitled to any legacy, money, or share, or otherwise incurred in relation thereto, shall be paid out of such legacy, money, or share, unless the judge otherwise directs. (R. S. C., Order LXV. r. 14B.)

Distribution not to be delayed by difficulties as to some shares.

32. Where some of the persons entitled to a distributive share of a fund are ascertained, and difficulty or delay has occurred or is likely to occur in ascertaining the persons entitled to the other shares, the judge may order or allow immediate payment of their shares to the persons ascertained without reserving any part of those shares to answer the subsequent costs of ascertaining the persons entitled to the other shares; and in all such cases such order may be made for ascertaining and payment of the costs incurred down to and including such payment as the judge may think reasonable. (R. S. C., Order LXV. r. 14C.)

Disallowance of costs of improper, vexatious, or unnecessary matter in documents or proceedings.

33. The judge may, at the hearing of any action or matter, or upon any application or proceeding in any action or matter, and whether the same is objected to or not, direct the costs of any affidavit, evidence, notice, or other proceeding, or any part thereof, which is improper, vexatious, unnecessary, or contains vexatious or unnecessary matter, or is of unnecessary length, or is caused by misconduct or negligence, to be disallowed, or may direct the registrar to look into the same and to disallow the costs thereof, or of such part thereof as he shall find to be improper, unnecessary, or vexatious, or to contain unnecessary matter, or to be of unnecessary length, or to have been caused by misconduct or negligence; and in such case the party whose costs are so disallowed shall pay the costs occasioned thereby to the other parties; and in any case where such question has not been raised before and dealt with by the judge, it shall be the duty of the registrar to look into the same for the purpose aforesaid, and thereupon the same consequences shall ensue as if he had been specially directed to do so. (R. S. C., Order LXV. r. 27 (20).)

Set-off of costs.

34. In any case in which, under the last preceding rule, or any other rule, or by the order or direction of the judge, or otherwise, a party entitled to receive costs is liable to pay costs to any other party, the registrar may tax the costs such party is so liable to pay, and may adjust the same by way of deduction or set-off, or may, if he thinks fit, delay the allowance of the costs such party is entitled to receive until he has paid or tendered the costs he is liable to pay; or such registrar may allow or certify the costs to be paid, and direct payment thereof, and the same may be recovered by the party entitled thereto in the same manner as costs ordered to be paid may be recovered. (R. S. C., Order LXV. r. 27 (21).)

Disallowances where bill of costs payable out of a fund reduced by a sixth.

35. If on the taxation of a bill of costs payable out of a fund or estate (real or personal) or out of the assets of a company in liquidation the amount of the professional charges and disbursements contained in the bill is reduced by a sixth part, no costs shall be allowed to the solicitor leaving the bill for taxation for drawing and copying it, nor for attending the taxation.

Delivery of bill to client where costs to be paid out of a fund.

36. Where in any action or matter any bill of costs is directed to be taxed for the purpose of being paid or raised out of any fund or property, the court may, if it considers that there is a reasonable ground for so doing, require the solicitor to deliver or send to his clients, or any of them, free of charge, a copy of such bill or any part thereof, previously to the registrar completing the taxation thereof, accompanied by any statement the court may direct, and by a letter informing such client that the bill of costs has been referred to the registrar for taxation, and will be proceeded with at the time the registrar has appointed for this purpose, and the court may suspend the taxation for such time as it may consider reasonable. (R. S. C., Order LXV. r. 56.)

Witnesses.

Allowances to witnesses for attendance.

37. Subject to the following rules, allowances may be made to witnesses for their attendance at court according to the scales in Part IV. of the Appendix.

Allowances to accountants.

37A. Allowances may be made to accountants being members of any recognised society of accountants on the scale applicable to merchants and professional men, instead of on that applicable to tradesmen.

Rule 37A, supra, added by Rules of 1917, dated February 19th, 1917.

Appendix, Part IV.

Plaintiff not entitled except in certain cases.

38. Where a witness is a plaintiff in the action or matter he shall not be entitled to any allowance, except for travelling, unless he is a domestic or menial servant, a labourer, a servant in husbandry, a journeyman, an artificer, a handicraftsman, a miner, or any person engaged in manual labour, or unless the judge in any particular case otherwise orders.

O. LIII. r. 39.

Travelling expenses.

39. There may be also allowed to all witnesses, and to plaintiffs and defendants if personally attending the court, for travelling expenses, the sums actually and reasonably paid by them.

A witness can also recover from the person on whose behalf he is summoned, or from any other person by agreement, an allowance for loss of time according to the scale of allowances to witnesses on taxing costs (Chamberlain v. Stoneham, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 113; 59 L. J. Q. B. 95).

When attending in more than one case.

40. If witnesses attend in more than one action or matter they shall be allowed a proportionate part only of their allowances in each action or matter.

Costs of witnesses not summoned.

41. The costs of witnesses, whether they have been examined or not, may, unless otherwise ordered, be allowed, though they have not been summoned.

Compensation to seamen.

42. Seamen necessarily detained on shore for the purpose of an action or matter shall be allowed such remuneration as the judge may order, or, in the absence of an order, as the registrar may think reasonable compensation for their loss of time.

Allowances to expert or scientific witnesses.

43.—(1) In any action or matter in which a party is entitled as of right, or by order of the judge, to tax his costs under column B or column C, the registrar may on taxation, subject to review by the judge, allow for the attendance in court of any expert or scientific witnesses, or any member of the medical profession, such sums, not exceeding the maximum allowances mentioned in the scale for expert and scientific witnesses in the Appendix, as he may think fit, in addition to travelling expenses; and the judge may order in addition thereto that any expert or scientific witnesses, or any member of the medical profession, may be allowed for qualifying to give evidence such sums, not exceeding the maximum allowances specified in the said scale, as the registrar on taxation may think fit, subject to review by the judge; and in like cases the judge may, subject to the provisions of the next rule, order that the expense of preparing and proving plans, drawings, models, &c., may be allowed.

Allowance where costs taxed under column A.

(2) Where costs are taxed under column A, the registrar may on taxation, subject to review by the judge, allow for attendance in court, and the judge may by special order made in accordance with Rule 7 of this Order allow for qualifying to give evidence the whole or part of such sums as may be allowed for attendance in court and qualifying to give evidence respectively under the last preceding paragraph where costs are taxed under column B.

Allowances for proof and costs of plans, etc.

44. Persons who prepare plans, drawings, models, &c., for the purpose of illustration, and who if called at the trial prove the correctness of such plans, drawings, models, &c. only, shall not be entitled to allowances as expert and scientific witnesses, but shall be allowed for their attendance upon the scale applicable to ordinary witnesses; and there may be also allowed for the preparation of such plans, drawings, models, &c. and of all tracings and copies thereof, the sum reasonably paid for the same, so long as it does not exceed the sums mentioned in item 95 of the scale of costs. O. LIII. r. 44.

Rule 45 as to the "Rivers Pollution Prevention Acts, 1876 and 1893" (see Part V.), is annulled by Rule 23 of 1913 (now Rule 260 of 1914).

Taxation as between Solicitor and Client.

46.—(1) An application to the registrar under section one hundred and eighteen of the Act for the taxation of any costs and charges as between solicitor and client shall be made in writing, and shall state on whose behalf the application is made. Taxation as between solicitor and client. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 118.

(2) On receipt of such application the registrar shall fix a time and place for proceeding with such taxation, and shall give or send by post to the applicant and the other party notice in writing of the time and place so fixed three clear days at least before the day so fixed.

(3) Rules 5 and 6 of this Order shall apply to any such taxation.

(4) The costs of such taxation shall be dealt with by the registrar in accordance with the provisions of the Solicitors Act, 1843, and shall be added to or deducted from the amount certified to be due. 6 & 7 Vict. c. 73, s. 37.

If an action is commenced in the High Court, and is afterwards by order sent to the county court under sect. 65 of the County Courts Act, 1888, and if after the order the plaintiff changes his solicitor before he has acted in the county court, the solicitor may sue for his costs without first obtaining a taxation pursuant to sect. 118 (Boydell v. Millar, (1891) 60 L. J. Q. B. 251; approved by C. A. in Cubison v. Mayo, (1896) 1 Q. B. 246; 65 L. J. Q. B. 267).

A solicitor retained to bring or defend an action cannot recover any costs incurred after retainer which are not allowed by the scales (Ex parte Lamond, (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 242; 57 L. J. Q. B. 503); but this is not the case if the client is plaintiff, and he represents to the solicitor that a debt of a certain amount is due to him and a less sum is recovered. The registrar may then, in his discretion, tax on the scale applicable to the claim (In re Langlois (C. A.), (1891) 1 Q. B. 349; 60 L. J. Q. B. 123).

Review of Taxation by Judge.

47. An application to the judge to review any taxation of costs shall be made on notice in writing in accordance with the rules for the time being in force as to interlocutory applications. Such application shall be heard and determined upon the evidence which has been brought in before the registrar, and no further evidence shall be received on the hearing thereof unless the judge otherwise directs. (R. S. C., Order LXV. rr. 41, 42.) Application for review of taxation by judge.

ORDER LIV.

General Provisions.

Rule 1.

Party may act by solicitor or agent.

1. Where by these rules any act may be done by any party, such act may be done either in person or by his solicitor, or by an agent, where it can be legally done by an agent.

Where the plaintiff sues by his solicitor, the particulars must be signed by the latter in his own name or that of his firm, and he must state upon them his place of business, and where he will accept service of proceedings in the action on behalf of the plaintiff. A clerk duly authorised may sign the particulars in the name and on behalf of the solicitor. Solicitors' costs of entry of plaint will not be allowed without the order of the court if the particulars are insufficient (Order VI. r. 9). A lithographed signature will not suffice (R. v. Cowper (C. A.), (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 533; 59 L. J. Q. B. 265).

Service of notices, etc., where no mode of service prescribed.

2. Any notice, proceeding, or document required by these rules to be served on any party, and as to which no mode of service is prescribed by these rules, may be so served by delivering the same to the person on whom it is to be served, or by delivering the same at the residence or place of business of such person, or by sending the same by post addressed to such person at his last-known residence or place of business; and any such notice, proceeding, or document, if served by post, shall, unless the contrary be proved, be deemed to have been served at the time when the letter containing the same would have been delivered in the ordinary course of post, and in proving the service of such notice, proceeding, or document, it shall be sufficient to prove that the same was properly addressed and posted: Provided that for the purposes of this rule a place of business shall not be deemed to be the place of business of the person to be served unless he is the master or one of the masters thereof.

Service by or upon solicitor acting for party.

3. Where a party acts by a solicitor, any document, notice, or proceeding required to be served by or upon such party may be served by or upon such solicitor, except in cases where by these rules personal service upon a party is required; and any notices or orders required by these rules to be sent by the registrar or high bailiff to such party may be sent to his solicitor; and service of any such document, notice, or proceeding upon such solicitor, or delivery of the same at his office, or sending the same to him by post prepaid, shall be deemed to be good service upon the party for whom such solicitor acts, as upon the day when the same is so served or delivered, or upon which in the ordinary course of post it would be delivered. Provided that the provisions of this rule shall not extend to any default or judgment summons, nor, except as provided by Order VII. Rule 12, to any ordinary summons. O. LIV. r. 3.

Where an action is sent from the High Court to the county court, service may be made on the solicitor who acts in the county court, not on his London agent (Malley v. Shepley, (1893) 62 L. J. Q. B. 31).

Service of a notice of appeal on the solicitor of a party who acts by solicitor suffices, but service on the London agent of a country solicitor does not (Powell v. Thomas, (1891) 1 Q. B. 97; Jackson v. Margrett, (1893) 41 W. R. 267; 68 L. T. 91).

Solicitor may give notice that he is acting.

Service by or on such solicitor.

4. A solicitor acting for a party in any action or matter may give notice in writing by post or otherwise to the registrar and to the other party, or his solicitor, that he is so acting, whereupon service of any document, notice, or proceeding whatsoever authorised by these rules to be served by or upon a solicitor so acting shall be served by or upon such solicitor accordingly, and he shall be deemed to be the solicitor acting for the party on whose behalf he has given such notice, until notice of change of solicitor has been duly given. Provided that where the plaint is entered by a solicitor acting for the plaintiff, and the particulars have been duly signed by him or on his behalf as provided by Order VI. Rule 9, or where a notice of defence, set off, or counterclaim is signed by or on behalf of a solicitor acting for a defendant, no further notice need be given under this rule.

In the cases included in the proviso, the solicitor need not give notice under this rule that he is acting for the party.

Practice on service by solicitor.

5. Where a solicitor undertakes the service of any process, he shall make the necessary copies of each process, and the registrar shall seal the same and return them to the solicitor for service.

Service not to be effected by person under sixteen years of age.

5A. Service of process shall not be effected by a person under the age of sixteen years, and an affidavit of service shall state that the person serving the process is over that age.

Change of solicitor.

Notice. Form 352.

6.—(1) Subject to the provisions of section seventy-two of the Act prohibiting the retainer of a solicitor as an advocate by the solicitor acting generally in an action or matter for any party, any party who acts by solicitor may before or after judgment change his solicitor without any order for that purpose. When any such change is made forty-eight hours' notice in writing of such change shall be given to the registrar and to the other parties to the action or matter, or to the solicitors, if any, acting for them, and of the name or firm and place of business of the new solicitor, according to the form in the Appendix, and the registrar shall file the notice given to him; but until such notice is filed and a copy thereof served the former solicitor shall be deemed to be the solicitor of the party.

O. LIV. r. 6.

Taxation of costs in case of change of solicitors.

(2) Where any party has changed his solicitor and given notice of such change in accordance with this rule, the costs allowed to such party shall, unless any solicitor previously employed claims to have his costs taxed separately, be included in one bill and taxed by the solicitor last employed by such party; and money paid into court in respect of such costs shall be paid out in accordance with Order IX., Rules 21 and 22.

(3) If any solicitor previously employed claims to have his costs taxed separately, he shall bring in a separate bill, which shall be taxed with the bill of costs brought in by the solicitor last employed, and in any such case the cost of drawing the bills and attending taxation, and the fees on taxation, shall be allowed and charged as if the whole amount of costs had been included in one bill, and shall be apportioned between the several bills as the registrar shall direct; and money paid into court in respect of costs shall, if any question arises as to the application thereof, be paid out to such persons and in such proportions as the court, on application made by any party interested on notice to the other parties interested, shall direct.

Solicitors to sign a roll.

7. No solicitor shall be allowed to appear for any person in a court until he has signed a roll or book to be kept for that purpose by the registrar, but no fees shall be payable for that purpose; and any solicitor appearing in any court shall, once in every year, if required by the registrar, produce his certificate for the year to the registrar, who shall note the fact of such production on the roll or book.

No notice of employment of counsel or solicitor required.

8. It shall not be necessary for any party to give notice to any other, or to the court, of his intention to employ a barrister or solicitor to act as his advocate at the trial, and the allowance of costs for such barrister or solicitor shall not be affected by such want of notice.

Who may appear on proceedings in chambers.

8A. In matters which, if the same related to actions or proceedings pending in the High Court, might be dealt with in chambers, the parties may be represented by any person who would be allowed to appear in chambers in the High Court.

Newspaper advertisements.

9. The court shall order in what newspapers any advertisements which may from time to time be ordered in any action or matter shall be inserted; and the expense of such advertisements shall be paid to the registrar by the party requiring the same before they are inserted.

Advertisements for London Gazette.

10. All advertisements to be inserted in the London Gazette, except as to proceedings under Orders XXXIX. or XLI. Rule 12, shall be transmitted by the registrar for insertion to the registrar of county courts judgments in London. O. LIV. r. 10.

11. The judge, or in his absence the registrar, may order which party shall have the conduct of proceedings in any action or matter. Conduct of action.

12. Parties may by consent enlarge or abridge any of the times fixed by these rules or by statute for taking any step or filing any document, or giving any notice, in any action or matter. Where such consent cannot be obtained, either party may apply to the court, on notice to the non-consenting party, for an order to effect the object sought to have been obtained with the consent of the other party, and such order may be made although the application for the order is not made until after the expiration of the time allowed or appointed, and on such terms, as to costs and otherwise, as the court may direct. Enlargement or abridgment of time.

13. Subject to the provisions of these rules as to the filing of particulars, where any documents are directed to be filed they shall be filed with the registrar, together with as many copies as there are parties to be served, with the names and addresses and occupations or descriptions of such parties, and, where so required by any of these rules, an additional copy for the use of the judge. Filing of documents and copies for service.

14. Before any summons, notice, or other document, or any copy thereof, is issued by the registrar, the same shall be sealed with the seal of the court. Sealing of documents.

15. All notices required by these rules shall be in writing, unless expressly authorised by the court to be given orally. (R. S. C., Order LXVI. r. 1.) Notices to be in writing.

16. Where by these rules any party is required to give notice according to a form mentioned in the Appendix, it shall be sufficient if the notice given complies substantially with such form. Form of notices.

17. Where anything is required by these rules to be done within a period not exceeding forty-eight hours, no part of any Sunday or day on which the offices of the court need not be open under these rules or under any order of the Lord Chancellor, shall be included in the computation of such period. Computation of periods not exceeding forty-eight hours.

See Brammall v. Mutual Industrial Corporation, post, p. 660.

For days on which the offices of the court are to be kept open, see Order I. r. 3.

O. LIV. r. 18. When time for doing any act expires on day when offices are closed.

18. Where the time for doing any act or taking any proceeding expires on a Sunday or other day on which the offices of the court are closed, and by reason thereof such act or proceeding cannot be done or taken on that day, such act or proceeding shall, so far as regards the time of doing or taking the same, be held to be duly done or taken if done or taken on the day on which the offices shall next be open; provided that such day shall be counted in the computation of time required by these rules in respect of service.

When process may not be served and need not be issued.

19. No summons, warrant, or other process (except a summons in rem or a warrant of arrest in an admiralty action) shall be served or executed on Sunday, Christmas Day, Good Friday, or on any day appointed by royal proclamation for a public fast, humiliation, or thanksgiving; nor need any summons, warrant, or other process be served or granted on any day on which the offices of the courts need not be open under these rules or under any order of the Lord Chancellor; but such days shall be counted in the computation of time required by these rules in respect of service.

Computation of time for service.

Transmission or filing of notices and documents.

19A. Subject to the provisions of these rules as to the transmission of documents to the registrar for the purposes of

(a) the entry of plaints;

(b) entering up judgment on default summonses; or

(c) the issue of summonses to witnesses, executions, judgment summonses, and orders of commitment, any notice or document required by these rules to be given or sent to or filed with the registrar may be so given or sent or filed by delivering the same at the office of the registrar, or by sending the same, with all copies required by these rules, by prepaid post addressed to the registrar at his office.

Transmission of notices, etc., by post.

20. All letters, notices, documents or process sent by post by or to the officers of the courts, or by or to parties in any action or matter, shall be prepaid, and shall not be sent by book post.

Time for delivery of notices, etc., by post.

21. All notices and documents which may be sent by post to the office of a registrar shall be taken to have been duly delivered on the day on which they should have been delivered, if they are delivered at the office of the registrar before the opening thereof on the following day.

Provided that where under these rules the registrar on receiving a notice or document from one party to an action is required to forward a copy of such notice or document to the opposite party, the notice or document given or sent to or filed with the registrar shall, if sent by post, be sent so as to be delivered within office hours on the same day on which it would under these rules be required to be delivered if given or sent by hand. O. LIV. r. 21.

22. All proceedings and documents shall be in forms similar to the forms in the Appendix, where the same are applicable; and in cases where such forms are not applicable, or where no forms are provided, parties shall frame the proceedings or documents, using as guides the forms contained in the Appendix. Use of forms in Appendix. Where no forms prescribed.

22A. The registrar of any court may apply to the Treasury for any of the forms required to be used in proceedings in court, notwithstanding that such forms are marked in the Appendix as "not to be printed," and if such application is granted may obtain such forms and supply the same without charge for the use of parties to such proceedings. Supply of forms.

22B. The words "the hearing fee must be paid before the case is called on" shall be printed or written on the following forms in the Appendix, viz.:—Forms 38, 40, 207, 208, 210, 281, 283, 285, 375, and 416. Notice as to hearing fee to be printed or written on Forms 38, 40, 207, 208, 210, 281, 283, 285, 375, 416.

23. No practice shall prevail in any court which shall be inconsistent with these rules, nor shall any matter be added to or taken from any form in the Appendix, whereby any obligation shall be imposed upon any suitor or any officer of the court to which he is not liable under statute or these rules, or otherwise by law. Rules and forms to be adhered to.

In many cases the rules leave the determination of particular matters in the discretion of the judge, and he is not permitted to prescribe for his own guidance, or that of the officers of the court, general rules to be applied to cases as they arise instead of exercising his discretion in the particular case. Thus, where a judge made a general rule that solicitors' costs should not be allowed in certain cases, and refused them in a particular case in obedience to his general rule, it was held that he had not exercised his discretion, and he was ordered to hear and determine the application (R. v. Marylebone C. C., (1890) 34 S. J. 459; see also The Cashmere, (1890) 15 P. D. 121; 59 L. J. P. 57).

24. Non-compliance with any of these rules, or with any rule of practice for the time being in force, shall not render any proceedings void unless the court shall so direct, but such proceedings may be set aside either wholly or in part as irregular, or may be amended or otherwise dealt with in such manner and upon such terms as the court may think fit. Non-compliance with rules not to render proceedings void.

25. Applications to set aside proceedings for irregularity may be made to the court on notice in manner prescribed by Order XII. Rule 11. No application to set aside any proceeding for irregularity shall be allowed unless made within a reasonable time, nor if the party applying has taken any fresh step after Application to set aside proceedings for irregularity.

O. LIV. r. 25. knowledge of the irregularity. Where any such application is made, the several objections intended to be insisted upon shall be stated in the notice. (R. S. C., Order LXX. r. 3.)

Duplicate of warrant, etc., lost or destroyed.

26. In the event of any warrant, order, or other document issued by the court being lost or destroyed, a duplicate thereof may be issued from time to time upon proof, by affidavit or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the registrar, of such loss or destruction.

ORDER LV.

Interpretation of Terms.

Interpretation.

In the construction of these rules, words importing the singular number include the plural, and words importing the plural number include the singular, and words importing the masculine gender include females, and, unless there is anything in the subject or context repugnant thereto, words have the same meaning as in the Act, and the several words hereinafter mentioned or referred to have or include the meanings following :—

"The Act" means the County Courts Act, 1888 ;

"Clear days" means that in all cases in which any particular number of days is prescribed for the doing of any act, or for any other purpose, the same is to be reckoned exclusive both of the first and of the last day ;

When notice may be given by post, Erle, C.J., expressed an opinion "that the notice must be put into the post in such time that by the ordinary course of post the party to whom it is addressed shall receive it within the time" (Evans v. Matthews, (1857) 26 L. J. Q. B. 166) in which the notice may be validly given ; so, if a notice has to be given five clear days before the trial, it appears that, if sent by post, it ought to be sent so that five clear days might elapse after receipt of the notice, irrespective of the day on which, in the ordinary course of post, it would be received.

Where the days are not "clear days," it seems that the time should be computed exclusively of the day on which the notice or document is served, or, if sent by post, received, but inclusively of the last day (Liffin v. Pitcher, (1842) 1 Dowl. N. S. 767 ; R. S. C., Order LXIV. r. 12). The same rule applies if an act has to be done within a certain number of days from another act (Young v. Higgon (1840) 6 M. & W. 49, 53 ; 9 L. J. M. C. 29, per Parke, B.).

In computing "two clear days" Sunday is probably not to be reckoned. So held as to notice of motion in the High Court under Order LII. r. 4 (Brammall v. Mutual Industrial Corporation (1915), 84 L. J. Ch. 474).

"Court" includes a judge or registrar exercising the powers of the court in chambers as well as in open court ;

"Default summons" means a summons which is issued on the entry of a plaint, and is required by statute or rule to be served personally ;

"Foreign court" means the court of a district into which process is issued from another court ;

"High bailiff" means if there be more than one high bailiff to a court, either of such high bailiffs;

"Home court" means the court from which process is originally issued; "Home district" means the district of the home court; and "foreign district" means the district of the foreign court;

"Judgment" means the final decision of the court in any action;

"Metropolitan court" means any court referred to in section eighty-four of the Act, and includes also the Bow County Court of Middlesex;

Bow is not hereby added to the courts mentioned in sect. 84, nor the leave to sue required by sect. 74 affected.

"Month" means calendar month;

But in the registrar's minute of the order upon a judgment summons it means a lunar month (Saunders v. Swansea Finance Co., (1905) 21 T. L. R. 317).

"Oath and affidavit," in the case of persons for the time being allowed by law to attest upon honour, affirm, or declare, instead of swearing, include attestation upon honour, affirmation, and declaration, and "swear" in the like case includes attest upon honour, affirm, and declare;

"Order" means the final decision of the court in any matter, and also any decision of the court other than a final decision in any action or matter, and also the decision of the judge or registrar on any interlocutory application;

"Ordinary summons" means a summons which is issued on the entry of a plaint, and is not required by statute to be served personally;

"Treasurer" includes any person appointed by the Treasury to perform the functions of treasurer;

"Trial" means the hearing of any action or matter in court;

"Vessel" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars only.

Provisions of the Summary Jurisdiction Acts as to Imprisonment in default or in lieu of Distress to satisfy sums adjudged to be paid on Summary Conviction.

11 & 12 Vict. c. 43.

THE SUMMARY JURISDICTION ACT, 1848.

[11 & 12 VICT. C. 43.]

Power to justice to award costs which shall be specified in conviction or order of dismissal and may be recovered by distress.

18. In all cases of summary conviction or of orders made by a justice or justices of the peace it shall be lawful for the justice or justices making the same, in his or their discretion, to award and order in and by such conviction or order that the defendant shall pay to the prosecutor or complainant respectively such costs as to such justice or justices shall seem just and reasonable in that behalf; and in cases where such justice or justices, instead of convicting or making an order as aforesaid, shall dismiss the information or complaint, it shall be lawful for him or them, in his or their discretion, in and by his or their order of dismissal, to award and order that the prosecutor or complainant respectively shall pay to the defendant such costs as to such justice or justices shall seem just and reasonable, and the sums so allowed for costs shall in all cases be specified in such conviction or order of dismissal aforesaid, and the same shall be recoverable in the same manner and under the same warrants as any penalty or sum of money adjudged to be paid in and by such conviction or order is to be recoverable; and in cases where there is no such penalty or sum to be thereby recovered, then such costs shall be recoverable by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the party, and in default of such distress by imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any time not exceeding one calendar month, unless such costs shall be sooner paid.

Power to justice to issue warrant of distress.

19. Where a conviction adjudges a pecuniary penalty or compensation to be paid, or where an order requires the payment of a sum of money, and by the statute authorising such conviction or order such penalty, compensation, or sum of money, is to be levied upon the goods and chattels of the defendant by distress and sale thereof, and also in cases where by the statute in that behalf no mode of raising or levying such penalty, compensation, or sum of money, or of enforcing the payment of the same, is stated or provided, it shall be lawful for the justice or justices making such conviction or order, or for any justice of the peace for the same county, riding, division, liberty, city, borough, or place, to issue his or their warrant of distress for the purpose of levying the same, which said warrant of distress shall be in writing under the hand and seal of the justice making the same; and if after delivery of such warrant of distress to the constable or constables to whom the same shall have been directed to be executed sufficient distress shall not be found within the limits of the jurisdiction of the justice granting such warrant, then, upon proof alone being made on oath of the handwriting of the justice granting such warrant before any justice of any other county or place, such justice of such other county or place shall thereupon make an indorsement on such warrant, signed with his hand, authorising the execution of such warrant within the limits of his jurisdiction, by virtue of which said warrant and indorsement the penalty or sum aforesaid, and costs, or so much thereof as may not have been before levied or paid, shall and may be levied by the person bringing such warrant, or by the person or persons to whom such warrant was originally directed, or by any constable or other peace officer of such last-mentioned county or place, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the defendant in such other county or place:

How warrant to be backed.

In default of sufficiency of distress, justice may commit defendant to prison.

21. If at the time and place appointed for the return of any such warrant of distress the constable who shall have had the execution of the same shall return that he could find no goods or chattels or no sufficient goods or chattels whereon he could levy the sum or sums therein mentioned, together with the costs of or occasioned by the levying of the same, it shall be lawful for the justice of the peace before whom the same shall be returned to issue his warrant of commitment under his hand and seal directed to the same or any other constable, reciting the conviction or order shortly, the issuing of the warrant of distress, and the return thereto, and requiring such constable to convey such defendant to the house of correction, or if there be no house of correction then to the common gaol of the county, riding, division, liberty, city, borough, or place for which such justice shall then be acting, and there to deliver him to the keeper thereof, and requiring such keeper to receive the defendant into such house of correction or gaol, and there to imprison him, or to imprison him and keep him to hard labour, in such manner and for such time as shall have been directed and appointed by the statute on which the conviction or order mentioned in such warrant of distress was founded, unless the sum or sums adjudged to be paid, and all costs and charges of the distress, and also the costs and charges of the commitment and conveying of the defendant to prison, if such justice shall think fit so to order (the amount thereof being ascertained and stated in such commitment), shall be sooner paid.

In all cases of penalties, convictions, orders, where the statute provides no remedy in default of distress, justice may commit defendant to prison.

22. And whereas by some Acts of Parliament justices of the peace are authorised to issue warrants of distress to levy penalties or other sums recovered before them by distress and sale of the offender's goods, but no further remedy is thereby provided in case no sufficient distress be found whereon to levy such penalties; in all such cases, and in all cases of convictions or orders where the statute on which the same are respectively founded provides no remedy in case it shall be returned to a warrant of distress thereon that no sufficient goods of the party against whom such warrant shall have been issued can be found, it shall nevertheless be lawful for the justice to whom such return is made, or to any other justice of the peace for the same county, riding, division, liberty, city, borough, or place, if he or they shall think fit, by his warrant as aforesaid, to commit the defendant to the house of correction or common gaol as aforesaid for any term not exceeding three calendar months, unless the sum or sums adjudged to be paid, and all costs and charges of the distress, and of the commitment and conveying of the defendant to prison (the amount thereof being ascertained and stated in such commitment), shall be sooner paid.

On payment of penalty, &c. distress not to be levied, or the party, if imprisoned for non-payment, shall be discharged.

23. In all cases where any person against whom a warrant of distress shall issue as aforesaid shall pay or tender to the constable having the execution of the same the sum or sums in such warrant mentioned, together with the amount of the expenses of such distress up to the time of such payment or tender, such constable shall cease to execute the same; and in all cases in which any person shall be imprisoned as aforesaid for non-payment of any penalty or other sum he may pay or cause to be paid to the keeper of the prison in which he shall be so imprisoned the sum in the warrant of commitment mentioned, together with the amount of the costs, charges and expenses (if any) therein also mentioned, and the said keeper shall receive the same, and shall thereupon discharge such person, if he be in his custody for no other matter.

The Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879.

42 & 43 Vict. c. 49.

Scale of imprisonment for non-payment of money.

5. The period of imprisonment imposed by a court of summary jurisdiction under this Act or under any other Act, whether past or future, in respect of the non-payment of any sum of money adjudged to be paid by a conviction, or in respect of the default of a sufficient distress to satisfy any such sum, shall, notwithstanding any enactment to the contrary in any past Act, be such period as in the opinion of the court will satisfy the justice of the case, but shall not exceed in any case the maximum fixed by the following scale; that is to say,

Where the amount of the sum or sums of money adjudged to be paid by a conviction, as ascertained by the conviction,	The said period shall not exceed
Does not exceed ten shillings	Seven days.
Exceeds ten shillings, but does not exceed one pound .	Fourteen days.
Exceeds one pound but does not exceed five pounds .	One month.
Exceeds five pounds but does not exceed twenty pounds .	Two months.
Exceeds twenty pounds	Three months.

And such imprisonment shall be without hard labour, except where hard labour is authorised by the Act on which the conviction is founded, in which case the imprisonment may, if the court thinks the justice of the case requires it, be with hard labour, so that the term of hard labour awarded do not exceed the term authorised by the said Act.

Special provisions as to warrants of commitment for non-payment of sums of money, and as to warrants of distress.

21. (1) A court of summary jurisdiction to whom application is made either to issue a warrant of distress for any sum adjudged to be paid by a conviction or order, or to issue a warrant for committing a person to prison for non-payment of a sum of money adjudged to be paid by a conviction, or in the case of a sum not a civil debt by an order, or for default of sufficient distress to satisfy any such sum, may, if the court deem it expedient so to do, postpone the issue of such warrant until such time and on such conditions, if any, as to the court may seem just.

(2) The wearing apparel and bedding of a person and his family, and, to the value of five pounds, the tools and implements of his trade, shall not be taken under a distress issued by a court of summary jurisdiction.

(3) Where a person is adjudged by the conviction of a court of summary jurisdiction, or in the case of a sum not a civil debt by an order of such court, to pay any sum of money, and on default of payment of such sum a warrant of distress is authorised to be issued, and it appears to the court of summary jurisdiction to whom application is made to issue such warrant that such person has no goods whereon to levy the distress, or that in the event of a warrant of distress being issued his goods will be insufficient to satisfy the money payable by him, or that the levy of the distress will be more injurious to him or his family than imprisonment, such court, instead of issuing such warrant of distress, may, if it think fit, order the said person on non-payment of the said sum to be imprisoned for any period not exceeding the period for which he is liable under such conviction or order to be imprisoned in default of sufficient distress.

(4) Where on application to a court of summary jurisdiction to issue a warrant for committing a person to prison for non-payment of a sum adjudged to be paid by a conviction of any court of summary jurisdiction, or in the case of a sum not a civil debt by an order of such court, or for default of sufficient distress to satisfy any such sum, it appears to the court to whom the application is made that either by payment of part of the said sum, whether in the shape of instalments or otherwise, or by the net proceeds of the distress, the amount of the sum so adjudged has been reduced to such an extent that the unsatisfied balance, if it had constituted the original amount adjudged to be paid by the conviction or order, would have subjected the defendant to a maximum term of imprisonment less than the term of imprisonment to which he is liable under such conviction or order, the court shall, by its warrant of commitment, revoke the term of imprisonment, and order the defendant to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding such less maximum term, instead of for the term originally mentioned in the conviction or order.

It will be useful here to consider some of the most usual rules of evidence and principles of law of common occurrence in county courts.

What Facts may be Proved.]—With respect to the question what facts may be proved in an action, the first broad rule is that the evidence must be confined to the issue. And in a county court the usual issue is, whether the plaintiff is entitled to recover in respect of the cause of action alleged in the summons and particulars.

Facts Relevant.]—This rule does not of course mean that no fact can be proved except those actually put in issue, as constituting the cause of action itself; but that no facts can be proved which are not relevant to the issue in the sense that they afford ground for a reasonable inference in favour of a finding one way or the other. What facts are in this sense relevant depends upon no technical rule of law, but upon the general experience of men, the conclusions from which are equally applicable in courts of justice and out of them. Whatever facts are relevant in this sense are in general admissible in evidence in court. But this proposition must be taken subject to certain qualifications.

Res Inter Alios not Admissible.]—Any transaction actually forming a constituent part of the plaintiff's cause of action or of the defendant's defence, may and must of course, be proved in evidence, whoever be the parties to it. A plaintiff making title to land must show the conveyance to himself, whether the defendant was a party to it or not. A man relying upon the act of an agent must prove the fact that he authorised the act, whether the authority was conferred in the presence of his opponent or not. And so it is with any other fact having an actual legal operation upon the rights of the parties. But as to facts not falling within this description the rule of law is that res inter alios actæ cannot be given in evidence against one who was a stranger to them. Statements therefore not made in the presence of the party against whom they are sought to be used, transactions to which he was no party, are not admissible against him. A judgment in an action to which he is neither party nor privy cannot be used against him; except, indeed, in the case of what is called a judgment in rem, that is to say, a judgment which not only determines facts in controversy between the parties to the cause, but affects status (as in the case of a decree for divorce), or disposes of property (as in the case of a decree for sale in a court of Admiralty), as against all the world. Such a judgment is a fact having an actual legal operation upon rights, and is therefore admissible for or against anybody whose rights it may affect. (As to the distinction between judgments in rem and judgments in personam, see Duchess of Kingston's Case, (1776) 2 Smith's L. C. 754, 12th edit.; Castrique v. Imrie, (1870) L. R. 4 H. L. 414; 39 L. J. C. P. 350.)

Collateral Matters.]—Again, the law excludes evidence of facts purely collateral to the matter in question. That is to say, when you are inquiring into one circumstance or one transaction, you must not go into another circumstance or transaction, however similar to it, if unconnected with it, in order to draw any inference from the one to the other. Thus, if the question be as to the terms of a contract of sale, one party cannot prove as against the other the terms of other contracts of sale entered into by the latter on other occasions for the purpose of showing that the contract in question contained the same terms (Hollingham v. Head, (1858) 4 C. B. N. S. 388; 27 L. J. C. P. 241). Nor in order to rebut the implied authority of the servant or agent of a horse-dealer to warrant the soundness of a horse which he is entrusted to sell, is evidence admissible of a practice amongst horse-dealers not to warrant where the horse has been examined and certified to be sound (Howard v. Sheward, (1866) L. R. 2 C. P. 148; 36 L. J. C. P. 42). Nor if the question be whether A., a brewer, sold good beer to B., is evidence admissible to prove that he sold good beer to C. and D. (Holcombe v. Hewson, (1810) 2 Camp. 391; 11 R. R. 746).

In order to make such evidence admissible, it is necessary to establish some substantial connection between the two sets of circumstances, such as to show that an inference may properly be drawn from one to the other as if in the case last cited it were shown that the beer was all of the same brew. If the question be as to the validity of the acceptance of a bill of exchange, and the case turn upon an alleged general authority to accept bills, of which evidence has been given, evidence of an admission of liability upon another bill accepted under the same general authority is admissible (Llewellyn v. Winckworth, (1845) 13 M. & W. 598; 14 L. J. Ex. 329; 67 R. R. 751). So where the question was as to the ownership of a strip of unenclosed land in a manor on the border of a high road, evidence was admitted that other strips similarly situated on the edge of the same road belonged to the lord as wastes of the manor (Doe v. Kemp, (1835) 7 Bing. 332 9 L. J. C. P. 102; 33 R. R. 487; (1835) 2 Bing. N. C. 102; 4 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 331; 33 R. R. 492; and see Jones v. Williams (1837) 2 M. & W. 326;, 6 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 107; 46 R. R. 611). And where the question was as to a custom making brokers in the London fruit trade personally liable on their contracts, evidence was admitted of a similar custom in a closely allied trade—the colonial trade—in the same city (Fleet v. Murton, (1871) L. R. 7 Q. B. 126; 41 L. J. Q. B. 49).

How Facts Admissible are to be Proved.]—Upon the subject of how facts admissible are to be proved, the first great rule of evidence is that the best evidence (the best in degree, not in amount) must be adduced. In considering the meaning and application of this rule, it will be convenient to distinguish, first, the case of documents; secondly, the case of facts other than the contents of documents, which can of course only be proved by human testimony.

Documents must be Produced.]—Whenever the contents of a document are to be proved, the document itself must be produced. Thus, a copy of any instrument is never evidence if the original can be produced; but if the absence of the primary evidence is sufficiently accounted for, secondary or parol evidence of its contents is admitted, and when once the rule is broken through, there are no degrees of secondary evidence; therefore parol evidence of the contents of a document is not excluded by a copy, nor is a second copy by a first.

It follows from this rule, that where a contract has been reduced into writing by the parties it must be produced, and to this there is no exception; and in no case can a witness be asked as to the contents of a written instrument which is neither produced nor its absence accounted for (M'Donnell v. Evans, (1852) 11 C. B. 930; 21 L. J. C. P. 141); but it is otherwise where the writing is a mere memorandum of an event, as a receipt (Rambert v. Cohen, (1802) 4 Esp. 213; 6 R. R. 854), or a promise to pay (Singleton v. Barrett, (1832) 2 C. & J. 368; 1 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 134; 37 R. R. 742), in such case, the fact may be proved by parol, although a record of it has been reduced into writing.

Exceptions.]—It must be remembered that where the witness is a party to a cause, the above rule does not prevent his being asked as to his knowledge of any fact, although that knowledge is derived solely from written documents (see also as to the cross-examination of a witness respecting previous statements made by him in writing, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, ss. 24, 103).

Admissions.]—Parol admissions are primary evidence against the party making them, although they relate to the contents of a written instrument (Slatterie v. Pooley, (1840) 6 M. & W. 664; 10 L. J. Ex. 8; 55 R. R. 760).

Secondary Evidence.]—Secondary evidence of the contents of a document becomes admissible if the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power of the opposite party, and he, after notice to produce it, does not do so (as to notice to produce, see p. 496); or if the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power of a stranger not legally bound to produce it, and who refuses to produce it after being served with a summons to produce it, or after having been sworn as a witness and asked for the document and having admitted that it is in court; or when the original has been destroyed or lost, and proper search has been made for it (Stephen's Digest of the Law of Evidence, Article 71); or where it is physically impossible to produce the document, as in the case of an inscription on a tombstone; or where the document is abroad and its production cannot be obtained (Alivon v. Furnival, (1834) 1 C. M. & R. 277; 3 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 241; 40 R. R. 561); or where the document is a public record, which it would not be convenient to carry about from court to court, such as a register of births or deaths. These are common law exceptions to the general rule requiring the production of the original document. Many statutory provisions facilitating the proof of documents will be noticed further on in this chapter.

Secondary evidence is also admissible when the originals consist of numerous documents which cannot conveniently be examined in court, and the fact to be proved is the general result of the whole collection: provided that that result is capable of being ascertained by calculation. In such case secondary evidence is admissible as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them and who is skilled in the examination of such documents.

Questions as to the existence of facts rendering secondary evidence of the contents of documents admissible must be decided by the judge.

Parol Explanations of Written Instruments.]—A further branch of this rule is, that parol evidence is not admitted to vary or contradict the terms of a written instrument (Meres v. Ansell, (1771) 3 Wils. 275; Adams v. Wordley, (1836) 1 M. & W. 374; 5 L. J. Ex. 158; Harnor v. Groves, (1855) 15 C. B. 667; 24 L. J. C. P. 53; 100 R. R. 535; Aynsley, In re, (1915) 1 Ch. 172; 84 L. J. Ch. 211); but such evidence is admitted to supplement the writing by showing that it was not intended to contain the whole contract, and to add terms consistent with it (Malpas v. L. & S. W. Rail. Co., (1866) L. R. 1 C. P. 336; 35 L. J. C. P. 166), or to show a separate parol contract collateral to the written one (Lindley v. Lacey, (1864) 17 C. B. N. S. 578; 34 L. J. C. P. 7; 142 R. R. 525; Morgan v. Griffith, (1871) L. R. 6 Ex. 70; 40 L. J. Ex. 46; Erskine v. Adeane, (1873) L. R. 8 Ch. 756; 42 L. J. Ch. 835), or to show that a writing purporting to be a contract was not intended to be a contract at all (Pym v. Campbell, (1856) 6 E. & B. 370; 25 L. J. Q. B. 277; 106 R. R. 632; Rogers v. Hadley, (1863) 2 H. & C. 227; 32 L. J. Ex. 241; 133 R. R. 652), or that the parties have by parol waived or annulled an alleged written agreement (Goss v. Lord Nugent, (1833) 5 B. & Ad. 58; 2 L. J. (N. S.) K. B. 127; 39 R. R. 392; Eden v. Blake, (1845) 13 M. & W. 614; 14 L. J. Ex. 194; 67 R. R. 757 (as to the rescission of agreements required to be in writing by the Statute of Frauds, see Noble v. Ward, (1867) L. R. 1 Ex. 117; 35 L. J. Ex. 81; Ib. (1867) L. R. 2 Ex. 135; 36 L. J. Ex. 91)), or that the instrument, whether a deed or simple contract, is void by reason of fraud, illegality or error (Doe v. Allen, (1799) 8 T. R. 147; per Lord Abinger, Hutchins v. Scott, (1837) 2 M. & W. 816; 6 L. J. Ex. 186; 46 R. R. 770).

Parol evidence of custom or usage is also admissible to annex incidents to written contracts on matters with respect to which they are silent. Hence in commercial contracts evidence of usage is admissible to ingraft terms on the contract (2 Sm. L. C., 12th edit., 620, notes to Wigglesworth v. Dallison) and to explain the terms of the contract itself (2 Sm. L. C., 12th edit., 620 et seq. ; Olympia Oil and Cake Co. v. Produce Brokers Co., (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1695). A custom, said to have grown up since the war, to alter in the case of carriage of goods the place of discharge of the goods, and which was inconsistent with the express terms of the written contract, it was held could not be set up (Sutro & Co. v. Heilbut, Symons & Co., (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 330). See also Miller, Gibb & Co. v. Smith and Tyrer, Ltd., (1917) 2 K. B. 141. So in contracts between landlord and tenant, evidence is admissible to annex terms to the contract and explain it (2 Sm. L. C., 12th edit., 622, 623 ; Hutton v. Warren, (1836) 1 M. & W. 466, 475 ; 5 L. J. Ex. 234 ; 46 R. R. 368). Parol evidence may also be given to explain a latent ambiguity ; which means that where a doubt is raised by extrinsic parol evidence, the same is admitted to solve it. Where, however, the ambiguity is patent or apparent on the face of the instrument, no evidence is admissible to explain it.

Hearsay not Evidence.]—The rule which requires the production of the best evidence, when applied to facts other than the contents of a document, is in effect this :—Hearsay is not evidence ; that is, a witness may not relate a fact which he has heard from another, but of which he has no personal knowledge ; since the oath of the first relator, and the opportunity of cross-examining him as a witness, are wanting (Taylor on Evid., Part III. Chap. II. (9th edit.)).

Exceptions.] — To this rule there are, however, exceptions, the most important of which are—first, in proving matters of public or general interest, as boundaries of parishes, rights of common or customs, evidence of reputation is admissible (Taylor on Evid., Part III. Chap. III.) ; secondly, in questions of pedigree and relationship, statements made by deceased members of the family may be proved (Ib. Part III. Chap. IV. ; Doe v. Davies, (1847) 10 Q. B. 314 ; 16 L. J. Q. B. 218 ; 74 R. R. 299) ; thirdly, on a second trial between the same parties, the evidence of a witness examined at a former trial, in which the same question was in issue, and since deceased, may be proved by any one who heard it (Wright v. Doe d. Tatham, (1834) 1 A. & E. 3 ; Morgan v. Nicholl, (1866) L. R. 2 C. P. 117 ; 36 L. J. C. P. 86) ; fourthly, declarations made by persons since deceased against their pecuniary or proprietary interest are admissible, such as admissions by a person that he has no title to an estate or easement, or accounts by which a man charges himself with the receipt of money (Higham v. Ridgway, (1808) 10 East, 109 ; 2 Smith's L. C. 301 (12th edit.) ; 10 R. R. 235), but the interest must be proprietary or pecuniary (Smith v. Blakey, (1867) L. R. 2 Q. B. 326 ; 36 L. J. Q. B. 156), and the relation of an act which would make the relator liable to prosecution is no exception (Sussex Peerage Case, (1844) 11 Cl. & Fin. 85, 103 ; 65 R. R. 11). Lastly, declarations in the ordinary course of office business or employment, by deceased persons who had no interest in stating an untruth, with respect to acts done by them within the scope of their duty, and which are made contemporaneously with the acts to which they relate (Price v. Lord Torrington, (1704) Salk. 285 ; 2 Smith's L. C. 294 (12th edit.) ; Smith v. Blakey, (1867) L. R. 2 Q. B. 326 ; 36 L. J. Q. B. 156), but the whole of the entry is not evidence, but only such part of it as is shown to have been the duty of the deceased person to make (Chambers v. Bernasconi, (1834) 1 C. M. & R. 347 ; 3 L. J. Ex. 373 ; 40 R. R. 604).

Res Gestæ.]—There are other statements which are admissible in evidence as part of the res gestæ, namely, where a statement is made by a person accompanying an act, and which tends to explain or show the intention of such act ; as what a person says on entering on land, on forfeiture, etc., departing from his dwelling, secreting himself, or when he does any act the character of which it is material to understand (Taylor on Evid., sect. 584 (9th edit.)); and generally, where any transaction is being inquired into, all that was said at the time is admissible in evidence. See Tustin v. Arnold & Sons, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 2214.

Of Documentary Evidence.—Acts of Parliament.]—Public Acts of Parliament require no proof, as of these the court takes judicial cognizance.

Copies of private or local and personal Acts are evidence, if purporting to be printed by the King's printer.

Royal and other Proclamations.]—Copies of parliamentary journals or royal proclamations, purporting to be printed by the printers of the Crown, or of either House (8 & 9 Vict. c. 113, s. 3), are likewise evidence.

Any proclamation, order or regulation issued by the King, the Privy Council, the Commissioners of the Treasury, the Board of Admiralty, any secretary of state, the Board of Trade, or the Poor Law Board, may be proved primâ facie by producing a copy of the Gazette purporting to contain the proclamation, order or regulation in question ; or a copy purporting to be printed by the King's printer or the government printer of any colony or possession ; or a copy or extract purporting to be certified to be true, if the document be issued by the King or the Privy Council, by the clerk or any member of the Privy Council ; if by the Treasury, by any commissioner, secretary or assistant secretary of the Treasury ; if by the Admiralty, by a lord of the Admiralty or a secretary ; if by a secretary of state, by any secretary or under secretary of state, and if by the Board of Trade, or Poor Law Board, then by any member of such Board or a secretary or assistant secretary (31 & 32 Vict. c. 37, s. 2).

Records and Proceedings of Courts.]—Records of the superior courts, if the issue be upon their existence, can only be proved by production of the original, or exemplification under the great seal. The proper course was to get the record removed by certiorari into Chancery, and that court would send it by mittimus to the county court (Winsor v. Dunford, (1848) 12 Q. B. 603 ; 18 L. J. Q. B. 14). Since the Judicature Acts, the power exercised by the Court of Chancery in this respect may be exercised by any division of the High Court. In other cases, if complete, they may be proved by examined copies of the original (14 & 15 Vict. c. 99, s. 14).

Orders or rules of court, and judges' orders, may, except in the cases already mentioned, be proved in the same way ; the latter may be proved by production, the court being bound to take judicial cognizance of the signature (8 & 9 Vict. c. 113, s. 2).

Convictions must be proved either by production of the record, or under sect. 13 of the Evidence Act, 1851 (14 & 15 Vict. c. 99) (Mash v. Darley, (1914) 3 K. B. 1226 ; 83 L. J. K. B. 1740).

Judgments of inferior courts must be proved by their production from their proper custody, or by examined copies. All proceedings in county courts may be proved by a copy of the entry thereof in the book of the court, bearing the seal of the court, and purporting to be signed and certified as a true copy by the registrar (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 28 ; see ante, p. 14).

Proceedings or copies of proceedings in bankruptcy appearing to be sealed with the seal of the court, or purporting to be signed by a judge having bankruptcy jurisdiction, are evidence (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52, s. 134).

Banker's Books.]—By the 42 Vict. c. 11 (The Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879), subject to the provisions contained in the Act, copies of any entries made in a banker's book may be received in evidence.

Public Entries and Documents.]—Entries in books and documents of a public nature, which it would be inconvenient on public grounds to remove, as parish registers (Doe v. Barnes, (1834) 1 Moo. & R. 386; 42 R. R. 809), the bank books (Mortimer v. M'Callan, (1840) 6 M. & W. 58; 9 L. J. Ex. 73; 55 R. R. 503), etc., may be proved by copies; so may inscriptions on tombstones, writings affixed to walls, and the like, which it would be impossible or extremely difficult to produce in court; and whenever by an Act of Parliament any certificate, official or public document, or document or proceeding of any corporation or company, or certified copy of a document, bye-law, entry in a register or other book, or of any other proceeding, is receivable "in evidence of any particular, the same are admissible, provided they purport to be sealed, stamped or signed as required or directed, without any proof of the seal, stamp, or signature, or official character of the person signing, and without any further proof thereof, in every case in which the original could have been received" (8 & 9 Vict. c. 113, s. 1; see Doe d. Hemming v. Willetts, (1849) 7 C. B. 709; 18 L. J. C. P. 240).

Certified copies of entries purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal of the registrar-general's office, are received as evidence of birth, death or marriage (6 & 7 Will. IV. c. 86, s. 38. There are numerous other statutes allowing certain public documents to be proved by certified copies, which will be found in Taylor on Evid. Part V. Chap. IV. (9th edit.)).

Also, whenever any book or other document is of such a public nature as to be admissible in evidence on its mere production from the proper custody, and no statute exists which renders its contents provable by means of a copy, any copy thereof, or extract therefrom, will be admissible in evidence, provided it be proved to be an examined copy or extract, or provided it purport to be signed as a true copy or extract by the officer to whose custody the original is entrusted (14 & 15 Vict. c. 99, s. 14. As to objections at the trial to the admission of documents apparently genuine, see ante, p. 497).

Ancient Records.]—Ancient records and writings, as ecclesiastical tenures, manor books, and the like, are proved by being produced from the proper custody. It need not be from the most proper custody (Doe v. Keeling, (1848) 11 Q. B. 884; 75 R. R. 658), provided it is where it would reasonably be expected that they should be found (Croughton v. Blake, (1843) 12 M. & W. 205; 132 L. J. Ex. 78; 67 R. R. 310), as a terrier from the parish chest or an expired lease from the possession of the lessor (Plaxton v. Dare, (1829) 10 B. & C. 17; 8 L. J. (O. S.) K. B. 98; Reg. v. Hall, (1866) L. R. 1 Q. B. 632; 35 L. J. M. C. 251). It is not enough merely to produce them, but a witness must be called to speak to their custody (Evans v. Rees, (1839) 10 A. & E. 151; 50 R. R. 366).

Wills and Probate.]—Before the passing of 20 & 21 Vict. c. 77, in order to prove a devise of lands, the will must have been produced (Doe v. Calvert, (1810) 2 Camp. 389; 11 R. R. 745), unless it had been lost, in which case an examined copy was evidence; but now if notice be given, ten days before the trial, of a party's intention to give in evidence the probate or letters of administration with the will annexed, stamped with the seal of the court of probate, or a copy so stamped, and a notice is not given by the other side within four days that he disputes the validity of the devise, the probate is sufficient evidence of the will and of its validity and contents (20 & 21 Vict. c. 77, s. 64). The failure to give the counter notice does not, however, preclude a party from contesting at the trial the validity of the will (Barraclough v. Greenhough, (1867) L. R. 2 Q. B. 612; 36 L. J. Q. B. 251). Where title to personal property is derived under a will, it must be proved by the probate, not by the will itself (Pinney v. Pinney, (1828) 8 B. & C. 335; 6 L. J. K. B. 353; 32 R. R. 400). Administration is proved by the letters. The seal of the court needs no proof (20 & 21 Vict. c. 77, s. 22. As to colonial probates, etc., see 55 Vict. c. 6).

Documents thirty years old.]—The general rule of law is that where any document purporting or proved to be thirty years old, is produced from any custody which the judge in the particular case considers proper, it is presumed that the signature and every other part of such document which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person is in that person's handwriting, and, in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested; and the attestation or execution need not be proved, even if the attesting witness is alive and in court.

Proper Custody.]—Documents are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, they would naturally be; but no custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or if the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable (Stephen's Digest of the Law of Evidence, Article 88; see, however, next paragraph for the rule in county courts).

Documents produced from Proper Custody.]—In county courts, however, where any documents, which would, if duly proved, be admissible in evidence, are produced to the court from proper custody, they must be read without further proof, if, in the opinion of the court, they appear to be genuine, and no objection is taken to them. If the admission of any document so produced is objected to, the court may adjourn the hearing for proof of the documents, and the party objecting must be ordered to pay the costs caused by the objection, if the documents are afterwards proved unless the judge otherwise orders (Order XVIII. r. 9).

Deeds.]—To prove a deed or other written instrument to which there is an attesting witness, if the instrument is one to the validity of which attestation is requisite, he must be called (Bowman v. Hodgson, (1867) L. R. 1 P. & M. 362; 36 L. J. P. 124), unless he is dead, insane (Currie v. Child, (1812) 3 Camp. 283), or absent in a foreign country (Prince v. Blackburn, (1802) 2 East, 250), or he cannot be found on diligent inquiry (Cunliffe v. Sefton, (1802) 2 East, 183; Spooner v. Payne, (1847) 4 C. B. 328; 16 L. J. C. P. 225).

In these and some other cases evidence of the witness's handwriting is admissible, and the handwriting of the party who executed the instrument need not be proved except, perhaps, for the purpose of establishing his identity (Nelson v. Whittall, (1817) 1 B. & A. 19). A party to a deed requiring attestation cannot also attest it (Seal v. Claridge (C. A.), (1881) 7 Q. B. D. 516; 50 L. J. Q. B. 316). If the instrument is one to the validity of which attestation is not requisite, the attesting witness need not be called. It may be proved by admission or otherwise, as if there had been no attesting witness (17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, s. 26; see, however, Re Rice (C. A.), (1886) 32 Ch. D. 35; 55 L. J. Ch. 799).

When a deed is produced under a notice to produce, the party calling for it must still prove its execution if it be objected to (Gordon v. Secretan, (1807) 8 East, 548), unless the party who produces it claims a beneficial interest under it (Pearce v. Hooper, (1810) 3 Taunt. 60).

In accordance with the rule (supra) mentioned above, no proof is required if the deed purports, or is proved, to be thirty years old, if it is produced from custody which the judge considers proper; and even if less than thirty years old a party objecting to a genuine deed, if it comes within Order XVIII. r. 9, may have to pay the costs occasioned by his objection.

Sale of Goods.]—See Sale of Goods Act, 1893, and cases in notes thereto, ante, p. 318. In any action founded upon a contract of sale of goods the plaintiff must prove the contract of sale. If the goods be of the value of 10*l.* or upwards, there must, to satisfy the Sale of Goods Act, 1893, be a note or memorandum in writing, or a part payment of the price, or earnest, or an acceptance and actual receipt of part of the goods. Sect. 4 (1).

As to the note or memorandum, what is required is a written document in existence when the action commenced (Lucas v. Dixon (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 357; 58 L. J. Q. B. 161); whether contemporaneous with the contract or not, whether intended to be a memorial of the contract or not, and whether addressed to the other contracting party or not, signed by the party against whom it is used or his agent, containing a statement of the terms of the contract (Bailey v. Sweeting, (1861) 9 C. B. N. S. 843; 30 L. J. C. P. 150; 127 R. R. 896; Gibson v. Holland, (1865) L. R. 1 C. P. 1; 35 L. J. C. P. 5; Wilkinson v. Evans, (1866) L. R. 1 C. P. 407; 35 L. J. C. P. 224; Buxton v. Rust, (1872) L. R. 7 Ex. 1, 279; 41 L. J. Ex. 1; Reuss v. Picksley, (1866) L. R. 1 Ex. 342; 35 L. J. Ex. 218; 143 R. R. 797).

Acceptance and Receipt.]—As to acceptance and receipt, there must be both acceptance and actual receipt. Acceptance without receipt will not satisfy the requirements of the statute (Farina v. Home, (1846) 16 M. & W. 119); 16 L. J. Ex. 73; 73 R. R. 433); nor will receipt without acceptance, as where goods are delivered to and received by a carrier named by a purchaser (Hart v. Bush, (1858) E. B. & E. 494; 27 L. J. Q. B. 271; 113 R. R. 744; Smith v. Hudson, (1865) 6 B. & S. 431; 34 L. J. Q. B. 145; 141 R. R. 459).

Acceptance.]—It is not necessary that the acceptance should be such as would preclude the purchaser from rejecting goods as not according to contract. Acceptance, for the purpose of the statute, means such a dealing with the goods as amounts to a recognition of the existence of the contract, and it may precede delivery (Morton v. Tibbett, (1850) 15 Q. B. 428; 19 L. J. Q. B. 382; 81 R. R. 666; Kibble v. Gough (C. A.), (1878) 38 L. T. 204; Page v. Morgan (C. A.), (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 228; 54 L. J. Q. B. 434). Thus the exercise of any act of ownership, such as marking (Hodson v. Le Bret, (1808) 1 Camp. 233), weighing (Simmonds v. Humble, (1862) 13 C. B. N. S. 258; 134 R. R. 526), or re-selling (Morton v. Tibbett, supra), is evidence of acceptance. So, examination and selection of goods prior to delivery is evidence of acceptance (Cusack v. Robinson, (1861) 1 B. & S. 299; 30 L. J. Q. B. 261; 124 R. R. 566). On a sale by sample, inspection after delivery, in order to see if the bulk corresponds with the sample, is evidence of acceptance (Page v. Morgan, supra). Keeping goods for an unreasonable time after delivery, without giving notice of rejection, is also evidence of acceptance (Bushel v. Wheeler, (1844) 15 Q. B. 442; 81 R. R. 675; Norman v. Phillips, (1845) 14 M. & W. 277; 14 L. J. Ex. 306).

Receipt.]—Receipt is the co-relative term to delivery, and to constitute actual receipt for the purposes of the statute it is necessary, on the one hand, that the vendor should have parted with the possession of the goods so as to deprive himself of his right of lien (Bill v. Bament, (1841) 9 M. & W. 36, 41; 11 L. J. Ex. 81; 60 R. R. 658, per Parke, B.; Baldey v. Parker, (1823) 2 B. & C. 37, 44; 1 L. J. K. B. 229; 26 R. R. 260, per Holroyd, J.); on the other, that the purchaser or his agent should have received them. Where the delivery is made to a carrier selected by the purchaser, the carrier becomes for this purpose his agent (Hart v. Bush, (1858) E. B. & E. 494; 27 L. J. Q. B. 271; 113 R. R. 744). But if the delivery be to a wharfinger for shipment, or on board a ship not named by the purchaser, there is no receipt for the purpose of the statute (Hart v. Bush, supra; Meredith v. Meigh, (1853) 2 E. & B. 364; 22 L. J. Q. B. 401; 95 R. R. 603). To make a wharfinger or other person in whose custody goods are placed by the vendor the agent to receive them for the purchaser, there must be, so to speak, an attornment, whereby the wharfinger or other person agrees with the purchaser to hold them for him (Farina v. Home, (1846) 16 M. & W. 119, 123; 16 L. J. Ex. 73; 73 R. R. 433, per Parke, B.; Meredith v. Meigh, supra). Where goods, selected by a purchaser, were, at his request, forwarded by a carrier whom he named to a wharfinger whom he also named, receipt by the wharfinger was held to be a good receipt within the statute (Cusack v. Robinson, (1861) 1 B. & S. 299; 30 L. J. Q. B. 261; 124 R. R. 566).

Part Payment.]—The retention of money due by purchaser to vendor, though such retention be a term of the contract, is not part payment which satisfies sect. 4, sub-s. 1 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1893 (Norton v. Davison, (1899) 1 Q. B. 401; 68 L. J. Q. B. 265).

Goods sold and delivered.]—In an action for goods sold and delivered, the contract of sale, either express or implied, and the delivery of the goods to the defendant or his authorised agent must be proved; delivery to a carrier or other person, in pursuance of the contract or with the assent of the defendant, is sufficient for this purpose (Dutton v. Solomonson, (1803) 3 B. & P. 582; 7 R. R. 883; Meredith v. Meigh, supra). If goods delivered "on sale or return" are not returned within a reasonable time, the sale becomes absolute, and the price may be recovered as for goods sold and delivered (Moss v. Sweet, (1851) 16 Q. B. 493; 20 L. J. Q. B. 167; 83 R. R. 560). If a wife is living with her husband an order by and delivery to her of goods for household use is primâ facie sufficient, though her presumed authority may be disproved (Jolly v. Rees, (1864) 15 C. B. N. S. 628; 33 L. J. C. P. 177; 137 R. R. 688; Debenham v. Mellon, (1880) 6 App. Cas. 24). If, however, she live separate from him, the burden of proof is shifted; if the husband allows her a sufficient maintenance, he is not bound by her contracts, though the person supplying the goods had no notice of the allowance (Mizen v. Pick, (1838) 3 M. & W. 481; 7 L. J. Ex. 153; 49 R. R. 694; Travers v. Sen, (1917) 33 T. L. R. 202).

If the goods were to be paid for by bill or on credit, it must be shown that the defendant has refused to give the bill, or that the credit has expired (Webb v. Fairmaner, (1838) 3 M. & W. 473; 7 L. J. Ex. 140; 49 R. R. 690; Mussen v. Price, (1803) 4 East, 147), or that the bill has been dishonoured (Fry v. Hill, (1817) 7 Taunt. 397; 18 R. R. 512).

Defence.]—The defendant may deny the sale or delivery, or may show that the credit has not expired. He may prove that the goods were sold by description and do not correspond therewith (Varley v. Whipp, (1900) 1 Q. B. 513; 69 L. J. Q. B. 333). Having given the proper notice (ante, p. 81), he may rely on infancy, coverture, the Statute of Limitations, or his discharge under the Bankruptcy Act. He may show that the goods were sold under an illegal contract, or prove payment, a tender, or (having given the proper notice) a set-off against the plaintiff's claim, or a counterclaim, or may pay money into court. He may likewise prove that the goods were inferior in quality to those bargained for, which will afford a defence pro tanto (Mondel v. Steel, (1841) 8 M. & W. 858; 10 L. J. Ex. 426; 58 R. R. 890; Davis v. Hedges, (1871) L. R. 6 Q. B. 687; 40 L. J. Q. B. 276).

Plaintiff's Answer.]—Where infancy is proved, the plaintiff may show in answer that the goods were necessaries (Peters v. Fleming, (1840) 6 M. & W. 42; 9 L. J. Ex. 81; 55 R. R. 495). In answer to the Statute of Limitations, he may prove part payment or an acknowledgment in writing by the defendant within six years. But the acknowledgment must either contain an actual promise of payment, or else be an unconditional acknowledgment from which a promise may be implied (Smith v. Thorne, (1852) 18 Q. B. 134; 21 L. J. Q. B. 199; 88 R. R. 555; Tanner v. Smart, (1827) 6 B. & C. 603; 5 L. J. K. B. 218; 30 R. R. 461; Chasemore v. Turner, (1875) L. R. 10 Q. B. 500; Green v. Humphreys (C. A.), (1884) 26 Ch. D. 474; 53 L. J. Ch. 625). An acknowledgment by one of two jointly liable will not take the case out of the statute against the other. (9 Geo. 2, c. 14, sect. 1 (Lord Tenterden's Act)). If part payment is relied on, it must be shown that the payment was on account of the debt for which the action was brought, and that it was made as part payment of a greater debt (Tippets v. Heane, (1834) 1 C. M. & R. 252; 3 L. J. Ex. 281; 40 R. R. 549; Burn v. Boulton, (1846) 2 C. B. 476; 15 L. J. C. P. 97; 69 R. R. 508), and that it was a voluntary promise from which a promise to pay the balance may be implied (Morgan v. Rowlands, (1872) L. R. 7 Q. B. 493; 41 L. J. Q. B. 187). The payment may be by goods (Hooper v. Stephens, (1835) 4 A. & E. 71; 5 L. J. K. B. 4; 43 R. R. 306). Payment by one of two jointly liable will not take the case out of the statute against both (19 & 20 Vict. c. 97, s. 14).

Goods sold but not delivered.]—Where the property in goods has passed by sale to the purchaser, but there has been no delivery to him, the seller may maintain an action for the price, unless he was bound to deliver before calling for payment and is himself in default (Atkinson v. Bell (1828) 8 B. & C. 277; 6 L. J. K. B. 258; 32 R. R. 382; Alexander v. Gardner, (1835) 1 Bing. N. C. 671; 4 L. J. C. P. 223; 41 R. R. 651). The plaintiff is entitled to recover the whole price of the goods (Hankey v. Smith, (1796) 1 Peake, 57).

Not accepting Goods.] —If the property in the goods has not passed to the buyer, and he refuses to accept them according to contract, the seller's remedy is by action for damages for not accepting. The damages will generally be the difference between the contract price and the market price at the time when the goods ought to have been accepted (Boorman v. Nash, (1829) 9 B. & C. 145; 7 L. J. K. B. 150; 32 R. R. 607).

The defendant, in addition to the defences already pointed out with respect to actions for the price of goods, may show, where the sale is by sample or description, that he rejected the goods because they did not correspond with the sample or description (Heilbutt v. Hickson, (1872) L. R. 7 C. P. 438; 41 L. J. C. P. 228; Bowes v. Shand, (1877) 2 App. Cas. 455, 480; 46 L. J. Q. B. 561; see per Lord Blackburn; Varley v. Whipp, (1900) 1 Q. B. 513; 69 L. J. Q. B. 333). After giving notice of rejection he is not bound to return them, but he must not use them (Grimoldby v. Wells, (1875) L. R. 10 C. P. 391; 44 L. J. C. P. 203; Lucy v. Mouflet, (1860) 5 H. & N. 229; 29 L. J. Ex. 110; 120 R. R. 555). Where a sale is of specific goods so that the property passes by the sale, and a warranty is given with them, as in the case of a sale of a horse with a warranty, this is a thing collateral, and its breach does not entitle the purchaser to reject the things bought (Street v. Blay, (1831) 2 B. & Ad. 456; 36 R. R. 626; Couston v. Chapman, (1872) L. R. 2 Sc. App. 250).

Not delivering Goods.]—If the vendor refuses to deliver goods sold, the buyer may bring an action for damages for breach of contract. If the property has passed to the buyer, he may instead sue in trover for a conversion; but the measure of damages in both cases will generally be the same, viz., the difference between the contract price and the market price (Chinery v. Viall, (1860) 5 H. & N. 288; 29 L. J. Ex. 180; 120 R. R. 588). Where the sale is of specific or ascertained goods the buyer may in an action for breach of contract obtain an order for specific delivery pursuant to the Sale of Goods Act, 1893 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 71, s. 52).

Goods not according to Contract.]—If goods delivered are not according to contract, or if being sold with a warranty the warranty is not complied with, the purchaser may, in an action for damages, recover the difference between the price contracted for and the real value of the goods (Mondel v. Steel, (1841) 8 M. & W. 858, 870; 10 L. J. Ex. 426; 58 R. R. 890, per Parke, B.), together with such special damage as may be applicable to the case (Hadley v. Baxendale, (1854) 9 Ex. 341; 23 L. J. Ex. 179; 96 R. R. 742). And he may maintain this action even though he has been sued for and has paid the price of the goods (Davis v. Hedges, (1871) L. R. 6 Q. B. 687; 40 L. J. Q. B. 276).

Services Rendered.]—An action lies when work, either bodily or mental (Grafton v. Armitage, (1845) 2 C. B. 336; 15 L. J. C. P. 20), has been done by the plaintiff for the defendant under a contract, express or implied. If materials have been provided, a claim for their value may be joined. The plaintiff must prove, first, the express contract, if there be one, if not, the circumstances from which it arises; secondly, the performance on the plaintiff's part; and lastly, the value of the work, by the agreement, if any, if not, generally.

If plaintiff contracts to do particular work for a certain sum, and does not complete it, he cannot generally sue for a quantum meruit proportioned to the part of the work which he has done (see Cutter v. Powell, 2 Smith's Leading Cases, 12th edit., p. 1, and cases there referred to; H. Dakin & Co., Ltd. v. Lee, (1916) 1 K. B. 566).

Defence.]—The defendant may show in defence that he did not order the work; that credit was not given to him, but to another; that the work was not done; or that the work was done under an entire contract not yet completed (Sinclair v. Bowles, (1829) 9 B. & C. 92; 7 L. J. K. B. 178; 32 R. R. 589; Cutter v. Powell, (1795) 2 Sm. L. C. (12th edit.), p. 1; 3 R. R. 185); Appleby v. Myers, (1867) L. R. 2 C. P. 651); or, if completed, in reduction of the claim, that it was improperly done (Mondel v. Steel, (1841) 8 M. & W. 858, 870; 10 L. J. Ex. 426; 58 R. R. 890, per Parke, B.).

Solicitors.]—Solicitors must prove the retainer by the defendant, that the business was done, and that a signed bill was duly delivered to the defendant one month before action (6 & 7 Vict. c. 73, s. 37). An agency bill is taxable, and must therefore be delivered (Smith v. Dimes, (1849) 4 Ex. 32; 19 L. J. Ex. 60; 80 R. R. 473). Even if the defendant has assented to the items, if no bill has been delivered plaintiff cannot recover as an account stated (Brooks v. Bockett, (1847) 9 Q. B. 847; 16 L. J. Q. B. 178). The bill may be proved by a copy, or duplicate original, without notice to produce (Colling v. Treweek, (1827) 6 B. & C. 394; 5 L. J. K. B. 132; 30 R. R. 366).

Defence.]—The defendant may show that the plaintiff is uncertificated (37 & 38 Vict. c. 68, s. 12), or was not duly admitted (Hill v. Sydney, (1838) 7 A. & E. 956; 7 L. J. Q. B. 87), or that no signed bill has been delivered (6 & 7 Vict. c. 73, s. 26); but where, as in the last instance, the defence is a statutory defence, notice of special defence must be given under Order X. rr. 10, 18. The plaintiff's negligence is no defence (Templer v. M'Lachlan, (1806) 2 N. R. Bos. & P. 136; Cox v. Leech, (1857) 1 C. B. N. S. 617; 26 L. J. C. P. 125; 107 R. R. 829), except it has deprived the defendant of all benefit (Bracey v. Carter, (1840) 12 A. & E. 373; 54 R. R. 575); even the disbursements cannot then be recovered (Lewis v. Samuel, (1846) 8 Q. B. 685; 15 L. J. Q. B. 218; 70 R. R. 582). The defendant may prove a special agreement, to charge only costs out of pocket, or the like (Jones v. Reade, (1836) 5 A. & E. 529; 6 L. J. K. B. 9; 33 & 34 Vict. c. 28, s. 6. As to the enforcement of such agreements, see Part V.), p. 2258.

Medical Practitioners, etc.]—Physicians, surgeons, and medical practitioners, before they can recover for medical or surgical advice, attendance, or for the performance of any operation, or for medicine supplied, must prove registration under the Medical Act (21 & 22 Vict. c. 90, s. 32; 2 Vict. c. 21; 23 & 24 Vict. c. 7); but should they be fellows of a college of physicians, the fellows of which are prohibited by bye-law from recovering at law their expenses, charges, or fees, the defendant may rely on such bye-law as a defence (49 & 50 Vict. c. 48, s. 6; sect. 31 of the 21 & 22 Vict. c. 90, is repealed by 49 & 50 Vict. c. 48, s. 28); notice of the intention to rely on it should, as a statutory defence, be given pursuant to Order X. r. 18. If a duly qualified practitioner allows his assistant, an unqualified person, to attend patients for him, and renders no services himself, he cannot recover anything (Howarth v. Brearley, (1887) 19 Q. B. D. 303; 56 L. J. Q. B. 543).

Medical Register.]—Registration under the Medical Act is proved by a printed copy of the current annual Medical Register containing the name and qualifications of the plaintiff, or if it does not, by a certified copy of the entry on the register under the hand of the registrar of the council (21 & 22 Vict. c. 90, s. 27).

Apothecaries.] — An apothecary must prove that he has obtained a certificate under the Apothecaries Act (55 Geo. III. c. 194, s. 21), dated prior to the accruing of the claim (Leman v. Houseley, (1874) L. R. 10 Q. B. 66; 44 L. J. Q. B. 22). The certificate proves itself when produced (14 & 15 Vict. c. 99, s. 8).

Servants.]—Servants suing for wages must prove the retainer or service, and the amount of wages. If a servant quits before the term has expired, or is discharged for good cause, he can recover nothing (Huttman v. Boulnois, (1826) 2 C. & P. 510; Lilley v. Elwin, (1848) 11 Q. B. 742; 17 L. J. Q. B. 132; 75 R. R. 623). A general hiring depends on the custom; it is usually for a year (Beeston v. Collyer, (1827) 4 Bing. 309; 5 L. J. C. P. 180; 29 R. R. 576; Lilley v. Elwin, supra), though the wages are paid monthly (Fawcett v. Cash, (1834) 5 B. & Ad. 904; 3 L. J. K. B. 113; 39 R. R. 709). In the case of domestic and menial servants the contract may be determined by a month's warning on either side (Nowlan v. Ablett, (1835) 2 C. M. & R. 54; 4 L. J. Ex. 155). If a master turn away a domestic servant without good cause, he must pay a month's wages, not board wages, in advance (Robinson v. Hindman, (1800) 3 Esp. 235); this cannot be recovered under a claim for work and labour; the plaintiff must specially state his cause of action (Fewings v. Tisdal, (1847) 1 Ex. 295; 11 Jur. 977; 17 L. J. Ex. 18; as to who are menial servants, see Nowlan v. Ablett, supra; Todd v. Kerrich, (1852) 8 Ex. 151; 22 L. J. Ex. 1).

A servant wrongfully discharged may treat the contract as rescinded, and sue for his actual service, or on the contract for wrongful dismissal; but having once sued on the contract, he cannot afterwards sue for his work and labour (Goodman v. Pocock, (1850) 15 Q. B. 576; 19 L. J. Q. B. 410; 81 R. R. 705; see also notes to Cutter v. Powell, (1795) 2 Sm. L. C. (12th edit.), p. 1; 3 R. R. 185).

Other Liquidated Claims.—Money Lent.] — An action lies for money lent to the defendant, or to a third person, on his sole credit; where money is lent to be repaid by the defendant on demand, or he is to do some act, the action lies if he omits to do the act (Bristowe v. Needham, (1842) 9 M. & W. 729; 11 L. J. Ex. 278). An I O U is not in itself evidence of money lent, for though it admits money to be due, it does not admit that it became due in any particular way (Fesenmayer v. Adcock, (1847) 16 M. & W. 449; 73 R. R. 567).

Money Paid.]—Where the plaintiff has paid money for the defendant at his request, either express or implied, he may recover the amount from the defendant. If the plaintiff has paid money and the defendant has expressly or impliedly contracted to indemnify him either wholly or by way of contribution (Prior v. Hembrow, (1841) 8 M. & W. 873; 58 R. R. 891; Sedgwick v. Daniell, (1857) 2 H. & N. 319; 27 L. J. Ex. 116; 115 R. R. 561), as in the case of a surety (Kemp v. Finden, (1844) 12 M. & W. 421; 13 L. J. Ex. 137; 67 R. R. 384; Reynolds v. Wheeler, (1861) 10 C. B. N. S. 561; 30 L. J. C. P. 350; 128 R. R. 836), or the accommodation acceptor of a bill (Garrard v. Cottrell, (1847) 10 Q. B. 679); or if the plaintiff has been compelled under a legal obligation to pay money for which the defendant is properly and primarily liable, as where a tenant under threat of distress pays taxes which his landlord is bound to pay (Exall v. Partridge, (1799) 8 T. R. 308; Hooper v. Treffry, (1847) 1 Ex. 17; 16 L. J. Ex. 233; 74 R. R. 578); this action lies although the plaintiff is not relieved from any liability by the payment (Brittain v. Lloyd, (1845) 14 M. & W. 762; 15 L. J. Ex. 43; 69 R. R. 816; Lewis v. Campbell, (1849) 8 C. B. 541; 19 L. J. C. P. 130; 79 R. R. 623). The plaintiff must prove the express agreement if there be one; if not, those facts from which a promise or legal liability to repay may be implied.

Money Had and Received.]—A claim for money had and received lies to recover money which belongs to the plaintiff, but has been obtained by the defendant by fraud (Crockford v. Winter, (1807) 1 Camp. 124); by extortion (Smith v. Sleap, (1844) 12 M. & W. 585); by the improper use of legal process (Duke de Cadaval v. Collins, (1836) 4 A. & E. 858; 5 L. J. K. B. 171; 43 R. R. 499); by legal duress (Close v. Phipps, (1844) 7 M. & G. 586; 8 Scott, N. R. 381), or wrongful detention of goods (Ashmole v. Wainwright, (1842) 2 Q. B. 837; 11 L. J. Q. B. 79; 57 R. R. 817; Oates v. Hudson, (1851) 6 Ex. 346; 20 L. J. Ex. 284; 86 R. R. 326); or by a refusal to do what the defendant was legally bound to do (Parker v. G. W. Rail. Co., (1844) 7 M. & G. 253; 7 Scott, N. R. 835; 13 L. J. C. P. 105). It lies where the defendant has received money paid by the plaintiff under a mistake or forgetfulness of facts (Kelly v. Solari, (1841) 9 M. & W. 54; 11 L. J. Ex. 10; 60 R. R. 666; Townsend v. Crowdy, (1860) 8 C. B. N. S. 477; 29 L. J. C. P. 300), but not where it has been paid under a mistake of law (Marriott v. Hampton, (1797) 7 T. R. 269; 2 Sm. L. C. 403 (12th edit.); 4 R. R. 439); also where it has been paid on a consideration which afterwards fails (Young v. Cole, (1837) 3 Bing. N. C. 724; 6 L. J. C. P. 201; 43 R. R. 783; Westropp v. Solomon, (1849) 8 C. B. 345; Woodland v. Fear, (1857) 7 E. & B. 519; 26 L. J. Q. B. 202; 110 R. R. 707), as a deposit on a bargain which has gone off without plaintiff's fault (Simmons v. Heseltine, (1858) 5 C. B. N. S. 554; 28 L. J. C. P. 129; 116 R. R. 764), or paid to a company for shares in an abortive scheme (Walstab v. Spottiswoode, (1846) 15 M. & W. 501; 15 L. J. Ex. 193; 71 R. R. 746). The plaintiff must prove the receipt of the money by the defendant, and his own title to recover it.

Where the person receiving the money is a mere agent of another to whom he is accountable (Stephens v. Badcock, (1832) 3 B. & Ad. 354; 1 L. J. K. B. 75; 37 R. R. 448; Bamford v. Shuttleworth, (1840) 11 A. & E. 926; 52 R. R. 542), or where it is paid to a third party who has not acknowledged that he holds it for the plaintiff (Lilly v. Hays, (1836) 5 A. & E. 548; Moore v. Bushell, (1857) 27 L. J. Ex. 3) the action does not lie.

Interest is recoverable in any case where there has been an express contract to pay it, and, by the custom of merchants, on bills of exchange (Page v. Newman, (1829) 9 B. & C. 378; 7 L. J. K. B. 267; 33 R. R. 204). In other cases it may be recovered as damages from the time when the debt was due, if payable by a written instrument at a certain time; if not, from the time when a written demand for it was made with notice that interest would be claimed (3 & 4 Will. IV. c. 42, s. 28). At common law there is no right to interest on a claim for money had and received, but in equity interest can be given in certain circumstances, the principal one being where the defendant has used for his own benefit the money upon which interest is claimed, and the money has been demanded. Interest may be given from the date of such demand (Barclay v. Harris and Cross, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 115). Interest may also be recovered where a promise to pay is to be implied from the usage of trade or other circumstances (see Mayne on Damages (5th edit.), Chap. IV.).

On an account stated, the plaintiff must prove an absolute and unqualified (Wayman v. Hilliard, (1830) 7 Bing. 101; 9 L. J. (O. S.) C. P. 30) acknowledgment by the defendant of his claim. It ought to appear that the account was stated with reference to former transactions (Clarke v. Webb, (1834) 1 C. M. & R. 29; 3 L. J. Ex. 300). An oral admission of a debt due for goods sold, is evidence of an account stated, although the agreement of sale was in writing (Newhall v. Holt, (1840) 6 M. & W. 662; 9 L. J. Ex. 293; 55 R. R. 758). An I O U is primâ facie evidence of an account stated with the party to whom it is given, though his name is not on it (Fesenmayer v. Adcock, (1847) 16 M. & W. 449; 73 R. R. 567; see, however, Lemere v. Elliott, (1861) 6 H. & N. 656; 30 L. J. Ex. 350; 123 R. R. 755); an award made by an arbitrator is not (Bates v. Townley, (1848) 2 Ex. 152; 12 Jur. 606; 76 R. R. 544).

In an action on a simple money bond, execution of the bond is all that need be proved; where conditions are annexed, in addition to this a breach must be proved. Interest may be recovered from the day for payment (3 & 4 Will. IV. c. 42, s. 28).

The defendant may prove that he did not execute the bond; and in the case of a money bond, payment before or at the day appointed; or where there is a condition, performance; and in either case, satisfaction and discharge by deed after breach; that the bond was obtained by fraud, or is void by reason of illegality, or has been altered in a material point since execution. He may (having given the proper notice) (see ante, p. 81) rely on infancy, coverture, the Statute of Limitations, or discharge under the Bankruptcy Act.

Award.]—In debt on an award the execution of the award, and also the submission of the parties, must be proved (Brazier v. Jones, (1828) 8 B. & C. 124).

Money-lenders Act, 1900.]—(See Act and cases in notes thereto, ante, p. 253). Where proceedings are taken in any court by a money-lender as defined by the Act (63 & 64 Vict. c. 51, s. 6; see Litchfield v. Dreyfus, (1906) 1 K. B. 584; 75 L. J. K. B. 447) to recover money lent after November 1st, 1900, or to enforce any agreement or security taken after that date in respect of money lent either before or after that date, and there is evidence which satisfies the court that the interest charged in respect of the sum actually lent, or the amounts charged for expenses, inquiries, renewals, etc., are excessive, and that the transaction is harsh and unconscionable, or is otherwise such that a court of equity would give relief, the court may re-open the transaction and take an account between the money-lender and the person sued notwithstanding any agreement purporting to close the transaction, and may relieve the person sued from being compelled to make any excessive payment; or if an excessive amount has been already paid may order repayment by the creditor and may set aside any security given, and may order a money-lender who has parted with the security to indemnify the borrower (63 & 64 Vict. c. 51, s. 1, sub-s. 1). The Act does not apply to a contract for a loan made and intended to be performed abroad (Shrichand v. Lacon, (1906) 22 T. L. R. 245).

Any court in which proceedings might be taken for the recovery of money lent by a money-lender may exercise the powers above mentioned (63 & 64 Vict. c. 51, s. 1, sub-s. 2). See Money Lenders Act, ante, p. 253.

On the above section, it was decided in Wilton v. Osborn, (1901) 2 K. B. 110; 70 L. J. K. B. 507, that the words "or otherwise is such that a court of equity would give relief" were not exclusive of the words "harsh and unconscionable," and that in order to entitle the person sued to relief the transaction must be such as a court of equity would relieve against on the ground of its being harsh and unconscionable. This decision practically limited the effect of sect. 1, sub-s. 1 of the Act to cases where the debtor could theretofore have obtained relief in a court of equity (see Nevill v. Snelling, (1880) 15 Ch. Div. 679; 49 L. J. Ch. 777). But in the case of In re A Debtor (C. A.), (1903) 1 K. B. 705; 72 L. J. K. B. 382; and see Poncione v. Higgins, (1904) 21 T. L. R. 11, the Court of Appeal held that a transaction might be re-opened which was harsh and unconscionable, although not one in which a court of equity would have given relief before the Act, and Wilton v. Osborne was in terms overruled. Excessive interest, having regard to the risk or absence of risk, may of itself render a transaction harsh and unconscionable (In re A Debtor, supra; Saunders v. Newbold, (1905) 1 Ch. 260; 74 L. J. Ch. 120; (H. L.), sub nom. Samuel v. Newbold, (1906) A. C. 461; 75 L. J. Ch. 705; Wells v. Allott C. A.), (1904) 2 K. B. 842; 73 L. J. K. B. 1023; Part v. Bond, (1905) 93 L. T. 49; (C. A.) 94 L. T. 390). But a high rate of interest is not necessarily excessive (Carringtons v. Smith, (1906) 1 K. B. 79; 75 L. J. K. B. 49).

It has been held at nisi prius that the transaction may be re-opened where it appears that, by reason of a term of the bargain understood by the money-lender but not explained to or understood by the borrower, the rate of interest is considerably increased beyond that contemplated by the borrower (Levene v. Greenwood, (1904) 20 T. L. R. 389).

A transaction of the nature described in s. 2, sub-s. 1 (c), entered into by an unregistered money-lender is unenforceable, and there is no transaction to re-open under the powers of s. 1, sub-s. 1 (Victorian Daylesford Syndicate v. Bott, (1905) 2 Ch. 624; 74 L. J. Ch. 673; approved in Bonnard v. Dott (C. A.) (1906), 1 Ch. 740; 75 L. J. Ch. 446). But an unregistered money-lender can maintain an action for damages for fraudulent misrepresentations whereby he was induced to advance money on loan (Dott v. Brickwell, (1906) 23 T. L. R. 61).

The mere fact that the loan is actually completed at the borrower's office is not an infringement of sect. 2, sub-s. 1 (b), which requires the business to be carried on at the money-lender's registered address and at no other address (King v. Massey, (1908) 24 T. L. R. 710); it may be carried on through the post (In re Seed, Ex parte King, (1910) 1 K. B. 661; 79 L. J. K. B. 421; Jackson v. Price, (1910) 1 K. B. 143; 79 L. J. K. B. 130). It is not necessary that every stage and every incident of every piece of the money-lending business should be transacted at the registered office. The question is one of fact, not of law (Kirkwood v. Gadd, (1910) A. C. 422; 79 L. J. K. B. 815; reversing Gadd v. Provincial Union Bank, (1909) 2 K. B. 353; 78 L. J. K. B. 815). A breach of the provisions of s. 2, sub-s. 1, though it subjects the money-lender to the penalties set out in the section does not make the transaction void. Finegold v. Cornelius, (1916) 2 K. B. 719; 86 L. J. K. B. 1. By the Money Lenders Act, 1911 (1 & 2 Geo. V. c. 38) notwithstanding anything in s. 2 of the Money Lenders Act, 1900, any agreement with, or security taken by a money-lender shall be, and shall be deemed to have been, valid in favour of any bonâ fide assignee or holder for value without notice of any defect due to the operation of that section. The money-lender is liable to indemnify any person prejudiced by this enactment. Such bonâ fide holder for value without notice must not himself be a money-lender. See Act, ante, p. 258.

Practice.]—The powers of the county court under sect. 1, sub-s. 1 of the Act may be exercised at any stage of the proceedings, whether notice has or has not been given by the defendant of his intention to ask the court to exercise its powers, subject, where no notice has been given, to such terms as to adjournment, furnishing particulars, costs and otherwise as may be just (Order L. r. 33 (1)). An application to the court under sect. 1, sub-s. 2 of the Act must be by action commenced by plaint and summons. Particulars stating concisely the grounds on which the application is made, and the relief claimed, must be filed (Order L. r. 33 (2)).

Allowances of special items of costs under Order LIII. r. 8 (1), may be made (Order LIII. r. 8 (2)).

Carriage of Goods.—Common Carrier.]—A common carrier, that is to say, one whose business is to carry the goods of all persons indiscriminately for hire, is under two obligations; first, he is bound to receive all goods of the class as to which he holds himself out as a carrier duly tendered to him and for which he has room (a); and secondly, he is responsible for the safe delivery of goods, loss by the act of God or the King's enemies alone excepted (Morse v. Slue, (1672) Ventr. 190, 238; notes to Coggs v. Bernard, (1704) 1 Sm. L. C. 191 (12th edit.); Liver Alkali Co. v. Johnson, (1872) L. R. 7 Ex. 267; 41 L. J. Ex. 110; 9 Ex. 338; 43 L. J. Ex. 216; James Morrison & Co. v. Shaw, Savill and Albion Co., (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 724). And owners of carrying ships, lightermen, and the like, though they may not hold themselves out to take the first goods that offer, and though they may not ply between any fixed termini, may incur the liability of common carriers unless such liability be excluded by contract (Liver Alkali Co. v. Johnson, supra ; Nugent v. Smith, (1876) 1 C. P. D. 19, 423; 45 L. J. C. P. 19, 697; but see Watkins v. Cottell, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 287, where case of Liver Alkali Co. v. Johnson is considered). Quære whether, notwithstanding certain expressions in the cases as to a person "incurring the liability of a common carrier," this liability can be incurred by anyone who is not in fact a common carrier.

Other Carriers.] — In the case of carriers who do not fall within the description of common carriers, or of those who incur the liabilities of common carriers as first stated, the terms of the contract of carriage in each particular case must be looked to (Scaife v. Farrant, (1875) L. R. 10 Ex. 358; 44 L. J. Ex. 234). In the absence of special contract, the case will fall under the general rule as to a bailee for hire, who is bound to take reasonable care of the goods entrusted to him (Coggs v. Bernard, supra).

Special Contract.]—Apart from statutory enactment, there was nothing to hinder any carrier, whether a common carrier or not, from limiting or regulating his liability by special agreement. In some respects, however, the common law liability of carriers has been limited, and their common law freedom of contract has been restrained by statute.

As to special contract excluding liability save for non-delivery of any package or consignment, see Wills v. Great Western Rail. Co., (1917) A. C. 148: 86 L. J. K. B. 641; Grand Trunk Rail. of Canada v. Robinson, (1915) A. C. 740; 84 L. J. P. C. 194.

Land Carriers Act.]—By the Carriers Act (11 Geo. IV. & 1 Will. IV. c. 68), which applies to all common carriers by land, the carrier is not liable for the loss of, or injury to, gold or silver coin, English or foreign, gold or silver manufactured or unmanufactured, precious stones, jewellery, watches, clocks, or timepieces, trinkets, bills, bank notes, English, Scotch or Irish, orders, notes or securities for payment of money, English or foreign, stamps, maps, writings, title deeds, paintings, engravings, pictures, gold or silver plate, or plated articles, glass, china, silk, manufactured or unmanufactured and whether wrought up with other materials or not, furs or lace (by 28 & 29 Vict. c. 94, s. 1, machine-made lace is excluded from the Act), contained in any parcel or package (as to what is a parcel or package, see Whaite v. L. & Y. Rail. Co., (1874) L. R. 9 Ex. 67; 43 L. J. Ex. 47), if the value of such articles exceeds 10*l.* (as to computation of value, see Treadwin v. G. E. Rail. Co., (1868) L. R. 3 C. P. 308; 37 L. J. C. P. 83; Henderson v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., (1870) L. R. 5 Ex. 90; 39 L. J. Ex. 55), unless at the time of delivering such articles for carriage their value and nature has been declared, and the increased charge (which the carrier is authorised to make) paid, or an agreement to pay it accepted (11 Geo. IV. & 1 Will. IV. c. 68, s. 1), if demanded by the carrier (G. N. Rail. Co. v. Behrens, (1862) 7 H. & N. 950; 31 L. J. Ex. 299). The sender is bound to declare the value and nature of the enumerated goods, wherever the delivery be; otherwise he can in no case recover their value (Hart v. Baxendale, (1851) 6 Ex. 769; 21 L. J. Ex. 123; 86 R. R. 465). On the other hand, the carrier is bound to post up his rates of extra charge in the warehouse, office or receiving house where such goods are received, and, if required, to give a receipt for the goods, acknowledging them to be insured. If he fail in either of these particulars, and proper notice of value and nature has been given, he is under the common law liabilities and must refund the extra charge (11 Geo. IV. & 1 Will. IV. c. 68, ss. 2, 3; Hart v. Baxendale, supra). The Act does not protect a carrier from liability for loss or injury to goods of any kind arising from the felonious acts of his servant (11 Geo. IV. & 1 Will. IV. s. 8; as to what is sufficient evidence of loss by the felony of the carrier's servant, see Vaughton v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., (1874) L. R. 9 Ex. 93; 43 L. J. Ex. 75; M'Queen v. G. W. Rail. Co., (1875) L. R. 10 Q. B. 569; 44 L. J. Q. B. 130). And the statute applies only to loss or injury, not to delay (Hearn v. L. & S. W. Rail. Co., (1855) 10 Ex. 793; 24 L. J. Ex. 180; 102 R. R. 833).

By the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, a railway or canal company is not liable for a horse to the extent of more than 50*l.*, neat cattle per head than 15*l.*, or a sheep or pig than 2*l.*, unless at the time of delivery a higher value be declared, in which case the company may by way of extra rate charge a reasonable percentage on the declared value. A table of rates must be exhibited as under the Carriers Act. The proof of value lies on the owner (17 & 18 Vict. c. 31, s. 7).

The Land Carriers Act does not restrict the freedom of carriers generally to limit their common law liability by special contract (11 Geo. IV. & 1 Will. IV. c. 68, s. 6); though it provides that no mere general notice shall have that effect (11 Geo. IV. & 1 Will. IV. c. 68, s. 4). But the Railway and Canal Act provides with respect to railway and canal companies not only that they cannot limit their liability by mere notice, but further that they can only do so by such conditions as the court or judge before whom the question arises shall deem reasonable; and those conditions to be operative must be embodied in a special contract in writing (Peek v. N. Staff. Rail. Co., (1862) 10 H. L. C. 473; 32 L. J. Q. B. 241; 138 R. R. 250; Doolan v. Mid. Rail. Co., (1877) 2 App. Cas. 792) signed by the other party to the contract or the person delivering the goods for carriage (17 & 18 Vict. c. 31, s. 7. As to conditions held reasonable, see Peek v. N. Staff. Rail. Co., supra; Lewis v. G. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1877) 3 Q. B. D. 195; 47 L. J. Q. B. 131; M. S. & L. Rail. Co. v. Brown, (1883) 8 App. Cas. 703; 53 L. J. Q. B. 124; Western Electric Co. v. Great Eastern Rail. Co., (1914) 3 K. B. 554; 83 L. J. K. B. 1326; and Gunyon v. South Eastern and Chatham Railway Committee, (1915) 2 K. B. 370; 84 L. J. K. B. 1212).

The plaintiff in an action against a carrier must prove the contract of carriage, either express or implied from circumstances, as from the delivery of the goods for carriage. He must show also that he is the right person to sue, that is to say, the person on whose account the contract was made, or for the purpose of establishing a wrong independent of contract, that the goods are his property (Marshall v. York Rail. Co., (1851) 11 C. B. 655; 21 L. J. C. P. 34; 87 R. R. 742). In the case of goods sold and despatched to the buyer by carrier, if the property passes to the buyer before or by the delivery, he is in general the person to sue (Dutton v. Solomonson, (1803) 3 B. & P. 582, 584; 7 R. R. 883; Dawes v. Peck, (1799) 8 T. R. 330; 4 R. R. 675; Brown v. Hodgson, (1809) 2 Camp. 36); while if the property remains in the seller he must sue (Sargent v. Morris, (1820) 3 B. & Ald. 277; 22 R. R. 382; Coats v. Chaplin, (1842) 3 Q. B. 483; 11 L. J. Q B. 315; 61 R. R. 267; Coombs v. B. & E. Rail. Co., (1858) 3 H. & N. 1, 510; 27 L. J. Ex. 401; 117 R. R. 828). The plaintiff must further prove the breach, by loss, injury or delay, or as the case may be. As to general lien on goods for freight see United States Steel Products Co. v. Great Western Rail. Co., (1914) 3 K. B. 567; 83 L. J. K. B. 1650. On appeal (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1.

The defendant may disprove any of the matters alleged by the plaintiff or take advantage of the Carriers Act already referred to, if the facts bring him within its protection.

The damages in an action against a carrier are ordinarily limited to such as are the natural and ordinary consequences of his default; exceptional damages arising from special circumstances are not recoverable (Hadley v. Baxendale, (1854) 9 Ex. 341; 23 L. J. Ex. 179; 96 R. R. 742; British Columbia Co. v. Nettleship, (1868) L. R. 3 C. P. 499; 47 L. J. C. P. 235; Horne v. Mid. Rail. Co., (1873) L. R. 7 C. P. 583; 41 L. J. C. P. 264; 8 C. P. 131; 42 L. J. C. P. 59). Even if the carrier has notice of the special circumstances from which peculiar damage is likely to arise, the better opinion seems to be that that will not increase his liability unless the circumstances show that he undertook to bear the exceptional risk (British Columbia Co. v. Nettleship; Horne v. Mid. Rail. Co., supra).

Carriage of Passengers.] — Carriers of passengers are not insurers. A carrier of passengers is only bound to exercise due care, skill and foresight for the safe carriage of those whom he undertakes to carry; and therefore it follows that in order to recover, a passenger who complains must prove negligence. Thus, if a railway accident happen from a defect in a carriage and a passenger is injured, the company are liable or not according as the defect is or is not one which they might and ought to have detected (Readhead v. Mid. Rail. Co., (1869) L. R. 2 Q. B. 412; 4 Q. B. 379). It is the same thing if the complaint be of the state of a station or the conduct of the company's servants, alleged to have caused an accident, or of delay in the arrival of a train (Bridges v. North London Rail. Co., (1874) L. R. 7 H. L. 213; 43 L. J. Q. B. 151). In case of injury through negligence, a passenger may sue for damages, though his ticket was taken for him by another person, as where a master takes tickets for himself and his servant (see Longmeid v. Holliday, (1851) 6 Ex. 761, 767; 20 L. J. Ex. 430; 86 R. R. 459, per Parke, B.; and Marshall v. York Rail. Co., ante, p. 924).

The defendant may disprove negligence on his own part, or prove contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff; that is to say, such negligence that without it the accident would not have occurred, or that he has contracted with plaintiff that he shall not be responsible for negligence. See Cook v. T. Wilson, Sons & Co., Ltd., (1916) 35 L. J. K. B. 888; Richardson, Spence & Co. v. Rowntree, (1894) 63 L. J. Q. B. 283; (1894) A. C. 217; Stephen v. International Sleeping Car Co., (1903) 19 T. L. R. 621.

Innkeeper.]—An innkeeper was, at common law, liable for the loss of any goods of his guest in the inn, unless the loss arose from the act of God or the King's enemies, or was caused by the negligence of the guest himself (Calye's Case, (1584) 8 Co. 32; 1 Sm. L. C. 131 (12th edit.), and cases collected in notes thereto); that is to say, by the neglect by his guest of such precautions as a man of ordinary prudence would take, but for which neglect the loss would not have occurred (Calye's Case, supra; Oppenheim v. White Lion Hotel Co., (1871) L. R. 6 C. P. 515; 40 L. J. C. P. 231).

By 26 & 27 Vict. c. 41, s. 1, an innkeeper is no longer liable for the loss of or injury to his guests' goods, other than horses or other live animals, or gear appertaining thereto, or carriages, to a greater amount than 30*l.*, unless either the goods have been stolen, lost or injured through the wilful act, default or neglect of the innkeeper or his servants, or the goods have been expressly deposited with him for safe custody. He cannot refuse to accept the custody of goods; but he may require them to be deposited in a proper box or receptacle and sealed up. A copy of sect. 1 must be exhibited in a conspicuous part of the hall (sect. 3).

As to liability for the condition of the premises, see Maclenan v. Segar, (1917) 2 K. B. 325.

The innkeeper has a lien for his charges upon all goods brought by a guest, as such, to the inn (Calye's Case, supra; Threfall v. Borwick, (1875) L. R. 7 Q. B. 711; 41 L. J. Q. B. 266; 10 Q. B. 210; 44 L. J. Q. B. 87).

Landlord and Tenant.]—In an action for rent the plaintiff must prove the terms of the tenancy and that the rent sued for is in arrear. He must show that he is the person entitled to sue for it, that is to say, under ordinary circumstances, either that he is the original lessor or that he has become the assignee of the reversion. By sect. 25 sub-s. 5 of the Judicature Act, 1873, a mortgagor in possession, or in receipt of the rents of the mortgaged estates, may sue for arrears of rent in his own name (see Fairclough v. Marshall (C. A.), (1878) 4 Ex. D. 37; 48 L. J. Ex. 146). The plaintiff must further prove that the defendant is the person liable to be sued for the rent, that is to say, that he is the original tenant or the assignee of the term.

If a tenant who has taken premises for his own occupation is prevented, as by law, from occupying them, this is no defence to an action for the reserved rent, unless personal residence was the foundation of the contract (London and Northern Estates Co. v. Schlesinger, (1916) 1 K. B. 22).

Defence.]—The defendant may deny the tenancy or dispute its terms, or that the rent is in arrear. He cannot deny his landlord's title to grant the lease under which he has held (Cooke v. Loxley, (1792) 5 T. R. 4; Delaney v. Fox, (1857) 2 C. B. N. S. 768; 26 L. J. C. P. 248; 107 R. R. 614).

Use and Occupation.]—If there be no express agreement as to the terms of holding, but the defendant has occupied the premises with the assent of the plaintiff, the latter may recover in respect of the use and occupation of the premises for so long a time as the defendant has actually occupied them.

Mesne Profits.]—Should the defendant have been in occupation of the plaintiff's land as a mere wrongdoer, the plaintiff may recover the value of that occupation under the title of mesne profits.

In the case of leases for terms of years, express provisions are almost invariably inserted in the lease determining the liability to keep the premises in repair. A covenant by a tenant to keep a house in tenantable repair imposes upon him the duty of first putting it in repair if it be out of it (Payne v. Haine, (1847) 16 M. & W. 541; 16 L. J. Ex. 130; 73 R. R. 629). But in construing such a covenant, and ascertaining the extent of the obligation which it imposes, the age, character, and locality of the premises must be taken into account (Proudfoot v. Hart (C. A.), (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 42; 59 L. J. Q. B. 389). Where there is an express agreement to repair, it is no answer to an action for not repairing that the premises have been destroyed by accidental fire; the tenant who covenanted to repair is in such a case bound to rebuild (Bullock v. Dommitt, (1796) 6 T. R. 650).

A tenant from year to year, or for any shorter term, is not, in the absence of special agreement, bound to do substantial repairs. His only obligation is to keep the demised premises wind and water tight, to abstain from voluntary waste, that is to say, from doing actual injury to the premises, and make good damage done by himself, such as broken windows and the like (Auworth v. Johnson, (1832) 5 C. & P. 239; 38 R. R. 821; Leach v. Thomas, (1797) 7 C. & P. 327; 48 R. R. 790; Ferguson v. ——, (1797) 2 Esp. 590; 5 R. R. 757).

In the absence of express agreement a landlord is under no obligation to repair the demised premises, whatever the nature of the tenancy be (Gott v. Gandy, (1853) 2 E. & B. 845; 23 L. J. Q. B. 1; 95 R. R. 848), but where he lets a part of premises, e.g., an unfurnished flat, but contains control of the roof of the building, he is under an absolute obligation to keep the roof in repair, and is liable to the tenant in damages if the flat is not reasonably habitable by reason of such non-repair (Hart v. Rogers, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 272), but unless in the case of a concealed trap not to the wife or family of the tenant who may suffer bodily injury in consequence of the want of repair (Groves v. Western Mansions, Ltd., (1916) 33 T. L. R. 76; Ryall v. Kidwell & Son, (1913) 3 K. B. 123; 82 L. J. K. B. 877). Such damages cannot, however, be set off against a claim for rent (ib.). See Miller v. Hancock, (1893) 2 Q. B. 177.

Where the landlord does enter into an express agreement to repair, he is entitled to notice by the tenant of any want of repair before he can be liable to make it good (Makin v. Watkinson, (1870) L. R. 6 Ex. 25; L. & S. W. Rail. Co. v. Flower, (1875) 1 C. P. D. 77; 40 L. J. Ex. 33).

There is no implied warranty by the landlord on the letting of an unfurnished house that it is fit for habitation (Hart v. Windsor, (1843) 12 M. & W. 68; 13 L. J. Ex. 129; 67 R. R. 266), unless it is a house or part of a house let for the habitation of persons of the working classes (53 & 54 Vict. c. 70, s. 75; Walker v. Hobbs, (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 458; 59 L. J. Q. B. 93). On a letting of furnished apartments and furnished houses there is an implied warranty that they are fit for residential purposes (Smith v. Marrable, (1843) 11 M. & W. 5; 12 L. J. Ex. 223; 63 R. R. 493; Wilson v. Finch Hatton, (1877) 2 Ex. D. 336; 46 L. J. Ex. 489; Manchester Co. v. Carr, (1880) 5 C. P. D. 507; 49 L. J. C. P. 809).

An action of debt for double value lies, under 4 Geo. II. c. 28, against a tenant who wilfully holds over after the determination of his term, and after a written demand of possession. The plaintiff must prove the demise or tenancy, the determination of the term, the holding over, the demand and notice in writing, and the value; the defendant may show that the plaintiff has waived the demand and notice. Double value does not lie against a weekly tenant (Lloyd v. Rosbee, (1810) 2 Camp. 453; 11 R. R. 764).

Nearly the same remarks apply to debt for double rent, under the 11 Geo. II. c. 19, s. 18, under which a tenant who has given notice of his intention to quit and holds over after the expiration of the notice is liable to double rent. There, however, the notice need not be in writing (Timmins v. Rowlinson, (1765) 3 Burr. 1603). The statute only applies where the tenant may determine his tenancy by notice, and has properly done so (Johnstone v. Hudlestone, (1825) 4 B. & C. 922; 4 L. J. K. B. 71; 28 R. R. 505).

Where on expiration of a lease for a term of years the tenant holds over, it is a question of fact in each case whether the tenant holds upon the terms of the original lease (see Wedd v. Porter, (1916) 2 K. B. 91, 85 L. J. K. B. 1298).

Though the right to enforce covenants goes with the reversionary estate though severed, this is not so in the case of an expired lease, where by agreement the tenant holds over on an oral agreement as yearly tenant, on the terms of the lease so far as they are applicable to such a holding (Blane v. Francis, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 364).

Where tenant holds over with landlord's consent, express or implied, a new tenancy is created. Whether a tenant who holds over on the expiration of a term created by a lease, does so on the terms of the expired lease, is a question of fact (Wedd v. Porter, supra).

Wrongful Distress.]—If a landlord distrains for rent and sells, no rent being in arrear or due, the proper remedy is by action under 2 Wm. & M. sess. 1, c. 5, s. 5, for double the value of the things distrained. If some rent is due, and the landlord makes an excessive seizure, an action will lie under the Statute of Marlbridge (52 Hen. III. c. 4), whether a tender has or has not been made by the tenant of the sum really due (Smith v. Ashforth, (1860) 29 L. J. Ex. 259; 121 R. R. 889; Bail v. Mellor, (1850) 19 L. J. Ex. 279; Loring v. Warburton, (1858) E. B. & E. 507; 28 L. J. Q. B. 31; 113 R. R. 750; Fell v. Whitaker, (1871) L. R. 7 Q. B. 120; 41 L. J. Q. B. 78); or after tender, he may proceed by action of replevin (Glynn v. Thomas, (1856) 11 Ex. 870; 25 L. J. Ex. 125; 105 R. R. 836; Gulliver v. Cosens, (1845) 1 C. B. 788; 14 L. J. C. P. 215; 68 R. R. 816), or for trespass or conversion. The taking of an excessive distress is in itself unlawful (Bail v. Mellor, supra, per Parke, B.; Fell v. Whitaker, per Lush, J., (1871) L. R. 7 Q. B. 125; 41 L. J. Q. B. 78); and if the tenant pays money to get rid of the excessive distress (having first tendered the amount due) he may recover the excess, together with damages for the excessive seizure (Johnson v. Upham, (1859) 2 El. & El. 250; 28 L. J. Q. B. 252; 119 R. R. 706; Fell v. Whitaker, supra). The same principles apply where the seizure is not excessive; the tenant may at any time tender the amount due, with costs, and on the landlord's refusal to accept it he becomes a trespasser, and an action of trespass or replevin will lie against him. Formerly the landlord had a right to refuse payment after impounding, and to proceed to a sale, but since 2 Wm. & M. sess. 1, c. 5, s. 2, and 11 Geo. II. c. 19, a sale after tender is illegal (Johnson v. Upham, supra).

The mere claim of more rent than is due is not per se actionable, and, unless followed by an excessive seizure, no action lies (Tancred v. Leyland, (1851) 16 Q. B. 669; 20 L. J. Q. B. 316; 83 R. R. 663; French v. Phillips, (1856) 1 H. & N. 564; 26 L. J. Ex. 82); and if the tenant pays the amount claimed, although excessive, before any seizure, or even after a seizure which is not excessive, without making a tender of the amount really due, he cannot recover the excess (Glynn v. Thomas, supra).

Illegal Distress.]—The distress is illegal if entry is made in an illegal manner, as by breaking open a door or window (see The Six Carpenters' Case, (1611) 8 Co. 146a; 1 Sm. L. C. (12th edit.) 145), and in this case the damages recoverable are the whole value of the goods seized without any allowance in respect of the rent in arrear (Attack v. Bramwell, (1863) 3 B. & S. 520; 32 L. J. Q. B. 146; 129 R. R. 440). Breaking open the outer door makes the proceedings a trespass ab initio and wholly void, and the landlord may put in a subsequent distress for the same rent (Grunnell v. Welch, (1905) 2 K. B. 650; 74 L. J. K. B. 925; (C. A.), (1906) 2 K. B. 555; 75 L. J. K. B. 657). So, if privileged goods or things not distrainable be taken, their value is recoverable (Harvey v. Pocock, (1843) 11 M. & W. 740; 12 L. J. Ex. 434; 63 R. R. 741; Keen v. Priest, (1859) 4 H. & N. 236; 28 L. J. Ex. 157; 118 R. R. 406). An action for illegal distress lies against a bailiff under sect. 2 of the Lodgers' Goods Protection Act, 1871 (Lowe v. Dorling, (1905) 2 K. B. 501; 74 L. J. K. B. 794; (C. A.), (1906) 2 K. B. 772; 75 L. J. K. B. 1019). By a recent Act all goods and chattels of a tenant or his family which would be privileged from seizure under an execution from a county court are privileged from distress (51 & 52 Vict. c. 21, s. 4. This Act introduces some important changes in the law of distress). Chattels which are the property of the Crown are not distrainable for the rent of a subject (Secretary for War v. Wynne, (1905) 2 K. B. 845; 75 L. J. K. B. 25).

By the Law of Distress Amendment Act, 1908 (8 Edw. VII. c. 53), the goods of most undertenants or lodgers, or those of any other person other than the tenant of or beneficially interested in the premises, are, subject to the owner of such goods complying with certain conditions, protected from seizure by the superior landlord (sect. 1). See this Act, Part V. post, p. 2011.

This Act does not protect the goods comprised in any bill of sale or hire purchase agreement (sect. 4).

Irregular Distress.]—The statutes which regulate the sale by landlords of goods distrained impose certain restrictions upon the right of sale (2 Wm. & M. sess. 1, c. 5, s. 2; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 21), the breach of any one of which is an irregularity, which entitles the tenant to maintain an action if he can prove special damage by reason of the irregularity, but not otherwise (Rodgers v. Parker, (1856) 18 C. B. 112; 25 L. J. C. P. 220; 107 R. R. 230; Lucas v. Tarleton, (1858) 3 H. & N. 116; 27 L. J. Ex. 246; 117 R. R. 619; and Jay's Furnishing Co. v. Brand & Co., (1915) 1 K. B. 458; 84 L. J. K. B. 867). The landlord upon making the distress must leave a written notice of it, and of the cause of it, upon the premises. He must then wait five days or fifteen if requested (51 & 52 Vict. c. 21, s. 6), to give the tenant time to replevy, if he desire to do so. He must also, if requested, but not otherwise (51 & 52 Vict. c. 21, s. 5), cause the goods to be appraised. He is then at liberty to sell, but only for the best price that can be got, and he must leave the overplus, after satisfying the rent and charges, in the hands of the sheriff, under-sheriff or constable for the owner. If requested, the sale must be at a public auction-room (51 & 52 Vict. c. 21, s. 5).

If a landlord authorises an illegal distress, or actually authorises any other unlawful act of the broker distraining, he is liable to the same extent as if he had acted in person; and having authorised the distress he is responsible for any irregularity on the part of his bailiff in the conduct of it (Haseler v. Lemoyne, (1858) 5 C. B. N. S. 530; 28 L. J. C. P. 103; 116 R. R. 753). But he is not liable for wholly unlawful acts of the bailiff, committed without his authority, such as distraining upon the wrong premises or seizing fixtures.

Under the Law of Distress Amendment Acts every bailiff employed to distrain must be specially certificated by the county court judge as required by the Act, and the costs of distress are limited. The Act and the rules made under it will be found in Part V., pp. 2010–2017.

Where goods distrained for rent have been impounded on the premises under 11 Geo. II. c. 19, s. 10, it is not requisite that anyone should be left in possession (Jones v. Biernstein, (1899) 1 Q. B. 470; 68 L. J. Q. B. 267; affirmed (C. A.), (1900) 1 Q. B. 100; 69 L. J. Q. B. 1).

A landlord cannot become the purchaser of goods sold by him under a distress (Moore, Nettlefold & Co. v. Singer Manufacturing Co., (1903) 72 L. J. K. B. 577; affirmed (C. A.), (1904) 1 K. B. 820; 73 L. J. K. B. 457).

Injuries to the Person.]—An action lies for an assault, or any other direct personal injury committed by the defendant on the plaintiff, as false imprisonment or obstruction of his personal liberty (Bird v. Jones, (1845) 7 Q. B. 742; 15 L. J. Q. B. 82; 68 R. R. 564). The plaintiff must prove the commission of the acts complained of by the defendant, and if he claims substantial damages, the damage resulting therefrom. He may recover not only for the damage that has actually occurred, but for such as probably will be the immediate result of the wrongful act (Hodsoll v. Stallebrass, (1840) 11 A. & E. 301; 9 L. J. Q. B. 132; 52 R. R. 350; Nicklin v. Williams, (1854) 10 Ex. 259; 23 L. J. Ex. 335).

The defendant may show that the act complained of was done under process or authority of law. In assault he may prove that the plaintiff assaulted him first, and that he, the defendant, only acted in self-defence, or that he acted in defence of his possession of a house or goods. He may also show that the damage sustained by the plaintiff is not as great as he alleges.

If the defendant relies on self-defence, the plaintiff may show in reply that the violence used was excessive, and more than the occasion would justify.

An action lies also for negligence of the defendant or his servants, by which the plaintiff is injured, as by the negligent driving of a carriage or sailing of a ship; so, if the plaintiff were a passenger in a public carriage, although the injury in part arose from the unskilful management of the carriage in which he was (Rigby v. Hewitt, (1850) 5 Ex. 240; 19 L. J. Ex. 291; 82 R. R. 652). Negligence means the omission to use such care and such precautions as a man of ordinary prudence might be expected to use for the protection of others (Blyth v. Bham. Waterworks, (1856) 11 Ex. 781; 25 L. J. Ex. 212; 105 R. R. 791). Whether there has in each case been negligence in this sense must always be a question of fact depending upon the particular circumstances of the case. The plaintiff cannot recover if he has been guilty of contributory negligence without which the injury would not have happened, and which substantially was the cause of the accident.

Though a plaintiff may have been guilty of negligence, and although that negligence may in fact have contributed to the accident which is the subject of the action, yet, if the defendant could in the result, by the exercise of ordinary care and diligence, have avoided the mischief which happened, the plaintiff's negligence will not excuse him (Radley v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., (1876) 1 App. Cas. 754; 46 L. J. Ex. 573). Even though such negligence was prior in time to the contributory negligence of the plaintiffs (British Columbia Electric Railway v. Loach, (1916) 85 L. J. P. C. 23).

"Duty."—Actionable negligence in law arises from the neglect of some duty which is owed to the person injured. See as to this: Indermaur v. Dames (1866) L. R. 1 C. P. 274; Smith v. London and St. Katherine Docks Co., (1868) L. R. 3 C. P. 326; Marney v. Scott, (1899) 1 Q. B. 986; Heaven v. Pender, (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 503; Caledonian Rail. Co. v. Mulholland, (1898) A. C. 216; Earl v. Lubbock, (1905) 1 K. B. 253; Elliott v. Roberts & Co., Ltd. (1916) 2 K. B. 518; on appeal (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1689.

Master and Servant.]—The plaintiff must prove negligence upon the part of the defendant, or if the act be committed by a servant, prove the service and negligence on his part. A master is not liable for the wanton or malicious acts of his servant done to carry out the servant's own purposes (M'Manus v. Crickett, (1800) 1 East, 106; 5 R. R. 518; Croft v. Alison, (1821) 4 B. & A. 590; 23 R. R. 407), nor for unauthorised acts committed by him beyond the scope of his employment (Joel v. Morison, (1834) 6 C. & P. 501; 40 R. R. 814; Beard v. London General Omnibus Co., (1900) 2 Q. B. 530; 69 L. J. Q. B. 895; Engelhart v. Farrant & Co., (1897) 1 Q. B. 240; 66 L. J. Q. B. 122; Ormiston v. Great Western Rail. Co., (1917) 1 K. B. 598; but the cases run very fine; see Ricketts v. Thomas Tilling, Ltd., (1915) 1 K. B. 644; 84 L. J. K. B. 342). But for any act of the servant in the course of his employment, and done to effect the purpose for which he is engaged, the master is liable, even sometimes though the act be wilful and malicious and contrary to express orders (Limpus v. London Omnibus Co., (1862) 1 H. & C. 526; 32 L. J. Ex. 34; see as to the Employers' Liability Act, Part IV.). The owner of a vehicle may be liable for the negligence of the person he allows to drive or be in charge of it, though such person is not his servant (Reichardt v. Shard, (1915) 31 T. L. R. 24). Quære, whether a licensed drover is the servant of the person whose cattle he is driving (see Milligan v. Wedge, (1842) 12 A. & E. 737). If he is unlicensed he is for the time being the servant of the person who so employs him (see Turnbull v. Wieland, (1917) 33 T. L. R. 143.

Injury by Ferocious Animal.]—The owner of a wild animal, or of a tame one, if he knows of its ferocity or habit of doing injury, is answerable for all damage ensuing by its acts. But he is not liable without proof of such knowledge (May v. Burdett, (1846) 9 Q. B. 101; 16 L. J. Q. B. 64; 72 R. R. 189; Cox v. Burbidge, (1863) 13 C. B. N. S. 430; 32 L. J. C. P. 89; Worth v. Gilling, (1866) L. R. 2 C. P. 1; see Baker v. Snell, (1908) 2 K. B. 825; 77 L. J. K. B. 1090; Heath's Garage, Ltd. v. Hodges, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 485, and compare with this case Turner v. Coates, (1917) 1 K. B. 670; 86 L. J. K. B. 321; in Court of Appeal, (1916) 2 K. B. 370; 85 L. J. K. B. 1289). The owner of a dog which injures cattle or sheep is responsible in damages without proof of knowledge of the dog's mischievous propensity, or of neglect on the part of the owner (28 & 29 Vict. c. 60).

Trespass by Animals.]—Owners of animals must keep them from trespassing from their land to the land of adjoining owners at their peril, unless the owner of the adjoining land is bound by covenant or prescription to keep the fences between such lands in repair. The covenant must be one which creates a duty to the adjoining landowner. A covenant with his landlord is not sufficient (Holgate v. Bleazard, (1917) 1 K. B. 443; 86 L. J. K. B. 270).

Action by Executors of Persons Killed.]—When a person is killed by the wrongful act, neglect or default of another, an action may be brought in the name of the deceased's executor or administrator for the benefit of the deceased's wife, husband, parent, or child, amongst whom the damages are to be divided as the jury direct (9 & 10 Vict. c. 93, s. 1; see Part IV.). This Act, passed in 1845 and known as the Fatal Injuries Act, or more popularly Lord Campbell's Act, made the first inroad and to a limited extent only, on the common law principle that the death of a human being could not be complained of as an injury in a civil court (see Commissioners for Executing the Office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom v. Owners of Steamship Amerika, (1917) A. C. 38; 86 L. J. K. B. 58), a decision of the House of Lords finally establishing the principle laid down in Baker v. Bolton, (1808) 1 Camp. 493.

Injuries to Land.]—An action of trespass lies when a trespass has been committed by the defendant or his agent, or by his cattle, on land of which the plaintiff can show that he is in immediate possession. The action will lie for any infringement of the plaintiff's exclusive enjoyment of the land, however trifling, whether any pecuniary loss be shown or not. The general owner of land may maintain trespass for injury to the subsoil, though he has let the herbage to another (Cox v. Glue, (1848) 5 C. B. 533; 17 L. J. C. P. 162; 75 R. R. 788). The ownership of wastes, rivers, walls, ditches, etc., is proved either by documentary evidence of title or acts of ownership. The plaintiff must prove that the trespass was committed by the defendant or his agent duly authorised, either by previous command or subsequent assent; in the latter case, the agent at the time of the trespass must have assumed to act for defendant (Wilson v. Tumman, (1843) 6 M. & G. 236;

6 Scott, N. R. 894 ; 12 L. J. C. P. 306 ; 64 R. R. 770). Evidence should be adduced of the extent and amount of damage done.

The defendant may disprove the commission of the trespass, either by denying the fact, or showing that it occurred by plaintiff's fault, as by defect of fences (but only where a duty exists to fence and such duty is owed to the defendant (see Holgate v. Bleazard, ante, p. 931)); or may show that the plaintiff was not possessed of the place in question at the time when the trespass was committed ; or he may dispute the plaintiff's title, or set up any title in himself which would limit the plaintiff's (as to the jurisdiction of the court to try the case where such a defence is raised, see sects. 56, 61, 64). He may show leave and licence from the plaintiff, express or implied from previous circumstances He may also show satisfaction to the plaintiff by payment or otherwise, or a release, or may rely on the Statute of Limitations.

If the plaintiff be not in present possession of the land an injury to which is complained of, but only entitled thereto in reversion, as, for instance, if he be the owner in fee and the land is leased, it is not every wrong or trespass that will entitle him to an action. He must prove that some injury has been done of a permanent character, such as to depreciate the value of the reversion (Baxter v. Taylor, (1832) 4 B. & Ad. 72 ; 2 L. J. K. B. 65 ; 38 R. R. 227 ; Simpson v. Savage, (1856) 1 C. B. N. S. 347 ; 26 L. J. C. P. 50 ; 107 R. R. 688 ; Metropolitan Association v. Petch, (1858) 5 C. B. N. S. 504 ; 27 L. J. C. P. 330 ; 116 R. R. 740).

An action lies for injuries and obstructions to incorporeal hereditaments, as disturbance of common or right of way, diversion of watercourses, obstructing the light around plaintiff's house. In all these cases the plaintiff must prove the existence of the right on his part, the obstruction thereof by the defendant, and the amount of damage he has sustained. But damage is not essential to give rise to a right of action for the infringement of an incorporeal right (Harrop v. Hirst, (1868) L. R. 4 Ex. 43 ; 38 L. J. Ex. 1).

The defendant may give in evidence the same defences which have been mentioned under trespass to land.

Injuries to Goods.]—Any direct act of interference with the plaintiff's exclusive possession and enjoyment of goods, any act done directly and wrongfully to the goods themselves, though it does not go the length of an actual appropriation of them to another, is a trespass for which an action will lie (Fouldes v. Willoughby, (1841) 8 M. & W. 540 ; 10 L. J. Ex. 364 ; 58 R. R. 803). And the plaintiff will recover as damages pecuniary compensation for the injury he has sustained.

Negligence.] —If an injury to goods be done by the defendant's negligence, an action will also lie ; and the principles laid down in the case of injuries to the person apply.

Conversion of Goods.] —If the plaintiff complains that the defendant has deprived him of his goods and appropriated them to his own use or that of some other person, this is more than a mere trespass, and entitles the plaintiff to recover as damages the whole value of the goods (France v. Gaudet, (1871) L. R. 6 Q. B. 199 ; 40 L. J. Q. B. 121).

A special property, as that of a bailee, is sufficient to support the action (Nicholls v. Bastard, (1835) 2 C. M. & R. 659 ; 5 L. J. Ex. 7), and against a wrong-doer mere possession, as that of a finder, is enough (Armory v. Delamirie, (1722) 1 Str. 504 ; 1 Sm. L. C. 396 (12th edit.) ; Bridges v. Hawkesworth, (1851) 15 Jur. 1079 ; 21 L. J. Q. B. 75 ; and see South Staffordshire Waterworks Co. v. Sharman, (1896) 2 Q. B. 44 ; 65 L. J. Q. B. 460).

The conversion may be actual, as by a wrongful sale, in which case no demand by the plaintiff need be proved (Edwards v. Hooper, (1843) 11 M. & W. 363; 12 L. J. Ex. 304), or by a refusal to deliver them when demanded (Burroughes v. Bayne, (1860) 3 H. & N. 296; 29 L. J. Ex. 185); this, however, is not of itself a conversion, but only evidence of such: in the latter case the defendant must have the power to deliver them when they are asked for (Edwards v. Hooper, supra); he is not guilty of a conversion because he does not at once restore the chattel, when it is not at the moment in his possession, and under his own control (Canot v. Hughes, (1836) 2 Scott, 663: 5 L. J. C. P. 177: Towne v. Lewis, (1849) 7 C. B. 608; 78 R. R. 787) Clayton v. Le Roy, (1911) 2 K. B. 1031. The plaintiff is entitled to recover as damages the value of the goods, and damages for their detention.

Defence —Lien.]— The defendant may disprove the plaintiff's property in the goods, or the conversion, or may show that he has delivered them up to the true owner (Cheeseman v. Exall, (1851) 6 Ex. 341; 20 L. J. Ex. 209; 86 R. R. 321), or he may give in evidence the Statute of Limitations, or show that he has a lien (see the proceedings open to a plaintiff against whom a lien is set up, ante, p. 458), general or particular, for work done upon the goods or by a special agreement with the plaintiff. Bankers, innkeepers, wharfingers, attorneys, factors, dyers, calico printers, packers and insurance brokers, have by usage liens upon goods entrusted to their charge, for their general balance. Carriers have a lien which terminates as soon as the goods are delivered, but whether general or particular is disputed. Generally a person who takes the article of another, with his consent, under control to work upon it for reward, as by repairing it, or doing something to benefit it, e.g., a farrier who has shod a horse, the owner of a stallion which has covered a mare—has a lien upon the article for his reasonable charges (Scarfe v. Morgan, (1838) 4 M. & W. 270; 7 L. J. Ex. 324; 51 R. R. 568). Though a person cannot generally so act as to give a lien on goods the property of another, yet in some cases, even where an article sent for repair is not sent by the owner, a lien may arise against the owner. For such a case see Green v. All Motors, Ltd., (1917) 1 K. B. 625; 86 L. J. K. B. 590. But where nothing has been done on the chattel there is no lien. Hence a livery stable keeper has no lien on a horse (Yorke v. Grenaugh, (1703) Ld. Ray. 866, 868; Judson v. Etheridge, (1833) 1 C. & M. 743; 2 L. J. Ex. 300; Orchard v. Rackstraw, (1850) 19 L. J. C. P. 303; 82 R. R. 509). But an innkeeper has a lien on a horse brought by a guest, though it is occasionally taken out (Allen v. Smith, (1862) 12 C. B. N. S. 638; 31 L. J. C. P. 306; 133 R. R. 458). An unpaid vendor of real property who has conveyed an estate has no lien on the title deeds (Goode v. Burton, (1847) 1 Ex. 189; 16 L. J. Ex. 309; 74 R. R. 633), nor a conveyancer on papers left in his possession (Steadman v. Hockley, (1846) 15 M. & W. 553; 15 L. J. Ex. 332). A lien cannot generally exist where possession is not continued, as where goods are to be paid for on credit, or where, as in the agistment of milch cows, the owner must by necessary implication have the occasional possession for the purpose of milking (Jackson v. Cummins, (1839) 5 M. & W. 342; 8 L. J. Ex. 265; 52 R. R. 737).

Detinue.]—Not only may a plaintiff who has been wrongfully deprived of his goods recover their value, but further, an action, known from early times as an action of detinue, lies for the recovery of the goods themselves together with damages for their detention.

The action lies against a person who wrongfully detained the goods, although he has since improperly parted with their possession (Jones v. Dowle, (1841) 9 M. & W. 19; 11 L. J. Ex. 52; 60 R. R. 652).

With respect to the evidence, what has been said with respect to the conversion of goods is applicable. The judgment in detinue is, however, materially different from that in other actions; it being not merely for damages for the injury sustained by the conversion, but in the alternative that the chattel shall be restored or the value paid; therefore, where there are separate parcels of goods, evidence should be adduced as to the value of each, and the judgment should declare the same accordingly; since the defendant may elect to give up some in specie, and pay damages for the rest (Pawly v. Holly, (1773) 2 W. Bl. 853; Sandford v. Alcock, (1842) 10 M. & W. 689; 12 L. J. Ex. 40).

Defamation.]—(These actions may be sent for trial to, but cannot be commenced in, a county court.) The plaintiff in an action of libel must prove the publication by the defendant of the matter complained of in print or writing, or by a picture or other fixed mode of representing ideas. Special provisions were formerly made by the 6 & 7 Will. IV. c. 76, to facilitate the proof of publication in the case of libels contained in newspapers. But these are all repealed by the 32 & 33 Vict. c. 24, except sect. 19 of the earlier Act, which is re-enacted by the latter. By that section, a suit will lie to discover the name of the printer, publisher or proprietor of a newspaper, or any matter relative to the printing or publishing of a newspaper, in order to assist an action of libel. And the defendant cannot plead or demur, but must make the discovery asked for; though the evidence so obtained cannot be used against the defendant except in the proceeding for which the discovery is made. In other cases the publication may be proved by showing that the defendant has written the words in question or caused them to be printed, and shown or given or sent them to any person, or that a copy has been sold at his shop, or that he has otherwise given currency to the document by himself or his agent. But a publication to the plaintiff himself only is not actionable (Phillips v. Jansen, (1798) 2 Esp. 624). As to letter addressed to one person, and opened by another in mistake see Powell v. Gelston, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1783.

In an action of slander the plaintiff must prove the speaking of the words complained of by the defendant in the presence of some person other than the plaintiff. He must further prove that the words impute to him a criminal offence, or an infectious disease, or misconduct in a public office, or misconduct, negligence, or want of skill in the way of his profession, trade or business, or else that he has suffered special damage of a pecuniary or material character, such as the loss of a situation or the diminution of trade, except that words imputing unchastity to women are actionable without special damage (54 & 55 Vict. c. 51). See Jones v. Jones and Wife, (1916) 2 A. C. 481; 85 L. J. K. B. 1519.

If words written or spoken be not in their ordinary sense defamatory, the plaintiff must prove any circumstances which make them so. But malice need not in general be proved. The question whether the matter is libellous or not is a question for the jury.

By way of defence, the defendant may disprove the publication by him, or disprove the defamatory sense of the words published, or he may show that the publication was privileged, which is a defence in the absence of actual malice (Clark v Molyneux (C. A.), (1877) 3 Q. B. D. 237; 47 L. J. Q. B. 230; Tompson v. Dashwood, (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 43; Davis v. Shepstone, (1886) 11 App. Cas. 187; 55 L. J. P. C. 51); Adam v. Ward, (1917) 86 L. J. K, B. 849; 33 T. L. R. 277; or he may show that the defamatory matter is true; or he may give evidence of an apology in mitigation of damages (6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 1); or if the libel be in a newspaper he may rely as a defence upon an apology and the payment into court of amends (6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 2; as to notice where a defendant means to rely on any of these special defences, see ante, p. 83).

In the case of communications primâ facie privileged, the plaintiff may still prove actual malice. And to prove the animus, evidence may be given of other libels and slanders than that sued for, whether earlier than it or later.

Injuries by Legal Proceedings.] —An action for false imprisonment lies where any one takes another into custody, or gives him in charge to a constable without lawful justification for doing so. The plaintiff must prove that the defendant gave him in charge. It is not enough to show that he gave information to a constable, if the latter has on his own judgment acted on that information by arresting the plaintiff. A usual mode of proving the giving in charge is by showing that the defendant signed the charge sheet.

It is not a false imprisonment to hold a person to the conditions he has voluntarily accepted, though it may involve an imprisonment: Herd v. Weardale Steel, Coal, and Coke Co. and Others, (1915) A. C. 67; 84 L. J. K. B. 121.

The defendant may deny that he gave the plaintiff in charge. If a constable, he may justify the arrest by showing that he had reasonable grounds for believing that a felony had been committed, and that the plaintiff was the felon. If he is not a constable, he must go a step further and show that a felony had been in fact committed, and that he had reasonable grounds for suspecting the plaintiff to have committed it (Samuel v. Payne, (1780) 1 Doug. 359; Beckwith v. Philby, (1827) 6 B. & C. 635; 5 L. J. M. C. 132; 30 R. R. 484; Hadley v. Perks, (1866) L. R. 1 Q. B. 444; 35 L. J. M. C. 177; Walters v. W. H. Smith & Son, (1914) 1 K. B. 595; 83 L. J. K. B. 335). In many other cases people are by statute authorised to arrest or give into custody those found committing offences of different kinds.

Malicious Prosecution.] — An action for malicious prosecution will lie although the defendant may not have taken the law into his own hands by arresting the plaintiff or giving him into custody, but may have simply put the law in motion, as by laying an information upon which a summons or warrant may have issued, or by preferring an indictment. In the first place, the plaintiff must prove the prosecution in the same way as other proceedings of courts are proved (ante, p. 911). He must show that the prosecution has terminated in his acquittal (Arundell v. Tregono, (1608) Yelv. 116); that the defendant was the prosecutor, and that the proceedings were malicious (Purcell v. Macnamara, (1808) 9 East, 361; 9 R. R. 578) and without reasonable and probable cause (Johnstone v. Sutton, (1786) 1 T. R. 510, 545). Malice means any indirect motive, any object other than the bonâ fide furtherance of justice; and malice or no malice is a question of fact. The absence of reasonable and probable cause may be evidence of malice, but not necessarily so (Mitchell v. Jenkins, (1833) 5 B. & Ad. 588; 3 L. J. K. B. 35; 39 R. R. 570). Whether there has been an absence of reasonable and probable cause is a question for the judge (Panton v. Williams, (1841) 2 Q. B. 169; 10 L. J. Ex. 545; 57 R. R. 631; Lister v. Perryman, (1870) L. R. 4 H. L. 521; 39 L. J. Ex. 177; Abrath v. N. E. Rail. Co., (1886) 11 App. Cas. 247; 52 L. J. Q. B. 620). It is not necessary for the judge to put to the jury the question whether they think the defendant took reasonable care, and honestly believed the case he laid before the magistrates, unless there is evidence of the absence of such belief. A prosecution for which the Attorney-General has given his fiat on a case fairly submitted to him, cannot be said to be prosecuted without reasonable and probable cause (Bradshaw v. Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 318).

A malicious prosecution under the Public Health Act, 1875, for the abatement of a nuisance, is not of a sufficiently criminal nature to support the action (Wiffin v. Bailey and Romford Urban Council, (1915) 1 K. B. 600; 84 L. J. K. B. 688).

The defendant may give evidence in disproof of any of the allegations which the plaintiff has to prove, and in particular may bring forward any facts tending to show the absence of malice or the existence of reasonable and probable cause.

An action for malicious prosecution will lie against a corporation (Cornford v. Carlton Bank, (1899) 1 Q. B. 392; 68 L. J. Q. B. 196; (C. A.), (1900) 1 Q. B. 22; 68 L. J. Q. B. 1020; Edwards v. Midland Rail. Co., (1880) 6 Q. B. D. 287; 50 L. J. Q. B. 281).

Seduction.]—(These actions may be sent for trial to, but cannot be commenced in, a county court.) In an action for seduction the plaintiff must prove that the person seduced was in his service at the time. In the case of a daughter, it is sufficient evidence of service to show that she was living with the plaintiff, her father, as a member of his family. It must be proved further, either that the defendant enticed the servant away from the plaintiff's service, or that he debauched the servant; and in the latter case it seems to be necessary to show further that the servant has been made pregnant, or ill, so as to be incapacitated from service (Evans v. Walton, (1867) L. R. 2 C. P. 615; 36 L. J. C. P. 307). Evidence of the circumstances of the seduction may be given in aggravation of damages.

The defendant may disprove any of the plaintiff's allegations, or may give evidence of the conduct of the plaintiff or the character of the servant in mitigation of damages.

Breach of Promise of Marriage.]—In an action for breach of promise of marriage the plaintiff must prove the promise. The promise need not be in writing. The breach must also be proved. This may be proved by showing that the plaintiff has tendered marriage to the defendant, has been refused, or that the defendant has married another person. As affecting the damages, the plaintiff may produce evidence of the pecuniary circumstances of the defendant; and the mental suffering inflicted on the plaintiff may be considered in assessing the damages (see Hamlin v. G. N. Rail. Co., (1856) 1 H. & N. 408; 26 L. J. Ex. 20; 108 R. R. 649). The parties themselves are competent witnesses. But the plaintiff cannot recover unless his or her testimony be corroborated by some other material evidence in support of the promise (32 & 33 Vict. c. 68, s. 2; as to the construction of this section, see Bessela v. Stern, (1877) 2 C. P. D. 265; 46 L. J. C. P. 467).

The defendant may disprove the promise, or may show that a reasonable time for its performance has not elapsed; or that after the promise the defendant has discovered gross immorality on the part of the plaintiff (Irving v. Greenwood, (1824) 1 C. & P. 350); or that the engagement had been broken off by mutual consent, or, semble, that the plaintiff is unfit for marriage owing to mental or physical illness becoming known to the defendant since the date of the promise, but it is no defence that the defendant honestly and on reasonable grounds believed that the plaintiff was physically unfit for marriage if such was not the fact (Jefferson v. Paskell, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 398). Quære, whether such an action will ever lie after the death of the promissor, against his executor (Quirk v. Thomas, (1916) 1 K. B. 516).

EMERGENCY LEGISLATION.

CHAPTER IX.

The legislation necessitated by the war, referred to as "Emergency Legislation" in so far as it directly affects the County Courts of England.

POSTPONEMENT OF PAYMENTS ACT, 1914 (a).

[4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 11. August 3, 1914.]

An Act to authorise His Majesty by Proclamation to suspend temporarily the Payment of Bills of Exchange and Payments in pursuance of other Obligations.

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

Power to postpone payments by Royal Proclamation.

1.—(1) His Majesty may by Proclamation authorise the postponement of the payment of any bill of exchange, or of any negotiable instrument, or any other payment in pursuance of any contract, to such extent, for such time, and subject to such conditions or other provisions as may be specified in the Proclamation.

(2) No additional stamp duty shall be payable in respect of any instrument as a consequence of any postponement of payment in pursuance of a proclamation under this Act unless the proclamation otherwise directs.

(3) Any such proclamation may be varied, extended, or revoked by any subsequent proclamation, and separate proclamations may be made dealing with separate subjects.

(4) The proclamation dated the third (b) day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, relating to the postponement of payment of certain bills of exchange is hereby confirmed and shall be deemed to have been made under this Act.

Short title and duration.

2.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Postponement of Payments Act, 1914.

(2) This Act shall remain in force for a period of six months from the date of the passing thereof.

(a) (Extended, with adaptations, to Isle of Man. Order in Council, September 3rd, 1914.)

Note.—(b) This Act confirmed a previous Proclamation dated August 2, 1914 (by mistake said (supra, sect. 1, sub-s. 4) to be dated August 3, 1914), issued before the Act was passed relating to the postponement of bills of exchange only, known as the "Bills (Re-acceptance) Proclamation.'

The First General Proclamation under the Postponement of Payments Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 11), dated August 6, 1914.

By the King.

A Proclamation for extending the Postponement of Payments allowed to be made by the Proclamation of the 2nd August, 1914 (a), to certain other payments.

Note.—(a) See post, p. 939.

Whereas under the Postponement of Payments Act, 1914, His Majesty has power by Proclamation to authorise the postponement of the payment of any bill of exchange or of any negotiable instrument or of any other payment in pursuance of any contract to such extent for such time and subject to such conditions or other provisions as may be specified in the Proclamation :

And whereas it is expedient that provision should be made for the purpose of such postponement of payment in addition to the provision already made by Our Proclamation, dated the second day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, relating to the postponement of payment of certain bills of exchange :

Now, therefore, We have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation, and We do hereby proclaim, direct, and ordain as follows :—

Save as hereinafter provided, all payments which have become due and payable before the date of this Proclamation or which will become due and payable on any day before the beginning of the fourth day of September nineteen hundred and fourteen in respect of any bill of exchange (being a cheque or bill on demand) which was drawn before the beginning of the fourth day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen. or in respect of any negotiable instrument (not being a bill of exchange) dated before that time, or in respect of any contract made before that time, shall be deemed to be due and payable on a day one calendar month after the day on which the payment originally became due and payable, or on the fourth day of September, nineteen hundred and fourteen, whichever is the later date, instead of on the day on which the payment originally became due ; but payments so postponed shall, if not otherwise carrying interest (a), and if specific demand is made for payment and payment is refused, carry interest until payment as from the fourth day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, if they become due and payable before that day, and as from the date on which they become due and payable if they become due and payable on or after that day, at the Bank of England rate current on the seventh day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen ; but nothing in this Proclamation shall prevent payments being made before the expiration of the month for which they are so postponed (b).

(a) See meaning of "not otherwise carrying interest" (J. & P. Coats, Ltd., v. Direction der Disconto Gesellschaft, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 973).

NOTE.—(b) Does not apply to a c.i.f. contract (Happe v. Manasseh, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 1895). See Credito Italiano v. Swiss Bankverein, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1477.

This Proclamation shall not apply to—

(1) Any payment in respect of wages or salary.

(2) Any payment in respect of a liability which when incurred did not exceed five pounds in amount (c).

NOTE.—(c) Each item when incurred must exceed £5. It is not sufficient that a number of items, incurred at different times, exceed £5 in total (Auster v. London Motor Coach Works, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 580).

(3) Any payment in respect of rates or taxes (b).

NOTE.—(b) The Proclamation applied to rent due and payable before the date of the Proclamation (Durell v. Gread, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 130).

(4) Any payment in respect of maritime freight.

(5) Any payment in respect of any debt from any person resident outside the British Islands, or from any firm, company or institution whose principal place of business is outside the British Islands, not being a debt incurred in the British Islands by a person, firm, company, or institution, having a business establishment or branch business establishment in the British Islands.

(6) Any payment (c) in respect of any dividend or interest payable in respect of any stocks, funds, or securities (other than real or heritable securities) in which trustees are, under section one of the Trustee Act, 1893, or any other Act for the time being in force, authorised to invest.

NOTE.—(c) A call on shares is a debt to which the Act and Proclamation applied See Burgess v. O.H.N. Gases, Ltd., (1915) 31 L. J. K. B. 59.

(7) Any liability of a bank of issue in respect of bank notes issued by the bank (d).

NOTE.—(d) As to the effect of the Act and Proclamation upon a bank overdraft see Allen v. London County and Westminster Bank, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 1286.

(8) Any payment to be made by or on behalf of His Majesty or any Government Department, including the payment of old age pensions.

(9) Any payment to be made by any person or society in pursuance of the National Insurance Act, 1911, or any Act amending that Act (whether in the nature of contributions benefits, or otherwise).

(10) Any payment under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, or any Act amending the same.

(11) Any payment in respect of the withdrawal of a deposit by a depositor in a trustee savings bank.

Nothing in this Proclamation shall affect any bills of exchange to which Our Proclamation dated the second day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, relating to the postponement of payment of certain bills of exchange applies (e).

NOTE.—(e) A debtor, by suspending payment of his debts, during the period during which the moratorium was in force, committed an act of bankruptcy. See Sahler, In re, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 1275.

Given at Our Court at Buckingham Palace, this sixth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and in the Fifth year of Our Reign.

God Save the King.

THE SECOND GENERAL PROCLAMATION UNDER THE POSTPONEMENT OF PAYMENTS ACT, 1914 (4 & 5 GEO. 5, C. 11), DATED AUGUST 12, 1914.

THE SECOND GENERAL PROCLAMATION.

1914. No. 1230.

BY THE KING.

A Proclamation for Postponement of Payments.

George, R.I.

Whereas it is expedient to extend Our Proclamation, dated the sixth day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen (relating to the postponement of payments), so as to cover bills of exchange under certain circumstances, and also payments in respect of any debt from any bank whose principal place of business is in any part of His Majesty's Dominions or any British Protectorate :

Now, therefore, We have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation, and We do hereby proclaim, direct, and ordain as follows :

Notwithstanding anything contained in the said Proclamation, dated the sixth day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen (relating to the postponement of payments), that Proclamation shall apply, and shall be deemed always to have applied—

(a) To any bill of exchange which has not been re-accepted under Our Proclamation, dated the second day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, as it applies to a bill of exchange, being a cheque or bill on demand, unless on the presentation of the bill the acceptor has expressly refused re-acceptance thereof, but with the substitution, as respects rate of interest, of the date of the presentation of the bill for the seventh day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen ; and

(b) also to payments in respect of any debt from any bank whose principal place of business is in any part of His Majesty's Dominions or any British Protectorate, although the debt was not incurred in the British Islands and the bank had not a business establishment or branch business establishment in the British Islands.

Given at Our Court at Buckingham Palace, this Twelfth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and in the Fifth year of Our Reign.

God Save the King.

A Third General Proclamation, dated September 1, 1914, was proclaimed but was revoked by the Proclamation (infra) dated September 3, 1914.

The Third General Proclamation under the Postponement of Payments Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 11), dated September 3, 1914.

1914. No. 1324.

By the King.

A Proclamation varying the Proclamations in respect of the Postponement of Payments, dated respectively the second day of August, the sixth day of August, and the twelfth day of August, and revoking the Proclamation, dated the first day of September, nineteen hundred and fourteen.

George, R.I.

Whereas under the Postponement of Payments Act, 1914, We have power, by Proclamation, to authorise the postponement of the payment of any bill of exchange, or of any negotiable instrument, or any other payment in pursuance of any contract, to such extent, and for such time, and subject to such conditions or other provisions as may be specified in the Proclamation :

And whereas, in pursuance of that power, We have issued Proclamations in relation to the postponement of payments due before We were in a state of war or due in respect of contracts made before that time, dated the sixth day of August, and the twelfth day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen ; and on the second day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, We also issued a Proclamation which is confirmed by the said Postponement of Payments Act, 1914, and is deemed to have been issued under that Act :

And whereas, under the said Act, We have power to vary, extend or revoke any Proclamation under that Act by a subsequent Proclamation :

And whereas it is desirable in the best interests of Our Realm at the present juncture that all persons who can discharge their liabilities should do so without delay, but it is at the same time for certain purposes expedient that Our said Proclamations should be varied, and for that purpose We issued a Proclamation, dated the 1st day of September, nineteen hundred and fourteen :

And whereas it is expedient to revoke the last-mentioned Proclamation and to substitute therefor such variations of Our other Proclamations as are hereinafter set forth :

Now, therefore, We have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation, and We do hereby proclaim, direct, and ordain as follows :—

1. If on the presentation for payment of a bill of exchange which has before the fourth day of September, nineteen hundred and fourteen, been re-accepted under the terms of Our said Proclamation, dated the second day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, the bill is not paid, then, the said Proclamation shall, in its application to that bill, have effect as if the period of two calendar months had been in the Proclamation substituted for the period of one calendar month, and the sum mentioned in the form of re-acceptance under the said Proclamation shall be deemed to be increased by the amount of interest on the original amount of the Bill for one calendar month calculated at the Bank of England rate current on the date when the bill is so presented for payment as aforesaid.

2. Our said Proclamation, dated the sixth day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, as extended by Our said Proclamation, dated the twelfth day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, shall apply to payments which become due and payable on or after the fourth day of September and before the fourth day of October, nineteen hundred and fourteen (whether they become so due and payable by virtue of the said Proclamations or otherwise) in like manner as it applies to payments which become due and payable after the date of the said first-mentioned Proclamation and before the beginning of the fourth day of September, nineteen hundred and fourteen.

3. Nothing in this Proclamation shall affect the payment of interest under the Proclamations extended thereby, or prevent payments being made before the expiration of the period for which they are postponed.

4. Our said Proclamation, dated the first day of September, nineteen hundred and fourteen, is hereby revoked.

Given at Our Court at Buckingham Palace, this Third day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and in the Fifth year of Our Reign.

God Save the King.

A Proclamation, dated September 30, 1914.

1914. No. 1446.

By the King.

A Proclamation varying the Proclamations in respect of the Postponement of Payments, dated respectively the 2nd August, 6th August, 12th August, and 3rd September, 1914.

George, R.I.

Whereas under the Postponement of Payments Act, 1914, We have power by Proclamation to authorise the postponement of the payment of any bill of exchange or of any negotiable instrument or any other payment in pursuance of any contract to such extent and for such time and subject to such conditions or other provisions as may be specified in the Proclamation :

And whereas in pursuance of that power We have issued Proclamations in relation to the postponement of payments due before We were in a state of war or due in respect of contracts made before that time, dated the sixth day of August, the 12th day of August, and the third day of September, nineteen hundred and fourteen (which are respectively referred to in this Proclamation as the first, second, and third General Proclamation), and on the second day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen We also issued a Proclamation which is confirmed by the said Postponement of Payments Acts, 1914, and is deemed to have been issued under that Act and is referred to in this Proclamation as the Bills (Re-acceptance) Proclamation :

And whereas under the Postponement of Payments Act, 1914, We have power to vary extend or revoke any Proclamation under that Act by a subsequent Proclamation :

And whereas it is desirable in the best interests of Our Realm at the present juncture that all persons who can discharge their liabilities should do so without delay, but it is at the same time expedient for the benefit of persons who cannot so discharge their liabilities that a further limited and final extension of the postponement of payments authorised by the said Proclamations should be made :

Now, therefore, We have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation, and We do hereby proclaim direct and ordain as follows :—

1. The first General Proclamation as extended by paragraph (b) of the second General Proclamation shall, subject to the limitations of this Proclamation, apply to payments which become due and payable on or after the fourth day of October and before the fourth day of November nineteen hundred and fourteen (whether they so become due and payable by virtue of the said Proclamations or the third General Proclamation or otherwise) in like manner as it applies to payments which became due and payable after the date of the first General Proclamation and before the beginning of the fourth day of September nineteen hundred and fourteen.

Provided that, if the payment is one the date whereof has been postponed by virtue of any of the said General Proclamations, and is one which carries interest either by virtue of the terms of the contract or instrument under which it is due and payable or by virtue of the said General Proclamations, then the person from whom the payment is due shall not be entitled to claim the benefit of this Article unless, within three days after the date to which the payment has been postponed by virtue of the said General Proclamations, all interest thereon up to that date is paid.

This Article shall not apply to—

(a) Any payment in respect of rent;

(b) Any payment due and payable to or by a retail trader in respect of his business as such trader.

2. The Bills (Re-acceptance) Proclamation shall continue to apply to bills of exchange (other than cheques and bills on demand) accepted before the beginning of the fourth day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen, the date of the original maturity whereof is after the third day of October.

If on the presentation for payment of any such bill the bill is not paid and is not re-accepted under the said Proclamation, then, unless on such presentation the acceptor has expressly refused re-acceptance thereof, the bill shall for all purposes, including the liability of any drawer and indorser or any other party thereto, be deemed to be due and payable on a date one calendar month after the date of its original maturity instead of on the date of its original maturity, and to be a bill for the original amount thereof increased by the amount of interest thereon, calculated from the date of the original maturity to the date of payment at the Bank of England rate current on the date of its original maturity, and paragraph (a) of the second General Proclamation shall not apply to any such bill.

3. If on the presentation for payment of a bill of exchange, the date of maturity of which has before the fourth day of October nineteen hundred and fourteen become postponed either by virtue of the Bills (Re-acceptance) Proclamation or paragraph (a) of the second General Proclamation (whether or not the date of maturity has been further postponed by virtue of the third General Proclamation), the bill is not paid, then the date of maturity shall be deemed to be further postponed for fourteen days from the date of such presentation for payment, and the original amount of the bill shall be deemed to be further increased by the amount of interest on the original amount of the bill for fourteen days, calculated at the Bank of England rate current on the date of such presentation for payment.

4. Save as otherwise expressly provided, nothing in this Proclamation shall affect the application of the General Proclamations to payments to which those Proclamations apply, and nothing in this Proclamation shall prevent payments to which this Proclamation applies being made before the expiration of the period for which they are postponed thereunder.

Given at Our Court at Buckingham Palace, this Thirtieth day of September, in the year of Our Lord one Thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and in the Fifth year of Our Reign.

God Save the King.

The moratorium ordained and established by the Act and Proclamations above set out came to an end on the 4th of November, 1914. The Proclamations have been inserted for the reason that they may still have some effect upon the rights created by commercial contracts entered into before or during the period to which they apply.

COURTS EMERGENCY ACTS

GENERAL NOTE TO COURTS (EMERGENCY POWERS) ACTS, AND INCREASE OF RENT AND MORTGAGE INTEREST (WAR RESTRICTIONS) ACT, 1915.

Since the commencement of the war four statutes known as Courts (Emergency Powers) statutes have been passed, and also, intimately connected with these Acts and referring to, amending and qualifying them, the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915.

(These Acts are set out in full, post, the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1914, on p. 951, the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1916, on p. 955, the Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2) Act, 1916, on p. 956, the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, on p. 958; the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915, on p. 980).

The general objects of the first of these statutes, known as the Principal Act was (1) To forbid the enforcement of judgments or orders given or made in respect of money payable under contracts made before the war, except with the permission of the court (sect. 1 (1) (a)).

(2) To forbid any distress, the taking, resuming or entering into possession of property, realising any security, forfeiting any deposit, or lapsing any small life or endowment policy of insurance, for the purpose of enforcing the payment or recovery of money or in default of the payment or recovery of money, due or demandable in respect of contracts made before the war, except with permission of the court (sect. 1 (1) (b)).

EXCEPTIONS.]—A mortgagee in possession is allowed to realise his security. The security of pawnbrokers is not affected. Rent (less than £50 per annum) is within the protection of the Act, though due and payable in respect of a contract made after the war.

(3) To allow the courts having jurisdiction in bankruptcy to stay proceedings against the debtor on a bankruptcy petition (sect. 1 (3)).

(4) To prevent the recovery of possession of small tenements, under the Small Tenements Recovery Act, 1838 (1 & 2 Vict. c. 74) (i.e., in cases where the rent does not exceed £20) without permission of the court.

In all the above cases the court has to be satisfied that the failure to pay the money or debts, or to pay the same when due, is owing to circumstances attributable directly or indirectly to the war, in which case the discretion of the court to stay or defer the operation of proceedings is almost unlimited (sect. 1 (2), (3)).

Jurisdiction is by the rules given to the county court under (1), where the judgment or order has been given or made by that court. Under (2), where the value of the subject matter does not exceed £100 (the value of the subject-matter is ascertained as directed in the rules : rule 1 (3)). Under (3), the county courts having jurisdiction in bankruptcy. Under (4), the county courts have jurisdiction equally with courts of summary jurisdiction.

Then, in order of time was enacted the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915, the general purpose of which was to prevent the raising of rent, or the increase of mortgage interest in respect of certain small classes of houses or properties.

It applies to rent or mortgage interest accrued after November 25th, 1915. Subject to the exceptions in the Act, no increase of rent or interest beyond the standard rent or standard rate of interest is recoverable. The standard rent is that at which the house was let on August 3rd, 1914, and the standard interest the interest payable on the mortgage on the same date, if then created, if not the original rate of interest. As regards increase of rent the Act only applies to houses where the rent or rateable value does not exceed—

(a) In the metropolitan police district or city of London, thirty-five pounds a year ;

(b) Elsewhere in England, twenty-six pounds a year.

No fine, premium or other like sum for granting, renewing or continuing such a tenancy can be exacted after August 4th, 1914, and any sums so paid in pursuance of a contract made after November 25th, 1915, are made recoverable.

NOTE.—By the Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2), Act, 1916, power was given to the county courts to allow, in case of a lease of such a dwelling-house for twenty-one years or more, such a fine, etc., to be stipulated for, if the previous terms of tenancy were not thereby made more onerous, but now by the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 4, the restriction does not apply at all to the lease of a dwelling-house for twenty-one years or more, and the provision in the Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2), Act, supra, is repealed.

No order for ejectment or recovery of the premises by the landlord can be made whilst the standard rent is paid, and the other conditions of the tenancy fulfilled, except for the reasons given in the Act (sect. 3).

The Act also contains restrictions designed to prevent the calling in of mortgage money due on a mortgage comprising one or more dwelling-houses of the class to which the Act applies whilst the standard interest is paid, and the covenants and conditions of the mortgage observed.

It is subject to exceptions (see Act).

The Act applies only to mortgages where the mortgaged property consists of or comprises one or more dwelling-houses to which the Act applies, or any interest therein. It is subject to exceptions (sect. 2 (4) (a), (b)). Rules have been made for regulating procedure in county courts under this Act (see p. 963).

NOTE.—The Act contains many small exceptions and qualifications which must be carefully studied before any proceedings are commenced or resisted under it.

The second Courts Emergency Act—the Courts (Emergency Powers) Amendment Act, 1916—was passed in the especial interests of officers and men of His Majesty's forces.

In the case of any such person, it is not necessary, in order that he may have the benefit of sect. 1, sub-s. 1, of the Principal Act that the money should be due or demandable in respect of a contract made before the war, so long as such contract in respect of which it is claimed was made before this Act came into operation, viz., April 11th, 1916 (now before he joined the forces, see Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 8.)

The discretionary powers given to the courts under sect. 1, sub-ss. 2 and 3, of the Principal Act may be exercised though the debtor's inability to pay may not be due to circumstances attributable directly or indirectly to the war (sect. 1 (b)).

This Act also gives power to county courts to allow an officer or man in His Majesty's forces to determine any tenancy from year to year or for any longer period into which he may have entered, upon such notice and on such conditions as the court in its absolute discretion may think fit (sect. 2).

The third Courts Emergency Act—the Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2), Act, 1916—inter alia, extends the meaning of "enter into possession" in the Principal Act so as to include the appointment of a receiver of mortgaged property. As to "foreclosure" it forbids even the institution of foreclosure proceedings or proceedings for sale in lieu thereof (sect. 1, sub-s. 1).

NOTE.—It was decided under the Principal Act in Farnol-Eades, Irvine & Co. v. The Company, 84 L. J. Ch. 129, that a receiver could be appointed by the court, or a foreclosure action commenced without leave of the court first obtained. This is now altered.

It defines the meaning of mortgagee in possession (sect. 1, sub-s. 1 (c)).

In the case of a petition for winding up a company the court is given the same discretion as is given to the bankruptcy court when a petition in bankruptcy has been presented (sect. 1, sub-s. 2).

It also gave, by sect. 2, power to the county courts (now taken away, see supra) to allow a fine, premium, etc., to be stipulated for in the grant of a new lease of a dwelling-house for twenty-one years or upwards but, as above stated, this section is now repealed (see Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 4).

Power is also given by sect. 3 to "such court as may be provided" by rules or directions under the Principal Act (a), where a person is prevented from erecting a building on a site by circumstances attributable directly or indirectly to the war, or where the Treasury or Minister of Munitions thinks such a building undesirable during the war, and in consequence of delay there is danger of an adverse right to light being acquired by neighbouring premises, to order that a period of time, commencing at a date not earlier than May 25th, 1916, and ending not later than six months after the termination of the war, be excluded from the computation of time necessary to acquire a prescriptive right to light.

NOTE.—(a) By rule dated the 5th day of June, 1916, this jurisdiction is given to the High Court of Justice, Chancery Division.

The fourth Courts Emergency Act—the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917—gives extensive powers to "the court" (a).

NOTE.—It came into operation on July 10th, 1917. Rules made thereunder are incorporated in the Consolidated Rules.

Power is given to the court (a) to suspend or annul or stay proceedings upon building contracts or contracts for supply of materials for building work, entered into before August 4th, 1914, where owing to the prevention or restriction of or delay in the supply or delivery of materials, or the diversion or insufficiency of labour due to the war, the contract cannot be carried out without serious hardship. The court must consider the circumstances and position of the parties and any offer made by any party for the variation of the contract.

An offer made before the above date, and which is binding on the party so offering if accepted after this date is within the section (sect. 1, sub-s. 1).

A similar power is also given on the application of any party to any contract where any term of such contract cannot be enforced without serious hardship, owing to enactments made for the defence of the realm or the acquisition or user by the Crown of any ship or other property, to suspend or annul the contract or stay proceedings under such contract or any term thereof (sect. 1).

Work to be done under Act of Parliament, or Order having the force of an Act for supply of water, heat, light, traction or power is within the section, though the court cannot in these cases annul the contract (sect. 1).

Where, under a contract of tenancy any person is bound to do, or abstain from doing or under liability if he abstains from doing or does any act or thing, and who is by any restrictive enactment relating to the defence of the realm restricted in whole or in part, or ordered to do such act or thing, is not to be liable to any mandatory order or injunction or interdict or to be liable to pay any money, or incur any forfeiture or penalty in respect of the doing or omission to do such act or thing if and so far as his act or default is due to compliance with such enactments (sect. 2).

If the restriction is removed during the currency of the contract, the contract must be carried out as soon as possible.

If the restriction has not been removed before the termination of the contract, the person to whom the relief is given shall be liable to pay as damages a sum not more than would have been entailed in carrying out the contract (sect. 2).

Where, before or after the passing of this Act, the non-fulfilment of any contract (not a contract of tenancy) is due to compliance with any requirement, regulation, order, or restriction of any Government department, or competent naval or military authority, imposed for the purposes of the war, or any direction or advice issued or given by any Government department with the object of preventing transactions which would or might be contrary to national interests in the war, proof of such fact is to be a good defence in respect of the non-fulfilment of the contract.

NOTE.—A certificate by the appropriate Government department is sufficient evidence that such direction or advice was issued or given (sect. 3).

Section 4 provides that sect. 1, sub-s. 2, of the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act (as to payment of a fine, premium, etc., on grant, renewal or continuance of a tenancy) shall not apply to a lease of a dwelling-house for twenty-one years or upwards, and repeals sect. 2 of the Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2), Act, 1916, as useless (see ante, p. 948).

Section 5 allows money actually paid for rent or mortgage interest which, by virtue of the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915, would have been irrecoverable by the landlord or mortgagee, to be recovered from the person who received it or his personal representatives by the tenant or mortgagor who paid it.

The action to recover such money must be brought within six months of the payment, or if the payment was made before the passing of this Act, within six months after the passing thereof, or it may be deducted within six months from subsequent rent or mortgage interest accruing during such time.

NOTE.—The decision of the Court of Appeal in Sharp Brothers and Knight v. Chant, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 608, that money so paid was paid under a mistake of law, and was not recoverable is now reversed by the above section (sect. 5).

It is made an offence by this Act to put in a rent book or like document a statement that a tenant is in arrear with rent in respect of any sum which is irrecoverable, or if such entry exists, not to delete it, when asked by or on behalf of the tenant to do so (sect. 5, sub-s. 2).

Section 1, sub-s. 1 (a) of the Principal Act does not apply to a judgment or order for money or costs given or made in an action of tort.

Section 1, sub-s. 1 of the Principal Act is to apply to any sum of money due and payable by an officer or man in His Majesty's forces under a contract made before he joined the forces (sect. 8, see ante, p. 948).

(One or two other provisions either have no application to county courts or are noted in the other statutes to which they refer.)

NOTE.—By Order in Council, dated September 29th, 1917, the Minister of Munitions may declare a "Munitions Area" in which case it is an offence, without his consent, to take proceedings to recover possession of a dwelling-house occupied by a munition worker, if the conditions of tenancy are fulfilled, and the rent not in arrear.

COURTS (EMERGENCY POWERS) ACT, 1914.

[4 & 5 GEO. 5, c. 78.] (a)

AN ACT TO GIVE, IN CONNEXION WITH THE PRESENT WAR, FURTHER POWERS TO COURTS IN RELATION TO THE REMEDIES FOR THE RECOVERY OF MONEY, AND IN RELATION TO OTHER SIMILAR MATTERS.

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

Power of courts to defer execution, &c.

1.—(1) From and after the passing of this Act no person shall—

(a) proceed to execution on, or otherwise to the enforcement of, any judgment or order of any court (whether entered or made before or after the passing of this Act) for the payment or recovery of a sum of money to which this sub-section applies, except after such application to such court and such notice as may be provided for by rules or directions under this Act (b) ; or

NOTE.—(a) Not to apply to a fine, or money payable under a recognizance or order of affiliation, or order enforceable as such. See Courts (Emergency Powers) Order, 1914 (dated September 17th, 1914, post, p. 962. This sub-section does not apply to Petition on a judgment to wind up a company (In re A Company, (1915) 1 Ch. 520 ; 84 L. J. Ch. 382).

An English company de facto controlled by alien enemies cannot sue in the English Courts if such a state of things is found to exist (Daimler Co., Ltd. v. Continental Tyre and Rubber Co., Ltd., (1916) 2 A. C. 307 ; 85 L. J. K. B. 1333 ; but the mere fact that an essentially British company does business in an enemy country through a properly appointed agent there does not constitute it an alien enemy company (Muhesa Rubber Plantations, Ld., In re, (1917) 1 K. B. 48 ; 86 L. J. K. B. 204).

(b) The sub-section does not apply to money or costs recovered in tort (Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 6.

Proceedings may be taken in the English Courts against alien enemies for breach of contract as well where the cause of action accrued after the outbreak of war as where it accrued before the war (Halsey and Another v. Lowenfeld (Leigh and Curzon, third parties), (1916) 1 K. B. 143.

A contract between a German subject living and carrying on business in England, entered into since the war, and being one not prohibited by any Proclamation against trading with the enemy, may be enforced by the German subject in the English Courts, and this notwithstanding that such person has, subsequently to obtaining his licence to remain in this country, been interned (Schaffenius v. Goldberg, (1916) 1 K. B. 284 (Nordman v. Rayner and Sturgess, (1916) 33 T. L. R. 87). See also Princess Thurn and Taxis v. Moffitt, (1915) 1 Ch. 58 ; Porter v. Freudenberg, (1915) 1 K. B. 857).

(b) levy any distress, take, resume, or enter into possession of any property, exercise any right of re-entry, foreclose, realise any security (except by way of sale by a mortgagee in possession) (a), forfeit any deposit, or enforce the lapse of any policy of insurance to which this sub-section applies, for the purpose of enforcing the payment or recovery of any sum of money to which this sub-section applies, or, in default of the payment or recovery of any such sum of money, except after such application to such court and such notice as may be provided for by rules or directions under this Act. (b)

This sub-section was held not to apply to the commencement of a foreclosure action, or a debenture holder's action; or to preclude the court from appointing a receiver and manager if no such application has been made (Farnot, Eades, Irvine & Co. v. The Company, (1915) 1 Ch. 22; 84 L. J. Ch. 129; but see now Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2) Act, 1916, sect. 1, sub-s. 1 (a), post, p. 957. Nor is leave necessary to entitle the landlord to bring an action to recover possession of premises under a clause of re-entry for non-payment of rent (Ness v. O'Neil, (1916) 1 K. B. 706; 85 L. J. K. B. 836). Where the Master and Judge in Chambers have both exercised their discretion and refused to stay execution under this Act, the Court of Appeal will not interfere (Lyric Theatre, London v. L. T. Lim., and Cyril Theatrical Syndicate, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 712).

NOTE.—(a) The exception above applies to personal as well as real property if the mortgagee is in possession (Ziman Komata Reefs Gold Mining Co., (1915) 2 K. B. 163; 84 L. J. K. B. 1162). Shares bought by a stockbroker of a jobber for a client may, notwithstanding this section, be sold by the broker if they are not paid for, for even assuming that the shares are a "security" within the meaning of the sub-section the broker is a "mortgagee in possession" (Foster v. Barnard, (1916) 2 A. C. 154; 85 L. J. K. B. 1161 (H. L.)). See also Hosack v. Robins, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 117.

NOTE.—(b) See now Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2) Act, 1916, 6 & 7 Geo. V., c. 18, post, p. 956.

This sub-section shall not apply to any sum of money (other than rent not being rent at or exceeding fifty pounds per annum) due and payable in pursuance of a contract made after the beginning of the fourth day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen (a).

NOTE.—(a) As to officers and men in His Majesty's forces see Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1916, sect. 1 (a), post, p. 955; and Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 8, post, p. 961.

This sub-section applies to life or endowment policies for an amount not exceeding twenty-five pounds, or payments equivalent thereto, the premiums in respect of which are payable at not longer than monthly intervals, and have been paid for at least the two years preceding the fourth day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen.

See now 6 & 7 Geo. V. c. 13.

(2) If, on any such application, the court to which the application is made is of opinion that time should be given to the person liable to make the payment on the ground that he is unable immediately to make the payment by reason of circumstances attributable, directly or indirectly, to the present war, the court may, in its absolute discretion, after considering all the circumstances of the case and the position of all the parties, by order, stay execution or defer the operation of any such remedies as aforesaid, for such time and subject to such conditions as the court thinks fit (a).

NOTE.—(a) Where it was impossible to carry out a contract to deliver goods owing to the said goods being requisitioned for the war the vendors were excused (In re arbitration between Shipton, Anderson & Co. and Harrison Bros. & Co. (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 2137; see also Happe v. Manassch (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1895); Metropolitan Water Board v. Dick, Kerr & Co. Ltd., (1917) 2 K. B 1; 86 L. J. K. B. 675. See also, Tennants (Lancashire), Ltd. v. C. S. Wilson & Co., Ltd. (1917), A. C. 495; 86 L. J. K. B. 1191. Where a contract cannot be carried out at once, owing to a proclamation forbidding the export of the class of goods contracted for, the contract is not dissolved, but only suspended (Andrew Millar & Co., Ltd. v. Taylor & Co., (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 346; see also Distington Hematite Iron Co., Ltd. v. Possehl & Co., (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 919). See now as to contracts which cannot be carried out owing to restrictive legislation or Government requirements for the war or Government orders or advice, Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, post, p. 958. See, where contract is not wholly impossible (Leiston Gas Co. v. Leiston-cum-Sizewell Urban Council, (1916) 1 K. B. 912; 2 K. B. 428; Wilson & Co., Ltd. v. Tennants (Lancashire), Ltd., (1917) 1 K. B. 208; Bolckow, Vaughan & Co. v. Compania Minera De Sierra Minera and North Eastern Steel Co. v. The Same, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 439; also Smith Coney & Barrett v. Becker, Gray & Co., (1916) 2 Ch. 86, as to contract valid when made, and containing arbitration clause). As to a contract partially performed, and then the completion rendered impossible see St. Enoch Shipping Co. v. Phosphate Mining Co., (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 74.

(3) Where a bankruptcy petition has been presented against any debtor, and the debtor proves to the satisfaction of the court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy that his inability to pay his debts is due to circumstances attributable, directly or indirectly, to the present war, the court (b) may, in its absolute discretion, after considering all the circumstances of the case and the position of all the parties, at any time stay the proceedings under the petition for such time and subject to such conditions as the court thinks fit.

NOTE.—(b) The Court of Bankruptcy has exclusive jurisdiction as to staying proceedings on a bankruptcy petition (In re Silber, (1915) 2 K. B. 317; 84 L. J. K. B. 971). The sub-section (3) is not limited to petitions presented before the passing of the Act (In re Silber, supra). The Court has no power to exercise this discretion in favour of a debtor who is a subject of a foreign state at war with His Majesty, this being forbidden by sub-sect. 7, infra (see Radeke, In re, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 2111).

A similar power now exists in a court to which a petition to wind up a company is presented (see Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2) Act, 1916, sect. 1, sub-s. 2, post, p. 957.

(4) This Act shall apply to all proceedings for the recovery of possession of tenements under the Small Tenements Recovery Act, 1838, as if they were in all cases proceedings for the payment or recovery of a sum of money due and payable on account of rent.

1 & 2 Vict. c. 74.

(5) The Lord Chancellor may make such rules and give such directions as he thinks fit for the purpose of giving full effect to this Act, and may, by those rules or directions, provide for any proceedings for the purposes of this Act being conducted, so far as desirable, in private and for the remission of any fees.

(6) The powers given under this Act shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, any other powers of any court.

(7) Nothing in this Act shall affect any right or power of pawnbrokers to deal with pledges, or give any power to stay execution or defer the operation of any remedies of a creditor in the case of a sum of money payable by, or recoverable from, the subject of a Sovereign or State at war with His Majesty.

(8) Any stay of execution or of other proceedings, and any postponement of the operation of the remedies of a creditor, which has been granted or ordered by any court since the commencement of the present war and before the passing of this Act shall be as valid as if this Act had been in operation when the stay or postponement was granted or ordered.

Short title, application, and duration.

2.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1914.

(4) His Majesty may, by Order in Council, at any time determine the operation of this Act, or provide that this Act shall have effect subject to such limitations as may be contained in the Order ; but, subject to the operation of any such Order in Council, this Act shall have effect during the continuance of the present war, and for a period of six months thereafter (a).

NOTE.—(a) Extended to the Isle of Man by Order in Council dated the 14th October, 1914.

COURTS (EMERGENCY POWERS) (AMENDMENT) ACT, 1916.

(6 & 7 Geo. V. c. 13.)

By this Act the benefits of the Principal Act, sect. 1, sub-sects. 1, 2, and 3, are extended, with the additions and modifications set out in the Act, to officers and men of His Majesty's Forces.

Power is also given to the County Court, in its absolute discretion, to determine yearly tenancies, or tenancies for longer periods on the application of the tenant, being an officer or man in His Majesty's Forces.

AN ACT TO AMEND THE COURTS (EMERGENCY POWERS) ACT, 1914, IN RELATION TO OFFICERS AND MEN OF HIS MAJESTY'S FORCES.

[17*th May*, 1916.]

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

Modification of principal Act as respects members of His Majesty's forces.

4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 78.

1. The Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1914 (hereinafter referred to as the "principal Act"), shall have effect in favour of officers and men of His Majesty's forces, with the following modifications, that is to say :—

(a) Sub-section (1) of section one shall apply to any sum of money due and payable in pursuance of a contract made before the commencement of this Act, whether such contract was made before or after the beginning of the fourth day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen :

(b) The discretionary powers conferred upon the courts by sub-sections (2) and (3) of section one may be exercised although the debtor's inability to pay may not be due to circumstances attributable directly or indirectly to the present war.

Power of county courts to determine leases to members of His Majesty's forces.

2. Any officer or man of His Majesty's forces who is the tenant of any premises under a tenancy from year to year, or for any longer period, may apply to the county court, or in Scotland the sheriff court, for the district in which he usually resides, or in which such premises are situate, in such manner as may be prescribed by rules or directions under the principal Act, for leave to determine such tenancy, and, upon any such application being made, the court may, in its absolute discretion, after considering all the circumstances of the case and the position of all the parties, by order authorise the applicant to determine the tenancy by such notice and upon such conditions as the court thinks fit, and thereupon such tenancy may, notwithstanding any provision in the tenancy agreement or lease, be determined accordingly.

Short title and commencement. 5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 19.

3.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Courts (Emergency Powers) (Amendment) Act, 1916, and shall be read with the principal Act; and the principal Act, the Courts (Emergency Powers) (Ireland) Act, 1914, and this Act may be cited together as the Courts (Emergency Powers) Acts, 1914 and 1916.

(2) This Act shall have effect as from the eleventh day of April nineteen hundred and sixteen, and shall be deemed to have been in operation as from that date.

COURTS (EMERGENCY POWERS) (No. 2) ACT, 1916.

[6 & 7 Geo. V. c. 18.]

This Act extends the meaning of the expression "enter into possession," used in the principal Act so as to include the appointment of a receiver of mortgaged property. It also extends the provisions as to foreclosure in the principal Act, to proceedings for foreclosure or sale without leave of the court (see Farnot, Eades, Irvine & Co. v. The Company, ante, p. 949). It defines the expression "mortgagee in possession" as used in the principal Act. It also gives a similar power to that given to the court of bankruptcy by clause 1 (3) of the Principal Act, where a petition to wind up a company is presented (sect. 1, sub-s. 2).

By section 2 the county court could (notwithstanding the prohibition contained in the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. V., c. 97), s. 1 (2), post, p. 983) authorise the grant of a new lease for twenty-one years or upwards for which a fine, premium, or other like sum in addition to the rent is required if satisfied that the terms are on the whole not less favourable to the tenant than the terms on which the dwelling-house was previously let (a). This section is now repealed as the clause in the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915, no longer applies to any lease of a dwelling-house for a term of twenty-one years or upwards (see Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 4, post, p. 960).

Section 3 contains provisions allowing the court (b) to declare that prescription in respect of light shall not be acquired in respect of adjoining or neighbouring premises, where a person entitled to build on land is unable to do so, by reason of the war, or where in the opinion of the Treasury or Minister of Munitions it is desirable that he should not build on such land.

AN ACT TO GIVE TO COURTS IN CONNECTION WITH THE PRESENT WAR FURTHER POWERS OF GRANTING RELIEF.

[1*st June*, 1916.]

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

Amendment of principal Act as to

1.—(1) In sub-section (1) of section one of the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1914 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act)—

(a) Passed in consequence of the decision in Rees v. Bute (Marquess), (1916) 85 L. J. Ch. 421.

(b) The Chancery Division of the High Court, ante, p. 949.

(a) the expression "enter into possession" shall include the appointment of a receiver of mortgaged property; and mortgagees and companies.

(b) the provisions relating to foreclosure shall extend to the institution of proceedings for foreclosure or for sale in lieu of foreclosure (a); and 4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 78.

(a) See Hosack v. Robins, (1917) 86 L. J. Ch. 117; on appeal, (1917) 86 L. J. Ch. 282.

(c) the expression "a mortgagee in possession" shall include a mortgagee who before the passing of the principal Act appointed a receiver who is still in possession or receipt of the rents and profits of the mortgaged property, but shall not include a mortgagee of property other than land or some interest in land, except in any case where the power of sale had arisen and notice of intended sale had been given prior to the fourth day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen.

(2) Where a petition has, whether before or after the passing of this Act, been presented for the winding up of any company, the court shall have the like discretion as to staying proceedings under the petition as by sub-section (3) of section one of the principal Act is conferred on courts having jurisdiction in bankruptcy in relation to bankruptcy proceedings.

(3) This section shall have effect as from the twenty-fifth day of May nineteen hundred and sixteen, and shall be deemed to have been in operation as from that date.

Power of county court to remove restrictions imposed by 5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 97, s. 1 (2).

2.—(1) A county court may authorise the grant of a new lease for a term of twenty-one years or upwards of a dwelling-house to which the increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915, applies, in consideration for which a fine, premium, or other like sum, in addition to the rent, is required, if the court is satisfied that the terms of the tenancy are on the whole not less favourable to the tenant than the terms on which the dwelling-house was previously let, and in such cases sub-section (2) of section one of the said Act shall not apply.

(2) This section shall be construed as one with the said Act.

Repealed. See Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915, sect. 1, sub-s. 2, as amended by sect. 4 of the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, post, p. 960.

NOTE.—Passed to meet the decision in the case of Rees v. Marquess of Bute, (1916) 2 Ch. 64; 85 L. J. Ch. 421; see note, ante, p. 956. Rules and Forms made to regulate an application under this section, dated June 26th, 1916, are now obsolete. See post, p. 998.

Power to court to suspend period for prescription running in certain cases.

3.—Where on the application of a person entitled to build on any site it is proved to the satisfaction of such court as may be provided by rules or directions under the principal Act—

(a) that that person is prevented from erecting a building on the site by reason of circumstances attributable directly or indirectly to the present war, or that in the opinion of the Treasury or of the Minister of Munitions it is desirable in the national interests that he should not erect such a building during the present war; and

(b) that in consequence of the delay in erecting such building there is danger of a right to light being acquired by prescription in respect of any adjoining or neighbouring premises, the court (a) may in its absolute discretion, after considering all the circumstances of the case and the position of all the parties, by order declare that a period, commencing at such date not earlier than the twenty-fifth day of May nineteen hundred and sixteen and ending at such date not later than six months after the termination of the present war as may be fixed by the court, shall be excluded in computing the period of the enjoyment of light required for the purpose of obtaining a prescriptive right whether under the Prescription Act, 1832, or otherwise.

(a) Post, p. 979.

2 & 3 Will. 4, c. 71.

Short title, construction and extent.

4.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2) Act, 1916, and save as otherwise expressly provided shall be construed as one with the principal Act, and the Courts (Emergency Powers) Acts, 1914 and 1916, and this Act may be cited together as the Courts (Emergency Powers) Acts, 1914 to 1916.

(2) Sub-section (1) of section one and sections two and three of this Act shall not apply to Scotland.

COURTS (EMERGENCY POWERS) ACT, 1917.

(7 & 8 Geo. 5, c. 25).

Powers of court to suspend or annul certain contracts.

1.—(1) Where, upon an application by any party to a contract for the construction of any building or work or for the supply of any materials for any building or work entered into before the fourth day of August, nineteen hundred and fourteen, the court is satisfied that, owing to the prevention or restriction of, or the delay in, the supply or delivery of materials, or the diversion or insufficiency of labour, occasioned by the present war, the contract cannot be enforced according to its terms without serious hardship, the court may, after considering all the circumstances of the case and the position of all the parties to the contract and any offer which may have been made by any party for a variation of the contract, suspend or annul the contract or stay any proceedings for the enforcement of the contract or any term thereof or any rights arising thereunder on such conditions (if any) as the court may think fit.

See post, p. 079.

For the purpose of this subsection where an offer made before the fourth day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen was binding on a contracting party if accepted within a specified period expiring after that date and was so accepted after that date, the contract shall be deemed to have been entered into before that date.

(2) Where, upon an application by any party to any contract whatsoever, the court (a) is satisfied that, owing to any restriction or direction imposed or given by or in pursuance of any enactment relating to the defence of the realm or any regulation made thereunder, or owing to the acquisition or user by or on behalf of the Crown for the purposes of the present war of any ship or other property, any term of the contract cannot be enforced without serious hardship, the court may, after considering the circumstances of the case and the position of the parties to the contract and any offer which may have been made by any party for the variation of the contract, suspend or annul the contract or stay any proceedings for the enforcement of the contract or any term thereof or any rights arising thereunder on such conditions (if any) as the court may think fit.

This subsection shall apply to any obligation relating to the supply of water, heat, light, traction or power arising under any Act of Parliament, or order having the force of an Act of Parliament, in like manner as it applies to a contract, except that it shall not be lawful for the court to annul any such obligation.

(3) This section shall be construed as one with the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1914. 4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 78.

(a) See post, p. 979.

Relief in respect of certain contractual obligations.

2. Where, by virtue of any contract of tenancy, any person is bound to do or abstain from doing or is under any liability if he abstains from doing or does any act or thing, and by virtue of any enactment relating to the defence of the realm or any regulation made thereunder the doing of such act or thing is wholly or partially restricted or ordered, he shall not, during the continuance of the contract or on or after the termination thereof, be liable to any mandatory order or any injunction or interdict in respect of such act or thing, or be liable to pay any sum of money or incur any forfeiture or other penalty in respect of the failure to do or the doing of such act or thing if and in so far as the failure to do or the doing of such act or thing is attributable to compliance with such restriction or order as aforesaid :

Provided that the relief afforded by this provision from the obligation to do any such act or thing in consequence of such a restriction as aforesaid shall be subject to the following provisions :—

(a) If the restriction is removed during the currency of the contract the obligation shall be fulfilled as soon as may be after the restriction is removed ;

(b) If the restriction has not been removed before the termination of the contract the person to whom the relief is given shall be liable to pay as damages a sum not exceeding the expenditure (if any) which would have been entailed by the fulfilment of the obligation.

Relief from liability when fulfilment of contract interfered with by action of Government department.

3. 4. Any application which may under this direction be made to the Chancery Division of the High Court may in cases within the jurisdiction of a Palatinate Court be made to that Court.

INCREASE OF RENT AND MORTGAGE INTEREST (WAR RESTRICTIONS) ACT, 1915. (a)

[5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 97.]

This Act was passed with the general purpose of preventing the raising of rents, or the increase of mortgage interest, in respect of certain classes of houses, during the continuance of the war.

It applies only to houses where the rent reserved, or the rateable value, does not exceed—

(a) In the Metropolitan Police district, or in the City of London, thirty-five pounds a year;

(b) Elsewhere in England, twenty-six pounds a year.

It only affects rent accrued after the 25th November, 1915.

The Act fixes a "standard rent," and a "standard rate of interest." The former is the rent for which the house was let on the 3rd of August, 1914, if then let; the latter the rate of the interest payable under the mortgage on the 3rd of August, 1914, if then created.

Subject to the exceptions contained in the Act, any rent beyond the "standard rent" or any interest higher than the "standard rate of interest" is irrecoverable.

Where, however, the rent had been increased since the war but before the Act was passed, and the tenant, in ignorance of the law continued to pay the increased rent after the 25th day of November, 1915 (sect. 1 (1), proviso (1)) it was held by the Court of Appeal—reversing the decision of a Divisional Court—that, the payments having been made voluntarily, the rule that voluntary payments made under mistake of law are irrecoverable prevented the tenant from using such payments as a set-off in an action brought against him by his landlord for other rent accrued subsequently (Sharp Brothers and Knight v. Chant, (1917) 1 K. B. 771; 86 L. J. K. B. 608) —but see now Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 5, which reverses this decision.

No fine, premium, or other like sum could be exacted for granting, renewing, or continuing such a tenancy after the 4th day of August, 1914.

(See now Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2) Act, 1916 (6 & 7 Geo. 5, c. 18, s. 2; and Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 4).

No order for ejectment, or for the recovery by the landlord of any such dwelling-house, can be made whilst the rent reserved by the statute—"the standard rent"—continues to be paid, except for the causes set out in the Act itself.

The Act also contains somewhat similar restrictions designed to prevent the calling in of mortgage money due on a mortgage comprising one or more dwelling-houses of the class to which the Act applies, or any interest thereon. It is subject to exceptions set out in the Act.

The Act is to remain in force during the continuance of the war and a period of six months thereafter.

NOTE.—The County Courts have now special jurisdiction given to them by the Courts (Emergency Powers) (Amendment) Act, 1916 (6 & 7 Geo. 5, c. 13, s. 2), to determine leases under tenancies from year to year, or any longer periods, granted to officers or men in His Majesty's forces on such terms as the Court in its absolute discretion may see fit. See ante, p. 955.

AN ACT TO RESTRICT, IN CONNECTION WITH THE PRESENT WAR, THE INCREASE OF THE RENT OF SMALL DWELLING-HOUSES AND THE INCREASE OF THE RATE OF INTEREST ON, AND THE CALLING IN OF, SECURITIES ON SUCH DWELLING-HOUSES.

[23*rd December*, 1915.]

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

Restriction on raising rent or rate of mortgage interest.

1.—(1) Where the rent of a dwelling-house to which this Act applies, or the rate of interest on a mortgage to which this Act applies, has been, since the commencement of the present war, or is hereafter during the continuance of this Act, increased above the standard rent or the standard rate of interest as hereinafter defined, the amount by which the rent or interest payable exceeds the amount which would have been payable had the increase not been made shall, notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, be irrecoverable :

Provided that—

(i.) This subsection shall not apply to any rent or mortgage interest which accrued due before the twenty-fifth day of November nineteen hundred and fifteen; and

(ii.) Where the landlord has since the commencement of the present war incurred, or during the continuance of this Act incurs, expenditure on the improvement or structural alteration of a dwelling-house (not including expenditure on decoration or repairs), an increase of rent at a rate not exceeding six per cent. per annum on the amount so expended shall not be deemed to be an increase for the purposes of this Act; and

(iii.) Any transfer to a tenant of any burden or liability previously borne by the landlord shall for the purposes of this Act be treated as an alteration of rent, and where, as the result of such a transfer, the terms on which a dwelling-house is held are on the whole less favourable to the tenant than the previous terms the rent shall be deemed to be increased, whether or not the sum periodically payable by way of rent is increased, and any increase of rent in respect of any transfer to a landlord of any burden or liability previously borne by the tenant where, as the result of such transfer, the terms on which a dwelling-house is held are on the whole more favourable to the tenant than the previous terms shall be deemed not to be an increase of rent for the purposes of this Act, and if any question arises under this proviso the question shall be determined by the county court, whose decision shall be final and conclusive; and

(iv.) Where the landlord pays the rates chargeable on, or which but for the enactments relating to compounding would be chargeable on, the occupier of any dwelling-house, an increase of the rent of the dwelling-house shall not be deemed to be an increase for the purposes of this Act if the amount of the increase does not exceed any increase in the amount for the time being payable by the landlord in respect of such rates over the corresponding amount paid in respect of the yearly, half-yearly or other period which included the third day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen, and for the purposes of this proviso the expression "rates" includes water rents and charges; and

(v.) Where the rate of mortgage interest has been increased in compliance with, or in consequence of, a notice in writing demanding either repayment of the mortgage or an increased rate of interest given prior to the fourth day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen, such increase shall not be deemed to be an increase for the purposes of this Act; and

(vi.) Wherever an increase of rent is by this Act permitted, no such increase shall be due or recoverable until the expiry of four clear weeks after the landlord has served upon the tenant a notice in writing of his intention to increase the rent, accompanied—

(a) where the increase of rent is on account of such expenditure as is mentioned in proviso (ii.) to this subsection, by a statement of the improvements or alterations effected and of their cost; and

(b) where the increase of rent is on account of an increase in rates, by a statement showing particulars of the increased amount charged in respect of rates on the dwelling-house; and

(c) where such a notice has been served on any tenant the increase may be continued without service of any fresh notice on any subsequent tenant.

(2) A person shall not in consideration of the grant, renewal, or continuance of a tenancy of any dwelling-house to which this Act applies require the payment of any fine, premium, or other like sum in addition to the rent (a), and where any such payment has been made in respect of any such dwelling-house after the twenty-fifth day of November nineteen hundred and fifteen, then the amount shall be recoverable by the tenant by whom it was made from the landlord, and may without prejudice to any other method of recovery be deducted from any rent payable by him to the landlord, but this provision shall not apply to any payment under an agreement entered into before the fourth day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen.

NOTE.—The above section now does not apply to the lease of a dwelling-house for a term of 21 years or upwards. See Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 4 (1).

(a) See Rees v. Marquess Bute, (1916) 2 Ch. 64, 85 L. J. Ch. 421, where this provision was held to apply to a lease for ninety-nine years at a nominal rent; but see now Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2) Act, 1916 (6 & 7 Geo. 5, c. 18), s. 2 (1), passed to meet this decision.

The decision in Sharp, Brothers and Knight v. Chant, ante p. 981, that rent voluntarily paid in ignorance of this Act could not be recovered or set-off against future rent accruing due, is reversed by the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 5.

(3) No order for the recovery of possession of a dwelling-house to which this Act applies or for the ejectment of a tenant therefrom shall be made so long as the tenant continues to pay rent at the agreed rate as modified by this Act and performs the other conditions of the tenancy, except on the ground that the tenant has committed waste or has been guilty of conduct which is a nuisance or an annoyance to adjoining or neighbouring occupiers, or that the premises are reasonably required by the landlord for the occupation of himself or some other person in his employ, or in the employ of some tenant from him, or on some other ground which may be deemed satisfactory by the court making such order, and where such order has been made but not executed before the passing of this Act the court by which the order was made may, if it is of opinion that the order would not have been made if this Act had been in operation at the date of the making of the order, rescind or vary the order in such manner as the court may think fit for the purpose of giving effect to this Act.

(4) It shall not be lawful for any mortgagee under a mortgage to which this Act applies, during the continuance of this Act, and so long as interest at the standard rate is paid (a) and is not more than twenty-one days in arrear, and the covenants by the mortgagor (other than the covenant for the repayment of the principal money secured) are performed and observed, (b) and so long as the mortgagor keeps the property in a proper state of repair and pays all interest and instalments of principal recoverable under any prior encumbrance, to call in his mortgage or to take any steps for exercising any right of foreclosure or sale, or for otherwise enforcing his security or for recovering the principal money there by secured :

NOTE.—Applies retrospectively where writ for foreclosure or sale issued before the Act came into operation (Welby v. Parker, (1916) 2 Ch. 1).

(b) "Covenants by the mortgagor are performed." Mortgagor out of possession cannot rely on the fact that he cannot enter to do repairs required by his covenant (Walters v. Smith, supra).

Provided that this provision shall not apply to a mortgage where the principal money secured thereby is repayable by means of periodical instalments extending over a term of not less than ten years from the creation of the mortgage, nor shall this provision affect any power of sale exerciseable by a mortgagee who was at the twenty-fifth day of November nineteen hundred and fifteen a mortgagee in possession, or in cases where the mortgagor consents to the exercise by the mortgagee of the powers conferred by the mortgage :

Provided also that if, in the case of a mortgage of a leasehold interest, the mortgagee satisfies the county court that his security is seriously diminishing in value or is otherwise in jeopardy, and that for that reason it is reasonable that the mortgage should be called in and enforced, the court may by order authorise him to call in and enforce the same, and thereupon this subsection shall not apply to such mortgage.

Interpretation and application.

2.—(1) For the purposes of this Act except where the context otherwise requires :—

(a) The expression "standard rent" means the rent at which the dwelling-house was let on the third day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen, or, where the dwelling-house was not let on that date, the rent at which it was last let before that date, or, in the case of a dwelling-house which was first let after the said third day of August, the rent at which it was first let:

(b) The expression "standard rate of interest" means in the case of a mortgage in force on the third day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen, the rate of interest payable at that date, or, in the case of a mortgage created since that date, the original rate of interest:

(c) The expression "rateable value" means the rateable value on the third day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen, or, in the case of a house or part of a house first assessed after that date, the rateable value at which it was first assessed:

(d) The expressions "landlord," "tenant," "mortgagee," and "mortgagor" include any person from time to time deriving title under the original landlord, tenant, mortgagee, or mortgagor:

(e) The expression "mortgage" includes a land charge under the Land Transfer Acts, 1875 and 1897. 38 & 39 Vict. c. 87. 60 & 61 Vict. c. 65.

(2) This Act shall apply to a house or a part of a house let as a separate dwelling where such letting does not include any land other than the site of the dwelling-house and a garden or other premises within the curtilage of the dwelling-house, and where either the annual amount of the standard rent or the rateable value of the house or part of the house does not exceed—

(a) in the case of a house situate in the metropolitan police district, including therein the city of London, thirty-five pounds;

(b) in the case of a house situate in Scotland, thirty pounds; and

(c) in the case of a house situate elsewhere, twenty-six pounds;

and every such house or part of a house shall be deemed to be a dwelling-house to which this Act applies: Provided that this Act shall not apply to a dwelling-house let at a rent which includes payments in respect of board, attendance, or use of furniture.

(3) Where, for the purpose of determining the standard rent or rateable value of a dwelling-house to which this Act applies, it is necessary to apportion the rent at the date in relation to which the standard rent is to be fixed or the rateable value of the property in which that dwelling-house is comprised, a county court may, on application by either party, make such apportionment as seems just, and the decision of the court as to the amount to be apportioned to the dwelling-house shall be final and conclusive.

(4) Subject to the provisions of this Act, this Act shall apply to every mortgage where the mortgaged property consists of or comprises one or more dwelling-houses to which this Act applies, or any interest therein except that it shall not apply—

(a) to any mortgage comprising one or more dwelling-houses to which this Act applies and other land if the rateable value of such dwelling-houses is less than one-tenth of the rateable value of the whole of the land comprised in the mortgage, or

(b) to an equitable charge by deposit of title deeds or otherwise.

(5) Where this Act has become applicable to any dwelling-house or any mortgage thereon it shall continue to apply thereto whether or not the dwelling-house continues to be a dwelling-house to which this Act applies.

(6) Where the standard rent payable in respect of any tenancy of a dwelling-house is less than two-thirds of the rateable value thereof, this Act shall not apply to that rent or tenancy nor to any mortgage by the landlord from whom the tenancy is held of his interest in the dwelling-house.

NOTE.—By the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917, sect. 7, the word "standard" is to be omitted, and at the end of the subsection the following words are to be added: "and this Act shall apply in respect of such dwelling house as if no such tenancy existed or had ever existed."

NOTE.—The meaning of this addition seems obscure.

Rules as to procedure.

3. The Lord Chancellor may make such rules and give such directions as he thinks fit for the purpose of giving effect to this Act, and may by those rules or directions provide for any proceedings for the purposes of this Act being conducted so far as desirable in private and for the remission of any fees.

Application to Scotland and Ireland.

4.—(1) This Act shall apply to Scotland, subject to the following modifications :—

"Mortgage and incumbrance" mean a heritable security; "fine" means grassum or consideration other than rent; "mortgagor" and "mortgagee" mean respectively the debtor and the creditor in a heritable security; "covenant" means obligation; "mortgaged property" means the heritable subject or subjects included in a heritable security; "rateable value" means yearly value according to the valuation roll; "rateable value on the third day of August nineteen hundred and fourteen" means yearly value according to the valuation roll for the year ending fifteenth day of May nineteen hundred and fifteen; "assessed" means entered in the valuation roll; "committed waste" means "wilfully destroyed the property"; "land" means lands and heritages; "enactments relating to compounding" include the House-letting and Rating (Scotland) Act, 1911; "rate" means assessment as defined in the last-mentioned Act; "Lord Chancellor" means the Court of Session; "rules" means act of sederunt; and "county court" means the sheriff. 1 & 2 Geo. 5, c. 53.

(2) This Act shall apply to Ireland subject to the following modifications:—

(a) A reference to the Lord Chancellor of Ireland shall be substituted for the reference to the Lord Chancellor;

(b) The expression "mortgage" includes a charge by registered disposition under the Local Registration of Title (Ireland) Act, 1891; 54 & 55 Vict. c. 66.

(c) The expression "rateable value" means the annual rateable value under the Irish Valuation Acts: Provided that where part of a house let as a separate dwelling is not separately valued under those Acts, the Commissioner of Valuation and Boundary Surveyor may on the application of the landlord or tenant make such apportionment of the rateable value of the whole house as seems just, and his decision as to the amount to be apportioned to the part of the house shall be final and conclusive, and that amount shall be taken to be the rateable value of the part of the house for the purposes of this Act but not further or otherwise.

Short title and duration.

5.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915.

(2) This Act shall continue in force during the continuance of the present war and for a period of six months thereafter and no longer, but the expiration of this Act shall not render recoverable any rent or interest which during the continuance thereof was irrecoverable or affect the right of a tenant to recover any sum which during the continuance thereof was under this Act recoverable by him.

INCREASE OF RENT AND MORTGAGE INTEREST (WAR RESTRICTIONS), ENGLAND.

THE INCREASE OF RENT AMD MORTGAGE INTEREST (WAR RESTRICTIONS) RULES, 1916 (No. 2), DATED JUNE 26, 1916, MADE BY THE LORD CHANCELLOR UNDER THE INCREASE OF RENT AND MORTGAGE INTEREST (WAR RESTRICTIONS) ACT, 1915 (5 & 6 GEO. 5, C. 97), AS AMENDED BY THE COURTS (EMERGENCY POWERS) (No. 2) ACT, 1916 (6 & 7 GEO. 5, C. 18).

NOTE.—These Rules and Forms referred solely to the granting by a county court of a lease of twenty-one years or upwards under sect. 2 of the Courts (Emergency) (No. 2) Act, in consideration for which a fair premium or other like sum could be stipulated for, if the Court thought right. They were annulled by the County Courts (Emergency Powers) Rules, 1917, as section 2 of the Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2) Act, 1916, is now repealed by sect. 4 of the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917. The Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915, does not now apply to any lease of a dwelling house for 21 years or upwards.

THE ARMY (SUPPLY OF FOOD, FORAGE AND STORES) ACT, 1914.

[4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 26.]

THE ARMY AMENDMENT ACT, 1915.

THE ARMY (AMENDMENT) No. 2 ACT.

[5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 58.]

General effect of the above Acts.

By the Army Act, 1881, Section 115, sub-sections 1 and 2 and 7 (as amended) power was conferred upon His Majesty by order, distinctly stating that a case of emergency exists, and signed by a Secretary of State to authorise any general or field officer commanding His Majesty's regular forces in any military district or place in the United Kingdom to issue a requisition (hereinafter referred to as a requisition of emergency).

Sub-section 7 enacts that where a Proclamation ordering the Army Reserve to be called out on permanent service (a), or an order for the embodiment of the Militia is in force the order of His Majesty authorising an officer to issue a requisition of emergency may authorise him to extend such requisition to the provision of carriages, animals, vessels and aircraft for the purpose of being purchased as well as of being hired on behalf of the Crown.

The officer so authorised is empowered to issue a requisition of emergency under his hand, reciting the order, for the provision and sale of carriages, including motor cars and other locomotives, animals, vessels, used for transit on any canal or navigable river, and aircraft (b).

On such requisition a justice shall issue his warrant to enforce the furnishing or sale of such articles requisitioned.

Section 115, sub-section 4 (as amended), provides that the Secretary of State (c) should make due payment for such articles requisitioned, and further provides that any difference respecting the amount of payment should be determined by a county court judge having jurisdiction in any place in which such articles were furnished, or through which they passed in pursuance of the requisition.

By section 4 (3A) of the Army Annual Act, 1914 (4 Geo. 5, c. 2), section 115 of the Army Act is amended as follows :—The requisition may authorise any officer mentioned therein to require any carriages and horses so furnished to be delivered at such place (not being more than one hundred miles in the case of a motor-car or other locomotive, and not being more than ten miles in the case of any other carriage or horse, from the premises of the owner) and at such time as may be specified by any officer mentioned in the requisition. It is the duty of the constable executing a warrant issued by a justice of the peace under the section upon the demand of an officer producing the requisition of emergency to insert in his order such time and place for delivery of any vehicle or horse to which the order relates as may be specified by such officer, and the obligation of owners to furnish carriages and horses shall include an obligation to deliver the carriages and horses at such place and time as may be specified in such order, and the provisions of the Act are to have effect as if references therein to the furnishing of carriages and horses included, as respects any such carriage or horse as aforesaid, delivery at such time and place as aforesaid.

At the outbreak of the present war orders were issued by His Majesty declaring that a state of emergency existed, and authorising General or Field officers to issue requisitions of emergency under the Act.

NOTE.—See these Orders, Pulling's Manual of Emergency Legislation, pp. 90—93.

By the Army (Supply of Food, Forage, and Stores) Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 26) (supra), section 1, it is declared that the power of requisitioning carriages, horses, vessels, and aircraft in case of emergency conferred by the Army Act, shall extend so as to include a power of requisitioning food, forage and stores of all descriptions, and accordingly at the end of sub-section (2) of section 115 of the Army Act there shall be inserted the words "and also of food, forage and stores of every description," and all the other provisions of that section and also the provisions of sections 31, 116, 117, 119, and 121 of the Army Act shall, so far as applicable, apply in relation to food, forage, and stores as they apply in relation to vessels.

By the Army (Amendment) Act, 1915 (5 Geo. 5, c. 26) (supra), it is provided :—

Amendment of s. 115 of the Army Act.

Section 2.—(1) For subsection (4) of section one hundred and fifteen of the Army Act, which relates to the impressment of carriages, animals, and other things in the case of emergency, the following subsection shall be substituted :—

(4) The Army Council shall cause due payment to be made for carriages, animals, vessels, and aircraft furnished in pursuance of this section, and if any difference arises respecting the amount of payment for any carriage, animal, vessel, or aircraft the amount shall be such as may be fixed by a certificate of a county court judge having jurisdiction in any place in which such carriage, animal, vessel, or aircraft was furnished or through which it travelled in pursuance of the requisition ; and for the purpose of fixing such amount the provisions set out in the Sixth Schedule to this Act shall have effect.

Where a sum has been paid or tendered by or on behalf of the Army Council under this sub-section, that sum shall be deemed to be the amount due, unless within three weeks from the date of payment or tender an application is made to a county court judge for his certificate.

(2) After the Fifth Schedule to the Army Act the Schedule to this Act shall be inserted as the Sixth Schedule.

(3) This section shall apply whether the article requisitioned was requisitioned before or after the passing of this Act:

Provided that in its application to articles requisitioned before the passing of this Act a reference to three weeks from the passing of this Act shall be substituted for the reference to three weeks from the date of payment or tender.

The Provisions of the Sixth Schedule are as follows:—

PROVISIONS AS TO DETERMINING AMOUNT TO BE PAID FOR ARTICLES REQUISITIONED.

1. Subject to the provisions of this schedule an application to a county court judge for a certificate shall be made in manner provided by rules of court, and shall be heard by the judge, without a jury, and his decision shall not be subject to appeal.

2. Subject to the provisions of this schedule, and to rules of court, the judge shall on such application act in accordance with the law regulating, and shall have the powers attaching to, the exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction.

3. The amount fixed by the certificate shall be such amount as appears to the county court judge to be the fair market value of the article requisitioned on the day on which it was required to be furnished as between a willing buyer and a willing seller, and where the owner of a carriage or horse has been required to deliver it at a distance from his premises shall include such sum as the judge may consider reasonable to cover the cost of such delivery.

4. No court fees shall be payable on the application, but the judge may, if he thinks fit, order either party to pay such sum as he may consider proper by way of costs to the other party, which sum shall be added to or deducted from the amount fixed by the county court judge as the value of the article requisitioned, and the amount to be included in the certificate shall be adjusted accordingly.

5. If the amount already paid by the Army Council exceeds the amount specified in the certificate, the county court judge shall certify the amount of the excess and shall order the amount so certified to be paid to the Army Council, which order shall be enforceable in like manner as a judgment of a county court.

The Schedule to the Army (Amendment) (No. 2) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 58) (supra), makes amendments in the Army Act, 1881, consequential on the passing of the Army (Supply of Food, Forage and Stores) Act, 1914, by adding or substituting the words "food forage or stores" or the word "articles" for the words "vessels or aircraft," or "carriages, animals, vessels and aircraft," and for the words in sect. 115 (4) "through which it travelled" the words "through which it travelled or was carried."

Procedure.

Procedure is regulated by Order L., rule 14, of the County Court Rules, as now settled by Order dated the 19th of May, 1915, post, p. 1002.

The effect of the above statutes, provisions and rules, is that the county court judge alone determines all disputes as to the price to be paid by the Army Council when carriages, horses, vessels, aircraft, food, forage, and stores of any description are requisitioned by Army officers with authority, for the purposes of the war.

The claim is enforced in the usual way, though no court fees are payable on the application, but the judge has power to order the costs of either party to the dispute to be paid by the other.

There is no appeal. (As to right of Crown to requisition lands and buildings, see Petition of Right of X., In re, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 1961.)

(3) A justice of the peace, on demand by an officer of the portion of His Majesty's naval forces mentioned in a requisition of emergency, or by an officer of the Admiralty authorised in this behalf, and on production of the requisition, shall issue his warrant for the provision of such carriages, animals, vessels, aircraft, food, forage, and stores as are stated by the officer producing the requisition of emergency to be required for the purpose mentioned in the requisition; the warrant shall be executed in the like manner, and all the provisions of this Act as to the provision or furnishing carriages and animals, including those respecting fines on officers, justices, constables, or owners of carriages or animals, shall apply in like manner as in the case where a justice issues, in pursuance of the foregoing provisions of this Act, a warrant for the provision of carriages and animals, and shall apply to vessels, aircraft, food, forage, and stores, as if the expression carriages included vessels, aircraft, food, forage, and stores.

(3A) A requisition of emergency may authorise any officer mentioned therein to require any carriages and horses furnished in pursuance of this section to be delivered at such place (not being more than one hundred miles in the case of a motor car or other locomotive, and not being more than ten miles in the case of any other carriage or horse, from the premises of the owner) and at such time as may be specified by any officer mentioned in the requisition, and in such case it shall be the duty of a constable executing a warrant issued by a justice of the peace under this section upon the demand of an officer producing the requisition of emergency to insert in his order such time and place for delivery

TRADING WITH THE ENEMY ACT, 1914.

[4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 87.]

Amended by 5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 79.

Note.—These Statutes do not directly affect the county courts.

TRADING WITH THE ENEMY AMENDMENT ACT, 1914.

[5 GEO. 5, c. 12.]

This Act appoints a Custodian of enemy property (in England the Public Trustee) and regulates his powers and duties.

Under section 5 (2) of the Act a county court in which judgment has been recovered against an enemy, had power to authorise the Custodian of enemy property to pay out of the property of the enemy held by him, the whole, or any specified part of any debts due by that enemy, and specified in the order.

NOTE.—This power is now apparently taken away from county courts altogether, and confined to the High Court or a judge thereof. See sect. 12 of Trading with the Enemy Amendment Act, 1916 (5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 105) post, p. 1013.

The material parts of section 5 are as follows :—

(2) The property held by the Custodian under this Act shall not be liable to be attached or otherwise taken in execution, but the Custodian may, if so authorised by an order of the High Court or a judge (a) by whose order any property belonging to an enemy was vested in the Custodian under this Act, or of any court in which judgment has been recovered against an enemy (b), pay out of the property paid to him in respect of that enemy the whole or any part of any debts due by that enemy and specified in the order :

NOTE.—(a) The rules made to regulate the procedure on an application to the county court to deal with enemy property in the hands of the public Trustee (post, p. 1013) are now useless.

NOTE.—(b) See sect. 12 of 5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 105, post, p. 1013.

Provided that before paying any such debt the Custodian shall take into consideration the sufficiency of the property paid to or vested in him in respect of the enemy in question to satisfy that debt and any other claims against that enemy of which notice verified by statutory declaration may have been served upon him.

(3) The receipt of the Custodian or any person duly authorised to sign receipts on his behalf for any sum paid to him under this Act shall be a good discharge to the person paying the same as against the person or body of persons in respect of whom the sum was paid to the Custodian.

(4) The Custodian shall keep a register of all property held by him under this Act which register shall be open to public inspection at all reasonable times free of charge.

(5) In England and Ireland the Lord Chancellor and the Lord Chancellor for Ireland may by rules, and in Scotland the Court of Session may by act of sederunt, make provision for the practice and procedure to be adopted for the purposes of this and the last preceding section.

Invalidity of assignment of debts, &c. by enemy.

6.—(1) No person shall by virtue of any assignment of any debt or other chose in action, or delivery of any coupon or other security transferable by delivery, or transfer of any other obligation, made or to be made in his favour by or on behalf of an enemy, whether for valuable consideration or otherwise, have any rights or remedies against the person liable to pay, discharge or satisfy the debt, chose in action, security or obligation, unless he proves that the assignment, delivery, or transfer was made by leave of the Board of Trade or was made before the commencement of the present war, and any person who knowingly pays, discharges or satisfies any debt, or chose in action, to which this sub-section applies, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence of trading with the enemy within the meaning of the principal Act:

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply where the person to whom the assignment, delivery or transfer was made, or some person deriving title under him, proves that the transfer, delivery or assignment or some subsequent transfer, delivery or assignment, was made before the nineteenth day of November, nineteen hundred and fourteen, in good faith and for valuable consideration nor shall this sub-section apply to any bill of exchange or promissory note.

(2) No person shall by virtue of any transfer of a bill of exchange or promissory note made or to be made in his favour by or on behalf of an enemy, whether for valuable consideration or otherwise, have any rights or remedies against any party to the instrument unless he proves that the transfer was made before the commencement of the present war, and any party to the instrument who knowingly discharges the instrument shall be deemed to be guilty of trading with the enemy within the meaning of the principal Act:

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply where the transferee, or some subsequent holder of the instrument, proves that the transfer, or some subsequent transfer, of the instrument was made before the nineteenth day of November, nineteen hundred and fourteen, in good faith and for valuable consideration.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed as validating any assignment, delivery or transfer which would be invalid apart from this section or as applying to securities within the meaning of section eight of this Act.

TRADING WITH THE ENEMY AMENDMENT ACT, 1916.

[5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 105.]

12. In subsection (2) of section five of the Trading with the Enemy Amendment Act, 1914, for the words "by whose order any property belonging to an enemy was vested in the Custodian under this Act or in any court in which judgment has been recovered against an enemy" there shall be substituted the word "thereof."

INJURIES IN WAR (COMPENSATION) ACT, 1914.

By this Act His Majesty by Order in Council may frame a scheme for compensation for personal injuries suffered by persons (not in the naval or military forces of the Crown) whilst employed for war purposes afloat by the Admiralty or Army Council, and for their widows and dependants.

The only matter in which this Act may affect the county courts is the provision (sect. 1 (3)) that a person so entitled to compensation shall not in addition be entitled to recover compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, or damages at common law, or under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880, or any other statute except so far as the Order in Council otherwise provides.

Order approving scheme gazetted 10th August, 1914, cancelled by fresh order approving scheme dated 27th May, 1915 (applying as from 3rd August, 1914). See Pulling's Emergency Legislation, Part 4, p. 258. By a later Act (5 Geo. 5, c. 18), like benefits are conferred on persons employed in warlike operations on shore out of the United Kingdom, subject to like restrictions.

A similar statute (5 Geo. 5, c. 24) gives like benefits to persons employed in warlike operations afloat by or under the Postmaster-General in Telegraph work afloat or whilst being carried afloat to or from any place where they have been or are about to be employed in such work, or whilst employed afloat in connection with the conveyance or sorting of letters or parcels. The benefits are conferred subject to the same restrictions.

NOTE.—Apparently no scheme under these later Acts has been published.

(3) The company may set aside out of revenue, after providing for the payment of interest on any loan, or on any guaranteed, preference or debenture stock of the company, and for other fixed charges and obligations, such sums as they may consider proper for the purpose of forming a fund for the redemption at maturity of any redeemable preference or debenture stock which, under the conditions of the creation and issue of that stock, is to be redeemed wholly or partly in cash ; and the company may invest any sums so set apart, and the income therefrom, in any securities in which trustees are for the time being by law authorised to invest trust funds, or in any other securities (not being securities of the company except as hereinafter provided) in which they may be authorised to invest those sums by a resolution passed at a general meeting of the company.

Any sums so set apart shall be applied for the redemption at maturity of any redeemable preference or debenture stock for the redemption of which they have been set apart, but may, if the directors of the company think fit, be also at any time applied in the purchase of any such stock at a price not exceeding the redemption price, and any stock so purchased shall be cancelled.

(4) A resolution of a statutory company, passed before the commencement of this Act and after the outbreak of the war, for the creation or issue of redeemable stock shall, for the purposes of this Act, have the same effect as if this Act had been in operation at the time when the resolution was passed.

outbreak of the present war, and before the commencement of this Act; and redeemable stock shall not be created or issued, in pursuance of the powers given by this Act, during the continuance of the present war and a period of twelve months thereafter except with the consent of the Treasury.

The expression "statutory company" means any railway company, canal company, dock company, water company, or other company incorporated by special Act, who are for the time being authorised under such an Act to construct work, own, or carry on any railway, canal, dock, water, or other public undertaking, and includes any person or body of persons so authorised.

The expression "special Act" includes any certificate or order having the force of an Act.

(2) The provisions of this Act shall apply to preference shares in the same manner as they apply to preference stock, and to debentures in the same manner as they apply to debenture stock.

(3) The powers given by this Act shall be deemed to be in addition to, and not in derogation of, any other powers under any other Act; and those powers may be exercised in the same manner as if this Act had not passed.

Short title.

3. This Act may be cited as the Statutory Companies (Redeemable Stock) Act, 1915.

EXECUTION OF TRUSTS (WAR FACILITIES) ACT, 1914.

[5 Geo. 5, c. 13.]

An Act to facilitate the execution of Trusts during the present War.

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

Power to delegate the execution of trusts by power of attorney.

1.—(1) A trustee (whether a sole trustee or a trustee with others) may, notwithstanding any rule of law or equity to the contrary, by power of attorney, attested by one or more witnesses, delegate to any person capable of being appointed to be a trustee of the trust (a) the execution during any period for which the trustee is engaged on war service within the meaning of this Act, and a further period of one month thereafter, of any trust of which he is trustee.

Note.—(a) A co-trustee is not a person capable of being appointed to be a trustee of the trust, therefore the Act does not enable one of two trustees to delegate his power to his co-trustee : Wells and Hopkinson's Contract, (1916) 2 Ch. 289 ; 85 L. J. Ch. 686.

(2) For the purposes of this Act a trustee shall be deemed to be engaged on war service :—

(a) If he is engaged on active service in connection with the present war as a member of any of the military or naval forces of the Crown ; and

(b) If he is engaged on service in any work abroad, in connection with the present war, of the British Red Cross Society, or the Saint John's Ambulance Association, or any other body with similar objects ; and

(c) If in connection with the present war he is a prisoner of war in the enemy's country or is interned in the country of a neutral Power.

(3) All jurisdiction and powers of any court shall apply to the donee of a power of attorney given under this Act so far as respects the execution of the trust in the same manner as if the donee were a trustee of the trust.

(4) A statutory declaration by the donee of a power of attorney under which the execution of a trust is delegated, that the donor is engaged on war service within the meaning of this Act, or that in any transaction the donee is acting in execution of the trust, shall be accepted as sufficient evidence of the fact by any person dealing with the donee.

Supplemental provisions as to powers of attorney given under Act. 44 & 45 Vict. c. 41.

2.—(1) A power of attorney given under this Act may be deposited at the Central Office of the Supreme Court or proper office of the Supreme Court of Judicature in Ireland under section forty-eight of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, without any such verification of its execution as is therein required; and, notwithstanding anything in any Act or rules, the Bank of England, the Bank of Ireland, the Paymaster-General, the Accountant-General of the Supreme Court of Judicature in Ireland, and any other person, shall not refuse to act on the authority of any such power of attorney, although the power is not attested by two witnesses, or fails in any other respect to comply with any formality required by law or practice.

(2) The donee of a power of attorney given under this Act may, for the purpose of the transfer of any inscribed stock, himself delegate to an attorney the power to transfer.

(3) The fact that it appears from any power of attorney given under this Act, or from any evidence required for the purposes of any such power of attorney, or otherwise, that in dealing with any stock the donee of the power is acting in the execution of a trust shall not be deemed for any purpose to affect any person in whose books the stock is inscribed or registered with any notice of the trust.

(4) In this section the expression "stock" includes shares and any fund, annuity, or security transferable in books kept by any person or by any instrument of transfer, either alone or accompanied by other formalities, and any share or interest therein.

Extension of Act to certain persons abroad not actually engaged on war service.

3. The powers conferred by this Act on trustees in relation to any period for which they are engaged on war service, may also be exercised by any trustee not engaged on war service in relation to any period during which, being abroad, he is for any reason connected with the present war unable to return from abroad to the United Kingdom; and this Act shall have effect, in its application to such trustees, with the necessary modifications.

Short title and application.

4.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Execution of Trusts (War Facilities) Act, 1914.

(2) This Act shall not apply to Scotland.

(3) This Act shall not apply to any trustee under an implied or constructive trust.

EXECUTION OF TRUSTS (WAR FACILITIES) AMENDMENT ACT, 1915.

[5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 70.]

An Act to amend and extend the provisions of the Execution of Trusts (War Facilities) Act, 1914.

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

Powers of tenant for life under Settled Land Acts. 5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 13.

1. A tenant for life or a person having the powers of a tenant for life within the meaning of the Settled Land Acts, 1882 to 1890, shall be deemed to be a trustee within the meaning of the Execution of Trusts (War Facilities) Act, 1914, (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act) and accordingly may in pursuance of the principal Act by power of attorney delegate the exercise of all or any of his statutory powers under the Settled Land Acts, 1882 to 1890, and also all or any of the powers (if any) conferred upon him by the settlement in extension of such statutory powers : Provided that such delegation shall only be made to the trustees of the settlement for the purposes of the said Acts or to one or more of them.

Executors and administrators.

2. For removing doubts it is hereby declared that an executor or administrator of a deceased person is, in relation to the administration of the estate of the deceased, a trustee within the meaning of the principal Act, and that he may appoint as his attorney his co-executor or co-administrator (if any), or any other person who would be capable of being appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction to be administrator with the will annexed or administrator of such deceased person, if no executor or administrator existed :

Provided that for the purpose of this provision, a person shall not be deemed to be incapable of being appointed administrator by reason only that some other person would have, according to the law or practice of the court, a prior claim to be so appointed.

Revocation of powers of attorney.

3.—(1) In favour of any person dealing with the donee of a power of attorney made under the principal Act or this Act, any act done or instrument executed by the attorney shall, notwithstanding that the power has become revoked by the act of the donor of the power or by his death or otherwise, be as valid and effectual as if the donor of the power were alive and of sound mind and had himself done such act or executed such instrument, unless such person had actual notice of the revocation of the power or of the death or unsoundness of mind of the donor of the power before such act was done or deed executed.

(2) In favour of a person dealing with the attorney any such statutory declaration made by the attorney as is mentioned in sub-section (4) of section one of the principal Act shall be conclusive evidence of the facts therein declared.

Powers of trustees in case of death of infant engaged on war service.

4. Where an infant who has been engaged on war service within the meaning of sub-section (2) of section one of the principal Act, or who, having been abroad but not actually engaged on war service, has been for any reason connected with the present war unable to return from abroad to the United Kingdom, has died, all acts and instruments purporting to be done or executed on his behalf under the provisions of section sixty of the Settled Land Act, 1882, after the date of his death shall, in favour of any person who had not at the time the act was done or the instrument executed actual notice of the death, be as valid and effectual as if such infant were still living.

Persons reported missing presumed to be alive.

5. A trustee or infant to whom the principal Act or this Act applies shall, for the purposes of those Acts, be presumed to remain alive until definite news of his death has been received or such death has been presumed by a court of competent jurisdiction, and the fact that he is reported "missing" or "missing and believed to be killed" shall not be construed as giving to persons having knowledge of such report actual notice of his death, although in fact it has occurred.

Short title and construction.

6. This Act may be cited as the Execution of Trusts (War Facilities) Amendment Act, 1915, and shall be construed as one with the principal Act; and this Act and the principal Act may be cited together as the Execution of Trusts (War Facilities) Acts, 1914 and 1915.

REGISTRATION OF BUSINESS NAMES ACT, 1916.

By this Act all firms, and persons carrying on business in names other than their own must be registered. One of the penalties of non-registration is that such firm or person cannot sue on its business contracts.

The High Court or the county court where the action is brought in the county court, may give relief against this penalty on being satisfied that the failure to register was accidental or due to inadvertence, or some other sufficient cause, or that on other grounds it is just and equitable that relief should be granted.

Firms and persons to be registered.

1. Subject to the provisions of this Act—

(a) Every firm having a place of business in the United Kingdom and carrying on business under a business name which does not consist of the true surnames of all partners who are individuals and the corporate names of all partners who are corporations without any addition other than the true Christian names of individuals partners or initials of such Christian names (a);

Note.—(a) Similar provisions as to Directors of Companies are contained in the Companies (Particulars as to Directors) Act, 1917. See post, p. 1034.

(b) Every individual having a place of business in the United Kingdom and carrying on business under a business name which does not consist of his true surname without any addition other than his true Christian names or the initials thereof;

(c) Every individual or firm having a place of business in the United Kingdom, who, or a member of which, has either before or after the passing of this Act changed his name, except in the case of a woman in consequence of marriage;

shall be registered in the manner directed by this Act:

Provided that—

(i.) where the addition merely indicates that the business is carried on in succession to a former owner of the business, that addition shall not of itself render registration necessary; and

(ii.) where two or more individual partners have the same surname, the addition of an s at the end of that surname shall not of itself render registration necessary; and

(iii.) where the business is carried on by a trustee in bankruptcy or a receiver or manager appointed by any court, registration shall not be necessary; and

(iv.) a purchase or acquisition of property by two or more persons as joint tenants or tenants in common is not of itself to be deemed carrying on a business whether or not the owners share any profits arising from the sale thereof.

Penalty for default in registration.

7. If any firm or person by this Act required to furnish a statement of particulars or of any change in particulars shall without reasonable excuse make default in so doing in the manner and within the time specified by this Act, every partner in the firm or the person so in default shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds for every day during which the default continues, and the court shall order a statement of the required particulars or change in the particulars to be furnished to the registrar within such time as may be specified in the order.

Disability of persons in default.

8.—(1) Where any firm or person by this Act required to furnish a statement of particulars or of any change in particulars shall have made default in so doing, then the rights of that defaulter under or arising out of any contract made or entered into by or on behalf of such defaulter in relation to the business in respect to the carrying on of which particulars were required to be furnished at any time while he is in default shall not be enforceable by action or other legal proceeding either in the business name or otherwise.

Provided always as follows:—

(a) The defaulter may apply to the court for relief against the disability imposed by this section, and the court, on being satisfied that the default was accidental, or due to inadvertence, or some other sufficient cause, or that on other grounds it is just and equitable to grant relief, may grant such relief either generally, or as respects any particular contracts, on condition of the costs of the application being paid by the defaulter, unless the court otherwise orders, and on such other conditions (if any) as the court may impose, but such relief shall not be granted except on such service and such publication of notice of the application as the court may order, nor shall relief be given in respect of any contract if any party to the contract proves to the satisfaction of the court that, if this Act had been complied with, he would not have entered into the contract;

(b) Nothing herein contained shall prejudice the rights of any other parties as against the defaulter in respect of such contract as aforesaid;

(c) If any action or proceeding shall be commenced by any other party against the defaulter to enforce the rights of such party in respect of such contract, nothing herein contained shall preclude the defaulter from enforcing in that action or proceeding, by way of counterclaim set off or otherwise, such rights as he may have against that party in respect of such contract.

(2) In this section the expression "court" means the "High Court" or a judge thereof:

Provided that, without prejudice to the power of the High Court or a judge thereof to grant such relief as aforesaid, if any proceeding to enforce any contract is commenced by a defaulter in a county court, the county court may, as respects that contract, grant such relief as aforesaid.

COMPANIES (FOREIGN INTERESTS) ACT, 1917.

This Act gives the court which has jurisdiction to wind up a limited company, including the county court, in a case within its jurisdiction, power to refuse to make a winding up order, where such company has any provision in its articles of association which offend against sect. 1 of the Act.

The general intention of the Act seems to be to prohibit the alteration, except with the consent of the Board of Trade, of articles of association or regulations which restrict foreign interests in companies and to prevent companies controlled by aliens or which have articles of association which contain such provisions as mentioned in sect. 1 of the Act, being wound up with a view to continuing the undertaking free from any such restrictions or limitations.

Prohibition of alteration of articles restricting foreign interests in companies except with consent of Board of Trade.

1.—(1) Where any provision in the articles of association of a registered company is designed to restrict or limit, or has the effect of restricting or limiting, the proportion or amount of the capital of the company or of the voting power in the company, or of the control upon the Board of the company which may be held or exercised by or on behalf of aliens, or is otherwise designed to restrict or limit, or has the effect of restricting or limiting, the nterests or authority of aliens in the company or the control of the company by aliens, an alteration of that provision shall not be of any effect, notwithstanding anything in any other Act, until it has received the written consent of the Board of Trade.

(2) The decision of the Board of Trade as to whether an alteration of a provision requires the consent of the Board under this Act or not shall be final and conclusive.

(3) This Act shall apply to any regulations or provisions in the nature of regulations affecting an incorporated company, not being a registered company, which can be altered by the company, in the same manner as it applies to the articles of association of a registered company.

(4) In this Act the expression "registered company" means a company as defined by section two hundred and eighty-five of the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, and the expression "alien" includes any body corporate not incorporated in some part of His Majesty's dominions and any class of aliens. 6 Edw. 7, c. 69.

Provisions applicable to certain companies.

2. The following provisions shall apply to every company in whose articles of association is contained any provision such as mentioned in section one (1) of this Act :—

(1) A resolution for the voluntary winding-up of the company shall be of no effect unless the Board of Trade in its discretion authorises or ratifies it by a written consent.

(2) The court which has jurisdiction to wind up the company may in its discretion refuse to make a winding-up order.

(3) In the exercise of its discretion the Board of Trade or the court, as the case may be, shall be guided by the consideration whether the winding-up is bonâ fide with a view to the discontinuance of the undertaking, or is with a view to continuing the undertaking free from any restrictions or limitations such as are mentioned in section one (1) of this Act which are contained in the company's articles of association or any of such restrictions or limitations.

(4) The Board of Trade in giving consent or the court in making a winding-up order, as the case may be, may impose such terms or conditions for giving effect to this Act as it thinks fit.

Short title.

3. This Act may be cited as the Companies (Foreign Interests) Act, 1917.

BILLETING OF CIVILIANS ACT, 1917.

By this Act any Government department is given power to make provisions for the billeting of civilians engaged in war work, in any locality.

The jurisdiction of the county court is to fix (if it cannot be settled by the conciliation of the local committee) the amount of compensation payable to the person on whom a worker is billeted in respect of damage done to his premises or the contents thereof by the person billeted (sect. 3, sub-s. 4.)

Rules have been made by the Lord Chancellor for this purpose (see p. 1031; also sect. 5, sub-s. 6 of the Act).

Duty to provide billets.

4.—(1) It shall be the duty of the occupier of any premises within a locality where this Act is in operation—

(a) to give to the local committee or their executive officer such information with respect to his premises and the persons for the time being residing therein as may be reasonably required for ascertaining the accommodation in the premises available for billets;

(b) to provide such billets as he may be required to provide under this Act, and to furnish such attendance and meals or food for the persons billeted on him as may reasonably be prescribed by regulations of the local committee, and generally to conform with any rules as to the treatment of persons billeted on him which may be made by the Board under this Act;

and if any such person refuses or wilfully neglects to comply with any of the foregoing provisions of this section he shall be liable on conviction before a court of summary jurisdiction to a fine not exceeding five pounds.

(2) Any occupier of any such premises who feels himself aggrieved by a proposal to billet persons on him, or by the number of persons to be billeted on him, or by the conduct or habits of persons billeted on him, may complain to the local committee, and the local committee shall take such complaint into consideration, and if satisfied of the justice of the complaint shall remedy the grievance; and if the occupier is dissatisfied with the decision of the local committee he may appeal to the Board, and the Board shall take the matter into consideration and, after giving the local committee an opportunity of being heard, may make such order as in the circumstances may appear to the Board to be proper.

(3) Every person on whom any worker is billeted shall be entitled to receive weekly payment in respect thereof in accordance with such scale applicable to the case as may be prescribed by regulations of the local committee, and to receive reasonable compensation for damage done to his premises and the contents thereof, fair wear and tear excepted, and any such sum shall, if the person billeted fails to pay it within one week after it has become due, be paid by the local committee.

(4) If any difference arises as to the amount of such compensation, the amount (if it cannot be settled by the conciliation of the local committee) shall be such as may be fixed by a certificate of the county court of the district in which the premises are situate, and the Lord Chancellor may make such rules as he thinks fit for the purposes of this subsection, and may by such rules provide for applications for certificates being made to and certificates given by the registrar, subject to appeal to the judge.

(5) If the occupier of any premises on whom a person is billeted under this Act suffers direct loss or damage, including loss of earnings, which he proves to the satisfaction of the Board to have been caused by the person so billeted being infected with or spreading any infectious disease to which the provisions of section six of the Infectious Disease (Notification) Act, 1889, section fifty-five, subsection (8) of the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, or regulations under section one hundred and thirty of the Public Health Act, 1875, extend, the Board may, if they think fit, pay reasonable compensation, and any sums paid by the Board as such compensation shall be treated as expenses of the Board.

52 & 53 Vict. c. 72.
54 & 55 Vict. c. 76.
38 & 39 Vict. c. 55.

Duties and rights of persons billeted.

5.—(1) It shall be the duty of any person billeted in any premises under this Act to observe such rules as to conduct as may be laid down by rules of the Board, and generally to conduct himself in such manner as to cause as little inconvenience as possible to the person on whom he is billeted.

(2) It shall not be lawful for any person so billeted—

(a) except in such cases as may be prescribed by rules made by the Board, or except where leave of the executive officer has been obtained, to leave the billet without giving one week's notice to the occupier of the premises, or making payment in lieu of notice ; or

(b) to leave the billet without paying to the occupier of the premises any sums which may be due from such person under this Act otherwise than as compensation for damage ; and if he leaves the billet in contravention of this provision he shall, if an information is laid by or on behalf of the local committee, be liable on conviction before a court of summary jurisdiction to a fine not exceeding five pounds.

(3) A local committee may at any time order any person billeted under this Act to leave a billet, and if such person fails to comply with any such order of the local committee he shall be liable on conviction before a court of summary jurisdiction to a fine not exceeding five pounds, and to a further fine not exceeding one pound for each day during which the offence continues.

(4) If a person so billeted is guilty of violence drunkenness or indecency, of such a character as to require his immediate removal from the premises where he is billeted, he shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, and liable on conviction before a court of summary jurisdiction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds, and a person charged with any such offence may be arrested without warrant by any constable, and the occupier of the premises shall have the same right of removing from the premises a person committing such an offence as if he were a trespasser.

(5) If a person billeted under this Act feels aggrieved as to his treatment in the billet, he may complain to the local committee, who shall take the complaint into consideration and, if satisfied of the justice of the complaint, shall take such steps as may be practicable to remedy the grievance.

(6) A person billeted under this Act shall be liable to pay every week to the occupier of the premises in which he is billeted such sums as may be prescribed by the scale applicable to the case as laid down by the local committee, and shall also be liable to pay reasonable compensation (to be ascertained in case of dispute in manner aforesaid) for any damage caused by him to the premises or the contents thereof (except fair wear and tear), and if on his making default in such payments the local committee is called upon to discharge his obligation, the amount shall be recoverable from him by the local committee summarily as a civil debt, and the court before which the proceedings are taken may, without prejudice to any other available means of recovery, make an order requiring such deductions to be made on account of the sum due from the wages of that person as the court may think fit, and requiring the person by whom the wages are for the time being paid to account for any sums deducted in accordance with the order.

THE COUNTY COURT (BILLETING OF CIVILIANS) RULES, 1917, DATED JULY 31, 1917, MADE BY THE LORD CHANCELLOR UNDER THE BILLETING OF CIVILIANS ACT, 1917 (7 & 8 GEO. 5, c. 20).

LOWER SCALE.

COSTS TO BE PAID TO SOLICITORS IN ACTIONS AND MATTERS, AS WELL BETWEEN PARTY AND PARTY AS BETWEEN SOLICITOR AND CLIENT, WHERE THE AMOUNT RECOVERED EXCEEDS 2*l.*, AND DOES NOT EXCEED 10*l.*

NOTES.—(1) Costs not sanctioned by the scale are not to be allowed, except in cases provided for by the County Court Rules; see Order LIII. Rule 20.

(2) The references in the footnotes to the amending Rules have been retained, as it is sometimes useful to know the date of a recent amendment. The amending Rules have been annulled by the County Court Rules, 1914 (No 3), dated July 30. 1914, and the amendments incorporated in the Scales, Part IV. of the Appendix to these Rules.

1. Where the particulars and copies are signed pursuant to Order VI. Rule 9, and the amount claimed exceeds 2*l.*, and does not exceed 5*l.*, there may be entered upon an ordinary summons, and upon a default summons, four shillings, unless the latter is to be served by a solicitor, when seven shillings may be entered.

2. Where the particulars and copies are signed by a solicitor, and the amount claimed exceeds 5*l.* and does not exceed 10*l.*, there may be entered upon an ordinary summons, and upon a default summons, eight shillings, unless the latter is to be served by a solicitor, when thirteen shillings may be entered.

3. Where the amount recovered exceeds 2*l.* and does not exceed 5*l.*, a solicitor for a plaintiff may be allowed for preparing for and attending trial, or upon an application for a new trial, seven shillings, and, where the sum recovered exceeds 5*l.* and does not exceed 10*l.*, ten shillings.

3a. Where service of an ordinary summons or a successive ordinary summons is to be effected by a solicitor, the costs which may be entered upon a default summons for the like amount to be served by a solicitor may be entered on the summons.

Service of an ordinary summons can only be effected by a solicitor in two cases:

(1) Where the plaintiff cannot give the present place of residence or business of the defendant, Order V., Rule 13 (9), and

(2) In the case of a defendant out of England and Wales, Order VII., Rules 41 to 49.

Any successive summons can, by leave of the Court, be served by a solicitor, Order VII., Rule 29a.

4. Where the action is withdrawn, or the amount claimed is paid into court less than five clear days before the return day, there may, if the judge or registrar so orders, be allowed to the solicitor, upon his application, five shillings, or such portion of the fees for preparing for and attending trial as the judge or registrar may under the circumstances direct.

See note to item 76 of the Higher Scale.

5. Where the amount claimed exceeds 2*l.* and does not exceed 10*l.* there may be allowed to a solicitor for entering up judgment on a default summons, or under sect. 98 of the Act and Order IX. Rule 2, or under Order IX. Rule 5, three shillings and fourpence (a).

Where the confession or admission is delivered or filed less than five clear days before the return day, the full fee under clause 3 is allowable.

6. Where the amount claimed exceeds 2*l.* and does not exceed 5*l.*, the solicitor may be allowed for instructions, preparing defence, and attending trial, ten shillings, and where the sum claimed exceeds 5*l.* and does not exceed 10*l.*, fifteen shillings, or upon an application for a new trial, seven or ten shillings, according to the amount claimed.

*7. Where the action is tried by the judge with or without a jury, the costs of preparing for and attending trial may be increased to a sum not exceeding one pound, on a special order of the judge in such action to be entered in the minute book.

*8. The judge may in like actions by special order to be entered in the minute book allow a fee of 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* for the employment of counsel.

*9. Where a trial is adjourned by the court for want of time, one half of the fees mentioned in clauses three and six may be allowed in respect of that day's attendance if the judge or registrar shall so direct.

It is usual to allow this item where a trial has been commenced, but is not concluded on the first day, but not where the hearing is completed and judgment reserved, in which latter case a fee is allowable only for the first day.

10. In the case of a plaintiff where the amount recovered, or in the case of a defendant where the amount claimed, exceeds 2*l.* and does not exceed 5*l.*, the solicitor may be allowed for attending court when the action is referred, three shillings, for attending before the arbitrator, ten shillings, and for attending court entering judgment upon the award, three shillings, and where the amount claimed or recovered exceeds 5*l.* and does not exceed 10*l.*, the sums of six shillings, fifteen shillings, and six shillings respectively may be allowed.

11. For the purposes of this scale a counterclaim shall be deemed to be a claim, and the defendant and the plaintiff shall in relation thereto be deemed to be plaintiff and defendant respectively: and in an interpleader proceeding the claimant and the execution creditor shall be deemed to be plaintiff and defendant respectively (b).

N.B.—No other costs are to be allowed than the above where the amount claimed does not exceed 10*l.*, unless the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the County Courts Act, 1888, or otherwise orders pursuant to Order LIII.

* An order of the judge, or in clause 9 of the registrar, is required for the allowance of these items.

(a) Amended by Rule 39 (a) of the County Court Rules, 1912.

(b) Added by Rule 39 (b) of the County Court Rules, 1912.

The amending Rules have been annulled by the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914, and the amendments incorporated in the Scales of Costs and Allowances to Witnesses, which constitute Part IV. of the Appendix to these Rules.

(3) By the County Court Rules 1914, dated April 6, 1914, Rule 49 (d), numerous additions were made to items of costs in column A. of the higher scale of costs, it having been represented to the Rules Committee that column A. worked very hardly on solicitors, as no allowance could be made thereunder for a great deal of work which might be, and often was properly done in an action where the subject-matter does not exceed £20. It has not been thought necessary to specifically refer to each item in the footnotes.

Service by Post.]—It should be observed that the distinction between this item and item 18 is whether or not the particular document, which must not be required to be served personally, is authorised to be served by post, and not whether in fact it is so served. By Order LIV. Rule 2, any document to be served on any party as to which no mode of service is prescribed by the rules is authorised to be served by post.

The only documents not required to be served personally, as to which special modes of service are provided, appear to be summonses to witnesses to attend court or an examination in chambers, and notice of application for a new trial where the opposite party does not act by a solicitor.

Instructions.

Documents and Proceedings for which no Fees for Instructions are Allowed.]—There is no provision in the scale of costs for instructions in respect of the following proceedings or documents: accounts, advertisements, pedigree, certificate of result of sale, particulars of sale, conditions of sale, abstract of title, to initiate or defend any interlocutory proceedings, to counsel to settle documents drawn by the solicitor who is allowed the fee for drawing, brief on further consideration.

Affidavit sworn by Solicitor or Solicitor's Clerk.]—No fee is allowable for instructions for an affidavit made by the solicitor to the party whose costs are being taxed or by his clerk.

Attendance on Deponent to settle or read over.]—There is no separate allowance for this attendance.

"Special Affidavits."]—An affidavit which consists merely of a printed form with the blanks filled in is not a "special" affidavit, e.g., an affidavit of debt or of service (affidavits for substituted service are allowable under item 17). An affidavit of documents is a special affidavit, and is so treated in the wording of item 37.

24. For confession of debt or claim by defendant, and attesting signature thereto	0 3 4	0 6 8	0 6 8
This item is unique, combining as it does not only the service usually covered by "Instructions," but also the attendance on the client on his executing the document and attesting his signature, which is the outcome of the instructions. It is, of course, one very rarely seen, and by its nature could only occur in a solicitor and client bill.

Where costs are taxed under column C, item 28 may, in cases of a real contest or the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act, be increased at the discretion of the registrar, or by special order of the judge, to £5 5*s.*; see Order LIII., Rule 8 (2), as amended by Rule 50 (b) of the County Court Rules, 1914, dated April 6, 1914.

This item does not appear to necessitate the actual preparation of any brief, if the work prior to the actual drawing of the brief has been done.

Journeys and Payments necessarily taken and made by the solicitor in getting up the case should be set out in the item, showing shortly the nature of the work done and the payments made, so as to justify the allowance of a larger fee than might otherwise be allowed.

Brief not Delivered.]—Where an action is settled before the delivery of the brief, the costs of all work reasonably and properly, and not prematurely done, are allowable, and the registrar, having regard to the circumstances of each case, must decide whether the work was reasonable and proper and the time for doing it had arrived (Harrison v. Leutner, (1881) 16 Ch. D. 559).

29. Examining and taking minutes of evidence where no counsel employed, for each witness afterwards allowed on taxation or properly examined for preparation of preliminary act .	0 2 0	0 3 4	0 6 8

Allowance for taking Plaintiff's Evidence.]—This item is confined to each witness afterwards allowed on taxation. It is, therefore, chargeable in respect of the plaintiff's evidence only if he is such a witness, i.e., if he can make out a claim, however small, for travelling expenses, or if he is a domestic or menial servant, etc., or if the judge has specially ordered an allowance for his attendance; see Order LIII. Rule 38. The distinction is rather absurd, and many Registrars allow the costs of taking the plaintiff's evidence.

Further Consideration.]—This item appears to be applicable to the solicitor's attendance on the further consideration of an equitable matter, inasmuch as such further consideration is the subsequent hearing of a cause, the trial of which has not been concluded on the day on which it is first heard.

73. Where the trial is adjourned for want of time, or upon payment of the costs of the day, in lieu of items 69 and 71 there may be allowed with or without counsel, unless otherwise ordered by the judge . . . NOTE.—The minimum must not be exceeded, under items 72 and 73, if the solicitor does not attend in person.	0 10 0	0 15 0 to 1 1 0	1 1 0 to 2 2 0
See note to item 70.

This item is allowable, it is submitted, to the solicitor attending at court, with or without counsel, for each day, in the case of successive adjournments, on which he attends, and the case is not reached but adjourned for want of time.

74. When solicitor does not reside or carry on business within two miles of the town in which the trial takes place, in addition the sum paid for locomotion to attend the trial, not exceeding, unless otherwise ordered by the judge	0 10 6	1 1 0	1 1 0

No costs for locomotion or maintenance of the solicitor shall be allowed unless the court (presumably the taxing officer) is satisfied that there was reasonable cause for employing such solicitor; see Order LIII. Rule 22.

Solicitor's Clerk.]—Items 74 and 75 are allowable, it is submitted, not only in the case of the advocate who conducts the case, but also in that of the solicitor's managing clerk who instructs counsel.

76. At court where the amount claimed is paid into court or the action is withdrawn or discontinued less than five clear days before return-day . .	0 5 0	0 10 0	0 10 0

This item is intended to cover two different services: (a) that of preparing for trial when the amount is paid into court less than five clear days before the return day, and (b) that of attending the court to obtain the necessary order.

It is, therefore, allowable in the following cases:—

1. When payment into court has been made less than five clear days before the return day.

2. When the debt has been paid five clear days before the return day, but the costs have not been paid, or not been paid in full (e.g., omitting a fee for substituted service).

In the first of such cases it is necessary to prepare for trial; in the second, though no such preparation is required, it is necessary to make the application to obtain the costs, or so much of them as have not been paid.

When, however, the debt is paid into court more than five clear days before the return day, and the costs have been paid in full less than five clear days, no order for extra costs can be made under this item, as there is no necessity either to prepare for trial or to attend to obtain an order.

77. Where in ordinary course of post or delivery, notice of payment, withdrawal, or discontinuance does not reach the opposite party or his solicitor in time to prevent attendance of the latter at court, such sum as the registrar shall think reasonable, not exceeding the minimum fee in items 69 or 71, as the case may be.

81a. See Order LIII. Rule 10.
This rule in effect provides that where under item 92 the judge certifies for counsel, items 27, 35, 43, 65 and 67 may be allowed to the solicitor in addition to items 80 and 81.
81b. Attending court to enter judgment on the award (b)	0 10 0	0 15 0	1 1 0

82. On taxation of the costs of the action or matter (c)	0 3 4	0 6 8	0 6 8 to 0 13 4

Where judgment is given for the defendant on the claim and the plaintiff in the action on the counterclaim, the plaintiff, on the taxation of the costs of the counterclaim, would be entitled to the ordinary costs of taxation and not be limited to item 84, as the claim and counterclaim must be treated as separate actions.

Attendance prior to Service.]—Inasmuch as there is no provision for the inclusion of this item in those allowed on judgment being entered on a default summons, no allowances can be made under it in respect of attendances on the registrar under Order VII. Rules 30, 30A, 33. It follows by analogy that similar attendances in respect of ordinary summonses under Order VII. Rules 5A, 6, 7, cannot be allowed. In practice no attendances prior to service are allowed under this item ; see also note to item 63.

84. This item is applicable (inter alia) to the taxation of costs under an order awarding to an unsuccessful party the costs of a separate issue, and under an order for further costs under Order IX., Rule 13 (3).

NOTE.—The maximum is not to be allowed as of course, but in assessing the fee to be allowed, the length of the brief, the documents (if any) to be perused and considered, the number of the witnesses and the difficulties of fact or law involved must be considered.

Where costs are taxed under column C, in cases of a real contest, or the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act, reasonable fees may be allowed to counsel in excess of those mentioned in items 85 to 94 in respect of the matters referred to in such items, or where the judge certifies for the allowance of fees to more counsel than one reasonable fees may be allowed to such additional counsel at the discretion of the registrar, or by special order of the judge; see Order LIII. Rule 8 (3) (a) and (b), as amended by Rule 23 of the County Court Rules, April, 1913.

In the case of items 86, 91, 92, 93, 94 and 95, their original allowance by the judge is a condition precedent to the exercise by the registrar of this power, as an allowance in excess of the scale can only be made in a case where the scale fee has already become properly chargeable.

Where a claim is paid into court within five clear days of the return day, and the only order asked for on the hearing is an order for costs, the registrar has power to allow counsel's brief fee, if he considers the costs of instructing counsel were reasonably incurred before the date of payment into court, notwithstanding that counsel does not attend to make the application for costs.

*86. In the cases mentioned in Order LIII. Rule 8, where there is no local bar in the court town or within twenty miles thereof, a further fee may be allowed, once only, by order of the judge, if in his opinion the maximum fee allowable on the brief is insufficient, not exceeding	1 3 6	2 4 6	2 4 6
NOTE.—This item is not to be allowed in any court within twenty-five miles of Charing Cross.

See note to item 85.

This item is allowable by order of the judge in any action or matter; see Order LIII. Rule 8 (1), as amended by Rule 23 of the County Court Rules, April, 1913, and Rule 50 (a) of the County Court Rules, 1914, dated April 6, 1914.

And items 15 and 17 may be allowed where the services for which those items are given are performed.

NOTE.—Upon judgment being entered without trial upon a default summons for a sum exceeding 10*l.*, only item 62 is to be allowed in addition to the above.

The above note only applies to cases where no notice of intention to defend has been given. Where notice of intention to defend has been given, but defendant does not appear on the day of hearing, the amounts usually allowed to the plaintiff's solicitor for his attendance in Court are as follows:

Where claim paid prior to the return day but within five clear days:—Item 76.

Where formal confession filed five clear days at least before the return day:—Item 62.

In all other cases:—Item 69.

Where a default summons has been exchanged for an ordinary summons under Order VII., Rule 38, the amounts for costs and fees entered on the exchanged summons will be those applicable to an ordinary summons

Where a bailiff experiences difficulty in effecting service of default summons and plaintiff's solicitor afterwards obtains leave to serve, the practice which prevails in many Courts of adding the solicitor's fee for service in addition to the bailiff's which has been already charged, is not, it is submitted, correct. The fee which should be added is the difference between the amount of the appropriate solicitor's fee and the 1*s.* already charged for service by the bailiff, otherwise the defendant would be asked to pay more than the maximum that could have been originally entered on the summons.

Appeal from Judge to the High Court, 1106:
Taxation of Costs as between Solicitor and Client, 1106.
Procedure.
Courses open to Solicitor to obtain Payment.

COSTS GENERALLY.—Costs abide the Event.]—In default of any special direction, costs abide the event of the action or matter (sect. 113 of the Act).

Generally speaking, when judgment is given for plaintiff or defendant with costs, the ascertaining of the amounts and items to be allowed falls within the province of the registrar. His duty is to tax them according to the scales of costs (Order LIII. rr. 1, 20).

Costs of Parties in Person.]—No person, other than a solicitor, is entitled to recover any fee for acting on behalf of any party in any proceeding (sect. 72 of the Act). Consequently, when parties appear in person, or by agent (other than a solicitor or barrister), if allowed to appear for them, the costs recoverable by the successful party include only court fees, and costs of witnesses and their travelling expenses. The plaintiff is not entitled to any allowance for himself in addition to his travelling expenses unless he is a domestic servant, or a labourer, etc., or a person engaged in manual labour, or unless the judge in any particular case otherwise orders (Order LIII., r. 38).

Solicitor's Costs.]—The scales of costs allowable to solicitors are framed under the County Courts Act, 1888, sect. 164. They comprise Part IV. of the Appendix of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), and consist of a lower scale where the amount recovered exceeds 2*l.*, and does not exceed 10*l.*, and a higher scale, which is sub-divided into three columns according to the value of the subject-matter or the sum recovered:—Column A where this sum exceeds 10*l.*, but does not exceed 20*l.*, column B where it exceeds 20*l.*, but does not exceed 50*l.*, and column C when it exceeds 50*l.* It will have been seen that the lower scale of costs contains no provision for any allowance to solicitor in cases where the amount recovered does not exceed 2*l.*; and except in the special cases to which sect. 119 of the Act and Order LIII. r. 17 apply, no such allowance can be made in such actions.

Where costs are awarded to municipal bodies, railway companies and insurance and other companies, who employ permanent salaried solicitors to do their legal work, and any costs recovered would have to be paid over to the client, there is no reason why the costs should not be taxed and recoverable in the ordinary way, and no objection can be taken to their allowance. Further, it makes no difference that the solicitor in question is only a part-time officer.

Comparison of sect. 113 of the Act with Rules of the Supreme Court.]—Sect. 113 of the Act provides that all the costs of any action or matter in the court, not therein otherwise provided for, shall be paid by or apportioned between the parties in such manner as the court shall think just, and in default of any special direction shall abide the event of the action or matter. This section may be compared with Order LXV. r. 1 of the Rules of the Supreme Court, which provides that, subject to the provisions of the Acts and Rules, the costs of and incident to all proceedings in the Supreme Court, including the administration of estates and trusts, shall be in the discretion of the court or judge. Provided that, where any action, cause, matter or issue is tried with a jury, the costs shall follow the event, unless the judge by whom such action, cause, matter or issue is tried, or the court, shall, for good cause, otherwise order.

Judicial Discretion.]—Although the wording of sect. 113 would appear to confer on the court absolute power over the costs of any action or matter, this power is no wider than the power given to judges of the High Court by the Judicature Acts and Rules (Andrew v. Grove, (1902) 1 K. B. 625; 71 L. J. K. B. 439). There is no substantial difference between the words in the High Court Rules and sect. 113 of the Act (Elms v. Hedges, (1906) 95 L. T. R. 145). This power or discretion, as it is called, is a judicial discretion, and must be exercised judicially in accordance with legal principles and on sufficient grounds. The rule laid down by the Court of Appeal that a judge's discretion can be interfered with if he has exercised it in a fashion not in accordance with settled principle, is one of practice only and not of principle restricting legal power, and has no application to the exercise of discretion by an arbitrator, to whom the Act of Parliament (The Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908) has given full discretion as to costs (Gray v. Lord Ashburton, (1917) A. C. 26).

Limitation to which Discretion Subject.]—In the exercise of this discretion, certain general limitations have been laid down by the courts, to which it will be useful to call attention.

(1) Where a plaintiff comes to enforce a legal right, and there has been no misconduct on his part—no omission or neglect which would induce the court to deprive him of his costs—the court has no discretion and cannot take away the plaintiff's right to costs (Cooper v. Whittingham, (1880) 15 Ch. D. 501; 49 L. J. Ch. 752). But neither this case nor Foster v. Great Western Railway Co., (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 515, is an authority for the proposition that a plaintiff though successful in a part of his claim may not be made to pay the costs of the defendant (Gray v. Lord Ashburton, (1917) A. C. at pp. 33, 35).

(2) In the absence of misconduct directly connected with the subject matter of the action, a successful plaintiff will not be deprived of even a part of his costs because some of his witnesses have been guilty of exaggeration in their evidence (Lipman v. George Pulman & Sons, Ltd., (1904) 91 L. T. R. 132), even if the witness is the managing director of the plaintiff company (Hudsons, Ltd. v. De Halpert, (1913) 108 L. T. R. 416.

(3) The fact that the plaintiff brought his action without a previous application or notice to the defendant does not prevent the plaintiff from getting his costs if he succeeds (Goodhart v. Hyett, (1883) 25 Ch. D. 182; Wittman v. Oppenheim, (1884) 27 Ch. D. 260; 54 L. J. Ch. 56; and Ruskin v. Robinson, (1885) 2 T. L. R. 18).

(4) Where a defendant successfully resists a suit he is primâ facie entitled as his right to the costs of the litigation (Civil Service Co-operative Society v.

General Steam Navigation Co. (C. A.), (1903) 2 K. B. 756; 72 L. J. K. B. 933).

(5) A successful defendant cannot be deprived of costs merely on the ground that he has succeeded on the defence of the Statute of Limitations (Elms v. Hedges, supra), or on the defence of the Gaming Acts (Granville & Co. v. Firth (C. A.), (1903) 72 L. J. K. B. 152).

(6) The court has no power to order a successful defendant to pay the costs of the plaintiff (Andrew v. Grove, (1902) 1 K. B. 625; 71 L. J. K. B. 439); this is an entirely different thing from ordering a plaintiff though successful in a small degree to pay the costs of the defendant, because if the defendant be successful he succeeds along the whole line (Gray v. Lord Ashburton, (1917) A. C. at p. 35), and, similarly, where a county court judge has made an award under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, in favour of a workman's claim, he cannot order the workman to pay the employer's costs (Evans v. Gwauncaegurwen Colliery Co., Ltd. (C. A.), (1912) 106 L. T. R. 613). So where under an application for arbitration under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, alleging incapacity which was denied, an award was made by the County Court judge merely for a declaration of liability, but the employers were ordered to pay the costs, it was held that, as the employers had been successful throughout, there were no materials on which the judge could exercise his discretion in making such an order, and the order was discharged (Higgins v. L. Higgins & Co., (1916) 1 K. B. 640). But a judge has power to order a plaintiff who recovers a nominal sum to pay the defendant's costs, even when the action is tried before a jury (Harris v. Petherick (C. A.), (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 611; 48 L. J. Q. B. 521).

(7) If the wrong party has been sued, it is apparently not a ground for depriving the successful defendant of his costs that, having the necessary information to enable the plaintiff to ascertain who was the proper party to be sued, he neglected to give it to the plaintiff (Westgate v. Crowe, (1908) 1 K. B. 24; 77 L. J. K. B. 10).

(8) When an action has been brought against two defendants, and has failed against one and succeeded against the other, the judge has power to allow the plaintiff to include in his costs against the unsuccessful defendant any sum he has had to pay to the successful defendant for his costs. In Sanderson v. Blyth Theatre Co., (1903) 2 K. B. 533; 72 L. J. K. B. 761, the Court of Appeal held that this power existed where two defendants, principal and agent, were sued in the alternative in an action on contract. And this has since been followed in an action of tort in Bullock v. London General Omnibus Co., (1907) 1 K. B. 264; 76 L. J. K. B. 127, where plaintiff was injured by a collision between two vehicles. In the latter case, the exercise of the judge's discretion was upheld on the ground that there was evidence that the attitude taken up by the unsuccessful defendant made it reasonable for the plaintiff to join the successful one. In the case of Mulhern v. The National Motor Cab Co., Ltd., (1913) 29 T. L. R. 677, where negligent driving was alleged against two vehicles, Mr. Justice Bankes held that a defendant, to escape the obligation to pay the plaintiff's costs against a co-defendant, must do something more than merely deny negligence on his own part, he must go so far as to say that he does not intend to throw any responsibility on the other defendant. But in the recent case of Besterman v. British Motor Cab Co., Ltd. (C. A.), (1914) 3 K. B. 181; 83 L. J. K. B. 1014, it was held by the Court of Appeal that even this will not avail, the question in all cases is whether the Court considers it was a reasonable and proper course for the plaintiff to join both the defendants in the action. This practice is followed in Admiralty cases where a claim is brought against the owners of the different ships (The "Esrom" and the Hopper "Wills No. 66," (1914) W. N. 81).

Should, however, the verdict go against both defendants and one appeal successfully, the other who did not join in the appeal cannot be ordered to indemnify the plaintiff against the costs of the appeal (Riches v. L. G. O. Co. and Others, (1916) 140 L. T. J. 372; 60 Sol. Jo. 337).

When, however, a plaintiff joins a second defendant from uncertainty as to, or misapprehension of his legal rights and not as to the facts, there is no ground for ordering the unsuccessful defendant to relieve the plaintiff of his liability for costs to a successful one (Poulton v. Moore, (1914) 83 L. J. K. B. at p. 880, and (1913) W. N. 349.

(9) A judge ought not to delegate his decision on the question of costs to the master (Lambton & Co. v. Parkinson, (1887) 35 W. R. 545). It is not a delegation to give defendant such costs as in the opinion of the master were occasioned by unnecessary proceedings taken by the plaintiff (Musman v. Boret, (1892) 40 W. R. 352).

(10) Although sect. 113 of the Act provides that the costs of any action shall be apportioned between the parties as the court shall think just, the court has no power to award a party a fixed sum for costs which have not been taxed under sect. 118 of the Act (Golding v. Smith, (1910) 1 K. B. 462; 79 L. J. K. B. 375). Darling, J. expressed the opinion in that case that an order that, if the plaintiff's costs when taxed amounted to more than 10*l.*, the defendant should pay to the plaintiff only 10*l.*, would have been perfectly right. Further, under sub-clause 7 of Schedule II. of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, a county court judge is not entitled to award a lump sum for costs before taxation (Beadle v. S. Nicholas, (1909) W. N. 227).

(11) An appeal lies from an order awarding costs on a wrong principle, but no appeal lies from the erroneous exercise of his discretion on materials before him, so long as the judge has not proceeded on any wrong principle. The Court of Appeal will assume that the judge exercised his discretion, unless satisfied that he did not do so, but has applied some rule which in fact excluded his discretion (Bew v. Bew (C. A.), (1899) 2 Ch. 467; 68 L. J. Ch. 657, and Rotch v. Crosbie, (1909) 54 Sol. Jo. 30). If it appears that a judge has not exercised his discretion or has decided upon grounds which were not open to him (e.g., because the litigant was a whig or a tory) the Court of Appeal can deal with his decision (Civil Service Co-operative Society v. General Steam Navigation Co. (C. A.), (1903) 2 K. B. 756; 72 L. J. K. B. 933, and Westgate v. Crowe, (1907) 24 T. L. R. 14. Where a judge has exercised his discretion upon certain materials which are before him, it is not within the power of the Court of Appeal to overrule that exercise of discretion, but where there are no materials upon which the judge could exercise a discretion at all, the Court of Appeal has power to entertain the appeal, and to reverse the decision of the judge (Civil Service Co-operative Society v. General Steam Navigation Co., supra, at p. 765).

(12) Where a defendant succeeds upon one particular defence, the judge has a discretion to decline to allow him any costs of additional defences raised, but not tried (Browne and Whitehead v. Lewis, (1916) 115 L. T. R. 911).

The burden is on the appellant to show that there had been no real exercise of judicial discretion, and that either there were no materials on which the learned judge could come to his conclusion, or that some materials had been introduced which were so irrelevant and extraneous that the order was not really made in the exercise of a judicial discretion (Société des Hôtels Réunis (Société Anonyme) v. Hawker, (1914) 58 Sol. Jo. 515).

Proceedings by Poor Persons.]—There are no rules in the county court dealing with this matter, but apparently sect. 164 of the County Courts Act, 1888, adopting and applying the general principles of practice in the High Court to cases not expressly provided for, is applicable. In fact, under the corresponding section of the older Act, sect. 78 of the County Courts Act, 1846, it was held in Chinn v. Bullen, (1849) 8 C. B. R. 447; 19 L. J. C. P. 42; 79 R. R. 566, that a county court judge had discretion to allow parties to sue before him in formâ pauperis. The point was incidentally considered in Perry v. London General Omnibus Co., (1916) 2 K. B. 335, which decided that an action could be remitted to the county court under sect. 66 where the plaintiff was suing as a poor person, but the order could not make it a condition that the plaintiff was to be at liberty to sue as a "poor person" in the county court. Phillimore, L.J., at p. 346, said: "This argument loses nearly all its force if the plaintiff be admitted to sue as a poor person in the county court as she may be," and Bankes, L.J., at p. 348, said: "A county court judge may have an inherent jurisdiction to permit a person to sue in his court in formâ pauperis." The High Court practice in such cases is now regulated by the Rules of the Supreme Court (Poor Persons), 1914, but these provide the necessary machinery only where the action contemplated is in the High Court or the Court of Appeal. The position, therefore, seems to be that, so far as the county court is concerned, each judge is at liberty to settle his own method of procedure so long as he conforms to the principles of the High Court practice, i.e., obtains a report from some independent legal practitioner that there is a reasonable cause of action, and satisfies himself that the pecuniary position of the applicant justifies an order. The High Court standard that the applicant is not worth 50*l.* (excluding his wearing apparel, tools of trade, and the subject matter of the proceedings) is not applicable, and no standard of poverty is laid down in respect of an application in the county court. Such applications are very few in number, and as a rule are discouraged by the county court judges. Where such leave is given, and a poor person acting by solicitor obtains a verdict, there seems no reason why the judge should not direct that the poor person's solicitor be entitled to recover from the other party to the action out-of-pocket expenses on the amount recovered, in which case, following the analogy of the practice now adopted in the High Court under similar circumstances, the plaintiff would be entitled as such out-of-pocket expenses not only to his necessary disbursements, but also to three-eighths of the profit costs on the scale applicable to the proceedings.

SECURITY FOR COSTS.—General Principle.]—The general principle of English law is that no person should be precluded from commencing an action on the ground of poverty, and therefore there is no possibility of checking speculative actions by people who are destitute of means, and even by undischarged bankrupts (where the cause of action has not vested in the trustee) through the medium of an application for security for costs.

Exception.]—The sole exception to this rule is sect. 66 of the Act, which enables a defendant against whom an action of tort has been commenced in the High Court by a plaintiff, who has no visible means of paying the defendant's costs should a verdict be not found for the plaintiff, to require such plaintiff to give security for costs if he desires to prosecute the action in the High Court, or, in the alternative, to have it remitted to the county court.

Cases in which Security can be Obtained.]—The cases which usually occur in practice in which security for costs can be obtained are as follows:—

(1) Where a plaintiff does not ordinarily reside in England or Wales though he may be temporarily resident there (Order V. r. 11), security is required automatically on the entry of the plaint, and is given either by a deposit of an amount fixed by the registrar, according to the nature of the action and the amount involved, or by an undertaking on the part of the plaintiff's solicitor to be personally responsible for any costs his client may ultimately be ordered to pay to the defendant (Order V. rr. 10, 11). Where an action is commenced by an attorney resident in England for a plaintiff resident abroad, security or an undertaking should be required.

By Rule 13 of the Consolidated Workmen's Compensation Rules, July, 1913, Order V. rr. 10, 11, and Order XII. r. 9, as to security for costs, shall not apply to proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act and Rules.

An arbitrator has no power to order the parties to give security for costs unless there is an agreement in the submission to arbitration to that effect, as it is not given him by the Arbitration Act, 1889, sec. 2, First Schedule, from which he derives all the powers he possesses (Lanza v. Wiener (1917) 61 Sol. Jo. 526).

(2) A defendant who resides or carries on business more than twenty miles distant from the court in which the plaint is entered, can also obtain security from a plaintiff, for the additional expense to which he will be put in attending the trial, by deposit of such a sum as the registrar may direct, on filing an affidavit, disclosing a good defence upon the merits, not later than seven clear days at least before the return day (Order XII. r. 9). This is a very useful provision to a defendant who is sued for a small sum, and who does not desire to waste a day at a distant county court, and in many cases the result of filing such an affidavit is that no deposit is made, and the action is thus automatically brought to an end. Some registrars keep a printed form of affidavit which on application they send to a defendant, who is thus able to avail himself of the advantages of this rule, without the necessity of instructing a solicitor to prepare the affidavit. As there is no official form, the following form may be found useful:—

AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANT'S APPLICATION FOR DEPOSIT BY PLAINTIFF.

No. of Plaint, .

Order XII. Rule 9.

(2) My / The defendant's residence or place of business is situated at in the county of more than twenty miles distant from this court.

(4) In order to prove the said facts it will be necessary for me / the said defendant and witnesses to attend the court on the hearing of this action (and to travel overnight so as to reach the court by twelve o'clock on the day of hearing). [Strike out words in brackets if not the fact.]

(6) I am a person in the employ of the said defendant. The facts herein deposed to are within my own knowledge, and I am duly authorised by the said defendant to make this affidavit. [To be added when the defendant does not make the affidavit.]

Sworn at in the county of this day of 191 .
Before me,
A Commissioner for Oaths:
or Clerk to the registrar of the county court, duly nominated.

This affidavit is filed on behalf of the defendant.

(3) Where a limited company is plaintiff, a judge may require security for costs to be given if it appears by credible testimony that there is reason to believe that the company will be unable to pay the costs of the defendant if successful (Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, sect. 278).

(4) Where the plaintiff becomes bankrupt, his trustee can only continue the action for the benefit of his estate on the terms of giving security for costs (County Courts Act, 1888, sect. 94).

(5) Where a party applies for discovery by interrogatories or otherwise, he may be ordered to make a deposit as security for the costs of the party making such discovery (Order XVI. r. 23).

(6) In Admiralty cases where a party applies for an order of transfer of proceedings for sale of a vessel which has been arrested to the High Court he must give security to the amount of 10*l.* (Order XXXIX. r. 71).

(7) Where a defendant in an action of contract, where a sum exceeding 20*l.* is claimed, or in an action of tort, where a sum exceeding 10*l.* is claimed, desires to have the action tried in the High Court, he is required to give security for the amount claimed, and costs of trial in the High Court, not exceeding 150*l.*, before applying for the judge's certificate, which is a condition of its removal (County Courts Act, 1888, sect. 62, and Order X. r. 6).

(8) The Bills of Exchange Act, 1855, sect. 4, contains a provision enabling a judge to order the document on which the action is brought to be deposited with an officer of the court, and to stay proceedings until the plaintiff has given security for costs. This is apparently intended to put a stop to actions brought by speculators, without means, on documents which are forgeries, without putting defendant to the expense of a trial. There are, of course, very few cases at the present time in which advantage is taken of this provision.

(9) On appeal from a county court judgment, the High Court has power to order security for costs (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 17, and Swain v. Follows, (1887) 18 Q. B. D. 585). As to the circumstances under which an order will be made, see notes to the above rule in the Annual Practice. If the county court has not granted a stay of execution, the only way in which a defendant can obtain one is to deposit or give security to the satisfaction of the county court for "the amount affected by the judgment" (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 14), which includes the costs in addition to the amount for which judgment has been given (Grimshaw, Baxter and Elliott, Ltd. v. Parker, (1910) 2 K. B. 161; 79 L. J. K. B. 780).

Where security for the costs of an appeal has been ordered, it ceases to operate if within the time limited for giving security the appellant obtains leave as a poor person (Wille v. St. John, (1910) 1 Ch. 701; 79 L. J. Ch. 409).

Form of Security and Practice as to giving same.]—As to the form of security, see sect. 108 of the Act, and as to the practice to be followed in giving security, see Order XXIX. rr. 1 to 6.

Security for Costs of Appeal.]—Security will be ordered in the case of an appeal by an individual litigant or next friend to the Divisional Court (Wilcox v. Wallis Crown Cork and Syphon Co., Ltd., (1914) W. N. 107), following the analogy of Hall v. Snowdon, Hubbard & Co. (C. A.), (1899) 1 Q. B. 593; 68 L. J. Q. B. 363, where security was required for an appeal by a litigant under similar circumstances to the Court of Appeal under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906.

SPECIAL ORDERS AS TO COSTS.—Effect of General Order.]—The judge's general order for costs, although enough to entitle a party to the allowance by the registrar of most of the items in the scales applicable to the particular case, is insufficient for all.

Particular Items.]—There are many items in the scales, as well as allowances governed by rules, which cannot be allowed or given by the registrar without the special order of the judge. After judgment has been given in an action, the solicitor, if he is conducting the case without counsel, or counsel, if briefed, often overlook the necessity of applying to the judge for a special order for the allowance of these items in the scales of costs, for which an order of the judge is required before they can be allowed. In the scales of costs, footnotes have been added, showing which these items are, but it will be convenient to set them out specifically.

When Application should be Made.]—This application must be made at, or immediately after, the trial or hearing, and if not so made, Order LIII. r. 7 provides it shall not afterwards be entertained, unless the judge for good cause otherwise orders, or unless the judge is satisfied that the omission to make the application in due time was due to mistake or inadvertence. Judges frequently decline to grant applications not made at the time, although the failure to make the application may be due to mistake or inadvertence, on the ground that they have forgotten all about the action, and it is therefore of the utmost importance that the application to the judge for a special order for the allowance of costs should be made at or immediately after the trial or hearing.

Items for which Special Order required.—Lower Scale.]—Items for the allowance of which a special order of the judge is required:—

Clause 7.—Where the action is tried by the judge with or without a jury, the costs of preparing for and attending trial may be increased to a sum not exceeding 1*l.*

Clause 8.—In like actions, the judge may allow a fee of 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* for the employment of counsel.

Clause 9.—Where the trial is adjourned by the court for want of time, one half of the fees mentioned in clauses 3 and 6 may be allowed in respect of that day's attendance, if the judge or registrar shall so direct.

Higher Scale.]—The items in the higher scale for the allowance of which a special order of the judge is required by Order LIII. rr. 7, 8, of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914, are :—

Item 3.—Drawing petition or reply in Admiralty action per folio, 1*s.*, where the fee at that rate would exceed under column A, 10*s.*, or under columns B or C, 1*l.* 5*s.*

Item 31.—In any action or matter where no counsel employed, in addition to items 29 or 30 (examining and taking minutes of evidence), for preparation of minutes of fact or argument—under column A, 15*s.*, under column B, 1*l.* 1*s.*, and under column C, 2*l.* 2*s.*

Item 70.—In any action or matter, instead of item 69 (attendance at court conducting cause without counsel)—under column A, 1*l.* 1*s.*, under column B, 2*l.* 2*s.*, and under column C, 3*l.* 3*s.*

Item 86.—In any action or matter where there is no local bar in the court town, or within twenty miles thereof, a further brief fee may be allowed, once only, if, in the opinion of the judge, the maximum fee allowable on the brief is not sufficient—not exceeding under column A, 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, and under columns B or C, 2*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.* This item is not to be allowed in any court within twenty-five miles of Charing Cross.

Item 91.—Fee to counsel with brief on any interlocutory motion or application—under column A, or column B, 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, and under column C, 2*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*

Item 92.—Fee to counsel with brief before an arbitrator, or on an inquiry or Admiralty reference before the registrar, or on an examination of witnesses under Order XVI. r. 9 (further answers to interrogatories by viva voce examinations), under Order XVIII. rr. 18 and 20 (examination of witnesses before trial), under Order XXV. r. 71 (examination of debtor as to means when judgment is for recovery or payment of money)—under column A, 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, under column B, 2*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*, and under column C, 3*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* This fee is not to be allowed if the reference or inquiry was directed at the trial, and counsel was then instructed. A refresher may be allowed instead pursuant to item 88.

Item 93.—In any action or matter for settling petition, particulars, statement of claim, defence, or reply, interrogatories, preliminary act, or other matters required in the course of the action or matter—under column B, 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, and under column C, 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* to 2*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*

Item 94.—Advising on evidence, if advice given in writing—under column A, no fee, under column B, 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, and under column C, 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* to 2*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.* is allowable.

Item 95.—Plans, charts or models for use of the judge at the trial, the sum reasonably paid for the preparation of the same not exceeding—under column A, 1*l.* 1*s.*, under column B, 2*l.* 2*s.*, and under column C, 3*l.* 3*s.* (Order LIII. r. 44). Where costs are taxed under column C, in cases of a real contest or the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act, reasonable fees in excess of those mentioned in item 95 may also be allowed by special order of the judge, or at the discretion of the registrar, subject to review by the judge (Order LIII. r. 8 (3) (c) of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914). An order of the judge is also necessary for the allowance of the attendance of the persons who are called at the trial to prove the correctness of the plans and drawings and models, though they are not to be allowed as expert or scientific witnesses, but upon the scale applicable to ordinary witnesses (Order LIII. rr. 43, 44).

Costs of Discovery.]—This is not very clearly expressed in the rules, but the position appears to be as follows :—

(a) Where claim exceeds 10*l.* The party giving discovery, if successful,

s entitled to the costs of such discovery without an order. The party seeking discovery, if successful, is only so entitled where such discovery appears to the judge at the trial, or, if there is no trial, to the registrar on taxation, to have been reasonably asked for (Order XVI., r. 22).

(b) Where claim does not exceed 10*l.* (and there are, therefore, no items in the scale of costs applicable).

The party giving discovery, if successful, is entitled to have the whole or part of the deposit paid into court by the opposite party allowed in respect of this work only if the court (presumably the judge at the trial, or, if there is no trial, the registrar on taxation) so directs ; or, if he considers the case of sufficient importance, he can apply to the judge to certify under sect. 119 of the Act, or for a special order for the costs of discovery to be allowed on one or other of the higher scales of costs. The party seeking discovery, if successful, is only so entitled if he obtains such a certificate or an order as last mentioned. Order XVI., r. 24a. The party against whom discovery is applied for in the case of a claim not exceeding 10*l.* should, therefore, not assent to an order dispensing with the usual deposit of 1*l.*, as in that case it will be impossible for the judge to order the application of such a deposit towards his costs, and it may be difficult to induce the judge to certify under sect. 119 of the Act, or to make a special order for such costs on a higher scale.

Interlocutory Applications.]—The allowance of the costs of and incident to interlocutory applications shall be in the discretion of the judge or registrar, according as the application is expressly or by reasonable intendment directed to be made to the judge or registrar, and no such costs shall be allowed on taxation without special order (Order XII. r. 11 (4)).

Appointment of Receiver by way of Equitable Execution.]—Where a receiver is appointed by way of equitable execution, costs may be allowed as on an interlocutory application in an equitable action or matter (Order XIII. r. 14). And a special order is necessary before any costs can be allowed on taxation (Order XII. r. 11 (4)).

Expert or Scientific Witnesses.]—By Order LIII. r. 43 of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914, in any action or matter in which the costs are taxable as of right, or by order of the judge, under columns B or C the registrar may on taxation, subject to review by the judge, allow for the attendance in court of any expert or scientific witnesses or any member of the medical profession, and the judge may order that such witnesses may be allowed, for qualifying to give evidence, such sums as the registrar on taxation may think fit, not exceeding :—

For qualifying to give evidence under column B .	1	1	0	to	3	3	0
,, ,, ,, ,, C .	1	1	0	,,	5	5	0
For attending court on trial, per diem, under column B	1	1	0	,,	2	2	0
For attending court on trial, per diem, under column C	1	1	0	,,	3	3	0

Where costs are taxed under column C, in cases of a real contest or the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act, reasonable additional allowances may be made at the discretion of the registrar, subject to review by the judge, or by special order of the judge to expert and scientific witnesses for qualifying to give evidence and attending the court on the trial (Order LIII. r. 8 (3) (c) of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914).

Where costs are taxed under column A, the registrar may on taxation, subject to review by the judge, allow for attendance in court, and the judge may by special order made in accordance with Rule 7 of Order LIII., allow for qualifying to give evidence the whole or part of such sums as may be allowed for attendance in court and qualifying to give evidence respectively under Order LIII. r. 43 (1), where costs are taxed under column B, (Order LIII. r. 43 (2), of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914).

Proceedings for which no Provision made.—Costs taxed under Columns B or C.]—In any action or matter in which costs are taxed under column B or column C, where proceedings are taken for which no provision is made by the rules or scales of costs, reasonable costs may be allowed in respect of such proceedings by the registrar, subject to review by the judge, or by special order of the judge, not exceeding those which may under the scales or the rules be allowed in respect of proceedings of a like nature (Order LIII. r. 8 (4) of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914).

Increased Allowances in certain Cases.]—In any action or matter in which costs are taxed under column C, in cases in which there is a real contest or the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act, fees allowable under the following items may be increased by the registrar, but the registrar has no power to increase a fee for the allowance of which an order of the judge is necessary, that is, items 70, 86, 91, 92, 93 and 94, unless such order has been obtained.

(a) The fees allowable under the following items 28 and 70 to 73 may be increased at the discretion of the registrar, subject to review by the judge, or by special order of the judge, as follows :—

Item 28.—For brief on trial of action or matter, where counsel employed from 3*l.* 3*s.* to 5*l.* 5*s.*

Item 71.—At court on trial with counsel, from 2*l.* 2*s.* to 3*l.* 3*s.*

Item 72.—When trial is commenced, but not concluded on the day on which it is first heard, for each day or part of a day on which it is afterwards heard, with or without counsel, from 2*l.* 2*s.* to 3*l.* 3*s.*

Item 73.—Where the trial is adjourned for want of time, or upon payment of the costs of the day, in lieu of item 69 (attendance at court, conducting cause without counsel), and item 71 (attendance at court on trial with counsel), with or without counsel, from 2*l.* 2*s.* to 3*l.* 3*s.* (Order LIII. r. 8 (2) of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914).

(b) Reasonable fees may be allowed to counsel in excess of those mentioned in the following items 85 to 94, in respect of the matters referred to in such items, at the discretion of the registrar subject to review by the judge, or by special order of the judge (Order LIII. r. 8 (3) (a) of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914).

Item 85.—With brief.	5	10	0
Item 86.—Where there is no local bar in the court town, or within twenty miles thereof, a further brief fee may be allowed, once only, by order of the judge, if, in his opinion, the maximum fee allowable on the brief is insufficient. This item is not to be allowed in any court within twenty-five miles of Charing Cross	2	4	6
Item 87.—On conference, if the fee was marked on the brief when delivered, and in the opinion of the registrar was necessary	1	6	0

	Column C. £	s.	d.
Item 88.—Where the trial is commenced, but not concluded on the day on which it is first heard, or is adjourned for want of time, for each day or part of a day on which it is afterwards heard a refresher fee may be allowed	3	5	6

Item 90.—With brief on further consideration or argument, or to enter judgment on an award, or to hear a deferred judgment	3	5	6
Item 91.—With brief on any interlocutory motion or application, if the judge certifies for counsel	2	4	6
Item 92.—With brief before an arbitrator, or on an inquiry or Admiralty reference before the registrar, or on an examination of witnesses under Order XVI. r. 9, Order XVIII. rr. 18 and 20, or Order XXV. r. 71, if the judge certifies for counsel This fee is not to be allowed, if the reference or inquiry was directed at the trial, and counsel was then instructed. A refresher may be allowed instead, pursuant to item 88.	3	5	6
Item 93.—For settling petition, particulars, statement of claim, defence, or reply, interrogatories, preliminary act, or other matters required in the course of the action or matter if allowed by order of the judge	2	4	6
Item 94.—Advising on evidence, if advice be given in writing and allowed by order of the judge	2	4	6

(c) When more counsel than one are retained, and the judge certifies for the allowance of fees to more counsel than one, reasonable fees may be allowed to such additional counsel, and for consultations, and to solicitors the additional briefs and attendances on counsel with the same, and for for appointing and attending consultations (Order LIII. r. 8 (3) (b) of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914).

Items allowable unless Judge otherwise orders.]—There are also certain items in the scales of costs which are allowable on taxation unless otherwise ordered by the judge, so that if counsel or solicitor wish to object to the allowance of any such items he should do so at or immediately after the trial or hearing, otherwise the allowance of such items will be in the discretion of the registrar on taxation.

Item 72.—Attendance where trial is commenced, but not concluded on the day on which it is first heard.

Item 73.—Attendance where the trial is adjourned for want of time, or upon payment of the costs of the day.

Item 74.—Attendance when solicitor does not reside or carry on business within two miles of the town in which the trial takes place.

Item 88.—Fees to counsel where the trial is commenced, but not concluded on the day on which it is first heard, or is adjourned for want of time.

Judge's Discretion must be exercised in each Case.]—In all cases where the allowance of the costs, or of particular items of costs, is left in the discretion of the judge, each case should receive particular consideration (Order LIII. r. 7). No general rule laid down by the judge is of any validity, and for the judge merely to act in compliance with such a rule is not an exercise of his discretion (R. v. Marylebone C. C., (1890) 34 S. J. 439; The Cashmere, (1890) 15 P. D. 121; 59 L. J. P. 57).

Special Order as to Scale under Sect. 119 of the Act.]—Apart from the rules, the judge has, in all cases whatsoever, power to award costs to the plaintiff on any higher scale than would otherwise apply, on any amount recovered, however small, or to a defendant who successfully defends an action brought for any amount, however small, provided the judge certifies in writing that the action involved some novel or difficult point of law, or that the question litigated was of importance to some class or body of persons, or of general or public interest (sect. 119 of the Act). The application must be made at, or immediately after, the trial, unless otherwise ordered by the judge for good cause, or because he is satisfied that the omission to apply was due to mistake or inadvertence (Order LIII. rr. 7, 9). Where the plaintiff accepts money paid into court in satisfaction of his claim, or gives notice of discontinuance, or the action is struck out on default of appearance by the plaintiff, or the defendant admits the claim or consents to judgment, an application for a certificate under sect. 119 may be made on notice in writing in accordance with the rules as to interlocutory applications ; the notice must state the grounds of the application. Where a judge so certifies, the certificate must be entered at the end of the minutes of the court of the day on which it is given, and must be signed by the judge (Order LIII. r. 9). But the entry and signature may be made on a day subsequent to that on which the order for costs is made (Badcock v. Hunt, (1889) 38 W. R. 255).

The order for costs on a higher scale will be inoperative unless the judge certifies in the mode above specified. Mere entry of the order on the minutes will not suffice (Howard v. Graves, (1885) 52 L. T. R. 858).

If the facts of any particular case are such as to justify the judge in certifying :—

(1) That it involved some novel or difficult point of law, or

(2) That the question litigated was important to some body or class of persons, or

(3) Of general or public interest, the court above will not interfere with his discretion in awarding costs on the higher scale, but the question whether the judge is right in certifying that the facts of any particular case come within any of the three heads abovementioned can be raised by prohibition. It has been decided that the question whether one of the parties to an action has committed perjury is not one of general or public interest (R. v. City of London (2), (1886) 18 Q. B. D. 105), and that wives do not constitute a class of persons within the meaning of sect. 119, and the question whether a wife was guilty of adultery was of no importance to other wives (Day v. Day, (1916) 32 T. L. R. 332 ; 60 Sol. Jo. 354). It has also been held that the fact that a case involved a charge of fraudulent misrepresentation does not constitute "special grounds" so as to entitle a High Court judge to allow higher scale costs under Order LXV. r. 9 (Paine v. Chisholm (C. A.), (1891), 1 Q. B. 531).

SCALE OF COSTS APPLICABLE.]—In the absence of a special order by the judge, when the costs of a plaintiff are being taxed, the scale to be allowed depends on the amount recovered by him ; and the costs of a defendant upon the amount claimed by the plaintiff (Order LIII. r. 18).

Scales.]—It will have been seen from the scales that they are divided into lower and higher scales, and that the higher scale is subdivided into columns A, B and C. The lower scale applies in the manner therein mentioned to cases where the amount recovered exceeds 2*l.*, but does not exceed 10*l.* The higher scale applies where the subject-matter or the sum recovered exceeds 10*l.* ; column A, where it does not exceed 20*l.* ; column

B, where it exceeds 20*l.*, but does not exceed 50*l.*; and column C, where it exceeds 50*l.*

Actions in which Scale does not Depend on the Amount Recovered or Claimed.]—There are some actions or matters in which the scale of costs does not depend on the amount recovered or claimed, but on other considerations. The more usual of these actions or matters are as follows:—

(1) In actions for recovery of possession (see Order V. r. 3) under sect. 138 of the Act, that is recovery of possession of small tenements by landlord where term has expired or been determined by notice, and under sect. 139 of the Act, that is recovery of possession of small tenements by landlords for non-payment of rent, the costs shall be taxed:

(a) In the case of a plaintiff, on the scale applicable to the rent or value of the premises upon which the court fees are assessed, plus the amount of any rent and mesne profits recovered.

(b) In the case of a defendant, on the scale applicable to the said rent or value, plus the amount of the rent or mesne profits claimed. (Order LIII. r. 13.)

(2) In interpleader proceedings, the "subject-matter" shall mean:—

(a) In the case of a claimant, the amount of the value of the goods, his claim to which is allowed, plus the amount of the damages (if any) adjudged;

(b) In the case of an execution creditor, the amount of the value of the goods seized, plus the amount of the damages (if any) claimed; and

(c) In the case of the high bailiff, the amount of the damages claimed (Order LIII. r. 15).

It is the true value of the goods which is the criterion, so that where the judge found the value, as in Studham v. Stanbridge, (1895) 1 Q. B. 870; 64 L. J. Q. B. 473, the true value is the value so found, and it is submitted that where the goods have been sold, and realised more than the appraised value, the true value is the amount realised at the sale.

See an unreported case commented on under "Interpleader Appeals" in the County Court Chronicle, August 2, 1915, Vol. 45, p. 143.

This rule applies even in the case of a remitted interpleader, where the sole function of the county court judge is to decide as to whether the execution creditor or the claimant is entitled to the amount paid into court to avoid a sale. This amount, of course, where the execution is for a small sum, is frequently considerably less than the value of the goods seized, but notwithstanding the fact that the controversy is limited to the amount so paid, the costs are taxable on the value of the goods seized (Tarry v. Will (Horwood, Claimant), (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 959). Apparently, even when a claim is admitted before the hearing of the interpleader, the judge may still be asked to go behind the high bailiff's valuation and hear evidence as to the actual value of the goods seized, in order to enable the claimant to tax his costs on a higher scale than that to which he would otherwise have been entitled.

(3) In proceedings under the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908:

(a) In a winding-up by the court, all costs properly incurred are to be allowed on the lower scale in Appendix N to the Rules of the Supreme Court (Rule 184 of the Companies (Winding-up) Rules, 1909).

(b) The costs of proceedings, other than proceedings relating to the winding-up of companies by the court, are to be allowed according to the scale of costs applicable to similar proceedings in the High Court (Order XLIA. r. 1 (3)).

(4) In proceedings under the Married Women's Property Act, 1882

(a) Applications for the appointment of a trustee or new trustee under sect. 11 of the Act shall be made by petition and costs allowed as on any other petition, regard being had to the amount of the subject-matter of the petition (Order XLVI. r. 1).
(b) In applications under sect. 17 of the Act, with reference to any question between husband and wife as to the title to the possession of property, the judge shall direct upon what scale the costs of the proceedings shall be taxed (Order XLVI. r. 2).

COLUMN OF HIGHER SCALE OF COSTS ON WHICH IN CERTAIN ACTIONS OR MATTERS COSTS ARE TAXABLE.]—In certain actions or matters, the judge has power to order under which column of the higher scale the costs shall be taxed. It is important to bear in mind the particular actions and matters in respect of which this discretion is given, so that an application may be made to the judge, at or immediately after the trial or hearing, for a special order, should the successful party not be satisfied with the column of the scale under which the costs will be taxed in the absence of such special order.

The cases in which an order to this effect can be made which most frequently occur in practice are :—

When Demand unliquidated.]—Where the demand is unliquidated, and the plaintiff recovers less than the amount claimed, the judge may order that his costs be taxed on the scale applicable to the amount claimed, or any intermediate scale, and that the court fees recoverable by the plaintiff shall be calculated on the amount claimed or on any smaller amount (Order LIII. r. 17 of the County Court Rules 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914). This power extends to an action remitted from the High Court and the rule is not ultra vires (Sargeant v. Watts, (1917) 143 L. T. J. 161; 61 Sol. Jo. 612).

In Special Actions.]—In the following actions or matters, the costs will be taxed under column B in default of any order of the judge that they shall be taxed under columns A or C (Order LIII. r. 11).

(a) Actions in which a perpetual injunction is claimed, whether the same is granted or not. But where an injunction was claimed, and the plaintiff had an alternative but inconsistent claim, and succeeded on the latter to the extent of 4*l.* 4*s.* damages, but failed as to the injunction, it was held that the judge could not order the costs to be taxed on scale B, but that they must be taxed on the lower scale (Clinton v. Bennett, (1908) 1 K. B. 109; 77 L. J. K. B. 52).
(b) Under sect. 59 of the Act, that is, actions of ejectment, where neither the value of the lands, nor the rent payable in respect thereof, shall exceed the sum of 100*l.* by the year.
(c) Under sect. 60 of the Act, that is, any action in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments shall come in question, where neither the value of the lands in dispute, nor the rent payable in respect thereof, shall exceed the sum of 100*l.* by the year.
(d) Under sect. 61 of the Act, that is, any action in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditament, or to any toll, fair, market, or franchise shall incidentally come in question, if both parties at the hearing shall consent in writing to give the judge jurisdiction to decide the claim.
(e) Under sect. 133 of the Act, that is actions of replevin.

Actions under Statutes other than the County Courts Act.]—In actions or matters under certain statutes giving county courts jurisdiction, other than the County Courts Act, 1888, the costs will also be taxed under column B in default of any order that they shall be taxed under columns A or C. Of these statutes the following are amongst those which most frequently occur in practice :—

(a) The Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908.
  (1) Costs of proceedings in the county court under the Act, and
  (2) Costs of, and incidental to, an arbitration or award in default of any direction of the arbitrator.

Order of Lord Chancellor, dated November 27th, 1900, still in force under sect. 49 of the Act.

(b) The Charitable Trusts Acts, 1853 to 1891 (Order XLVIII. r. 24).
(d) The Court of Probate Acts, 1857 and 1858 (Order XLIX. r. 11).
(f) The National Insurance Acts, 1911 and 1913. Costs of appeals under sect. 66 of the Act of 1911 and sect. 27 (2) of the Act of 1913 (Order XLIIA. r. 20).

Jurisdiction by Agreement.]—Costs in actions under sect. 64 of the Act, that is, jurisdiction by agreement in writing with respect to actions assigned to the King's Bench Division of the High Court, will be taxed under column C, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order LIII. r. 14).

Where the Subject-matter does not exceed 20*l.*, the Judge may order the Costs to be Taxed under Column B in proceedings :—

(a) Under sect. 67 of the Act, that is, jurisdiction in equitable actions or matters.
(b) Under sect. 70 of the Act, that is, moneys, stocks, or securities vested in trustees upon trusts within the meaning of the Trustees Relief Acts, may be paid or transferred into the name of the registrar of the court, to attend the order of the court.
(c) Under the Settled Land Acts, 1882 to 1890.
(d) In any other proceedings under the equitable jurisdiction of the court.

(Order LIII. r. 12).

Admiralty Actions.]—In Admiralty actions, where the amount recovered, or in the case of a defendant the amount claimed, does not exceed 20*l.*, the costs shall be allowed under column B, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order XXXIX. r. 112).

Subject to Order LIII. rr. 109 to 112, the costs in Admiralty actions shall be allowed and taxed according to the rules and scales of costs for the time being in force in the county courts, and applicable to the subject matter of such actions (Order XXXIX. r. 113).

FULL INDEMNITY AS TO COSTS.—In the case of House Property Company of London v. Whittman (1913), 109 L. T. R. 43, the Divisional Court held that where an action is brought, to which the Stat. 5 & 6 Vict. c. 97, which abolished double or treble costs, applies and provides by sect. 2 for payment of "full and reasonable indemnity as to costs incurred in and about any action," sect. 118 of the County Courts Act applies as to costs "in the action," which are therefore limited to costs allowed by the county courts scale, but not as to costs incurred "about the action," so that the indemnity covered all the costs reasonably incurred by the plaintiffs as preliminary to the action, including the costs of taking counsel's opinion upon the question whether the action lay.

REMITTED ACTIONS UNDER SECT. 65 OF THE ACT (where judge of High Court orders action of contract to be tried in a county court).

Plaintiff recovers 20*l.* or upwards in High Court and something in County Court.]—Where an action of contract is remitted from the High Court to the county court, and plaintiff recovers in the High Court 20*l.* or upwards within twenty-one days after the service of the writ, or within such further time as may be ordered by the court or a judge thereof, and in the county court any sum, however small, he is entitled in respect of the High Court proceedings to costs on the High Court scale (sect. 116, sub-s. 2 of the Act); and in respect of the county court proceedings to costs on the scale applicable to the aggregate of the amounts recovered in both courts (White v. Headland's Patent Electric Storage Battery Co., Ltd., (1899) 1 Q. B. 507; 68 L. J. Q. B. 354), extended by Pearce v. Bolton, (1902) 2 K. B. 111, to the case where a portion of the claim is paid direct to the plaintiff after appearance, and by Lamb Brothers v. Keeping, (1914) 111 L. T. R. 527, to the case where a portion of the claim is paid before service and without knowledge of the issue of the writ.

The costs of the proceedings in the High Court as well as in the county court are taxable by the county court registrar as there is only one action (White v. Headland's Patent Electric Storage Battery Co., Ltd., supra).

Plaintiff recovers 20*l.* or upwards in High Court and fails in County Court.]—Where in such an action plaintiff recovers in the High Court 20*l.* or upwards within such time as above mentioned, and fails in the county court, he is entitled in respect of the High Court proceedings to costs on the High Court scale (sect. 116, sub-s. 2 of the Act), and in respect of the county court proceedings to no costs. The defendant is entitled to the costs of the county court proceedings on the scale applicable to the full sum claimed in the action, only if a special order is made to that effect under sect. 113 of the Act (Aston Tube Works, Ltd. v. Dumbell, (1904) 1 K. B. 535; 73 L. J. K. B. 208). The judge's discretion to make such an order extends to the costs of proceedings in the High Court (Mentors, Ltd. v. Evans (C. A.), (1912) 3 K. B. 174; 81 L. J. K. B. 1111).

Plaintiff recovers less than 20*l.* in the High Court, and sufficient in County Court to make aggregate amount recovered 20*l.*]—Where plaintiff recovers in the High Court less than 20*l.*, and in the county court a further sum sufficient to make the aggregate amount recovered 20*l.* or upwards, he is entitled to costs on the county court scale applicable to such aggregate amount as if the action had been brought in that court.

Plaintiff recovers less than 20*l.* in the High Court, and insufficient in County Court to make aggregate amount recovered 20*l.*]—Where plaintiff recovers in the High Court less than 20*l.*, and in the county court a further sum insufficient to make the aggregate amount recovered 20*l.*, neither he nor the defendant is entitled to any costs.

Plaintiff recovers less than 20*l.* in the High Court, and fails in County Court.]—Where plaintiff recovers in the High Court less than 20*l.*, and fails to recover any further sum in the county court, he is not entitled to any costs (sect. 116 of the Act). The defendant is entitled to the costs of the county court proceedings on the scale applicable to the amount claimed in the action, only if a special order is made to this effect as above mentioned.

Plaintiff recovers nothing in the High Court, and 20*l.* in County Court.]—Where plaintiff recovers nothing in the High Court, and in the county court a sum of 20*l.* or upwards, he is entitled to costs on the county court scale applicable to the amount recovered.

As to the principle on which the costs should be taxed on the county court scale see previous sub-heading on page 1085.

Plaintiff recovers nothing in the High Court, and less than 20*l.* in the County Court.]—Where plaintiff recovers nothing in the High Court, and in the county court a sum less than 20*l.*, neither he nor the defendant is entitled to any costs.

Plaintiff recovers nothing in the High Court, and fails in the County Court.]—Where plaintiff recovers nothing in the High Court, and fails in the county court, the defendant is entitled in respect of the High Court proceedings to costs on the High Court scale, and in respect of the county court proceedings to costs on the scale applicable to the amount claimed (sect. 65 of the Act).

Generally.]—Where a plaintiff is entitled to county court costs in respect of proceedings in the High Court, it is the practice to allow him the costs and fees which would have been charged if a default summons had been issued instead of a writ, and had been served by his solicitor. Such items, therefore, as "attending court lodging order" or "paid fee on entry of remitted action in the county court" should not be allowed.

It should be borne in mind that the words used in sect. 116 of the Act, are "20*l.* or upwards," whilst column B of the scale of costs is applicable where the sum recovered "exceeds 20*l.*" The effect is that a plaintiff who recovers 20*l.* in the High Court is entitled to costs on the High Court scale, though if he had commenced proceedings in the county court, he would have been entitled only to costs on column A.

REMITTED ACTIONS UNDER SECT. 66 OF THE ACT (where judge of High Court orders action of tort to be tried in a county court).

Actions of Tort which could not have been commenced in the County Court.]—Where an action of tort is brought in the High Court which could not have been commenced in the county court (e.g., cases coming under the exceptions in sect. 56 of the Act), and is remitted to the county court, and the plaintiff recovers any sum, however small, he is entitled in respect of the High Court proceedings to costs on the High Court scale, and in respect of the county court proceedings to costs on the scale applicable to the amount recovered (sect. 64 of the Act, as sect. 116 of the Act does not apply).

Actions of Tort, which could have been commenced in the County Court, commenced in the High Court and Plaintiff recovers 20*l.* or upwards.]—Where an action of tort which could have been commenced in the county court is commenced in the High Court, and is remitted to the county court, and the plaintiff recovers 20*l.* or upwards, he is entitled in respect of the High Court proceedings to costs on the High Court scale, and in respect of the county court proceedings to costs on the scale applicable to the amount recovered (sect. 116, sub-s. 2, of the Act).

In such an Action, Plaintiff recovers 10*l.* but less than 20*l.*]—Where in such an action the plaintiff recovers 10*l.* or upwards, but less than 20*l.*, he is entitled in respect of the proceedings, both in the High Court and the county court, to costs on the county court scale applicable to the amount recovered (sect. 116, sub-s. 2 of the Act).

In such an Action Plaintiff recovers less than 10*l.*]—Where in such an action the plaintiff recovers less than 10*l.*, he is not entitled to any costs (sect. 116, sub-s. 2 of the Act).

In such an Action Plaintiff fa.] — Where the plaintiff fails in such an action, the defendant is entitled in respect of the High Court proceedings to costs on the High Court scale, and in respect of the county court proceedings to costs on the scale applicable to the amount claimed (sect. 66 of the Act).

REMITTED ACTIONS GENERALLY.]—After a case has been transferred to the county court, a High Court judge has no power to make any certificate or order as to costs under sub-sect. 2 of sect. 116 (Harris v. Judge, (1892) 2 Q. B. 565), nor has a master on making an order remitting an action to the county court power to direct that the costs of a previous application under Order XIV. shall be costs in the cause (Dunn v. Appleton, (1898) 1 Q. B. 564). A judge's general discretionary power over costs under sect. 113 of the Act extends to remitted actions and is not taken away by sect. 65 of the Act (Everall v. Brown (C. A.), (1906) 2 K. B. 884), nor by sect. 66 of the Act, there being no substantial difference between sect. 65 and sect. 66 (Sergeant v. Watts, (1917) 143 L. T. J. 161; 61 Sol. Jo. 612). The county court judge has jurisdiction to make an order under Order LIII. r. 17, there being nothing inconsistent between that rule and sect. 116, which does not take away the discretionary power of the judge in awarding costs (Sergeant v. Watts (supra)).

COUNTERCLAIMS.]—Order LIII. r. 16 provides that, unless the judge otherwise orders, where the same party succeeds on claim and counterclaim, the scale upon which his costs are to be taxed is that applicable to claim or counterclaim, whichever be larger; but when the latter is the case, a successful plaintiff, of course, only gets the advantage of the larger scale subsequently to the delivery of the counterclaim. If, however, the subject-matter of the counterclaim is entirely unconnected with that of the claim, certain items of costs, fees to counsel, and allowances to witnesses, may be allowed in respect of the counterclaim or claim (as the case may be), in addition to those attributable to the claim or counterclaim, by the judge, or at the discretion of the registrar.

The steps to be taken by a defendant when his only answer to a claim consists of a set-off or counterclaim, require the most careful consideration, as otherwise he may be saddled with payment of the plaintiff's costs of proving a claim which there was never any intention to dispute.

If he relies on a set-off, he must consider whether it extends to the whole of the plaintiff's claim or only to a portion, and in the latter case should pay into court the balance with proportionate costs under Order IX. r. 17. If he does this and establishes his set-off he will, like any other successful defendant, be entitled under sect. 107 to the costs of the action from the date of such payment into court.

If, on the other hand, he relies on a counterclaim, he should at the time of filing his counterclaim file also a confession of the claim under sect. 98, or an admission under Order IX. r. 3. The result of the case will then be, in the event of the counterclaim succeeding, that the defendant will be entitled to the costs of the only matter which was really contested, whilst the plaintiff is entitled to judgment on his claim with only such costs as are necessary to enable him to have judgment entered up for an admitted demand.

It frequently happens that for lack of these precautions a defendant who has succeeded on the only matter about which there has ever been any real contest is saddled with a substantial sum for the plaintiff's costs of the claim.

If the counterclaim is less than the claim, the defendant can also pay the balance into Court with proportionate costs under Order IX. r. 17, above mentioned. Occasionally the plaintiff takes the money out of court in settlement and admits the counterclaim. If, however, the action proceeds to trial an admission of the claim may perhaps be inferred from such payment, but otherwise the defendant gets no advantage in the matter of costs through having paid the balance of the claim into court under this rule.

General Principles of Taxation.]—The general principles of the taxation of costs on claim and counterclaim, are settled in Atlas Metal Co. v. Miller, (1898) 2 Q. B. 500; 67 L. J. Q. B. 815, as follows:—

(1) A plaintiff who is to pay or to be paid the costs of his action, is to pay or be paid the whole of such costs, which ought to be taxed as if there were no counterclaim. Whether both parties fail or whether both succeed, or whether one fails and the other succeeds, can on principle make no difference.

(2) The costs of a counterclaim are the costs actually incurred by reason of the counterclaim; and the costs saved by bringing a counterclaim in lieu of a cross action cannot be treated as costs so incurred.

(3) Plaintiffs' items of costs common to both claim and defence to counterclaim, and defendants' items of costs common to both defence and counterclaim, must be apportioned. These common items of costs are those incurred by the plaintiff partly in support of his claim and partly in opposition to the defendant's counterclaim, and by the defendant partly in opposition to the plaintiff's claim and partly in support of his own counterclaim.

Common Items to be Apportioned.]—The items in question are in practice limited to those relating to the preparation of the brief and the fee paid to counsel. Each common item is to be treated as consisting of two, that is to say, so much of it as relates to the claim or the defence, and their respective issues will belong to the claim or the defence, and so much of it as relates to the defence to counterclaim, or the counterclaim and their respective issues will belong to the defence to counterclaim or the counterclaim, and the taxing officer must apportion such costs as best he can. If there are issues of the claim or counterclaim on which the party, who succeeds generally on such claim or counterclaim, fails, his costs of the action or the counterclaim will be diminished by the costs of those issues on which he has failed.

Difficulties in carrying out Apportionment.]—The practical difficulty in carrying out this principle lies in the fact that the maximum allowance for instructions for brief is not more than adequate where no counterclaim is raised, while the maximum fee for counsel has become so usual that it is paid as a matter of course in every case where there is any real contest. Where, therefore, both claim and counterclaim are contested the whole of such allowance and fee respectively should logically be attributable to the claim, because they would have been incurred to just the same extent if there had never been any counterclaim. The only effect of the counterclaim is that the solicitor and counsel have to do additional work for the same remuneration, the scale precluding them from obtaining any increase. This view has, however, been dissented from in Fox v. Central Silkstone Collieries, Ltd., (1912) 2 K. B. 597; 81 L. J. K. B. 989. In that case the defendants contested the claim and counterclaimed; judgment was given for the plaintiff on the claim, and for the defendants on the counterclaim. The court held that on taxation of the costs of the counterclaim the brief fee must be apportioned between the defence and the counterclaim, and only that part which was referable to the counterclaim could be allowed. The question of the brief fee to be allowed to the plaintiff in respect of the claim was not before the court, but both judges, Ridley, J., and Bray, J., in the Divisional Court, treated the case of a plaintiff and defendant as alike, and expressed the opinion that where a plaintiff had succeeded on the claim, and failed on the counterclaim, only so much of the brief fee as is apportioned to the claim ought to be allowed on taxation of the costs of the claim. The practical result of this decision is that where claim and counterclaim are both contested, the instructions and fee above mentioned must be taken to have been incurred partly in respect of the original action and partly in respect of the counterclaim, and must be apportioned between those two matters by the taxing officer, notwithstanding the fact that the result is to leave a smaller amount in each case attributable to the original action than would have been payable if the counterclaim had never come into existence.

The taxing officer is not bound to make the same apportionment in each case. In taxing the costs of a successful plaintiff he may consider the common items of costs properly apportionable as to two-thirds to the claim and one-third to the defence to the counterclaim, but it by no means follows that, on taxation of defendant's costs of a successful counterclaim, similar common items of costs in his bill are apportionable in the same manner. There is no reason why the taxing officer in taxing the defendant's bill should not apportion the common items of costs as to one-third to the defence and two-thirds to the counterclaim, even though in the result the aggregate amount allowed to the plaintiff and the defendant in respect of such common items of costs exceeds the maximum allowance for such items under the scale of costs applicable (Fox v. Central Silkstone Collieries, Ltd., supra).

COSTS OF SEPARATE ISSUES.]—As above stated, sect. 113 of the Act provides that in default of any special direction by the judge, costs shall abide the event of the action or matter. The very similar words in Order LXV. r. 1 of the Rules of the Supreme Court, relating to actions tried by juries, "the costs shall follow the event," have been the subject of many judicial decisions.

Unsuccessful Party entitled to Costs of Issues on which he Succeeds.]—The case of Myers v. Defries, (1880) 5 Ex. Div. 180; 49 L. J. Ex. 266, decided that the word "event" is to be read distributively, and that under this rule the unsuccessful party to an action is entitled to the costs of any issue on which he succeeds. For many years it was the practice to apply to the judge to direct judgment to be entered specially dealing with these costs, but the case of Hoyes v. Tate, (1907) 1 K. B. 656; 76 L. J. K. B. 408, decided that "where there are separate issues, and the plaintiff obtains a verdict and judgment, but the defendant succeeds as to one of the issues, no direction of the judge is required, but the judgment can be drawn up so as to entitle the defendant to the costs of the particular issue on which he succeeds." In the absence of a satisfactory definition of an issue, it was by no means easy to give effect to this decision, and it transpired in the recent case of Bush v. Rogers, infra, that in practice wherever separate questions were left to the jury and answered by them, each question and answer was assumed to be an issue, and the judgment drawn up accordingly. The case of Howell and Dering, infra, however, negatived this assumption, and now the recent case of Bush v. Rogers, (1915) 1 K. B. 707; 84 L. J. K. B. 686, decides that the obligation is thrown upon the judge of directing whether there is any separate issue on which the unsuccessful party is entitled to costs.

What are Separate Issues?]—The following have been decided to be separate issues :—

In an action of tort, the questions of negligence, contributory negligence and the amount of the damages (Wagstaffe v. Bentley, (1902) 1 K. B. 124 ; 71 L. J. K. B. 55).

In an action for balance due under a contract, the question of the performance of the contract and the statute of limitations (Slatford v. Erlebach, (1912) 3 K. B. 155 ; 81 L. J. K. B. 372). Every separate cause of action is an issue (Myers v. Defries (No. 2), (1880) 5 Ex. D. 15 and 180 ; 49 L. J. Ex. 266 ; Hoyes v. Tate, (1907) 1 K. B. 656 ; 76 L. J. K. B. 408).

In the recent case of Howell v. Dering and others, (1915) 1 K. B. 54 ; 84 L. J. K. B. 198, the plaintiff alleged :—

1. Material representations in a prospectus.
2. That they were fraudulently made by the defendants.
3. That he was thereby induced to take shares.

The jury found in favour of the plaintiff on the 1st and 3rd allegations, and in favour of the defendants on the 2nd, and the judgment was drawn up treating each question and answer as an issue, and giving the plaintiff the cost of numbers 1 and 3. It was held on appeal that these questions and answers were not separate issues, but merely links in the chain of facts which, if they were proved, would entitled the plaintiff to relief. The question is exhaustively discussed in the judgments in this case, where some attempt is also made to give a definition of an issue. See also Bird v. Standard Oil Co. of Canada and Others, (1915) 114 L. T. R. 316 ; 60 Sol. Jo. 189.

Form of Judgment.]—Where, therefore, the party who is unsuccessful in an action claims to have succeeded on some substantial portion of the case worthy to be dignified by the title of an issue, he must take care to make application to the judge to so define it, or to make a special order under section 113, awarding him the particular costs to which he claims to be entitled. The former course may be adopted where the case has been tried by a jury, who have decided in favour of the losing party some definite question left to them by the judge. The latter in all other cases. It cannot be too clearly understood that unless the judgment, as recorded in the minute book, is drawn so as to deal specifically with the costs of these separate issues, the registrar has no power to deal with such costs on taxation. He cannot be asked to inspect the documents relating to the case and come to the conclusion that there are certain issues on which the generally unsuccessful party succeeded, and to tax the costs accordingly. This is established by the cases of Bush v. Rogers, supra, and Ingram and Royle, Ltd. v. Services Maritimes du Tréport, (1914) 3 K. B. 28 ; 83 L. J. K. B. 1128. In the latter case the plaintiffs succeeded on issues both of fact and law, and judgment was entered for them without mention of any issue. The defendants appealed on the question of law and succeeded in the Court of Appeal, where judgment was entered for the defendants with costs. The plaintiffs attempted to tax their costs of the issue of fact at the original trial. On appeal it was held that they were not entitled to do so since the judgment did not show them to have succeeded on any issue, and that the taxing master had no jurisdiction to go behind the order and divide the costs of separate issues, where no direction as to the costs of such issues had been given by order of the Court. The previous judgment of the same Court to the opposite effect in Slatford v. Erlebach, (1912) 3 K. B. 155 ; 81 L. J. K. B. 372, was distinguished on the ground that the decision in that case must be considered to have applied to a special set of circumstances, and amounted to an amendment of the judgment of the Court below, in order to give effect to the referee's findings. If, therefore, on taxation it turns out that the record in the minute book is defective in this respect, the proper course is to apply for an adjournment of the taxation pending an application to the judge to amend the record.

Principles of Taxation of Costs of Issues.] — Where the successful party is ordered to pay the costs of certain issues on which the generally unsuccessful party succeeded, the successful party is entitled to the general costs of the action, and the other party is not entitled to any general costs, but only the costs strictly relevant to the issue which has been decided in his favour. From this it follows that the brief, counsel's fees and witnesses' fees may have to be apportioned between the two issues. One important item, sometimes overlooked, is the costs of taxation, under item 84 the unsuccessful party succeeding on a separate issue will only be entitled to 2*s.*, 4*s.*, or 6*s.* as the case may be, which includes not only the taxation of costs, but the drawing the bill, copies notice and service. See Sparrow v. Hill and Another (1881) 8 Q. B. D. 479.

COSTS AFTER PAYMENT INTO COURT.] By sect. 107 of the Act, if the plaintiff recovers no more than the amount paid in, the defendant is entitled to his costs after the date of payment in. It has been held that the defendant's costs prior to the date of payment in are costs not otherwise provided for under sect. 113, and an order made awarding the defendant such costs, even when incurred in the High Court, has been upheld (Bennett v. Drake, (1907) 97 L. T. R. 132).

COSTS SUBSEQUENT TO JUDGMENT.]—No costs are allowed for searches for payment into court, nor for attending to issue execution.

Costs of Execution recoverable only out of Proceeds.]—The general rule of law is that the costs and fees of issuing execution are a first charge on the amount recovered under such execution, and are recoverable only out of the proceeds of such execution. The judgment debtor incurs no personal liability for the payment of such costs. For this reason such costs are directed by Order XXV. r. 56, not to be included in the amount due for the purpose of a judgment summons or fresh order. The intention of Order XXV. r. 19, which provides for the "allowance" of such costs against the execution debtor, read in connection with the other rule above mentioned, is apparently to make such costs recoverable by means of a subsequent execution.

Costs of Judgment Summons.]—As regards the costs of judgment summonses, none are allowed for attending to issue such summonses, but under Order XXV. r. 53, a solicitor's fee for attendance on the hearing is allowable in two classes of case: (1) Where the party for whom he appears resides out of the district; and (2) Where the summons is on a judgment of a court other than a county court.

The scale of fees is as follows:—

Where amount for which judgment summons is issued does not exceed 2*l.*	Nothing.
Where amount for which judgment summons is issued exceeds 2*l.* and does not exceed 10*l.*	5*s.*
Where amount for which judgment summons is issued exceeds 10*l.* and does not exceed 20*l.*	5*s.* to 10*s.*
Where amount for which judgment summons is issued exceeds 20*l.* and does not exceed 50*l.*	6*s.* 8*d.* to 13*s.* 4*d.*
Where amount for which judgment summons is issued exceeds 50*l.*	10*s.* to 21*s.*

Application for such allowance must be made to the judge at the time.

In practice, where a fresh order is made on a judgment of a county court, the judgment creditor has to pay the fees, and the power to allow solicitor's costs is usually exercised, where a plaintiff resides out of the district, only where a commitment order is made. On the other hand, where a fresh order is made on a judgment of a court other than a county court, most judges allow a solicitor's fee. This is reasonable, as the issue of a judgment summons is the only process by which a fresh order can be obtained on a judgment of a court other than a county court, the ordinary provisions, (Order XXIII. r. 14) by which such an order is issued automatically at the request of the plaintiff, applying only to county court judgments.

It should be remembered that where on the hearing of a judgment summons issued on a judgment of a court other than a county court a fresh order has been made, any judgment summons issued for default in compliance with such fresh order is not issued "on an order of a court other than a county court."

The costs of witnesses and witness summonses are also allowable against a judgment debtor in all cases where a commitment order is made (Order XXV. rr. 35, 54). But where a fresh order is made on the hearing of a judgment summons on a judgment or order of a county court in lieu of a commitment order, such costs and fees are allowable only if the judge is satisfied that the debtor has had the means to pay since the date of the original judgment, and an entry to that effect is made in the minute book (Order XXV. r. 54).

Travelling Expenses.]—Where the registrar fixes the amount to cover the travelling expenses of the debtor to attend the court on the hearing of a judgment summons under Order XXV. r. 26, the judgment debtor is entitled under the rule to be tendered the railway fare both to and from the county court (Ward v. Nield, (1917) 46 County Court Chronicle, 114; (1917) W. N. 257).

Costs of appointment of Receiver by way of Equitable Execution.]—By Order XIII. r. 14, these costs are allowed as on an interlocutory application in an equitable action or matter, subject to the following limits:—

Where amount of debt and costs due to the applicant exceeds 50*l.* and does not exceed 100*l.*—
Costs (including obtaining appointment of receiver, completing security, passing accounts, and obtaining discharge) and fees are each limited to	2½ per cent. of such amount.
Where amount of debt and costs exceeds 20*l.* and does not exceed 50*l.*—
Costs and fees are each limited to	25*s.*
Where amount of debt and costs exceed 5*l.* and does not exceed 20*l.*—
Costs and fees are each limited to 1*l.*, but shall not be less than 7*s.* 6*d.* as the judge may direct.

In determining for the purpose of taxation "the amount of debt and costs" in the above rule, the costs incurred in obtaining an interim injunction are not to be included (Carrington v. Deane, (1917) 1 K. B. 717). The words are limited to the amount of debt and costs in respect of which the receiver was appointed, and do not include sums by way of costs incurred by subsequent interlocutory proceedings, although ordered to be added to the judgment debt.

Costs of Examination in Aid of Execution.]—The costs of any application to examine a debtor as to his means under Order XXV. r. 71, and of any proceedings arising from or incidental thereto, are in the discretion of the court (Order XXV. r. 72). The court would therefore have discretion to allow such costs although, before the examination took place, the debtor paid the amount of the judgment debt and costs into court, and no examination was therefore held. In most cases the registrar exercises his discretion by allowing the costs wherever he is of opinion that the judgment creditor had reasonable grounds for thinking that the examination would elicit some useful information.

Where allowed, these costs are taxed on the scale above set out for solicitor's attendance on a judgment summons.

Costs of Obtaining Garnishee Order.]—There is a similar provision with regard to the costs of obtaining a garnishee order (Order XXVI. r. 12). The costs are in the discretion of the court, and are a first charge on the money recovered under the garnishee proceedings.

Costs under Special War or Emergency Legislation, Costs of application or summons under Courts (Emergency Powers) Acts, 1914 to 1917, Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915, Trading with the Enemy Amendment Act, 1914, Billeting of Civilians Act, 1917, and the County Court Rules made by the Lord Chancellor under each of the above Acts.]—In applications under the above-mentioned Acts the court has an absolute discretion over costs, which may be either fixed or allowed as interlocutory applications under Columns A or B of the Scale of Costs, the latter applying to all cases above 20*l.* to the exclusion of Column C. The scale is regulated as follows :—

Act.	Amount regulating scale.
Courts (Emergency Powers) (No. 2) Act, 1916.
Lessor's costs	Nil.
Lessee's costs, if allowed	Column B.
Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915. Billeting of Civilians Act, 1917
Question as to increase of rent	Four weeks' standard rent.
Application to apportion rent	Half of the annual rent apportioned.
Application to enforce mortgage.	Amount of principal sum secured.
Trading with the Enemy Amendment Act, 1914.	The section under which the application is made.

When the amount regulating the scale does not exceed 10*l.* :—

Increase of Rent, etc. Act	Exceeding 2*l.* but not exceeding 5*l.*, 6*s.* 8*d.* ; exceeding 5*l.*, 10*s.*
The other above-mentioned Acts	Exceeding 2*l.* but not exceeding 5*l.*, 3*s.* ; exceeding 5*l.*, 5*s.*

In all cases of costs under the above emergency legislation it will be found convenient to fix these costs at the time the application is heard, and thus avoid the necessity for a separate taxation.

Costs of Obtaining Certificate under Inferior Courts Judgments Extension Act.]—These are fixed by Order XLV. r. 6, at 5*s.*, with an additional 2*s.* where the registrar requires an affidavit that the judgment has not been satisfied and of the amount remaining unsatisfied.

ADJUSTMENT OF COSTS.—As between Two Unsuccessful Defendants.]—Where there is more than one defendant, and judgment is given against each separately with costs, Order LIII. r. 24 directs that the costs must be divided in proportion to the amount of each judgment unless the judge otherwise orders. Where the whole matter is disposed of at the same sitting of the court this course is practicable, one bill of costs is allowed, and the total amount apportioned between the various defendants in equal shares. The only person damnified in such a case is the plaintiff, as, in the event of one of such defendants proving unable to pay, he loses the proportion of his costs attributable to such defendant. Where, however, a default summons is issued against several defendants, e.g., on a joint and several promissory note, and judgment is signed against one in default of giving notice to defend, and against another in default of appearing at the trial, whilst the action is contested by the third, and the plaintiff ultimately succeeds, this rule is quite impracticable. The total amount of costs and fees allowable as against each defendant is necessarily different, and various steps are taken against each with which the others are in no way concerned, and for which they should not be called upon to pay. Some registrars under such circumstances treat the rule as inapplicable, others make the best apportionment they can by adding together all the items of costs incurred against all or any of the defendants, and then dividing the amount between them.

As between Two Defendants raising Separate Defences.]—Although the provisions of Order III. r. 2, undoubtedly intend that the liability of a particular defendant (say in an action of tort) for damages and costs, should be only that with which the jury fix him individually, the old rule of law which prescribed that in respect of a joint tort there should be no separate apportionment, was re-affirmed in 1913 by the Court of Appeal in the case of Greenlands, Ltd. v. Wilmshurst and the London Association for Protection of Trade, (1913) 3 K. B. 507; 83 L. J. K. B. 1. Notwithstanding this, however, in the recent case of Hobson v. Sir W. C. Leng & Co. (Ltd.) and Another, (1914) 3 K. B. 1245; 83 L. J. K. B. 1624, it has been decided that in a libel action where one defendant pleads justification and the other does not, the party who has not raised this issue is entitled to have any costs incurred by the plaintiff relating to this issue, excluded from the costs which he is liable to pay. In this case the judgment was simply entered for the plaintiff against the defendants for 750*l.* and costs, and the Court of Appeal held that it was the duty of the taxing master to determine what costs, having regard to the issues in the action, were taxable in favour of the plaintiff against any particular defendant.

As between Two Defendants jointly represented, Judgment against one and in favour of the other.]—When two defendants are jointly represented by the same solicitor, and judgment with costs is given in favour of one defendant and against the other, the registrar has apparently to inquire what was the position of the successful defendant with regard to his liability for costs to the solicitor employed. A party can only recover costs from the other side to the same extent as he himself is liable to his own solicitor. If, therefore, the registrar finds that the unsuccessful defendant was the person liable to the solicitor for all the costs of the defence, the successful defendant will be entitled to recover only the additional costs incurred through his having been joined. In the absence of any agreement between the two defendants as to how the costs of the defence are to be borne, each defendant is liable for one half, and that is all that the successful defendant can recover against the plaintiff (Beaumont v. Senior and Bull, (1903) 1 K. B. 282; 92 L. J. K. B. 141, following In re Colquhoun, (1854) 5 D. M. & G. 35; 23 L. J. Ch. 515; 104 R. R. 15; and Gundry v. Sainsbury, (1910) 1 K. B. 99 and 645). The above doctrine can be avoided and an agreement drawn under which, while the client will be relieved from liability for costs to his solicitor, the solicitor shall retain, in the event of success, the right to costs to be recovered from the other side (McLean v. Carlish, (1917) 61 Sol. Jo. 399).

As between Two Plaintiffs jointly represented, Judgment given in favour of one only, Order for Defendant to have any costs caused by the addition of the second Plaintiff.]—Where an action has been brought by two plaintiffs and judgment given in favour of one plaintiff only, the defendant having any costs caused by the addition of the extra plaintiff, it is submitted that the principle of the above cases, namely, that a party can only recover costs from the other side to the same extent as he himself is liable to his own solicitor applies, so that where both plaintiffs are interested in common in the result of the action and each of them is only liable to their solicitor by agreement (express or implied) for a moiety of the costs, that is all either of them can recover from the defendant.

But where the second plaintiff has not common interest in the result of the action, and is brought in to guard against the possibility of a technical defence, there can be no presumption of law or otherwise that the added plaintiff contracts with the solicitor of the original plaintiff to relieve him of one half of his liability for costs. There is only one cause of action and one person interested in it, namely the original plaintiff, who is therefore entitled to his full costs.

As between Plaintiff and Defendant, Set-off.]—The registrar has power under Order LIII. r. 34, on taxation to set off any costs payable by the successful party against any costs recoverable by him in connection with the same matter, and to issue his allocatur for the balance. In this manner, costs of counterclaim, costs of issues, and costs improperly incurred (e.g., unnecessary discovery, etc.), are adjusted between the parties. This provision, which is similar to that in force in the High Court (Order LXV. r. 27 (21)), is confined to cases in which the judgments for costs sought to be set off against each other are in the same action or proceeding, and does not extend to cases in which the judgments for costs are in distinct and independent litigations (David v. Rees and Others, (1904) 2 K. B. 435; 73 L. J. K. B. 729). The decision in Edwards v. Hope, (1885) 14 Q. B. D. 922; 54 L. J. Q. B. 379, however, recognises the equitable jurisdiction of the court, and enables it to approach the question as one of discretion "for the purpose of preventing absurdity or injustice." In the recent case of Reid v. Cupper, (1915) 2 K. B. 147; 84 L. J. K. B. 573, where plaintiff brought an action against the defendant and his wife, and another action against the defendant alone, he failed in the first, but succeeded in the second action. The judge at the trial of the second action made an order setting off the plaintiff's costs in the second action against the defendants costs in the first action. It was held that the set-off was rightly ordered in the exercise of the judge's discretion.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS AS TO EQUITABLE PROCEEDINGS.]—If a party suing or sued in a fiduciary or representative character incurs costs not allowed under any scale, the registrar must apply to the judge, who may allow a sum out of any funds in court applicable to the purpose (Order LIII. r. 29).

Costs occasioned by an unsuccessful claim or unsuccessful resistance to a claim to any property are not to be paid out of the estate, unless the judge otherwise orders (Rule 30). Costs of inquiries to ascertain the persons entitled to any legacy, money, or share, or otherwise incurred in relation thereto, are to be paid out of the legacy, money, or share, unless otherwise directed by the judge (Rule 31). Distribution may be made to those persons whose title has been ascertained to a distributive share of a fund, without reserving any part of their shares to answer the subsequent costs of ascertaining the persons entitled to the other shares (Rule 32).

Where a bill of costs is payable out of a fund or estate (real or personal), or out of the assets of a company in liquidation, and on taxation the amount of professional charges and disbursements contained in the bill is reduced by a sixth, no costs of drawing or copying it, nor of attending the taxation will be allowed to the solicitor leaving it for taxation (Rule 35). Where a bill of costs is ordered to be taxed for the purpose of being paid or raised out of a fund or property, the court may require the solicitor to deliver free of charge to all or any of his clients a copy of the bill or any part of it previously to completion of the taxation, and the taxation may be suspended for a reasonable time (Rule 36).

COSTS OF SOLICITOR TO A TRUSTEE UNDER THE DEEDS OF ARRANGEMENT ACT, 1914.]—The Board of Trade has power under section 15 (1) of the Act at the request of the creditors to cause the accounts of a trustee under a deed of arrangement to be audited, and on the audit to require production of a certificate for the taxed costs of any solicitor whose costs have been paid or charged by the trustee, and to disallow the whole or any part of any costs in respect of which no certificate is produced. The Deeds of Arrangement Act, however, makes no provision for the taxation of the solicitor's costs of a trustee under a deed of arrangement.

It was not apparently intended to require trustees under deeds to have their solicitor's costs taxed in every case, nor to empower a special tribunal to conduct the taxation, but to provide, in effect, that if the costs in question are not taxed, and an audit of the trustee's accounts is instituted by the Board of Trade under the provisions of the Act, such costs as may appear to be unreasonable will be subject to disallowance. The Bankruptcy Registrars of the High Court have held that sect. 23 empowers them to make orders for the ascertaining by taxation in the bankruptcy office of the proper amount of costs payable out of the estate to any solicitor employed by the trustee. There seems, therefore, no reason why the registrar of a county court, which has jurisdiction in the matter, should not make a similar order and proceed to the taxation of the costs himself. Most registrars are prepared to do so, and the Board of Trade have intimated that in such a case they would not, on their own initiative, question the amount at which the costs had been allowed or call for a further taxation. Under Rule 16 of the Deeds of Arrangement Rules such applications are deemed to be proceedings in bankruptcy, so that the same fee is payable as on an allocatur in respect of costs in bankruptcy proceedings.

EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.]—Where an executor or administrator is an unsuccessful plaintiff, he is personally liable for costs unless the court otherwise orders (Order XXX. r. 1).

Where an executor or administrator is an unsuccessful defendant, he is personally liable for costs in the following cases:—

Where he has wasted assets (Order XXX. r. 4).

Where he does not appear (Order XXX. r. 2).

Where he admits his representative character, and does not deny assets, whether he admits plaintiff's demand or not (Order XXX. rr. 4A, 5).

Where he alleges total administration of assets and fails to prove it (Order XXX. rr. 7, 9).

Where such a defendant denies the plaintiff's demand, and proves a total administration of assets, he is liable to pay the plaintiff's costs of proving his demand, but is entitled to be paid his costs of proving administration of assets unless the court otherwise orders (Order XXX. r. 6).

Where such a defendant admits his representative character and the debt, and proves administration of assets, he is not liable to any costs, but is entitled to his costs of proving administration of assets unless the judge otherwise orders (Order XXX. r. 8).

The liability of an executor de son tort is no greater than that of an executor.

A trustee paying money into court under the provisions of sects. 67 or 70 of the Act, or sect. 42 of the Trustee Act, 1893, is entitled to retain his costs incurred in the payment into court, and in any matter connected with the trust prior thereto, subject to taxation by the registrar (Order XXXVIII. r. 11). If, however, he has availed himself of these statutory provisions without sufficient reason, he may be ordered not only to bear his own costs, but to pay the costs incurred by any other person or any part thereof (e.g., in obtaining payment out of the funds) (Order XXXVIII. r. 25). If such a trustee appears on the petition of a beneficiary for payment out, where the petitioner relies only on the facts stated in the affidavit of the trustee, he will only be entitled to his costs of doing so if the judge certifies that his appearance was right and necessary (Order XXXVIII. r. 28).

In an administration action the administrator is entitled to be allowed his general costs, even where the greater part of his claim for expenses of realisation has been disallowed, if the claim was not improper, dishonest or monstrous (In re Jones, Christmas v. Jones, (1897) 2 Ch. 190; 66 L. J. Ch. 439). Where, however, an estate is insolvent, the administrator's right to costs should be confined to such costs as are really necessary for the protection of the estate (Pain and Another v. Bowden, (1896) 2 Q. B. 301; 65 L. J. Q. B. 530, where a registrar's disallowance of certain items usually allowed was supported on the ground that he was entitled to have regard to the financial condition of the estate).

COSTS IN ADMIRALTY PROCEEDINGS.]—The authorised scales of costs apply to proceedings instituted as Admiralty proceedings in any county court having Admiralty jurisdiction.

Special Provisions.]—Attention, however, is called to Order XXXIX. rr. 109—112 (inclusive), which make special provisions for costs in Admiralty actions not provided for in the scales and for certain increases.

Order XXXIX. r. 113 annulled.]—It should be noted that Order XXXIX. r. 113 was annulled by Order LIII. r. 8, as amended by the County Court Rules, April, 1913. Under the repealed rule registrars had power to increase costs and fees, and this was especially important in regard to item 28, "Instructions for Brief." Under the rule of April, 1913, the maximum fee, 3*l.* 3*s.*, could not be exceeded, a sum which was frequently totally inadequate in Admiralty cases, but the County Court Rules, 1914, dated April 6, 1914, Amended Order LIII. r. 8, which now provides, paragraph 2, that where costs are taxed under column C, this item may, in cases of a real contest, or the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act, be increased, at the discretion of the registrar, subject to review by the judge, or by special order of the judge, to 5*l.* 5*s.*

Application for Judge's Order where necessary.]—As in cases under the ordinary jurisdiction of the county court, where a judge's order is required the application should be made at, or immediately after, the trial or hearing (Order LIII. r. 7).

TAXATION OF COSTS BY REGISTRAR.]—Sect. 118 provides for the taxation of all costs by the registrar of the court in which they were incurred.

Registrar who is a Successful Defendant must Tax his own Bill.]—It follows that where the registrar is a successful defendant in an action in his own court he must of necessity tax his own costs (H. Tolputt & Co., Ltd. v. Mole (C. A.), (1911) 1 K. B. 836; 80 L. J. K. B. 686).

Practice as to Delivery of Bill and obtaining Appointment.]—Unless the taxation takes place on the day of trial, which rarely happens in spite of the direction to that effect in Order LIII. r. 2, the party delivers his bill to the registrar and obtains an appointment to tax, giving one day's notice of taxation to the opposite party or his solicitor. It is usual to serve a copy of the bill with such notice, but this is obligatory only if the registrar so directs. The bills, except those on the lower scale, must be made out in columns showing professional charges and disbursements separately as in the High Court.

Most registrars only require the delivery of a bill and allow the costs of taxation where the bill contains items other than those recorded in the court books, i.e., solicitor's fees on entry of plaint, service of default summons, and for conducting a case in court. Wherever witnesses' expenses or any other items are claimed the bill should be brought in for taxation on the day of hearing or the following day.

Solicitor Plaintiff or Defendant appearing in Person.]—A solicitor appearing in person as plaintiff or defendant is entitled on taxation to the same costs as if he had employed a solicitor, except in respect of items which the fact of his acting directly renders unnecessary (e.g., attendances to take instructions, etc.) (Order LIII. r. 25).

Solicitor's Costs, Counsel employed but not allowed.]—Where counsel is employed, but the costs of employing him are not allowed, the solicitor's costs may be allowed on the scale applicable to a solicitor appearing for his client without counsel (Order LIII. r. 26).

Discretion allowed to Registrar.]—The discretion allowed to a registrar on taxation is certainly not large compared to that of a master in the High Court, and very strict rules as to its exercise are laid down in Order LIII. rr. 21, 22, 23, which prescribe that such discretion must be exercised with care, and in accordance with the directions in the scales and rules, taking into consideration other fees and allowances to solicitors and counsel, if any, in respect of the work to which an allowance applies, the nature and importance of the action or matter, the amount involved, the interest of the parties, the fund or persons to bear the cost, the general conduct and costs of the proceedings, and all other circumstances, e.g., the insolvency of an estate in an administration action (Pain v. Bowden, (1896) 2 Q. B. 301; 65 L. J. Q. B. 530).

No Unnecessary Costs to be allowed.]—No costs are to be allowed which do not appear to have been necessary or proper for the attainment of justice or defending the rights of the party, or which appear to have been incurred through over-caution, negligence, or mistake, or merely at the desire of the party. The test is, as laid down in Bartlett v. Higgins, (1901) 2 K. B. 230; 70 L. J. K. B. 621, whether such costs were necessary or proper for the attainment of justice at the time when they were incurred, irrespective of the eventual state of circumstances at the trial.

Solicitor's Costs of Locomotion.]—In particular, where a solicitor is employed who does not reside or carry on business in or near the district of the court, no costs for his locomotion or maintenance will be allowed, unless the court is satisfied that there was reasonable cause for employing him.

Costs of Discovery.]—Costs of discovery by interrogatories or otherwise are within the registrar's discretion only where there is no trial, and he is directed to allow them only if he thinks they have been reasonably asked for (Order XVI. r. 22); and if in the opinion of the Registrar such interrogatories have been exhibited unreasonably, vexatiously or at improper length, the costs of them and the answers must be paid in any event by the party in fault (Order XVI. r. 4).

Costs of any Affidavit, etc., containing Improper or Unnecessary Matter to be disallowed.]—The costs of any affidavit, evidence, notice, or other proceeding which is improper, vexatious or unnecessary, or contains vexatious or unnecessary matter, or is of unnecessary length, may be disallowed by the judge, or by the registrar on the direction of the judge. If the question has not been raised before the judge, it is the registrar's duty to look into the same, and thereupon the same consequences are to ensue as if he had been specially directed to do so (Order LIII. r. 33).

Allowances to Witnesses.]—The registrar may allow the costs of witnesses though they have not been summoned, and whether they have been examined or not (Order LIII. r. 41); but the allowance for attendance must not exceed the highest rate of the allowance mentioned in the scales (Order LIII. rr. 37, 41). The scales of allowances to ordinary witnesses are as follows:—

Gentlemen, merchants, bankers and professional men, per diem . . . . . from	0	15	0	to	1	1	0
Tradesmen, auctioneers, accountants, clerks and yeomen, per diem . . . . from	0	7	6	,,	0	15	0
Artisans and journeymen, per diem . . from	0	4	0	,,	0	7	6
Labourers, and the like, per diem . . from	0	3	0	,,	0	4	0
Females, according to station in life, per diem from	0	2	6	,,	0	10	6

By Order LIII. r. 37 (a), allowances may be made to accountants being members of any recognised society of accountants on the scale applicable to merchants and professional men, instead of on that applicable to tradesmen (a).

A plaintiff is not entitled as a rule to an allowance except for travelling expenses, unless he is a domestic or menial servant, a labourer, a servant in husbandry, a journeyman, an artificer, a handicraftsman, a miner, or any person engaged in manual labour, but the judge may otherwise order in any case (Order LIII. r. 38), and this is so although he was also the successful defendant to a counterclaim, unless the loss of time and expenses he was put to as such witness were increased by reason of the counterclaim.

(a) Added by Rule 20 of the County Court Rules, 1917.

A witness in the employ of and called on behalf of a railway company is entitled to third class railway fare in addition to the allowance, according to the scale. Railway companies are not required to carry their own witnesses for nothing, nor to make special arrangements with other companies to do so.

A witness who is out of work or on strike, and therefore does not lose wages in attending the court, is nevertheless entitled to an allowance according to the scale. This allowance is not intended to reimburse the witness for his loss of wages only.

Travelling Expenses.]—There may be also allowed to all witnesses, including plaintiffs and defendants, if personally attending the court, for travelling expenses the sum actually and reasonably paid by them (Order (LIII. r. 39).

Hotel Expenses.]—Two opposite views as to allowance of hotel expenses have been expressed by county court judges.

In Briggs v. Gaylord, (1894) 97 L. T. J. 389, His Honour Judge Wightman Wood said that the reason for the difference between the maximum and minimum allowance in the scale of witnesses' allowances was to enable witnesses from a distance to be compensated for the necessary expense of board and lodging, and that in no other way could hotel expenses be allowed. On the other hand, His Honour Judge Tindal Atkinson is reported in 127 L. T. J. at p. 467, September 18th, 1909, to have dissented from the above view, and considered that the expenses incident to a journey, reasonably incurred, must be included in the travelling expenses. It is believed that the latter is the practice now generally followed.

Witnesses attending in more than one Action.]—If witnesses attend in more than one action or matter their allowance must not exceed one allowance, and it must be apportioned between the actions or matters (Order LIII. r. 40).

Seamen.]—Seamen necessarily detained on shore for the purpose of an action or matter will be allowed such remuneration as the judge may order, or, in the absence of an order, as the registrar may think reasonable compensation for their loss of time (Order LIII. r. 42).

Expert or Scientific Witnesses.]—The registrar can allow a fee to an expert or scientific witness for attending court on trial, without an order of the judge, but an order of the judge is required before a qualifying fee can be allowed. By Order LIII., r. 43 of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914, in any action or matter in which the costs are taxable, as of right or by order of the judge, under columns B or C, the registrar may on taxation, subject to review by the judge, allow for the attendance in court of any expert or scientific witnesses or any member of the medical profession, and the judge may order that such witnesses may be allowed for qualifying to give evidence, such sums as the registrar on taxation may think fit, not exceeding :—

For qualifying to give evidence under column B	1	1	0	to	3	3	0
„ „ „ „ C	1	1	0	„	5	5	0
For attending court on trial, per diem under column B	1	1	0	„	2	2	0
For attending court on trial, per diem, under column C.	1	1	0	„	3	3	0

Where costs are taxed under column C, in cases in which there is a real contest, or the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act, reasonable additional allowances may be made at the discretion of the registrar subject to review by the judge, or by special order of the judge to expert and scientific witnesses for qualifying to give evidence, and attending the court on the trial (Order LIII. r. 8 (3) (c) of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914).

Where costs are taxed under column A., the registrar may on taxation subject to review by the judge, allow for attendance in court, and the judge may by special order made in accordance with r. 7 of Order LIII. allow for qualifying to give evidence, the whole or part of such sums as may be allowed for attendance in court and qualifying to give evidence respectively under Order LIII. r. 43 (1) where costs are taxed under column B (Order LIII. r. 43 (2), of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914).

There is no ground whatever for saying that a qualifying fee cannot be allowed because the examination was made before the litigation began (Jones v. D. Davies & Sons, Ltd., (1914) 3 K. B. 549; 83 L. J. K. B. 153).

There is no rule of practice in the High Court that only two expert witnesses are allowed on each side. An expert who is called and listened to by the court ought to have his costs allowed in the absence of any special reason to the contrary (Maxim v. Godson, (1915) 60 Sol Jo. 77).

The question not infrequently arises as to what is the proper fee to allow to an interpreter who by arrangement acts for both sides, and is engaged the whole day. It is submitted that the fee of 1*l.* 1*s.* would be an appropriate fee, under whichever scale the costs are being taxed, unless the interpreter's ordinary occupation is such that a smaller fee would be appropriate. In a proper case this fee might be increased under columns B and C, and an allowance made to the interpreter as an expert witness. Even under column A a discretion is given to the registrar under Order LIII. r. 43 (2). No fee would of course be allowed for qualifying to give evidence.

Preparation of Plans, Charts, etc.]—Plans, charts or models for use of the judge at the trial are allowed at the sum reasonably paid for the same not exceeding: under column A, 1*l.* 1*s.*, under column B, 2*l.* 2*s.*, and under column C, 3*l.* 3*s.* Where costs are taxed under column C, in cases in which there is a real contest, or the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act, reasonable fees in excess of those mentioned in item 95, may also be allowed by special order of the judge, or at the discretion of the registrar subject to review by the judge (Order LIII. r. 8 (3) (c), of the County Court Rules, 1914 (No. 3), dated July 30, 1914). An order of the judge is also necessary for the allowance of the attendance of the persons who are called at the trial to prove the correctness of the plans and drawings and models, though they are not to be allowed as expert or scientific witnesses, but upon the scale applicable to ordinary witnesses (Order LIII. rr. 43 (2), and 44).

A solicitor who orders photographs for the purpose of litigation, in which he was acting for a client to the knowledge of the photographer, is not personally liable for the price of the photographs (Wakefield v. Duckworth, (1915) 1 K. B. 218; 84 L. J. K. B. 335).

Allocatur to be Signed on Production of Witnesses' Receipts.]—It is, of course, an obvious advantage to solicitors to defer settling with witnesses until after the amount to be allowed for their attendance has been ascertained on taxation. In important cases, therefore, it is usual to follow the practice of the High Court, under which the amounts to be allowed to witnesses and experts are assessed from their accounts produced on taxation, and the allocatur signed on production of the receipts from the witnesses, or, in special cases, on the solicitor's written undertaking to produce such receipts when required. The case of Harbin v. Gordon and Another, (1914) 2 K. B. 577; 83 L. J. K. B. 322, clearly defines the practice of the taxing masters with regard to payments to and receipts to be given by parties to an action in respect of allowances to them for expenses and loss of time in travelling to give evidence. The Court of Appeal laid it down that the "special concession," which the master had made of offering to accept the plaintiff's letter to the effect that he was aware of the allowance to him as a witness and its amount, should be made the general rule in all similar cases where the solicitor taxing the bill was not in a position to produce a voucher for the sum allowed.

Counsel's Fees.]—As regards counsel's fees, the scale item is expressed to be the maximum, and the registrar is directed, by the official note in the higher scale of costs, in assessing the amount of the fee, to consider the length of the brief, the documents to be perused and considered, the number of witnesses, and the difficulties of fact or law involved. In practice, however, the maximum is usually allowed.

Conference Fee.]—Similarly, a conference fee is allowable under columns B and C of the scale, if marked on the brief and the registrar considers it necessary.

Advice on Evidence.]—The fee for advising on evidence is only allowable if the advice is given in writing, and allowed by the judge, item 94 of the higher scale of costs having been amended in the former respect by the Rules of July 26th, 1912. The fact that the judge has certified for this fee does not preclude the registrars from inquiring, on taxation, whether the work covered by it was actually performed.

Payment to be Vouched by Counsel's Signature.]—No fees are to be allowed on taxation unless the payment be vouched by the signature of counsel (see official note in the Higher Scale of Costs, Fees to Counsel).

REVIEW OF TAXATION, PROCEDURE BEFORE THE REGISTRAR.]—Order LIII. r. 5 provides that any party dissatisfied with the allowance or disallowance by the registrar on taxation, in any bill of costs taxed by him, of the whole or any part of any items, may, at any time before the certificate or allocatur is signed, deliver to the other party interested therein, and carry in before the registrar on taxation, an objection in writing to such allowance or disallowance, specifying therein by a list, in a short and concise form, the items, or parts thereof, objected to, and the grounds and reasons for such objection, and may thereupon apply to the registrar to review the taxation in respect of the same.

In practice, the registrar signs the bill of costs after taxation, and it then serves as a certificate or allocatur. A party dissatisfied should, therefore, at once indicate the items objected to, and request the registrar not to sign the bill of costs until he has had time to consider the propriety of the allowances or disallowances; and it is believed that the registrar could not, by refusing, prevent the party from exercising his right to review.

After delivering objections, the applicant will be entitled to an appointment to review. The registrar will then reconsider and review his taxation upon such objections, and he may, if he think fit, receive further evidence in respect thereof, and, if so required by either party, he must state either in his certificate of taxation or allocatur, or by reference to such objections, the grounds and reasons of his decision thereon, and any special facts or circumstances relating thereto (Order LIII. r. 6). In practice the registrar states his reasons for his decision either on the objections or in a separate document, and this should be shown to the parties (Dashwood v. Maguire, (1892) W. N. 52). These rules are in effect similar to the corresponding rules in the High Court (Order LXV. r. 27 (39), (40)).

Whether above Procedure a necessary preliminary to an Appeal to the Judge.]—It frequently happens, however, that the representative of a solicitor who attends a taxation fails to give notice that he intends to deliver objections, and when such objections are delivered later he finds that the allocatur has been already signed. The position of the parties in such a case is not very clear. Obviously, the registrar has no power to re-open the matter and review his taxation except by consent, but the question whether the dissatisfied party has a right to review before the judge, or whether a review before the registrar is a necessary preliminary to such an appeal appears never to have been decided in the county court. In the High Court Order LIII. r. 27 (41) limits the right of appeal to the judge to any items in respect of which objections have been delivered before the taxing master, though this does not apply where objection is taken to the principle of the taxation (In re Fletcher & Dyson, (1903) 2 Ch. 688 ; 72 L. J. Ch. 791), or where the taxing officer has decided that there is nothing to tax (In re Castle, (1887) 36 Ch. D. 194 ; 56 L. J. Ch. 753).

In the county court the right of appeal to the judge conferred by sect. 118 of the Act is absolute, and there is no rule which limits its application in the manner prescribed in the High Court. Order LIII. r. 47, merely provides how the application to the judge to review shall be made, and that it shall be heard and determined upon the evidence before the registrar, and no further evidence shall be received unless the judge otherwise directs. On the other hand, Order LIII. rr. 5 and 6 do provide for reconsideration and review of taxation before the registrar, who must state in his certificate or allocatur "the grounds and reasons of his decision," and see the observations of Fletcher Moulton, L.J. in Mentors, Ltd. v. Evans, (1912) 3 K. B. at p. 178—"It is a fundamental principle in dealing with such applications that the appellant is strictly tied to the objections made by him to the taxing master and answered by the latter. Such a provision saves endless expense."

REVIEW BY THE JUDGE ON APPEAL FROM THE REGISTRAR.]—The right of appeal to the judge is expressly conferred by sect. 118 of the Act, and the procedure is settled by Order LIII. r. 47, which provides that notice in writing shall be given in accordance with the rules as to interlocutory applications, which prescribe that the notice shall be served on the opposite party two days at least before the hearing of the application, unless leave be given for shorter notice (Order XII. r. 11). It should be specially noted that it must be determined on the evidence before the registrar, unless the judge otherwise directs. No time is fixed within which the application must be made. The analogous rule in the High Court (Order LXV. r. 27 (41)) prescribes fourteen days from the date of the allocatur. Inasmuch, however, as the unsuccessful party remains liable to execution from the date of the allocatur, it is obviously to his interest to give the notice promptly. Such notice does not operate as a stay of execution, but, if such were threatened, it would be desirable to apply to the judge, at his next sitting at any court on the circuit, for a stay of execution, pending the hearing of the application. The County Courts Act and Rules, provide no general power of suspension of execution similar to that contained in Order XLII. r. 17 of the High Court, the power under sect. 153 of the Act being limited to the inability of the defendant to pay. The existence of such a power is, however, assumed by Order XXXI. r. 1, where notice has been given of application for a new trial, and by Order LIX. r. 14 of the High Court, where notice of appeal has been given. It would probably be held that the case was covered under the concluding words of sect. 164 of the Act, providing for the general principles of practice in the High Court being adopted in cases not expressly provided for.

APPEAL FROM JUDGE TO THE HIGH COURT, WHEN ALLOWABLE.]—Where the judge makes a mistake of law in reviewing or refusing to review a taxation of costs, there is a right of appeal from the judge to the High Court in actions where the amount claimed is over 20*l.*, but there is no appeal if the matter complained of is the wrongful exercise of his discretion, nor can the High Court, by order in the nature of a mandamus, compel the judge to review, if he hears the application and refuses to review (Clifton v. Furley, (1861) 31 L. J. Ex. 170).

TAXATION OF COSTS AS BETWEEN SOLICITOR AND CLIENT.—Procedure.]—Under the provisions of sect. 118 of the Act, all costs and charges between solicitor and client may also, on the application either of the solicitor or client, but not otherwise, be taxed by the registrar of the court in which they were incurred, subject to the right of either party to review before the judge. They are taxable on the same scales as party and party costs. No charges not sanctioned by the scale may be allowed, unless the registrar is satisfied that the client has agreed in writing to pay them. The application is made in writing to the registrar, and must state on whose behalf it is made; the registrar sends to the parties by post three clear days' notice at least of the day fixed for the taxation. Rules 5 and 6 of Order LIII. as to objection to, and review of, taxation apply. The costs of the taxation are dealt with by the registrar in accordance with the Solicitors Act, 1843, and are added to or deducted from the amount certified to be due (Order LIII. r. 46).

A solicitor retained to bring or defend an action cannot recover any costs incurred after retainer which are not allowed by the scales (In re Dod, Longstaffe & Co., Ex parte Lamond, (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 242; 57 L. J. Q. B. 503); but this is not the case if the client is plaintiff and he represents to the solicitor that a debt of a certain amount is due to him and a less sum is recovered. The registrar may then, in his discretion, tax on the scale applicable to the claim (In re Langlois and Biden, Solicitors, (1891) 1 Q. B. 349; 60 L. J. Q. B. 123).

Courses open to Solicitor to obtain Payment.]—The concluding words of sect. 118—"and no solicitor shall have a right to recover from his client any such costs or charges unless they shall have been allowed on taxation" have been considerably modified by judicial decisions. The case of Cubison v. Mayo, (C. A.) (1896) 1 Q. B. 246; 65 L. J. Q. B. 267, decided that the words in question do not constitute such taxation a condition precedent to the solicitor's right to sue where twelve months from the delivery of the bill of costs (the period in which the client is entitled to require it to be taxed) had expired, and no taxation had been applied for, whilst it appears from the case of Bell v. Girdlestone, (1913) 2 K. B. 225; 82 L. J. K. B. 696, that even where the twelve months have not expired, the words of the section apply only in the event of a taxation having been applied for."

The position therefore, appears to be this:—

The solicitor may either apply for taxation under this section, or issue a summons for the amount of his untaxed bill. Inasmuch as the taxing officer's certificate involves no obligation on the client to pay, but merely confers on the solicitor a right to recover by action, which he apparently possesses without it, he will naturally adopt the latter course. If he does, the usual practice, where the period within which the bill is taxable has not expired, is to follow the High Court procedure by referring the bill to the registrar for taxation, and direct judgment to be entered for the amount certified by him to be due.

The above, of course, relates merely to proceedings by solicitors to recover against their clients costs incurred in the county court, but it frequently happens that actions are brought in the county court to recover costs not incurred in connection with county court proceedings. In such cases there is no power to adopt the course pursued in Smith v. Edwardes, (1888) 22 Q. B. D. at p. 10, of referring the bill to the master for taxation under the Solicitors Act, 1843, and thus retaining the client's rights under sect. 37 of that Act, because taxation under that Act can only take place in the High Court. On the other hand it is, of course, open to the judge to follow the procedure adopted by the High Court in Lumsden v. Shipcote Land Property Co., (1906) 2 K. B. 433, and refer the bill to the registrar to ascertain the proper amount to be paid, just as in the case of any other action for work and labour done.

Court Fees.]—By sect. 165 of the Act, the Treasury may from time to time, with the consent of the Lord Chancellor, make orders as to the fees payable on any proceedings which were then, or should thereafter, be authorised to be taken in the courts.

By sect. 166 of the Act, a table of all fees must be posted in some conspicuous place in every court house and registrar's office.

Schedules of Fees.]—The present schedules of fees are sanctioned by Treasury Order of December 30th, 1903, as amended by Treasury Orders of February 22nd, and August 2nd, 1906, May 30th and October 22nd, 1907, January 17th, 1908, July 7th, 1909, May 15th, 1912, November 18th, 1913, December 28th, 1914, The County Courts Trading with the Enemy (Application of Property) Rules, 1915, dated February 15th, 1915, Treasury Order of December 10th, 1915, The Consolidated County Courts (Emergency Powers) Rules, 1916, dated August 23rd, 1916, The Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Rules, 1916, dated January 29th, 1916, The Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Rules, 1916 (No. 2), dated June 26th, 1916, The County Court (Billeting of Civilians) Rules, 1917, dated July 31st, 1917, and The County Courts (Emergency Powers) Rules, 1917, dated October 4th, 1917.

Consist of Two Parts, Schedules (A.) and (B.).]—The schedules consist of two parts, Schedule (A.), comprising those fees payable to the Treasury, and Schedule (B.), those payable to registrars and high bailiffs. This complicated system is necessitated by the method of payment of those officials who are remunerated for their duties under the original jurisdiction of the court by salary, and in respect of the subsequent legislative developments of county court procedure (such as the default summons, equity proceedings, workmen's compensation, etc., etc., including the cases under the Act of 1903, extended jurisdiction), by fees. Until this point is grasped, the schedules are somewhat confusing to the practitioner, inasmuch as there may or may not be a fee payable on a particular proceeding according to circumstances (e.g., a fee is payable for filing any affidavit under the equitable jurisdiction, but no fee is charged in respect of the same step in an ordinary action of debt).

Schedule (A.).]—The items under Schedule (A.) consist of fees payable on the initiation and service of process, the adjudication thereon, and the enforcement thereof.

Schedule (B.).]—Schedule (B.) consists of two classes of items: (1) additional fees payable for the services covered by Schedule (A.), where such process is issued under the added jurisdiction, and (2) fees in connection with various interlocutory proceedings both under the original and added jurisdiction. It is divided into four parts, the first dealing with ordinary and default summonses, extended jurisdiction, workmen's compensation, Agricultural Holdings and other Acts; the second with equitable jurisdiction; the third with Admiralty; and the fourth with sundry small matters.

Fees Payable in respect of Equitable Proceedings.]—The attention of practitioners is particularly directed to the various fees payable in respect of equitable proceedings, which amount in the aggregate to such a large sum as to be out of all proportion to the value of a small estate. It is disastrous to initiate any proceedings in equity dealing with a sum of not exceeding 20*l.*, and for this reason, it has not been thought worth while to insert any precedents of the costs of such proceedings on the scale applicable to that amount.

Practitioners are reminded that actions for an account, except under sect. 67 of the Act, ejectment, or possession, are not actions commenced under the equitable jurisdiction.

Table of Fees.]—A table of fees showing fees payable on entry and hearing of ordinary, default and judgment summonses, on judgment by default, and on issue of warrant of execution or commitment, for amounts from 1*l.* up to 20*l.*, over 20*l.* and not exceeding 50*l.*, and over 50*l.*, has been added at the end of the schedules (pages 1140 and 1141), the fees payable are shown at a glance under the various headings without the necessity of making any calculation.

Summary of Fees.]—A classified summary of the various fees is added at the end of the schedules (pages 1142 to 1164), so as to enable practitioners to see, as far as possible, in respect of what proceedings fees can be charged against them. At the same time, they are warned that there is some diversity of opinion among registrars and high bailiffs, as to the exact circumstances under which some of the fees are payable, and it is advisable therefore in every case to inquire as to the practice in this respect of the particular court concerned.

Fee Demanded, but in Opinion of Practitioner not Payable.]—Where any fee is demanded by a registrar or high bailiff, which, in the opinion of the practitioner concerned, is not payable under the circumstances, the proper course is to pay it and state the facts to the superintendent of the County Courts Department of the Treasury.

In the case of a Schedule (A.) fee (which the registrar receives on behalf of the Treasury), the superintendent, if he is satisfied that the fee is not chargeable, will direct the registrar to return it. In the case of a Schedule (B.) fee, although the registrar receives these fees for the use of himself and the high bailiff (except in the case of registrars included in any order under sect. 45 of the Act), he is still under a legal obligation to render an account of them to the Treasury, the wording of sect. 169 being wide enough to cover both classes of fees. The superintendent can, therefore, call attention to any such fee appearing in a registrar's account, which he does not consider to be chargeable, and direct it to be carried to a suspense account or returned, or, if necessary, bring the matter to the notice of the Lord Chancellor.

Penalty for taking Fees besides those allowed.]—Sect. 51 of the Act provides a summary method of dealing with registrars and high bailiffs who "wilfully and corruptly" take any fees except those allowed.

TREASURY ORDER, Dated December 30th, 1903, regulating Court Fees in County Courts.

In pursuance of the powers given by the County Courts Act, 1888, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, We, the undersigned, two of the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, whose names are hereunto subscribed, do hereby, with the consent of the Lord Chancellor, order that, on and after the first day of March, 1904, the several fees or sums in the name of fees specified in the Schedules hereunder written shall be taken on the proceedings therein mentioned, in lieu of all other fees for the proceedings set forth; and that the fees so authorised to be taken, with the exception of the fees mentioned in Schedule (B.), shall be received by the registrars of the different County Courts, and shall (except where otherwise directed) be accounted for and paid over by them to the Superintendent of County Courts, and that the fees set forth in Schedule (B.) shall be received by the registrars for the use of themselves and of the high bailiffs, according as the duties are to be performed by the registrars or high bailiffs, except in the case of registrars included in any Order under section 45 of the County Courts Act, 1888, in which case the fees received by them under Schedule (B.) shall be accounted for and paid over by them as may be directed by the Lord Chancellor and the Treasury.

I approve of the annexed Schedules of Fees.

[In the following Schedules "the Act" means the County Courts Act, 1888. An Order or Rule referred to in the following Schedules means the Order or Rule so numbered in the County Court Rules, 1903.]

SCHEDULE (A.).

1. For every plaint or petition, one shilling in the pound.
2. Where the claim or demand exceeds forty shillings, and an ordinary summons is to be served by a bailiff, an additional fee of one shilling. This fee is not to be taken where a default summons is issued, or in any case in which a fee for service is prescribed by Schedule (B.).
3. Where in any case the number of defendants exceeds three, and an ordinary summons is to be served by a bailiff, an additional fee of one shilling for each defendant above three. This fee is not to be taken where a default summons is issued, or in any case in which a fee for service is prescribed by Schedule (B.).
4. Where a defendant claims a set-off, or sets up a counterclaim in an action or matter commenced in a county court, he shall, on giving notice of such set-off or counterclaim, or at any later stage at which he claims such set-off, or sets up such counterclaim, pay a plaint fee on the amount thereof, less the fee paid by the plaintiff on entering the plaint. This paragraph shall not apply to actions or matters commenced in the High Court and remitted or transferred to a county court.

5. For entering judgment by consent under section 98 or section 99 of the Act, or for entering judgment under a default summons where no notice of defence has been given, or under Order XXII. Rule 7, where the plaintiff appears and the defendant does not appear, one shilling in the pound on the amount claimed in the summons; or if the plaintiff abandon any part of his claim, one shilling in the pound on the reduced amount of the claim after such abandonment, including in such reduced amount the amount (if any) paid into court or to the plaintiff. Where a default summons is issued, and no notice of defence is given, but the claim is paid without costs, and the plaintiff enters up judgment for costs only under section 86 of the Act, no fee shall be payable.

6. For entering final or interlocutory judgment in an Admiralty action, on default of appearance, one shilling in the pound.

7. For every hearing, two shillings in the pound. To be charged once only in an action or matter, unless a new trial is ordered. Where separate trials are ordered under Order III. Rule 1, or Order IV. Rule 7, a separate hearing fee shall be paid on each trial.

8. No hearing fee shall be taken where the trial of any action or matter is postponed or adjourned once before the action or matter is called on for hearing, or after it has been called on, but before it is opened; but if a second postponement or adjournment is granted, or an adjournment is granted after an action or matter has been called on for hearing and opened, the hearing fee must be paid, and no part of such fee shall be returned without the sanction of the Treasury notwithstanding any provision contained in any other paragraph of this Schedule.

9. Where an order of reference is made under section 104 of the Act, or under Order XX., the same fee shall be paid as would have been payable on entering judgment under a default summons under paragraph 5, unless a reference is ordered to the registrar or some other officer of the court, in which case the same hearing fee shall be paid as if the action had been tried. In such last-mentioned case, or where a matter of account is referred to the registrar under section 92 of the Act, one-half of the hearing fee may, where the claim or demand exceeds forty shillings, and the reference is proceeded with, be retained by the registrar for the use of himself or of the officer to whom the reference is ordered unless the order of reference is made at a sitting of the court, and the reference is concluded on the day on which the order is made.

10. Where before an action or matter is called on for trial, or in opening his case when called on, the plaintiff abandons any part of his claim, the hearing fee shall be charged only on the reduced amount which the plaintiff seeks to recover after such abandonment, including in such reduced amount the amount (if any) paid into court, or to the plaintiff, or otherwise admitted by the defendant.

11. In all cases where the defendant either personally or by his solicitor or any other person allowed to appear for the defendant admits the claim (whatever its nature may be), or where the judge or registrar accepts a letter addressed to the court as an admission of the claim, one-half of the fee paid by the plaintiff for the hearing of the plaint under paragraph 7 or paragraph 10 (as the case may be) shall be returned to the plaintiff by the registrar of the court, although the court may have been required to decide upon the terms and conditions upon which the claim is to be paid.

12. Where in an action for a debt or liquidated money demand the defendant does not appear, one-half of the fee paid by the plaintiff for the hearing of the plaint under paragraph 7 or paragraph 10 (as the case may be) shall be returned to the plaintiff by the registrar of the court, less, where the claim or demand does not exceed forty shillings the sum of one shilling, and where the claim or demand exceeds forty shillings, the sum of two shillings. For the purposes of this paragraph a claim for rent or mesne profits added to a claim for the recovery of a tenement under section 138 of the Act, shall be deemed to be a claim for a liquidated money demand. This paragraph shall not apply to cases coming within either paragraph 5 or paragraph 11 (a).

13. Where any action or matter in which a set-off is claimed or a counter-claim is set up is brought to a hearing, the plaintiff shall pay the same hearing fee on the claim as would have been payable if there had been no set-off or counter-claim, and the defendant shall pay the same hearing fee on the set-off or counter-claim as would have been payable if such set-off or counter-claim had been the subject of a separate action, less the fee paid by the plaintiff for the hearing of the plaint. The provisions of paragraphs 10 and 11 as to abandonment and admission shall apply to the fees payable by the plaintiff and defendant respectively ; and the fee to be paid by the defendant shall be calculated on the amount claimed by him at the hearing, after deducting the fee or half fee (as the case may be) payable by the plaintiff on the amount claimed by him at the hearing.

14. Where a plaintiff does not appear, or discontinues his action, or withdraws his claim, or a sum paid into court is accepted in full satisfaction of the claim, and a defendant claiming a set-off or setting up a counter-claim desires to proceed and obtain judgment on such set-off or counter-claim, he shall pay a hearing fee on the amount which he seeks to recover on such set-off or counter-claim, subject to the provisions of paragraph 10 as to abandonment, and of paragraph 11 as to the return of one-half of such fee if the plaintiff admits the set-off or counter-claim, and subject also to the provisions of paragraph 12 if the plaintiff does not appear.

15. No fee shall be payable on an application for a new trial or to set aside proceedings, or for the hearing of such application, or on an interpleader summons, or on an application under Order IX. Rule 13, paragraph 3, Rule 15 or Rule 20, paragraph 3, for fees and costs, or on an application for an order as to costs under Order XXXIX. Rules 77 to 79.

16. An additional hearing fee shall be taken for every new trial : provided, that where a fee of two shillings in the pound has been taken on the original hearing, the provisions of paragraphs 5, 10, 11, and 12 shall apply to the additional hearing fee to be taken on a new trial : provided also, that where the defendant does not appear at the original hearing and a new trial is ordered on his application at the same court, the additional hearing fee shall be such sum as will, with the fee taken on the original hearing, make up a total of two shillings in the pound on the amount which the plaintiff seeks to recover on the new trial after any abandonment made pursuant to paragraph 10 before or at the new trial; and where the defendant does not appear at the original hearing, and a new trial is ordered on his application at a subsequent court, the additional hearing fee shall be such sum as will, with the fee taken on the original hearing, make up a total of three shillings in the pound on the amount which the plaintiff seeks to recover after any such abandonment as aforesaid, or, if the defendant on the new trial admits the claim or does not appear, a total of two shillings in the pound on such amount. The additional hearing fee on a new trial shall be payable in the first instance by the party by whom the same shall be directed to be paid by the order directing a new trial to be had, and in default of such direction shall be payable in the first instance by the party on whose application the new trial is ordered, subject to the power of the judge in any case to direct by whom such fee shall be ultimately borne.

17. The hearing fee on interpleader shall be prepaid by the claimant, and shall be calculated on the amount of the money in court or in the hands of the sheriff, or the amount of the money claimed, or the assessed value of the goods claimed, or, if such value has not been assessed, the value put upon them by the claimant, plus in either case the amount of the damages (if any) claimed, but subject to the provisions of this Order as to calculating poundage where the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds twenty pounds; and the judge at the hearing shall direct by whom such fee shall be ultimately borne.

18. Where an interpleader summons is issued under Order XXVII. Rule 15, and is heard with the action, no hearing fee shall be paid on the interpleader; but if the plaintiff in the action appears upon the return day, and withdraws or abandons his claim without a hearing of the action, and the claimant requests the judge to make an order in his favour against the defendant, a hearing fee on the interpleader shall be paid by the claimant.

19. Where a notice of claim to contribution or indemnity is filed under Order XI., a fee shall be paid on entering judgment on such claim, or on the hearing of such claim, in like manner as on entering judgment on a default summons under paragraph 5, or the hearing of an action, as the case may be.

20. Fees shall be charged on a summons under section 49 or section 50 of the Act, and Order LII. Rule 4, as on an ordinary summons; but no fee shall be payable on a summons under section 48 of the Act.

21. For issuing every warrant upon a judgment or order of a county court [other than a warrant according to any of the forms numbered 146, 289, 357, 366, 367, and 372], eighteenpence in the pound on the amount for which such warrant issues, if such amount does not exceed ten pounds, and one shilling in the pound on any excess above ten pounds, but subject to the provisions of this Order as to calculating poundage where the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds twenty pounds; less, in any case in which fees for the issue and execution of such warrant are prescribed by Schedule (B.), the amount of such fees.

22. For every judgment summons under the Debtors Act, 1869, upon a judgment or order of a county court, threepence in the pound on so much of the amount of the original demand and costs as, in obedience to the judgment or order of the court, should have been paid at the time of the issue of the summons, with an additional fee of sixpence, but so that the total fee shall not exceed five shillings; less, in any case in which fees for the issue and service of a summons for commitment are prescribed by Schedule (B.), the amount of such fees.

23. For the hearing of any such judgment summons, sixpence in the pound on the amount upon which the fee on the summons was calculated.

24. For the hearing of any judgment summons issued upon a judgment or order of a court other than a county court, sixpence in the pound on the amount upon which the fee on the summons would have been calculated had the summons been issued upon a judgment or order of a county court.

25. The provisions of paragraph 8 shall apply to the hearing of a judgment summons in like manner as to the trial of an action.

26. For issuing every order of commitment upon a judgment or order of a county court, eighteenpence in the pound on the amount for which the order of commitment issues, if such amount does not exceed ten pounds, and one shilling in the pound on any excess above ten pounds, but subject to the provisions of this Order as to calculating poundage where the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds twenty pounds; less, in any case in which fees for the issue and execution of orders of commitment are prescribed by Schedule (B.), the amount of such fees.

26A. For the renewal of a warrant of execution, or the extension of an order of commitment, sixpence in the pound on the amount for which such warrant or order was issued, so that the total fee does not exceed five shillings (a).

27. All poundage, except where otherwise herein specified, shall be calculated upon the amount or value of the subject-matter of the proceeding upon which it is payable.

28. All fractions of a pound, for the purpose of calculating poundage, shall be treated as an entire pound.

29. Where the amount or value of the subject-matter of any proceeding, or the amount on which poundage is by any paragraph of this Order directed to be calculated, exceeds twenty pounds, poundage shall be calculated on twenty pounds only.

30. In plaints under section 59 or section 60 of the Act, poundage shall be calculated as upon a claim for a sum of twenty pounds.

31. In garnishee actions the poundage shall, subject to paragraph 29, be calculated on the amount of the debt sought to be attached, or of the judgment debt, whichever is the less.

32. In replevins all poundage shall, subject as aforesaid, be calculated on the amount of the alleged rent or damage, to be fixed by the registrar.

33. In plaints for the recovery of tenements where the term has expired or been determined by notice, all poundage shall, subject as aforesaid, be calculated on the amount of the weekly, monthly, quarterly, half-yearly, or yearly rent of the tenement, as such tenement shall have been let by the week or by the month, or for any longer period ; and if no rent shall have been reserved, then on the amount of the half-yearly value of the tenement, to be fixed by the registrar.

34. Where a claim for rent or mesne profits, or both, is added to a plaint for the recovery of a tenement, an additional poundage shall be taken on the amount or amounts so claimed ; but where thereby the total amounts on which poundage would be taken shall exceed twenty pounds, the poundage shall be calculated on twenty pounds only.
35. In plaints for the recovery of tenements for non-payment of rent, all poundage shall, subject as aforesaid, be calculated on the amount of the half-yearly rent of the tenement.
36. In actions in which a perpetual injunction is claimed, the poundage shall be calculated as upon a claim for a sum of twenty pounds.
37. In proceedings under the Succession Duty Act, 1853, or the Finance Act, 1894, the poundage shall, subject as aforesaid, be calculated upon the amount in dispute.
38. In proceedings under the Charitable Trusts Acts, 1853 to 1887, fees shall be payable in accordance with Rules 13 to 16 and 19 of Order XLVIII.
39. In proceedings under the Charitable Trusts (Recovery) Act, 1891, the poundage shall be calculated on the annual income of the property in dispute, or if such income is not ascertained, then as upon a claim for a sum of twenty pounds.
40. In proceedings under the Court of Probate Act, 1857, or the Court of Probate Act, 1858, the poundage shall be calculated as upon a claim for a sum of twenty pounds.
41. For the hearing of a special case stated under the Agricultural Holdings (England) Act, 1908, and Order XL. Rule 3, twenty shillings ; to be paid by the party filing the case, or on whose application the case is stated(a).
42. In proceedings under the Agricultural Holdings (England) Act, 1908, and Order XL. Rule 4, for the removal of an arbitrator, or to set aside an award, the same fees shall be paid as would be payable in an action for a sum of twenty pounds (b).
43. In proceedings under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, the Literary and Scientific Institutions Act, 1854, or the London Buildings Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. cap. ccxiii.), the poundage shall, subject as aforesaid, be calculated upon the amount in dispute, and if no amount is in dispute, or if the amount in dispute is not ascertained, then as upon a claim for a sum of twenty pounds. This paragraph shall not apply to proceedings before a court of survey under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, but the fees on such proceedings shall be regulated by General Rules made under the said Act.
44. In proceedings under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, the Building Societies Acts, or the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893 (other than proceedings for winding up a building or industrial and provident society), the poundage shall, subject as aforesaid, be calculated upon the amount in dispute, and if no amount is in dispute, or if the amount in dispute is not ascertained, then as upon a claim for a sum of twenty pounds.
45. In proceedings under any Act not mentioned in this Schedule giving the court jurisdiction in any matter, such Act not being a County Courts

CHAPTER IV.

PRECEDENTS OF COSTS.

The following precedents of costs are added as a guide to practitioners with reference to the items that can reasonably be inserted in a bill. When the amount of the item is discretionary, the maximum has, as a rule, been specified. At the same time, it should be pointed out that the practice of registrars as to the allowance of particular items varies very considerably. Although no general rule can be made in a particular court as to the allowance or disallowance of any special item under particular circumstances (R. v. Marylebone C. C. Judge, (1890) 34 S. J. 459), experience shows that the same result is frequently attained on consideration of the facts of each particular case. The fees payable on the various proceedings detailed are also set out with references to the items in the Schedules of Fees under which they become chargeable.

A perusal of these precedents will satisfy any person of experience in litigation that there are two very important points in which the scales might very well, and should be, amended, namely :—

(1) That the amount of the maximum fee for instructions for brief is lamentably inadequate in many of the numerous important cases now tried in the county courts; and (2) that the scale fee for conducting a case in court (excluding that for which a special order of the judge must be obtained) is so slightly in excess of that for attending to instruct counsel, that in the great majority of cases it is to the pecuniary interest of the solicitor to adopt the latter course, notwithstanding the fact that the total cost of the litigation is thereby increased.

Precedents of costs under the Workmen's Compensation Act will be found in that portion of this work devoted to that subject.

THE COUNTY COURTS ADMIRALTY JURISDICTION ACT, 1868.

[31 & 32 Vict. c. 71. July 31, 1868.]

Section 1.

Short title

1. This Act may be cited as The County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868.

This Act is to be read and interpreted as one Act with the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 51) (see sect. 1 of the Act of 1869, post).

Appointment of county courts for admiralty purposes.

2. If at any time after the passing of this Act it appears to Her Majesty in council, on the representation of the Lord Chancellor, expedient that any county court should have admiralty jurisdiction, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, to appoint that court to have admiralty jurisdiction accordingly, and to assign to that court as its district for admiralty purposes any part or parts of any one or more district or districts of county courts; and the district so constituted for that court, with the parts of the sea (if any) adjacent to that district to a distance of three miles from the shore thereof, shall be deemed its district for admiralty purposes; and accordingly the judge and all officers of the court shall have jurisdiction and authority for those purposes throughout that district, as if the same was the district of the court for all purposes; and, from a time to be specified in each such order, this Act shall have effect in and throughout the district so constituted; and any such order may be from time to time varied as seems expedient; and a county court so appointed to have admiralty jurisdiction, and no other county court, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed a county court having admiralty jurisdiction: provided that no judge of a county court, except the judges of the London court, shall have jurisdiction in the city of London. Section 2.

A limited jurisdiction in admiralty had been conferred upon county courts by the Merchant Shipping Acts of 1854 and 1862, but this Act first gave to county courts their real admiralty and maritime jurisdiction.

County Courts having Admiralty Jurisdiction.]—The courts which have been appointed to exercise the admiralty jurisdiction are as follows: Newcastle-on-Tyne, Sunderland, West Hartlepool, Stockton-on-Tees, Middlesbrough, Kingston-upon-Hull, Great Grimsby, Boston, King's Lynn, Great Yarmouth, Lowestoft, Ipswich, Colchester, City of London, Rochester, Ramsgate, Dover, Brighton, Portsmouth, Southampton, Poole, Dorchester, Exeter, Totnes, Plymouth and East Stonehouse, Truro, Barnstaple, Bridgwater, Bristol, Gloucester, Newport (Mon.), Cardiff, Swansea, Carmarthen, Pembroke Dock, Aberystwith, Bangor, Chester, Liverpool, Manchester, Preston. Blackpool and Fleetwood, Barrow-in-Furness and Ulverston, and Whitehaven. [See Order in Council dated May 19th, 1899 (repealing previous orders), which also specifies the district assigned to each court for admiralty purposes, and amending Order in Council dated Aug. 12th, 1913.]

3. Any county court having admiralty jurisdiction shall have jurisdiction, and all powers and authorities relating thereto, to try and determine, subject and according to the provisions of this Act, the following causes (in this Act referred to as admiralty causes): Extent of admiralty jurisdiction of county courts.

Original Admiralty Jurisdiction.]—The decisions under the Act of 1868, establish that under that Act no claim can be maintained which is incapable of being maintained under the original jurisdiction of the admiralty division (see Everard v. Kendall, (1870) L. R. 5 C. P. 428; 39 L. J. C. P. 234; The Dowse, (1870) L. R. 3 A. & E. 135; 39 L. J. Adm. 46; Robson v. The Kate, (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 13; 57 L. J. Q. B. 546; R. v. City of London Court (3) (C. A.), (1892) 1 Q. B. 273; 61 L. J. Q. B. 337; Gas Float Whitton, (1896) P. 42; 65 L. J. P. 17; affirmed, House of Lords, (1897) A. C. 337; 60 L. J. P. 99.

Costs in High Court.]—If an action be brought in the Admiralty Division of the High Court, when it might have been brought in a county court, the plaintiff will be in peril of being deprived by the judge of his costs, sect. 9 of this Act being repealed by 56 & 57 Vict. c. 14 (see Rockett v. Clippingdale (C. A.), (1891) 2 Q. B. 293; 60 L. J. Q. B. 782; and also 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 547, sub-s. 2).

In an ordinary collision case in which a person claimed 328*l.* and recovered 246*l.*, Butt, J., gave him no costs (The Herald, (1890) 63 L. T. 324; see also The Asia, (1891) P. 121; 60 L. J. Adm. 38; 64 L. T. 327; The Saltburn, (1892) P. 333).

Where a claim for 330*l.* was settled for 218*l.*, Bucknill, J., allowed costs on the High Court scale (The Emden, (1907) 23 T. L. R. 546, following The Saltburn, (1892) P. 333).

(1) As to any claim for salvage—Any cause in which the value of the property saved does not exceed one thousand pounds, or in which the amount claimed does not exceed three hundred pounds:

Section 3. Notes.

Or beyond these limits by agreement, see sub-s. 4 below.

For the general admiralty jurisdiction in the case of wreck and of salvage of life or property, see Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60), ss. 544—556.

Other Claims recoverable as Salvage.]—(1) Claims by the Board of Trade for the costs of, and incidental to, the detention and survey of a ship finally detained under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, as an unsafe ship, or of a ship provisionally detained, which was, at the time of the detention, an unsafe ship (sect. 460 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894).

(2) Claims by an owner or occupier of land for any damage sustained by the passing and repassing thereon of persons rendering assistance to any vessel or the crew thereof, or for the deposit on any land of cargo or other articles recovered from the vessel. These damages are a charge on the vessel, cargo or articles in respect of or by which the damage is occasioned (sect. 513 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894).

(3) Claims by a receiver of wreck for the recovery of his expenses and fees (sect. 567 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894).

(4) Claims by a local authority for the expenses of the burial or destruction of carcases washed ashore, from the owner of the vessel (sect. 46 of the Diseases of Animals Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 57)). This includes carcases shipped as frozen meat (The Suevic, (1908) 24 T. L. R. 699).

Disputed Title to Wreck.]—Also by sect. 526 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, the disputed title to wreck may be determined as if it were a dispute as to salvage, to be determined summarily under the Act.

Apportionment of Salvage.]—By sect. 556 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, the aggregate amount of salvage payable in respect of salvage services rendered within the United Kingdom finally ascertained, to any amount, provided it exceeds 200*l.*, and elsewhere, whatever the amount, may be apportioned by a county court having admiralty jurisdiction, amongst the persons entitled thereto, and the court may appoint any person to carry that apportionment into effect, and may compel any person in whose hands or under whose control the amount may be, to distribute the same, or to bring the same into court to be dealt with.

(2) As to any claim for towage, necessaries, or wages—Any cause in which the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred and fifty pounds.

Or beyond this limit by agreement, see sub-s. 4 below.

Necessaries.]—For the general admiralty jurisdiction in the case of necessaries see sect. 6 of the Admiralty Court Act, 1840 (3 & 4 Vict. c. 65), and sect. 5 of the Admiralty Court Act, 1861 (24 Vict. c. 10); see also The Henrich Björn, (1886) 11 App. Ca. 270.

A county court having admiralty jurisdiction has no greater jurisdiction in respect of a claim for necessaries than that possessed by the Admiralty Division of the High Court (Allen v. Garbutt, (1880) 6 Q. B. D. 165; 50 L. J. Q. B. 141; see also The Dowse, (1870) L. R. 3 A. & E. 135; 39 L. J. Adm. 46, and The Alina, 5 Ex. D. 227; 49 L. J. Adm. 10).

For stevedores' claims as necessaries, see sect. 3 of the Merchant Shipping (Stevedores and Trimmers) Act, 1911, post, p. 1335.

Limitation of above Jurisdiction in Suits for Wages.]—By sect. 165 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, a proceeding for the recovery of wages not exceeding 50*l.* shall not be instituted by or on behalf of any seaman or apprentice to the sea service in any superior court of record, nor as an admiralty proceeding in any court having admiralty jurisdiction, except in the four following cases:—

(1) Where the owner of the ship is adjudged bankrupt.

(2) Where the ship is under arrest, or is sold by the authority of any such court as aforesaid.

(3) Where a court of summary jurisdiction acting under the authority of the Act, refers the claim to any such court.

Section 3. Notes.

(4) Where neither the owner nor the master of the ship is or resides within twenty miles of the place where the seaman or apprentice is discharged or put ashore.

As to the jurisdiction of courts of summary jurisdiction for claims for wages not exceeding 50*l.*, see sect. 164 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894.

Seaman's Lien.]—A ship's husband, not being a seaman within sect. 10 of the Admiralty Court Act, 1861, has no maritime lien on which he can found an action in rem (The Ruby (No. 2), (1898) P. 59; 67 L. J. P. 28).

Other Claims recoverable as Wages.]—By the Merchant Shipping Acts, 18[illegible] and 1906, there are numerous matters which, though not wages, may be recovered in the same court and manner in which wages of seamen may be recovered. The limits to the jurisdiction mentioned above ["Limitation of above Jurisdiction in Suits for Wages"] will apply in claims made in such matters. Such other claims include the following:—

(1) The property of seamen who die during a voyage (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60), ss. 169—171).

(2) By the Board of Trade, the wages of seamen lost with their ship (ib., sect. 174).

(3) The expenses of maintenance and passage home of seamen improperly discharged in foreign countries (Merchant Shipping Act, 1906 (6 Edw. VII. c. 48), s. 42).

(4) As a debt due to the Crown, the repayment of expenses attendant on the illness or injury of a seaman which ought, under the provisions of the Act, to have been paid by the master or owner, or any other expenses in respect of illness or injury of any seaman, whose wages have not been accounted for under the Act (ib., sect. 35).

(5) By the Board of Trade, the repayment of expenses incurred on account of any distressed seaman [NOTE.—A seaman shipwrecked abroad is a "distressed seaman," although the wages due to him and paid abroad are in excess of the expenses incurred for his maintenance and passage home (Board of Trade v. S.S. Glenpark, (1903) 2 K. B. 324; 72 L. J. K. B. 697; (C. A.), (1904) 1 K. B. 682; 73 L. J. K. B. 315).] discharged or left abroad (ib., sect. 42, sub-s. 2); except where there is a certificate of desertion or disappearance (ib., sect. 42, sub-s. 4).

(6) Wages earned subsequent to desertion to reimburse the owner or master the expenses caused by desertion (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60), s. 232, sub-s. 2).

(7) The amount awarded by a superintendent who has been called in to determine a dispute between the owner and skipper, or between the skipper and seaman of a fishing boat (ib., sect. 387).

(8) Compensation to seaman who has signed a fishing boat agreement, and been improperly discharged (ib., sect. 411).

(3) As to any claim for damage to cargo, or damage by collision [or otherwise]—Any cause in which the amount claimed does not exceed three hundred pounds.

Or beyond this limit by agreement, see sub-s. 4 below.

"Damage by Collision."]—This covers a claim for damage done to a ship in a collision between it and a barge within the body of a county (Purkis v. Flower, (1873) L. R. 9 Q. B. 114; 43 L. J. Q. B. 33); also a claim for negligence against a dock board, whereby a steamer was injured by colliding with a dock wall (Mersey Docks v. Turner, (1893) A. C. 468; 63 L. J. P. 17; see also The Zeta, (1893) A. C. 468; 63 L. J. Adm. 17); but it does not cover damage done by a ship to a pier (The Normandy, (1904) P. 187; 73 L. J. P. 55); nor does it include damage by one barge propelled by oars to another similar craft, because they are not "ships" (Everard v. Kendall, L. R. 5 C. P. 428; 39 L. J. C. P. 234); nor by a ship to a floating gas-buoy (The Upcerne, (1912) P. 160; 81 L. J. P. 110, following The Normandy, supra); nor by the sailing gea of a barge coming in contact with a pile-driving machine on the bank of the Thames (Robson v. The Kate, (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 13; 57 L. J. Q. B. 546); nor to an action in personam against a compulsory pilot (The Alexandria, (1872) L. R. 3 A. & E. 574; 41 L. J. Adm. 94).

Section 3. Notes.

"By Collision [or otherwise]."]—The words "or otherwise," were added by sect. 4 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1869, post, p. 1211.

(4) Any cause in respect of any such claim or claims as aforesaid, but in which the value of the property saved or the amount claimed is beyond the amount limited as above mentioned, when the parties agree by a memorandum signed by them or by their attorneys or agents that any county court having admiralty jurisdiction, and specified in the memorandum, shall have jurisdiction.

Refer in connection with sub-ss. 1, 2, and 3, above.

[NOTE.—It is advisable that the memorandum should refer to this section.]

"Any County Court."]—This seems to be modified by sect. 548 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, in the cases of disputes as to salvage therein specified (see note to sect. 21, sub-s. 4, post).

Restrictions on county court jurisdiction in certain cases.

4. Nothing in this Act, or in any order in council under it, shall confer on a county court jurisdiction in any prize cause, or in any other matter within the Naval Prize Act, 1864, or in any matter arising under any of the Acts for the suppression of the slave trade, or any admiralty jurisdiction by way of appeal.

No county court other than that appointed to have jurisdiction.

5. From and after the time specified in each order in council under this Act appointing a county court to have admiralty jurisdiction within any district as the time from which this Act shall have effect in and throughout that district, no county court, other than the county court so appointed, shall have jurisdiction within that district in any admiralty cause; provided that all admiralty causes at that time pending in any county court within that district may be continued as if no such order in council had been made.

As to transfer from county court by order of High Court of Admiralty.

6. The High Court of Admiralty of England, on motion by any party to an admiralty cause pending in a county court, may, if it shall think fit, with previous notice to the other party, transfer the cause to the High Court of Admiralty, and may order security for costs, or impose such other terms as to the court may seem fit.

The application to the High Court is made by summons in chambers, not by motion in court (The Indra, 94 L. T. 110).

This section is resorted to when it is necessary to take evidence abroad on commission, or for the purpose of being consolidated with an action pending in Admiralty Division. See The Swan, (1871) L. R. 3 A. & E. 314; 40 L. J. Adm. 8; The Rio Lima, (1874) L. R. 4 A. & E. 157; 43 L. J. Adm. 4; The Immacolata Concezione, (1882) 8 P. D. 34; The Never Despair, (1884) 9 P. D. 34; 53 L. J. Adm. 30; The Africano, (1894) P. 141; 63 L. J. Adm. 125. See also where proceeds of sale in High Court, The Montrosa, (1917) P. D. 1.

See Order XXXIX. rr. 50 and 51.

Section 7.

As to transfer of causes by order of county court to High Court of Admiralty.

7. If during the progress of an admiralty cause in a county court it appears to the court that the subject-matter exceeds the limit in respect of amount of the admiralty jurisdiction of the court, the validity of any order or decree theretofore made by the court shall not be thereby affected, but (unless the parties agree, by a memorandum signed by them or by their attorneys or agents, that the court shall retain jurisdiction) the court shall by order transfer the cause to the High Court of Admiralty; but that court may, nevertheless, if the judge of that court in any case thinks fit, order that the cause shall be prosecuted in the county court in which it was commenced, and it shall be prosecuted accordingly.

It seems doubtful whether this section applies after judgment in the county court, and transfer is only required for purpose of reference for claim found to exceed county court jurisdiction.

See Order XXXIX. r. 50, and Form 385, post.

As to transfer of causes to other county courts or Court of Admiralty.

8. If during the progress of an admiralty cause in a county court it shall appear to the court that the cause could be more conveniently prosecuted in some other county court, or in the High Court of Admiralty of England, the court may by order transfer it to such other county court, or to the High Court of Admiralty of England, as the case may be, and the cause shall thenceforward be prosecuted accordingly.

See Order XXXIX. r. 50, and Form 386, post.

After transfer pleadings will be as in High Court of Admiralty. See The Carisbrook, (1890) 15 P. D. 98; 59 L. J. Adm. 37.

[NOTE.—Sect. 9 of this Act is repealed by 56 & 57 Vict. c. 14.]

Powers, &c. of judges and registrars.

10. In an admiralty cause in a county court the cause shall be heard and determined in like manner as ordinary civil causes are now heard and determined in county courts; save and except that in any admiralty cause of salvage, towage, or collision the county court judge shall, if he think fit, or on the request of either party to such cause, be assisted by two nautical assessors in the same way as the judge of the High Court of Admiralty is now assisted by nautical assessors.

As to nautical assessors, see sect. 11.

Power to judge of county court to summon nautical assessors to his assistance.

11. In any such admiralty cause as last aforesaid it shall be lawful for the judge of the county court, if he think fit, and he shall, upon request of either party, summon to his assistance in such manner as general orders shall direct, two nautical assessors, and such nautical assessors shall attend and assist accordingly.

See Order XXXIX. rr. 88—92, and Forms 392—394.

As to the function of assessors, see The City of Berlin, (1908) P. 110; 77 L. J. P. 76; The Beryl, (1884) 9 P. D. 137; 53 L. J. Adm. 75; The Gannet, (1900) A. C. 234; 69 L. J. P. 49.

Section 12.

Decrees in county courts in admiralty causes to have same force as those in civil causes.

12. The decree of the county court in an admiralty cause shall be enforced against the person or persons summoned as the defendant or defendants in the same manner as the decrees of the said court are enforced in ordinary civil causes, save and except as in this Act otherwise provided.

See also sect. 23, post.

Admiralty causes to be heard at usual courts.

13. The judge of every county court having admiralty jurisdiction shall hear and determine admiralty causes at the usual courts held within his jurisdiction, or at special courts to be held by him, and which he is hereby required to hold as soon as may be after he shall have had notice of an admiralty cause having arisen within the jurisdiction of his court.

See Order XXXIX. rr. 1, 2, and 3, post.

Appointment of assessors in county court.

14. The registrar of each county court having admiralty jurisdiction shall from time to time frame a list, to be approved by the judge of the High Court of Admiralty before whom the same shall be laid by the county court judge, and without whose approval it shall have no validity, of assessors, of persons of nautical skill and experience residing or having places of business within the district of the county court, to act as assessors in that court, and shall cause the list to be published in the London Gazette.

See Form 392.

Attendance of assessors.

15. Every person named in the list of assessors so framed and approved shall attend the county court under such circumstances and in such rotation, and subject to such regulations, and shall receive such fees, for his attendance, as general orders shall direct, and for every wilful non-attendance shall be liable, at the discretion of the court, to a penalty not exceeding five pounds.

See Forms 393 and 394.

Removal of assessors.

16. Every assessor named in such list shall hold his office until a new list of assessors shall have been framed and approved as aforesaid, or until he shall resign his appointment.

Remuneration of registrars.

17. The registrars of the county courts shall be remunerated for their duties in admiralty causes by receiving for their own use such fees as general orders shall direct.

As to fees, see p. 1260.

Scale of costs.

18. A scale of costs and charges in admiralty causes in the county courts shall be prescribed by general orders.

As to scale of costs, see pp. 1181 et seq.

19. The registrar of a county court shall have power to administer oaths in relation to any admiralty cause in a county court; [and any person who shall wilfully depose or affirm falsely before the registrar in any admiralty cause shall be deemed to be guilty of perjury, and shall be liable to all the pains and penalties attaching to wilful and corrupt perjury.] Section 19. Power to registrars to administer oaths and take evidence.

By the Perjury Act, 1911 (1 & 2 Geo. V. c. 6), the words in brackets were repealed.

20. Evidence taken in any admiralty cause before the registrar of a county court, as the judge of a county court or general orders shall direct, shall be received as evidence in any other county court, saving all just exceptions; and the registrar of any county court shall, for the purpose of the examination of any witnesses within the district of that court, have all and the like powers and authorities of an examiner of the High Court of Admiralty of England, and evidence taken by him in that capacity shall be received as evidence in the High Court of Admiralty of England, saving all just exceptions. Evidence before registrar receivable in Admiralty Court.

As to examination of witnesses, see R. S. C., Order XXXVII. rr. 5—25.

21. Proceedings in an admiralty cause shall be commenced— As to proceedings in county court for commencement of cause.

(1) In the county court having admiralty jurisdiction within the district of which the vessel or property to which the cause relates is at the commencement of the proceedings: . . . . . .

But in disputes relating to salvage, see note under sub-s. 4, below.

(2) If the foregoing rule be not applicable, then in the county court having admiralty jurisdiction in the district of which the owner of the vessel or property to which the cause relates, or his agent in England, resides, or if such owner or agent does not reside within any such district, then in the county court having admiralty jurisdiction the district whereof is nearest to the place where such owner or agent resides:

"Vessel or Property."]—Where an action was for demurrage for the detention of a ship through delay in discharging cargo, it was held that the cause related to the "vessel," not to the "property," and that, the ship being on the high seas at the commencement of the action, the action was properly brought in the court of the district in which the owner of the ship resided (Pugsley v. Ropkins (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 184; 61 L. J. Q. B. 645).

"Agent in England" in sub-s. 2 means a person acting for another in relation to the vessel or property proceeded against at the time service is effected; when a ship has been lost, the agency in relation thereto is determined (The City of Agra, (1898) P. 198; 67 L. J. P. 81).

Section 21.

(3) If for any reason the last foregoing rule is not applicable or cannot be acted on, then in such county court having admiralty jurisdiction as general orders direct:

County Courts Act, 1888.]—Sect. 74 of the Act of 1888 applies to admiralty causes (The Hero, (1891) P. 294; 60 L. J. Adm. 99, and sect. 74 of 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ante, p. 72).

(4) In any case in the county court or one of the county courts having admiralty jurisdiction in which the parties by a memorandum, signed by them or by their attorneys or agents, agree shall have jurisdiction in the cause.

Disputes relating to Salvage.]—By sect. 548, sub-s. 1 (a), if the dispute relates to salvage of wreck, the court must be one at or near the place where the wreck is found. And by sect. 548, sub-s. 1 (b), of the same Act, if the dispute relates to salvage services rendered to any vessel or cargo or apparel thereof, or in saving life therefrom, the court must be one having jurisdiction at or near where the vessel is lying, or at or near the port in the United Kingdom into which the vessel is first brought after the occurrence of the salvage service. As to such disputes, the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act seems to be modified by the Merchant Shipping Act.

Act of 1869.]—The provisions of this sect. 21 apply to actions under the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1869 (The County of Durham, (1891) P. 1; 60 L. J. P. 5).

Where proceeds of sale were in the High Court, see The Montrosa, (1917) P. D. 1.

Limitation of arrest.

22. In an admiralty cause in a county court if evidence be given to the satisfaction of the judge, or in his absence the registrar of the court, that it is probable that the vessel or property to which the cause relates will be removed out of the jurisdiction of the court before the plaintiff's claim is satisfied, it shall be lawful for the said judge, or in his absence for the registrar, to issue a warrant for the arrest and detention of the said vessel or property, unless or until bail to the amount of the claim made in such cause, and to the reasonable costs of the plaintiff in such cause, be entered into and perfected, according to general orders, by or on behalf of the owner of the vessel or property or his agent, or other the defendant in such cause; and, except as in this section expressly provided, there shall be no arrest or detention of a vessel or property in an admiralty cause in a county court otherwise than in execution.

The evidence is given by affidavit (see Order XXXIX. rr. 11—14, and Form 372).

Power to issue process.

23. For the execution of any decree or order of a county court in an admiralty cause the court may order, and the registrar on such order may seal and issue, and any officer of any county court may execute, process according to general orders; provided that where under such process a vessel or property would or might be sold, then, if the owner of the vessel or property desires that the sale should be conducted in the High Court of Admiralty instead of in the county court, he shall be entitled, on security for costs being first given, and subject and according to such other provisions as general orders direct, to obtain an order of the county court for transfer of the proceedings for sale, with or without (as the judge of the county court thinks fit) the transfer of the subsequent proceedings in the cause, to the High Court of Admiralty, which court shall have jurisdiction and all powers and authorities relating thereto accordingly. Section 23.

See Order XXXIX. rr. 70—72, and Form 413; see also sect. 12, supra.

24. Such decrees and orders of county courts in admiralty causes as general orders shall direct shall be registered with the registrar of county court judgments in London in such manner as general orders shall direct. Registration of decrees and orders.

See sect. 183 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), and Order XXXVI. r. 2.

25. The court of passage of the borough of Liverpool shall, upon an order in council being made which shall appoint the county court of Lancashire holden at Liverpool to have admiralty jurisdiction, have the like jurisdiction, powers, and authorities as by that order are conferred on the said county court; but nothing herein shall be deemed to enlarge the area over which the jurisdiction of the court of passage extends, or to alter the rules and regulations for holding the said court, or to take away or restrict any jurisdiction, power, or authority already vested in that court; and fees received in that court under this Act shall be dealt with as fees received in that court under its ordinary jurisdiction. Concurrent jurisdiction of the court of passage.

26. An appeal may be made to the High Court of Admiralty of England from a final decree or order of a county court in an admiralty cause, and, by permission of the judge of the county court, from any interlocutory decree or order therein, on security for costs being first given, and subject to such other provisions as general orders shall direct. Appeal to Court of Admiralty.

[NOTE.—There is no appeal where, before the decree or order is made, the parties, by a memorandum, agree that the decree or order shall be final (see sect. 28, below). Also the right of appeal is limited by sect. 31, below; and see notes to that section.]

"Security for Costs."]—Security for costs must be given in the county court, if the appeal is on a question of fact (The Forest Queen, (1870) L. R. 3 A. & E. 299; 40 L. J. Adm. 17), but not if it be upon a point of law, because sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888, overrides the particular provisions of this Act (see note to sect. 31, below, "Questions of Law").

The security for costs must be given before the appeal is lodged, and the bond of the solicitor is usually given and accepted as security in lieu of deposit of money; the amount of bond or deposit is fixed by the registrar of the County Court.

Salvage.]—Sect. 549 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, gives the same power of appeal in cases of salvage disputes as is given by this Act.

Section 26. Notes.

Viva Voce Evidence.]—The court may, on the hearing of an appeal, under special circumstances, take the examination of witnesses viva voce (The Busy Bee, (1868) L. R. 3 A. & E. 527; see also The Crescent (C. A.), (1893) 62 L. J. P. 63).

Further Evidence.]—An application to adduce further evidence may be made to a single judge (The Eclipse, (1889) 14 P. D. 71).

Elder Brethren of Trinity House.]—By sect. 125 of the County Courts Act, 1888, if an action has been heard with the assistance of nautical assessors, Elder Brethren of the Trinity House must be summoned on the hearing of the appeal, if either party requires it, and the High Court deems it necessary or desirable.

Time for appeal.

27. No appeal shall be allowed unless the instrument of appeal is lodged in the registry of the High Court of Admiralty within ten days from the date of the decree or order appealed from, but the judge of the High Court of Admiralty of England may, on sufficient cause being shown to his satisfaction for such omission, allow an appeal to be prosecuted, notwithstanding that the instrument of appeal has not been lodged within that time.

[NOTE.—Refer in connection with this section to The Two Brothers, (1875) 1 P. D. 52; 45 L. J., Adm. 47.]

The ordinary practice as to appeals from inferior courts extends only to appeals to the King's Bench Division (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 9); nevertheless, appeals are in fact brought to the Admiralty Division by motion. As to service of notice of motion on adverse solicitor before original filed in registry, see R. S. C., Order LII., r. 10, and The Gratia, (1912) 28 T. L. R. 474.

"Within ten days."]—As a point of practice it is safer to lodge all notices of appeal within ten days, even in cases of appeals on questions of law to which s. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888, applies. But see R. S. C., Order LIX., r. 12.

Court of Appeal.]—An appeal lies of right to the Court of Appeal if the court alters the judgment of the county court (The Dart (C. A.), (1893) P. 33; 62 L. J. P. 32; in other cases no appeal lies without leave (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 45). The appeal will not be granted unless the law is doubtful, or the facts leave a substantial doubt in the mind of the court as to whether its decision is right, or the pecuniary interest is large (The Samuel Laing, (1870) L. R. 3 A. & E. 284; 39 L. J. Adm. 42; see Cargo ex Argos, (1873) L. R. 5 P. C. 134, 166; 42 L. J. Adm. 1).

When an admiralty judge at chambers refuses an order for a prohibition, the appeal lies straight to the Court of Appeal (The Recepta (1) (C. A.), (1893) P. 255; 62 L. J. P. 118).

Judge's Notes.—These must be provided for the hearing of the appeal. See McGrah v. Cartwright, (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 3; 58 L. J. Q. B. 331; and also The Crescent, (1893) 62 L. J. P. 63.

Agreement not to appeal.

28. No appeal shall be allowed if, before the decree or order is made, the parties shall have agreed by a memorandum signed by them, or by their attorneys or agents, that the decree or order shall be final; and any such agreement need not be stamped, except in respect of any fee imposed by general orders.

[NOTE.—It is advisable that the memorandum should refer to this section.]

29. [Sect. 29 was repealed by the County Courts Act, 1875.]

Section 30.

30. On an appeal under this Act, when the appellant is unsuccessful, he shall pay the costs of the appeal, unless the appellate court shall otherwise direct. Costs of appeal.

31. No appeal shall be allowed unless the amount decreed or ordered to be due exceeds the sum of fifty pounds. No appeal unless amount exceeds 50*l*.

Questions of Law.]—The limit on appeal imposed by this section applies only to questions of fact. As to appeals on questions of law, the Court of Appeal has held that the general provisions of the County Courts Act, 1888, s. 120, override the particular provisions of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, ss. 26, 31; so that against a final decree or order of the county court there is an appeal on questions of law whether the amount is over or under 50*l*. (The Delano (C. A.), (1895) P. 40; 64 L. J. P. 8; following The Eden, (1892) P. 67; 61 L. J. P. 68; see The Burma (No. 2), (1899) 80 L. T. 839).

Interlocutory Decree or Order.]—There is an appeal, by leave of the judge, from any interlocutory decree or order, even when the amount is under 50*l*. (sect. 26 of this Act, and The Alert, (1894) 72 L. T. 124). This right appears to apply to all actions.

Without the judge's consent, no such appeal will lie, notwithstanding the general provisions of sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (The Cashmere, (1890) 15 P. D. 121; 59 L. J. Adm. 57).

The refusal of an application for taxation and payment of costs is a final order, and appealable without leave (The Vulcan, (1898) P. 222; 67 L. J. P. 101).

32. On an appeal under this Act, the judge of the High Court of Admiralty, if it appears to him expedient that any sale decreed or ordered to be made of the vessel or property to which the cause relates should be conducted in the High Court of Admiralty instead of in the county court from which the appeal is brought, may direct the transfer of the proceedings for sale, with or without the transfer of the subsequent proceedings in the cause, to the High Court of Admiralty, which court shall have jurisdiction, and all powers and authorities relating thereto accordingly. Conduct of sale, &c., in Court of Admiralty.

33. In all cases which shall arise within the jurisdiction of the Cinque Ports as defined by the Act first and second George the Fourth, chapter seventy-six, section eighteen, causes may be transferred by the county court and appeals made to the Court of Admiralty of the Cinque Ports in lieu of the High Court of Admiralty; and in the case of appeals the instrument of appeal shall be lodged in the registry of the Cinque Ports, and the same discretion vested in the judge official and commissary of the said Cinque Ports court as is by this Act vested in the judge of the High Court of Admiralty. In certain cases causes may be transferred by county court and appeals made to Court of Admiralty of the Cinque Ports.

34. This Act shall be read as one Act with so much of the County Courts Act, 1846, and the Acts amending or extending the same, as is now in force. County Court Acts applied to this.

Section 35.

Practice, &c. to be regulated by general orders.

35. General orders shall be from time to time made under this Act for the purposes in this Act directed, and for regulating the practice and procedure of the admiralty jurisdiction of the county courts, the forms of processes and proceedings therein or issuing therefrom, and the days and places of sittings for admiralty causes, the duties of the judges and officers thereof, and the fees to be taken therein.

Authority for making general orders.

36. General orders under this Act shall be made by the Lord Chancellor, with the advice and assistance of the judge of the High Court of Admiralty of England, and, as far as they relate to fees, or to the receipt and expenditure of and accounting for money, with the approval of the commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

THE COUNTY COURTS ADMIRALTY JURISDICTION AMENDMENT ACT, 1869.

[32 & 33 Vict. c. 51. August 2, 1869.]

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as The County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Amendment Act, 1869, and shall be read and interpreted as one Act with the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868.

Extension of jurisdiction over ships and goods.

2. Any county court appointed or to be appointed to have admiralty jurisdiction shall have jurisdiction, and all powers and authorities relating thereto, to try and determine the following causes :

(1) As to any claim arising out of any agreement made in relation to the use or hire of any ship, or in relation to the carriage of goods in any ship, and also as to any claim in tort in respect of goods carried in any ship, provided the amount claimed does not exceed three hundred pounds :

[Note.—For extension of limit of jurisdiction by agreement, see sub-s. 2, below.]

Original Admiralty Jurisdiction.]—The decisions under the Act of 1868 establish that under that Act no claim can be maintained which is incapable of being maintained under the original jurisdiction of the Admiralty Division. It has been held, however, that the jurisdiction conferred by the Act of 1869 extends to cases both within and beyond the jurisdiction possessed by the Admiralty Division (Cargo ex Argos, (1873) L. R. 5 P. C. 134 ; 42 L. J. Adm. 1 ; The Alina (C. A.), (1880) 5 Ex. D. 227 ; 49 L. J. Adm. 40), e.g., claims not exceeding 300*l.* for freight, demurrage and expenses (Cargo ex Argos, supra, overruling Simpson v. Blues, (1872) L. R. 7 C. P. 290 ; 41 L. J. C. P. 121) ; also claims for breach of charterparties (The Alina (C. A.), (1880) 5 Ex. D. 227 ; 49 L. J. Adm. 40 ; 5 P. D. 138, overruling Gunnestead v. Price, (1875) L. R. 10 Ex. 65 ; 44 L. J. Ex. 44) ; also a claim by the holders of a bill of lading for damage to goods on board ship during the voyage (The Rona, (1882) 7 P. D 247 ; 51 L. J. Adm. 65).

Section 2. Notes.

But the following claims have been held to be outside the jurisdiction conferred by this section, viz., a claim for commission for effecting a charter-party (The Nuova Raffallina, (1871) L. R. 3 A. & E. 483; 41 L. J. Adm. 37); also a claim for a penalty of so much per day for late delivery under an agreement to deliver coals on board ship within a certain time (The Zeus, (1888) 13 P. D. 188); also a claim for loss on board ship of a passenger's luggage (R. v. City of London Court (1), (1883) 12 Q. B. D. 115; 53 L. J. Q. B. 28); also a claim for negligence against a pilot (R. v. City of London Court (3) (C. A.), (1892) 1 Q. B. 273; 61 L. J. Q. B. 337).

If parties agree, causes in respect of claims of higher amount may be determined by county court.

(2) As to any cause in respect of any such claim or claims as aforesaid, but in which the amount claimed is beyond the amount limited as above mentioned, when the parties agree, by a memorandum signed by them or by their attorney or agents, that any county court having admiralty jurisdiction, and specified in the memorandum shall have jurisdiction.

"Any County Court."]—See notes to sect. 3, sub-s. 4, and sect. 21 of Act of 1868.

Proceedings in rem or in personam.

3. The jurisdiction conferred by this Act and by the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, may be exercised either by proceedings in rem or by proceedings in personam.

Amendment of sect. 3 of 31 & 32 Vict. c. 71.

4. The third section of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, shall extend and apply to all claims for damage to ships, whether by collision or otherwise, when the amount claimed does not exceed three hundred pounds.

See note to sect. 3, sub-s. 3 of Act of 1868.

As to appointment of mercantile assessors.

5. In any admiralty or maritime cause the judge may, if he thinks fit, or on the request of either party, be assisted by two mercantile assessors; and all the provisions of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, with reference to nautical assessors, shall apply to the appointment, approval, summoning, and remuneration of such mercantile assessors.

See sects. 10 and 11 of the Act of 1868; also Order XXXIX. rr. 88—92, and Forms 392—394.

Power of assessor of court of passage to make general rules and orders.

6. The assessor of the court of passage of the borough of Liverpool shall have power from time to time to make general rules and orders for regulating the practice and procedure of the admiralty and maritime jurisdiction in the said court, and for other purposes mentioned in section thirty-five of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868; and any general rules and orders already made or hereafter to be made by the said assessor for any of the purposes aforesaid shall be of full force and effect as if the same had been made under this or the aforesaid Act.

COUNTY COURT RULES, 1903.

ORDER XXXIX.

Admiralty Actions.

Sittings of the Court.

Rule 1.

1. The judge may try or partly try any admiralty action at any place within the admiralty district of the court.

Where action may be tried.

"Admiralty District."]—This is fixed by the Order in Council under which the court is appointed to have admiralty jurisdiction (see the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), s. 2).

Undertaking for expenses of trial at place where court is not held.

2. Where application is made to the judge for the trial or part trial of an admiralty action at a place in which a court is not held, the party making the application shall file a præcipe undertaking to provide at his expense a place to the satisfaction of the judge in which the action may be tried, and to pay the necessary expenses of the judge and officers attending at such place.

For form of præcipe, see Form 369.

Sittings of the court in Admiralty.

3. The days of the sitting of the court for the trial of admiralty actions shall be those appointed for the transaction of the ordinary general business of the court held in the city or town mentioned in the name of the court, or such other days as the judge may from time to time appoint on the written application of either party.

Special day for trial.

Provided that where, from the detention of a vessel or otherwise, a prompt determination of any action is desirable, a special sitting shall on the application of any party be appointed by the judge at as early a date as possible. Such application shall be made on notice being given to the other party, who shall have the right to be heard.

[Note.—In most courts admiralty cases are tried upon admiralty action days or other special days, fixed by the judge on application by either party.]

See sect. 10 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868.

Commencement of Action.

Commencement of action.

4. A plaintiff desiring to commence an admiralty action shall file a præcipe stating the nature of the action, and, when practicable, his name, address, and description; and if the proceedings are commenced through a solicitor, the name of the solicitor, and an address within three miles of the office of the registrar at which it shall be sufficient to leave all instruments and documents in the action required to be served upon the party commencing such proceedings, and also stating the name of the owner or other person against whom the action is instituted, or that the action is instituted against the vessel or other property to which the action relates. Rule 4.

For form of præcipe, see Form 368.

5. When it is not practicable at the time of filing the præcipe to state therein the name of the plaintiff, it shall be sufficient (subject to the right of the defendant to demand his name) to describe the plaintiff as "owner of the ship or vessel ." Plaintiff may be described as owner.

[NOTE.—In a case of damage to cargo, the following description of the plaintiffs has been used in the Admiralty Division, viz., "Owners of the cargo lately laden on board the steamship ."]

6. In admiralty actions in rem, no further service of a summons than delivery thereof in accordance with Order VII. Rule 12, and no execution of a warrant of arrest shall be required where a solicitor represents that he is authorised to accept service on behalf of the defendant, and signs a memorandum agreeing to accept service, and undertaking to appear and to put in bail or to pay money into court in lieu of bail, and, in an action for salvage, to file an affidavit of the value of the vessel or property, unless such value is agreed. Where solicitor accepts service and undertakes to appear, &c., in action in rem.

This rule is as amended by Rule 57 of 1904.

[NOTE.—For full form of solicitor's acceptance, etc., see Form 373; but in practice, abbreviated forms of indorsement are used, e.g. :—

"I (we) accept service of this summons on behalf of the defendant(s), and undertake to enter appearance and put in bail in due course (in a sum not exceeding £)."

"(Signed) .

or, in an action for salvage :—

"I (we) accept service of this summons on behalf of the defendant(s), and undertake to enter appearance, put in bail and prove values in due course.

"(Signed) .

"(Date) ."

The endorsed summons is filed in court by the plaintiff's solicitor.]

7. A solicitor not entering an appearance or putting in bail or paying money into court in lieu of bail, in pursuance of his written undertaking so to do, shall be liable to attachment. Solicitor not fulfilling undertaking liable to attachment.

Cf. R. S. C., Order XII., r. 18, and Re Kerly, (1901) 1 Ch. 467; 70 L. J. Ch. 189.

8. In an admiralty action for wages against the owners of a foreign vessel, notice of the commencement of the action shall be given to the consul or vice-consul of the State to which the vessel belongs, if there is one resident within the district of the court, and a copy of the notice shall be annexed to the præcipe. Notice of commencement of action to be given to consul in certain cases.

[NOTE.—It is advisable to refer to this section in the notice to the consul.]

Particulars and Summons.

Rule 9. Particulars.

9. A plaintiff desiring to commence an admiralty action shall file with the præcipe particulars of his claim, with, in an action in rem, a copy thereof for service, and, in an action in personam, as many copies thereof as there are defendants to be served. If the proceedings are commenced by a solicitor, the particulars must be signed in accordance with Order VI. Rule 9, otherwise the costs of such particulars shall not be allowed.

See Order VI. r. 9, and cases thereunder.

[NOTE.—In cases of salvage and damage to cargo the usual practice is to give brief particulars specifying the nature of the action, date, place, and the like, and naming a round sum as the claim not exceeding the jurisdiction as to amount, and for the defendant to demand a statement of claim.

In cases of collision where the rule as to preliminary acts applies (see Rule 32), the particulars of claim are very general in character, so that the case of one party may not be disclosed to the other before the parties have committed themselves to their respective stories in the filed preliminary acts.

In cases of necessaries, towage, and wages, and also cases coming within the jurisdiction conferred by the Act of 1869, such as freight, demurrage, and the like, full particulars of claim are usually given which render the statement of the claim by pleading unnecessary.]

Summons.

10. Immediately upon the filing of the præcipe the registrar shall enter a plaint and issue a summons according to one or other of the forms in the Appendix, for service by the solicitor if the proceedings have been commenced by a solicitor, or by the bailiff of the court. The particulars shall be annexed to the summons before service, and shall be deemed to be part thereof.

For forms of summons, see Forms 370 and 371.

Arrest.

Affidavit to be filed.

11. Where after the commencement of an admiralty action it is desired to arrest any vessel or property, the plaintiff or defendant counter-claiming shall file an affidavit stating the facts which render it probable that the vessel or property will be removed out of the jurisdiction of the court before the claim or counter-claim is satisfied. It shall not be necessary to show in such affidavit that the vessel or property is likely to be removed immediately.

Action against Vessel already under Arrest.]—Where a cause is instituted against a vessel which is already under the arrest of the Admiralty Division, it is unnecessary, so long as it remains under arrest, for the officer of the county court to place a person in possession, and two sets of possession costs will not be allowed (see The Rio Lima, (1873) L. R. 4 A. & E. 157; 43 L. J. Adm. 4). Cf. where proceeds of sale in High Court, The Montrosa, (1917) P. D. 1.

When nationality of vessel to be stated.

12. In an admiralty action for necessaries or wages the nationality of the vessel shall be stated in the affidavit.

13. Where upon the filing of the affidavit the court is satisfied with the evidence, it may issue a warrant in duplicate for the arrest and detention of the vessel or property; and where the court is not satisfied, it may require further evidence to be adduced, and may order the detention of the said vessel or property for the purpose of adducing such evidence. Rule 13. When warrant of arrest may issue.

For form of warrant, see Form 372.

[NOTE.—In case of damage done to property by a foreign ship, and the time is insufficient to enable proceedings to be commenced and a warrant of arrest issued, the powers of detention through the customs under sect. 688 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, may be utilised. Also in case of salvage, the receiver of wreck is under an obligation to detain the salved vessel or other property by virtue of sect. 552 of the Act of 1894, and in cases of salvage where the time is insufficient to obtain warrant of arrest, the practice is to apply to the receiver of wreck to exercise these powers.]

14. A summons in rem may be served and a warrant of arrest may be executed on Sunday, Good Friday, or Christmas Day, as well as on any other day. When summons in rem may be served or warrant of arrest executed.

Service of Summons or Warrant.

15. Service of a summons or execution of a warrant against a vessel, freight, or cargo on board shall be effected by delivering the summons, or a duplicate of the warrant, to the person who is at the time of service of the summons or execution of the warrant apparently in charge of the vessel or property, or, by nailing or affixing the summons or duplicate warrant on the main mast or on the single mast of the vessel. In other cases the summons must be served personally upon the defendant, unless the court, upon facts duly verified upon affidavit, allows of substituted service. Service of summons or warrant of arrest.

This rule is as amended in 1911.

16. If the cargo has been landed or transhipped, service of a summons or execution of a warrant to arrest the cargo and freight shall be effected by placing the summons or warrant for a short time on the cargo, and afterwards leaving a true copy or duplicate of such summons or warrant on the cargo. Service where cargo landed or transhipped.

17. If the cargo is in the custody of a person who will not permit access to it, service of the summons or warrant may be made upon the custodian. Where access to cargo denied.

18. In cases in which proceedings are commenced under section 21, sub-section 2, of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, in a county court in the district of which the agent in England of the owner of the vessel or property to which the action relates resides, the summons shall be served personally Service on agent.

Intervention in action in rem. 22. In an admiralty action in rem any person not named in the summons may intervene by entering an appearance in the action, on filing an affidavit showing that he is interested in the vessel or property, or the fund in court; and any person so intervening shall be deemed to be a defendant. If the interest claimed by such person is not cognisable by the court, any party may apply to the court or to the High Court to have the action transferred to the High Court.
